They returned to the apartment about 2 a.m., the pair told police, and retired without entering the darkened living room.

Mrs. Slegianes discovered the body at 7:20 a.m. Lugrand telephoned police.

Lugrand and the sister were released after making statements to detectives.

Lugrand was brought back for additional questioning Wednesday night and shortly after midnight, police said, he admitted killing Miss Scott and also confessed the 1962 slaying of Miss Crum.

Lugrand is a kitchen helper at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Detroit.

3/30/63, Commercial Appeal

TI

124th YEAR—No. 89

Negroes Sent To County Jail At Greenwood

8 Field Leaders To Appeal Four-Month Terms For March

By JAMES KINGSLEY
Staff Writer

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 29.—Eight Negro field leaders for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee Friday night were moved to the Leflore County jail to serve maximum sentences after their conviction on disorderly conduct charges.

City Judge O. L. Kimbrough earlier Friday sentenced each of them to four months in the county jail and fined each $200. Appeal bonds were set at $500. They have 40 days to appeal or forfeit their appeal rights.

Wiley Branton of Atlanta, Negro attorney for the group, said each told him they do not want to make bond. He indicated appeals will be filed.

Judge Kimbrough also found Lawrence Guyot of Chicago guilty of contempt of court and added one day and a $50 fine to his other sentence.

All were arrested during a mass march of praying and hymn singing to City Hall and the Courthouse Wednesday in protest of shooting into the home of Dewey Greene, whose son, Dewey Greene Jr., who attempted to register at the University of Mississippi earlier this year.

The sentences came after Chief of Police Curtis Lary, using a portable loudspeaker, ordered several white persons who had gathered near the Courthouse to leave the scene.

His orders came while Negroes in groups of four and six marched from a nearby Negro Baptist church to the Courthouse to make application to register to vote.

Chief Lary had broken up a group of 50 leaving the church about 10:30 a.m. to march through the streets. "I ordered them to go in small groups to keep from making a disturbance."

After the Negroes gathered at the Courthouse, they attempted to march from the Courthouse at noon in one group. Several of the group admitted to being under voting age.

Chief Lary, again using his loudspeaker, ordered the Negroes to leave in small groups. They did, but four blocks away

Negroes Sent To County Jail At Greenwood

8 Field Leaders To Appeal Four-Month Terms For March

By JAMES KINGSLEY
Staff Writer

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 29.—Eight Negro field leaders for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee Friday night were moved to the Leflore County jail to serve maximum sentences after their conviction on disorderly conduct charges.

City Judge O. L. Kimbrough earlier Friday sentenced each of them to four months in the county jail and fined each $200. Appeal bonds were set at $500. They have 40 days to appeal or forfeit their appeal rights.

Wiley Branton of Atlanta, Negro attorney for the group, said each told him they do not want to make bond. He indicated appeals will be filed.

Judge Kimbrough also found Lawrence Guyot of Chicago guilty of contempt of court and added one day and a $50 fine to his other sentence.

All were arrested during a mass march of praying and hymn singing to City Hall and the Courthouse Wednesday in protest of shooting into the home of Dewey Greene, whose son, Dewey Greene Jr., who attempted to register at the University of Mississippi earlier this year.

The sentences came after Chief of Police Curtis Lary, using a portable loudspeaker, ordered several white persons who had gathered near the Courthouse to leave the scene.

His orders came while Negroes in groups of four and six marched from a nearby Negro Baptist church to the Courthouse to make application to register to vote.

Chief Lary had broken up a group of 50 leaving the church about 10:30 a.m. to march through the streets. "I ordered them to go in small groups to keep from making a disturbance."

After the Negroes gathered at the Courthouse, they attempted to march from the Courthouse at noon in one group. Several of the group admitted to being under voting age.

Chief Lary, again using his loudspeaker, ordered the Negroes to leave in small groups. They did, but four blocks away Donald Harris, 22, of Atlanta was arrested after officers said he refused to obey orders to quit trying to organize another march. He was released Friday night by city Pros. Atty. Gray Evans for lack of evidence.

On orders from Chief Lary, wooden barricades were set up in front of the Courthouse to provide Negroes access to the building.

"My 32-man police force and auxiliary officers are on 24-hour alert. They have all the equipment needed to quiet any uprising, but I don't intend for one to happen."

The Negro leaders who were sentenced gave their names as Guyot, Lafayett Surney of Ruleville, Miss., Robert Moses of New York City, Frank Smith of Atlanta, James Forman of Atlanta, James Wilson Jones of Jackson, Miss., Willie Peacock of Charleston, Miss., and Charles McLauren of Jackson.

(Additional Stories and Pictures on Page 21)

The Clarion-Ledger

Mississippi's Leading Newspaper For More Than A Century

AP and UPI Leased Wires | JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, SATURDAY, MARCH 30, 1933 | VOL. CXXV. NO. 49 | 18 PAGES * * P

FASHIONS

Teen-agers look to their new ideal, the Debutante, for today's summer fashions. See the inside story by Mary Alice Bookhart from the Texas Fashion Creators' showings in Dallas on page 2.

EN ROUTE TO REGISTRATION

Small groups of Negroes pass street barricades in Greenwood late Friday morning as they went to the Leflore County courthouse to register. No attempt was made to stop them and a small crowd of local citizens watched as they made their way into the courthouse.—AP Wirephoto.

Greenwood Area Tension Cools Off

Government Is Aiding Agitators, Mayor Says

By JAMES MCLEAN

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—The tense civil rights crisis cooled a bit here Friday as police kept pedestrians scattered and moving.

Wooden barricades and police squad cars blocked off the street in front of the Leflore County courthouse. Uniformed officers were backed by volunteers with riot clubs and wearing yellow Civil Defense helmets.

However, Police Chief Curtis Lary said Negroes trying to register as voters were free to enter the courthouse — so long as they walked in small groups instead of in a demonstration march.

In a City Court hearing, eight Negroes convicted of disorderly conduct drew the maximum penalty: $200 fines and four-month jail terms. Appeal bonds were set at $500 each.

AMONG 11

One of them, Lawrence Guyot of Chicago, also was convicted of contempt of court. Punishment on that charge was one day in jail and a $50 fine.

The eight were among 11 arrested in the first registration march Wednesday. Six were tried Thursday. Guyot and James Forman of Atlanta were tried Friday.

Mayor C. E. Sampson, at a news conference, bitterly accused the Justice Department of helping "professional agitators" foment racial trouble in an attempt to win Negro votes.

When a voter registration march formed across town, about a mile from the courthouse, Chief Lary sped to the scene with three patrol cars backing him.

"It's all right for you to go down there," he told about 40 Negroes through a portable bullhorn, "but go in small orderly groups."

NEGRO ARRESTED

One Negro was arrested during the dispersal. He was booked as Donald Harris, 22, of New York City. The charge: disturbing the peace. Officers said he ignored orders to move on.

White persons loitering on street corners near the courthouse also were dispersed and told to keep moving.

The three-day-old crisis flared a few hours after nightriders fired blasts of heavy buckshot slugs into the home of a Negro who has two sons active in civil rights work. No one was hit.

It was the third incident involving bursts of gunfire. Each one served to spur on the registration drive started by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee eight months ago.

Negroes were urged, in church rallies Thursday night, to keep trying to register.

SCATTERED GROUPS

They came in scattered groups to walk past the barricades at the courthouse and stand in line outside the circuit clerk's office, where voter registration is handled.

At one point, about 50 were waiting.

They were being admitted one by one to take the qualifying test. One requirement is that they interpret the state constitution. The verdict on the test comes in 30 days.

When the Negroes left during

Continued on Page 8

GREENWOOD

Continued from Page 1

the lunch hour, Chief Lary was on the steps with bullhorn in hand to keep them scattered.

"We are not going to have any of this grouping" he boomed. "To in small groups. Please disperse. . . ."

Like a traffic cop at an intersection, Lary waved some Negroes to the left and some to the right. He bullhorned instructions to police stationed at the corner:

"Some straight ahead, some to the right, some to the left. . ."

In his news conference, Mayor Sampson said:

"For months these agitators here from other states have secretly made collect telephone calls to the attorney general's office in Washington. These calls are accepted both day and night; and no matter what ridiculous lie these professional agitators think up they get prompt action from the attorney general.

"This city has been infested of late with assistant attorneys general of the United States counseling with these professional troublemakers who have come to Greenwood.

Mayor Sampson said investigation showed that the recent fire in SNCC headquarters here was deliberately set — but that the arsonists were Negroes.

"From our investigation, it is pretty clear no white people were involved," the mayor said.

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) —A page one editorial in the Greenwood Commonwealth, a daily newspaper, said Friday although agitators are noisy at rallies, "they aren't drawing many Leflore County Negroes."

Referring to the Negro voter registration drive after police broke up demonstrations, the editorial said:

"It certainly has been no secret that the racial agitators in our midst have worked constantly for over 10 months to draw federal intervention in Leflore County. The efficiency with which local law enforcement has attacked the crisis . . . is one reason why we haven't seen direct intervention.

"When you can draw only 400 people out of a Negro population of 30,000, you aren't stirring many folks up.

"The agitators are making lots of noise. The ballyhoo is terrific. But the crowds aren't coming to the tent. The box office will feel the lack of pulling power eventually. Then the circus will move on."

MEMPHIS, TENN., SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 30, 1963

The Commercial Appeal

WOULD-BE MARCHERS DISPERSED—Greenwood, Miss., Police Chief Curtis Lary used a loudspeaker in ordering Negroes to leave the Leflore County Courthouse in different directions yesterday when a group of them gathered en masse after registering to vote. The Negroes had planned to leave the Courthouse in a march.

(Story on Page One)

Staff Telephoto by Barney Sellers

Justice Agency Awaiting Word On Greenwood

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP)—Justice Department officials are awaiting word from investigators in Greenwood, Miss., before deciding what action, if any, to take in the tense racial situation there.

A detail of department lawyers and FBI agents at Greenwood presumably holds the key to any possible move by the department in the growing dispute over attempts by Negroes to register as voters.

The indication Friday was that, if investigators find evidence to justify it, the department would file a court suit charging Greenwood or Leflore County officials with impeding attempts by Negro leaders to encourage members of their race to register as voters.

Such action could come before the week end is out.

A department spokesman said earlier this week justice officials would take appropriate action as soon as possible.

In response to a question Friday, this official said the earlier statement was not intended to imply that any consideration has been given to the use of United States marshals to protect Negro protests marchers in Greenwood.

Such protection has been requested by James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality.

The department spokesmen said marshals could be used to enforce court orders, but he noted there is no outstanding court order applying to the Greenwood situation.

Any department legal action might be similar to 35 voting cases filed in the South since passage of the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

Greenwood Mayor Charges Red Forces Using Kennedys

Special to The Commercial Appeal

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 29. — Mayor Charles E. Sampson charged Friday that President Kennedy and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, are being used by "communist-inspired and financed organizations to promote these organizations' projects."

Speaking during a press conference, the Mayor said: "It is a tragic situation when professional agitators, operating under the false face of non-violence, attempt to create violence.

"It is more tragic that the Justice Department of the United States plays nursemaid to these invaders and actively assists them in their efforts to disrupt this peaceful community."

Angered by what he has called the Justice Department's refusal to co-operate with the city and county governments of Greenwood and Leflore County while insisting upon co-operation, the Mayor said:

"For months these agitators here from other states have frequently made collect telephone calls to the attorney general's office in Washington. These calls are accepted, both night and day, and no matter what ridiculous lie these professional agitators make up they get prompt action from the attorney general.

"This city has been infested of late with assistant attorneys general of the United States, counseling with these professional trouble - makers who have come to Greenwood.

"What are these agitators and the Justice Department trying to accomplish with their present massing of colored mobs? It is certainly not to file voter registration applications for they have been peacefully filing these for years before the present trouble began and they have continued to do so without objection from anyone.

County and the majority of them live in Greenwood.

He said, however, that from 1955 through Jan. 1, 1962, fewer than 100 were qualified. "It has not been a case of the Negroes not registering, they just didn't make applications," he said.

"A large number of Negroes have taken voter registration tests since concentrated drives were started last August, sponsored by the Federal Government and their cohort organizations, but the percentage of those passing is very small."

"In fact, I would estimate that only 10 Negroes out of 336 taking the tests during March, 1963, passed the tests, and believe me, these Negro field representatives of the many Negro organizations have applied the pressure in this county.

"It's not a case of discrimination on the part of the county. It is the ignorance on the part of the applicants that these Negro organizations are finding scattered around to take tests."

Mr. Lott said Leflore County has about 6,400 qualified voters and Greenwood has 4,008. Those qualified in the city are also included in the county totals.

(Additional Story on Page One)

Greenwood Editor Lauds News Story

Special to The Commercial Appeal

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 29.—A page one editorial in the Greenwood Commonwealth, Friday afternoon commended The Commercial Appeal for "fair to us treatment of news and editorial coverage of problems facing the city."

"The treatment of the Greenwood story, with editorial and editorial cartoon, as well as a page one news story in this morning's (Friday) Commercial Appeal, we think was fair to us," the newspaper said.

The editorial added that Mayor Charles E. Sampson, Commissioner B. A. Hammond and Chief Of Police Curtis Lary and others have wisely decided to co-operate with the visiting press.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

MEMPHIS
COMMERCIAL APPEAL
p. 13
Date MAR 30 1963

Staff Mess

Mid-South News In Brief—

Mayor Of Greenwood Attacks JFK

Special to The Commercial Appeal

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 29.—Greenwood Mayor Charles E. Sampson Friday charged the Kennedy Administration is being used "by communist-inspired and financed organizations," to promote the organizations' programs.

Mayor Simpson

Speaking at a press conference, the mayor said, "It is a tragic situation when professional agitators, operating under the false face of nonviolence, attempt to create violence.

"It is more tragic that the Justice Department of the United States plays nursemaid to these invaders and actively assists them in their efforts to disrupt this peaceful community."

Mr. Sampson appeared angered with what he called the Justice Department's refusal to co-operate with the city and county governments of Greenwood and Leflore County while insisting upon co-operation.

"This city has been infested of late with assistant attorneys general of the United States, counseling with these professional troublemakers who have come to Greenwood," he said.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
p. 4A
Date: MAR 30 1963

8 Negroes Sentenced In Mississippi Protest

4A

By David Maddux

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 29 (UPI)—Police today broke up two more attempted Negro voter registration marches and eight "ringleaders" of an earlier demonstration were sentenced to four months in jail and fined $200.

A roadblock was set up on the street leading to the Leflore County Courthouse, where the registration office is located, and Negroes were barred from proceeding to the office enmasse.

About 40 of the would-be applicants marched up to the barricades in one group, but promptly split up into twos and threes when directed to do so. They were then permitted to proceed.

Today marked the third consecutive day police have broken up Negro marches in this Delta town, which had become the target in an intensive voter registration drive.

The eight handed the stiff sentences today were among a group of 11 arrested on the first day. They were convicted of disturbing the peace and handed maximum sentences.

Today's march started from the Providence Baptist Church, where the Negroes had received instructions on filling out registration forms.

Police Chief Curtis Lary was waiting at the barricade when the group started for the registration office. He told them he had no objection to their proceeding if they split up.

Once at the courthouse, the Negroes stood quietly in the corridors awaiting their turn to apply.

Meanwhile, Blair Clark, general manager and vice president of CBS News, sent telegrams to Greenwood authorities protesting interference with a CBS cameraman whose film was exposed after he photographed a demonstration of Negroes seeking to fill out applications to vote.

Weather Forecast

District and vicinity—Sunny and warm today, high near 80. Tonight, fair, low around 50. Continued warm tomorrow. High, 72, at 11 a.m. today; low, 44, at 6:30 a.m. today.

Full Report on Page A-2

15¢

The Evening Star

WITH SUNDAY MORNING EDITION

15¢

Guide for Readers

Amusements	A-10-11	Lost and Found	A-3
Churches	A-6-9	Music	A-11
Classified	B-11-17	Obituaries	A-15
Comics	A-16-17	Real Estate	B-1-10
Crossword	A-16	Society-Home	A-11
Editorial	A-4	Sports	A-12-13
Editorial Articles	A-5	TV-Radio	A-17

111th Year. No. 89. Phone LI. 3-5000 ★★ WASHINGTON, D. C., SATURDAY, MARCH 30, 1963—36 PAGES

Home Delivered: Daily and Sunday, per month, 2.25

U. S. Acts in Negro Vote Case

Police in Greenwood, Miss., are shown directing Negroes to leave in small groups—two and threes—after attempting to register at the Leflore County courthouse.—AP Wirephoto.

Court Asked To End Curbs In Greenwood

Suit Also Seeks Release of Eight Sent to Prison

GREENWOOD, Miss., Mar. 30 (AP).—The Justice Department today asked for a Federal court injunction to halt interference with Negroes attempting to register to vote in this Mississippi delta town.

The department, in a suit filed in United States District Court in Oxford, Miss., also asked that Negroes jailed after demonstrations in Greenwood Thursday be freed on their own recognizance.

Eight of them sentenced to four months in jail and a $200 fine on disorderly conduct charges yesterday after a vote march vowed to stay behind bars until the Federal Government acts.

The suit seeks an order against Greenwood and Leflore County officials, forbidding them to interfere with the rights of Negroes to register to vote.

It asks that arrest, prosecution and intimidation of Negro vote workers be stopped. The suit would prohibit use of force, police dogs and other means to block the would-be voters.

Hearing Monday

A hearing for a temporary injunction was set for noon Monday at Aberdeen, Miss., before Federal District Judge Hugh Clayton.

Named as defendants in the suit were Greenwood Mayor Charles Sampson, Fire-Police Commissioner Buff A. Hammond, Police Chief Curtis Lary, City Prosecutor Gary Evans, Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Smith, County Attorney John J. Frazier and the City of Greenwood and Leflore County.

A Justice Department attorney said papers would be served on the defendants today.

Mayor Charles Sampson said "We were expecting it."

Mr. Sampson said "That has been their policy in other places in supporting these agitators who are in town."

"At the same time, Mr. Sampson said, "I don't see where they have any grounds for an injunction."

"I am not surprised that this is their policy, in supporting the agitators, which bears out in my release to the press yesterday."

Police in Greenwood, Miss., are shown directing Negroes to leave in small groups—two and threes—after attempting to register at the Leflore County courthouse.—AP Wirephoto.

To End Curbs In Greenwood

Suit Also Seeks Release of Eight Sent to Prison

GREENWOOD, Miss., Mar. 30 (AP).—The Justice Department today asked for a Federal court injunction to halt interference with Negroes attempting to register to vote in this Mississippi delta town.

The department, in a suit filed in United States District Court in Oxford, Miss., also asked that Negroes jailed after demonstrations in Greenwood Thursday be freed on their own recognizance.

Eight of them sentenced to four months in jail and a $200 fine on disorderly conduct charges yesterday after a vote march vowed to stay behind bars until the Federal Government acts.

The suit seeks an order against Greenwood and Leflore County officials, forbidding them to interfere with the rights of Negroes to register to vote.

It asks that arrest, prosecution and intimidation of Negro vote workers be stopped. The suit would prohibit use of force, police dogs and other means to block the would-be voters.

Hearing Monday

A hearing for a temporary injunction was set for noon Monday at Aberdeen, Miss., before Federal District Judge Hugh Clayton.

Named as defendants in the suit were Greenwood Mayor Charles Sampson, Fire-Police Commissioner Buff A. Hammond, Police Chief Curtis Lary, City Prosecutor Gary Evans, Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Smith, County Attorney John J. Frazier and the City of Greenwood and Leflore County.

A Justice Department attorney said papers would be served on the defendants today.

Mayor Charles Sampson said "We were expecting it."

Mr. Sampson said "That has been their policy in other places in supporting these agitators who are in town."

"At the same time, Mr. Sampson said, "I don't see where they have any grounds for an injunction."

"I am not surprised that this is their policy, in supporting the agitators, which bears out in my release to the press yesterday."

Agitators Blamed

Mr. Sampson had charged that the Justice Department was helping "professional agitators" foment trouble in Leflore County in an attempt to win Negro votes.

Officers of the Circuit Court in Greenwood, where registrations are held, were closed today. They are normally open until noon on Saturday.

A freshly printed card stapled to the courthouse's front door said, "All county offices closed on Saturday by order of the board of supervisors."

Some Negroes, who showed up this morning, turned around and left.

President Invited

Negro leaders of the vote drive earlier said they had asked President Kennedy to go to the Mississippi delta city and walk with Negroes going to the county courthouse in their bid to become registered voters.

"It's the greatest thing the President of the United States can do to let the world know we believe in democracy," Wiley Branton, a Negro attorney from Atlanta, told a voter registration rally last night.

The Greenwood Commonwealth, in a Page 1 editorial, said "the racial agitators in our midst have worked constantly for over 10 months to draw Federal intervention in Leflore County."

The daily newspaper com- mented on the nightly v registration rallies by s "When you can draw people out of a Negr tion of 30,000, you ring many folks u

Here's The Proof 3-30-63

Yesterday Mayor C. E. Sampson issued a statement deploring the part Justice Department Civil Rights officials are taking in helping racial agitators in Greenwood and Mississippi.

The following reports, taken from a sort of daily diary compiled by some of the agitators which they send to their parent groups, bears out what Mayor Sampson charged.

The reader will note that former Governor J. P. Coleman is mentioned in one of the reports. In the interest of readership, we didn't delete this passage. We feel it goes without saying, though, that Governor Coleman couldn't care less how these people discuss his candidacy.

Also, the alusion to Hodding Carter III as a newsman "who is ready to do anything we want him to" would seem to us as an outright lie Block is telling for somebody's benefit higher up.

Admittedly Carter is a liberal. But we doubt seriously that he could be referred to truthfully in such terms as "doing anything we (Block and company) want him to.

The reports follow:

Samuel Block Reports

Monday evening about 3:30 the United States Civil Rights Commissioners came in as I had asked. We talked about 1:30 concerning the denial of surplus food to Leflore County Negroes. We then went out to see — Father Nathaniel at the Catholic Center. He was glad that the Civil Rights Commissioners had made it in and that He was very eager to do something about the denial of surplus foods.

We went in to the discussion as to whether or not the denial of surplus was based on the voter registration activities in Leflore County. It was said by 2 local white citizens who are very liberal, that they think negroes were to be denied any kind of surplus food or clothing at any time for any reason whether it was voter registration or not.

We also talked to father Nathaniel's secretary for a long time and by talking to her we found out that she was born in the North and was only working in the South for a short while. She gave her view on what she thought about negroes being denied food and clothing, she did not see how some of the poor people was going to really make it because the cotton season here was very, very short and no one had any money to buy anything with. We stayed ther till about 6:30 or 7:00, we then left going to the public library here to find some copies of the old papers that carried the article on the denial of surplus food that was written by the Commonwealth Editor. I went as far up town with them and then I turned and went another way because I was not allowed in the Pubelic library here. (Pubelic).

At about 10 after 7 we left for Clarksdale to a COFO meeting. (Willie told made it in, they wanted to talk to Mr. McSwine about the police brutality what his son had suffered from, they went over a long and found that Mr. McSwine was Very afread to say or do any thing and during the mean time I picked up a few names of people in need for food and clothing.

Thursday was very beautiful day for any thing that your heart may have desired to do begaining Thursday morn- I got up and and cooked breakfast for Peacock and My-Self after eating I went out to make some phone calls to people who had left word for me to call them and aftercalling them I found that people was ready to go up and register if I had food and clothing for them in case the loose their job's, I did not promise them any thing but I told them if anything happen to I could get the Help right away, they said well good we will be willing to go and try even if we don't pass, I promised to carry them up Monday morning but I want be able to make it up there I will be out of town I hope.

(Willie Peacock's Report)

This morning Sam and I went to the barber shop on East McLaurin. Which is owned by Mr. Golden. He is one our aces. He cuts most of the professional peoples hair in town. He seems to be pretty well informed. I would say above average, according to Mississippi standards. He cuts our hair free of charge. And we talk a bout the issues of today, and kick around a few general ideas. This morning he seemed to be optimistiecabout the future guberanterial race in Mississippi. In his opinion, former governor J. P. Coleman will be the next governor of Mississippi .In his talking he emphasized the point that Coleman isn't likely to obligate himself to the White Citizens Council—of Mississippi. However, I differed with him on that point, but I remained mute. However, I think I shall discuss this point with him further — and bring out a few facts.

This evening I sent, rather, mailed a registered letter to Mr. John Doar of the Justice Department. The clerk at the post office was fairly decent (according to Miss Standards). Of course, he didn't let be get by with anything. He saw to it that everything was in proper mailing order, such as the letter being properly sealed, and outside Signature of sender in proper place. He was quite helpful. The only thing I disliked was the time factor involved. For each adjustment, I would have to return to a desk, make the adjustment and return to the end of the line. In the meantime Samuel Block was — in the car at a parking meter, and this wasn't helping his patience at all.

Sam and I went over to Greenville, Miss. to see Hodding Carter (of the Delta Democrat Times) to check on an open letter that we had released—to UPI. We were also in hope of contact-company) want him to.

The reports follow:

Samuel Block Reports

Monday evening about 3:30 the United States Civil Rights Commissioners came in as I had asked. We talked about 1:30 concerning the denial of surplus food to Leflore County Negroes. We then went out to see — Father Nathaniel at the Catholic Center. He was glad that the Civil Rights Commissioners had made it in and that He was very eager to do something about the denial of surplus foods.

We went in to the discussion as to whether or not the denial of surplus was based on the voter registration activities in Leflore County. It was said by 2 local white citizens who are very liberal, that they think negroes were to be denied any kind of surplus food or clothing at any time for any reason whether it was voter registration or not.

We also talked to father Nathaniel's secretary for a long time and by talking to her we found out that she was born in the North and was only working in the South for a short while. She gave her view on what she thought about negroes being denied food and clothing, she did not see how some of the poor people was going to really make it because the cotton season here was very, very short and no one had any money to buy anything with. We stayed ther till about 6:30 or 7:00, we then left going to the public library here to find some copies of the old papers that carried the article on the denial of surplus food that was written by the Commonwealth Editor. I went as far up town with them and then I turned and went another way because I was not allowed in the Pubelic library here. (Pubelic).

At about 10 after 7 we left for Clarksdale to a COFO meeting. (Willie told what happen at the meeting in his report).

Tuesday morning we left for Greenville to see Harden Carter the III (3) to talk about the aryical that the want to write conserning the surplus food, Mr. Carter was still ready to write anything that we want him to write in his paper his circulation runs from 15,000 to 20,000 papers a day plus the fact he is a very Liberal fellow about 25 years old. after getting about so slowly we decided that we better move back toward Greenwood, Mississippi. After arriveinghere about 4:30 we ate our snack for the day and went up around Dr. Reddicks drug store and talked to him about what happened during the day thank God it was nothing again. By the way Dr. Reddick is the man that we go and borrow money from when we really need it bad.

Wednesday morning we ate early we left for Cleveland, Miss we learned that Bevel was holding his first meeting in Mound Bayou Mississippi a small town not far from Cleveland which is an all negro town. We got back here about 11:30 the Justice Dept. boys had just

Greenwood Commonwealth

(Willie Peacock's Report)

This morning Sam and I went to the barber shop on East McLaurin. Which is owned by Mr. Golden. He is one our aces. He cuts most of the professional peoples hair in town. He seems to be pretty well informed. I would say above average, according to Mississippi standards. He cuts our hair free of charge. And we talk a bout the issues of today, and kick around a few general ideas. This morning he seemed to be optimistiecabout the future guberanterial race in Mississippi. In his opinion, former governor J. P. Coleman will be the next governor of Mississippi .In his talking he emphasized the point that Coleman isn't likely to obligate himself to the White Citizens Council—of Mississippi. However, I differed with him on that point, but I remained mute. However, I think I shall discuss this point with him further — and bring out a few facts.

This evening I sent, rather, mailed a registered letter to Mr. John Doar of the Justice Department. The clerk at the post office was fairly decent (according to Miss Standards). Of course, he didn't let be get by with anything. He saw to it that everything was in proper mailing order, such as the letter being properly sealed, and outside Signature of sender in proper place. He was quite helpful. The only thing I disliked was the time factor involved. For each adjustment, I would have to return to a desk, make the adjustment and return to the end of the line. In the meantime Samuel Block was — in the car at a parking meter, and this wasn't helping his patience at all.

Sam and I went over to Greenville, Miss. to see Hodding Carter (of the Delta Democrat Times) to check on an open letter that we had released—to UPI. We were also in hope of contacting the gentlemen (two) of the Civil Rights Commission, to give them some information we had written up for them. We also stopped by the office to have a little chat with the office person — no12. We returned to Greenwood by 6:30 P.m.

I am spending the rest of the evening getting out a financial report — which I hope will be completed to perfection.

Jan. 15. 1963 — A Negro man was struck down a truck this evening in the down town area just as he was getting out of his car—breaking both arms and legs. He died in the ambulance enroute to the hospital.

Jan. 14,63—I spent most of the day trying to type couple of letters (I am learning). Sam was out until noon with the photographers stationed in the city of Greenville, Miss. (The other being Yves McCaires). They sell stories and photographs to Times, Life, and a french magazine. They have taken some pictures which I think will reflect the true condition of the people in Greenwood and Leflore county. We are very optimistic of the future bearing these photos will have on the Leflore County situation. We are to go over friday to view the pictures.

Sam and I attended a meeting in Clarksdale, Miss. which convened at 8:00p.m. The constituents of this meeting made up the Mississippi Council of Federated Organizations. Charles McLaurin was choosen (as a substitute in the absence of Bob Moses) as project director. Of course, other things were discussed .And we drew up some duties for the project director, which gives him discretionary power in a few instances.

Well, I'll see you next time around. May the future beings be conceived in Freedom.

Negroes Ask JFK's Help

Urged to Come To Greenwood

Memphis Press-Scimitar 3-30-63

By Associated Press

GREENWOOD, Miss.—President Kennedy has been urged to come to this Mississippi Delta city and walk with negroes going to the county courthouse in their bid to become registered voters.

"It's the greatest thing the president of the United States can do to let the world know we believe in democracy," Wiley Branton, a negro attorney from Atlanta, told a voter registration rally last night.

The tension eased slightly yesterday. Police kept pedestrians—both white and negro—scattered and moving.

Some Barricades

The LeFlore County courthouse was blocked off by wooden barricades and police squad cars.

However, Police Chief Curtis Lary said negroes were free to enter the courthouse, provided they walked in small groups instead of a mass march.

Meanwhile, Mayor C. E. Sampson charged the Justice Department with helping "professional agitators" foment racial trouble in LeFlore County—where negroes outnumber white persons nearly 2-1—in an attempt to win negro votes.

(In Washington, the Justice Department said it was awaiting word from investigators in Greenwood before deciding what action, if any, to take in the situation.)

In a news conference Sampson said:

"It is tragic when professional agitators, operating under the false face of nonviolence, attempt to create violence. It is more tragic that the Justice Department of the United States plays nursemaid to these invaders and actively assists them in their efforts to disrupt this peaceful community."

Sampson said the Kennedy administration is being used "by Communist-inspired and financed organizations" to promote the organizations' programs.

The Greenwood Commonwealth, in a page one editorial, commented on the nightly voter registration rallies by saying "when you can draw only 400 people out of a negro population of 30,000, you aren't stirring many folks up."

'Ordered to Leave'

Medgar Evers of Jackson, state field secretary of the NAACP, presented $100 to a 67-year-old negro tenant farmer who said he and 14 other members of his family had been ordered to leave his plantation home at nearby Money because he refused to remove his name from a voter registration list.

The farmer, Jessie Crain, who is also pastor of a small negro church, identified the plantation manager as Joe O. Turner.

"The man said 'I can't use you. I want you out by Monday,'" Crain told a rally last night.

"It didn't worry me," Crain continued, "I know God still lives. (Turner) told me last Tuesday I had gotten in trouble. Wanted me to take my name off."

'Never Will'

"But I wouldn't take my name off. Never will."

James Farmer of Chicago, executive director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said his organization would match the NAACP gift to Crain.

"You'd better be prepared for the weapons used against Crain," said Farmer. "You're in for a long, hard struggle."

Eight negroes sentenced in city court yesterday on disorderly conduct charges stemming from Wednesday's vote march vowed to remain in jail until the federal government acts. They were led to their cells singing "Everybody Wants Freedom."

Each got 4-month jail terms and $200 fines.

Spotlighting Alabama And Mississippi's Denial Of Justice In Voting

While many of us have not heard of Camden, Alabama, a little whistle-stop, on a narrow gauge wooden-axle railroad, between Selma, Ala. and Pensacola, Fla., but like many another place sleeping in its remote tradition coming into the news now and then, Camden is making headlines as one of those "sit out" community centers where Negro voting is concerned.

What is of interest, and what accounts for its front page equity, is the startling disclosure that there are over 6,000 Negroes in the county eligible for registration, over against some 3,000 whites eligible for voting.

The wonder is how on earth that a condition with so many neglected voters should be representative defaulters under a system like ours. Voting is community and state power. Voting is one sure index of a community's pride, an industrial bellwether and an important factor to boast of. But here in Camden, is a situation which not only takes pride in keeping Negroes away from the registration list, but apparently feels proud in that as investigators cover the situation, they are unable to find anybody in the county courthouse who can give the slightest information as to where those would-be voters can qualify.

According to SNCC Field Secretary, there is not nor has been a single Negro registered to vote at Camden or Wilcox County, Ala. The report further states that there are more whites listed as voters than there are those eligible to qualify according to the white population.

Another community in the state of Mississippi shuttles into the news from its ruthless use of police authority, including the "sicking of dogs" on potential registrants.

Here are just two incidents which would highly be unbecoming to "Democracy Regulators" who preach world peace and order on one hand, while at home denying fellow citizens the right to vote.

The responsibility of the federal government to protect the constitutional rights of Negroes in Mississippi and Alabama is clear. A constitutional right is a guaranteed right and should not be denied any citizen.

The Republicans are advocating the permanancy of the Civil Rights Commission and what has been disclosed clearly justifies such action.

Atlanta Daily World 3-31-63

Voter Education Project Lists Miss. Violence Acts

The Voter Education Project released Saturday a chronological listing of 64 acts of violence and intimidation against Negroes in Mississippi since January 1961. Almost all of the incidents are directly related to efforts by Negroes to register to vote.

The last item on the list is the March 2 dispersal by Greenwood policemen and their dogs of Negro registration applicants, and the jailing of registration workers.

"We are sure this is not a complete list," said Wiley A. Branton, Director of the Voter Education Project. "It does demonstrate conclusively, however, the pattern of discrimination and violence which exists in Mississippi, and makes Constitutional rights virtually inoperative in that state."

The listing, he pointed out, does not include the riot at the University of Mississippi last fall, nor subsequent harassment of James Meredith. "All the world knows that story, as it does the earlier stories of Emmett Till and Mack Parker. This listing, nearly all of which has been compiled from the daily press, shows that what happened at the University should have been expected by anyone familiar with the Mississippi record."

Because of the near-fatal gun attack of February 28, 1963 against three voter registration workers, a concerted saturation registration campaign was announced on March 1, 1963 in LeFlore County, Miss., of which Greenwood is the county seat.

COMBINED EFFORTS

The LeFlore campaign represents

(Continued from Page One)

the combined efforts of the Mississippi Council of Federated Organizations, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Congress of Racial Equality, and the local NAACP Youth Council.

The announced objective of the campaign is to get every qualified Negro in LeFlore County registered to vote, if he or she has any desire to do so.

This unprecedented concentration of resources in LeFlore County has led, said Branton, to unprecedented results. "For the first time in a Mississippi county, there has been a breakthrough of the fear which has held Negroes back. Since March 1, over 500 have waited determinedly at the Greenwood court house, trying to register. Because of the long dragout process in Mississippi, how many will be passed by the registrars is not yet known. Weekly mass meetings are thronged, and LeFlore Negroes are saying emphatically and courageously that they will not wait any longer to be treated as American citizens, and police suppression will not stop them."

AGRICULTURE DEPT. ACTION

Branton also noted that the U. S. Department of Agriculture had made a welcome contribution to Negro morale by successfully pressuring the county to resume, on April 1, distribution of federal surplus food, which had been cut off by the county last fall.

"This was intepreted by the local people," he said, "as an act of support and encouragement by the federal government."

"However," he continued, "the federal government has done little to protect the peace in LeFlore, or elsewhere in Mississippi. Sixty-eight years ago, in the case of In re Debs, the Supreme Court said that the 'entire strength of the nation may be used to enforce in any part of the land the full and free exercise of all national powers and the security of all rights entrusted by the Constitution to its care.' The peace of the United States is broken and shattered by the lawlessness in Mississippi. The federal government has an obligation, which it is not fulfilling, to restore it."

The Voter Education Project is a program of the Southern Regional Council, with offices in Atlanta.

Atlanta Daily World
3-31-63

J.M.

U. S. Files Greenwood Vote Suit

W-Post 3/31/63

Suff Miss-

Government Asks End of Tampering With Registration

By David Maddux

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 30 (UPI)—The Federal Government filed suit today asking that officials of this north Mississippi town halt alleged "intimidation" of Negro voter applicants.

The suit also requests the release of eight Negroes jailed last week when they and about 100 others marched on City Hall to protest acts of violence aimed at persons taking part in a Negro voter registration drive.

One registration worker was wounded recently by gunfire from a moving automobile, and two shotgun blasts were fired into the home of another worker last week.

During the past week police clashed repeatedly with groups of Negroes attempting to march to the Leflore County Courthouse to register.

Today's suit announced by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy in Washington, was filed with Judge Claude F. Clayton at Oxford, Miss. Clayton agreed to hear the action Monday at Aberdeen.

Restraining Order Asked

Specifically, the suit seeks a temporaray restraining order against interference with voter registration. It names a long list of local authorities as defendants.

One of those named, Mayor Charles E. Sampson said he was not surprised.

"This is the Government's usual policy in supporting the agitators," he said. "We'll continue on as we have until after the hearing."

City officials have said they would not interfere with Negroes attempting to register so long as they did not attempt mass marches on the courthouse.

Gray Evans, the local prosecutor, said that if the Governments request were granted it would "permit a mob of any size to form and move down the street."

Supporting Affidavits

The Government submitted two supporting affidavits with its suit today—one by the Rev. Donald Tucker, pastor of a Negro church in Greenwood, and another by Arvid Sather, a Justice Department attorney.

Tucker said he was bitten by a police dog turned loose by authorities to break up a group of 42 Negroes that had gone to the courthouse to register.

Sather's statement told of witnessing the dispersal of a group of Negroes Thursday.

The Justice Department told Judge Clayton that unless he grants the temporary restraining order—usually the first legal step toward obtaining a permanent injunction—the "intimidation will continue."

In addition to Sampson and prosecutor Evans those named in the suit included Buff A. Hammond, fire and police commissioner of Greenwood; Curtis Lary, Greenwood police chief; Wilbur Smith, Leflore County deputy sheriff; John J. Fraiser, Leflore County attorney, and the City of Greenwood and Leflore County.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

ATLANTA JOURNAL

p.15

Date: MAR 31 1963

Report Lists Mississippi Negro Action

15

By PAUL VALENTINE

The Southern Regional Council in Atlanta has released a report listing 64 "acts of violence and intimidation" against Negroes in Mississippi in the last two years. The list ranges from homicide and physical mutilation to voter intimidation and excessive court penalties.

"We are sure this is not a complete list," says Wiley A. Branton, director of the voter education project which undertook the council report. "It does demonstrate conclusively, however, the pattern of discrimination and violence which exists in Mississippi, and makes constitutional rights virtually inoperative in that state."

He added that the list does not include any of the incidents of violence which occurred last September in Oxford during the riots stemming from Negro James Meredith's entry into the University of Mississippi.

THE 64 ACTS are listed in chronological order from January, 1961, through early 1963. More than 50 of the 64 incidents occurred in only six counties of the state, usually in areas where Negro voter registration campaigns have been concentrated.

Leading counties, according to the report, were Pike (12 incidents), Leflore (11), Sunflower (9), Hinds (8), and Amite and Coahoma (both 6).

The report lists three instances in which Negroes were shot to death by law officers or other employes of local government.

In Taylorsville, Smith County, Negro Army Cpl. Roman Ducksworth was shot and killed by police officer Bill Kelly when, according to an NAACP release, the Negro "insisted on his right to sit where he chose on an interstate bus." Officer Kelly claimed the Negro was drunk and started fighting.

In McComb, Pike County, officer B. F. Elmore shot and killed Negro motorist Eli Brumfield after stopping him at 4 a.m. for speeding. The officer claimed the Negro drew a knife and attacked him. A coroner's jury ruled the officer fired in self-defense.

And in Liberty, Amite County, Herbert Lee, a Negro active in voter registration, was shot down by "white state Rep. E. H. Hurst. . . . No prosecution was undertaken, the authorities explaining that the representative had shot in self-defense."

DURING THE spring of 1961, several Jackson white youths in Hinds County riding in an open convertible "lassoed" a 9-year-old Negro girl with a wire and dragged her along the street. She suffered a deep gash in her head, cheek bruises, a laceration of her right shoulder and burn marks on her neck.

In September of that same year in Tylertown, Walthall County, John Hardy, Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee registration worker, took two Negroes to the county courthouse to register. The registrar said he "wasn't registering voters" that day. As the Negroes turned to leave, the registrar, John Q. Wood, drew a pistol and struck Mr. Hardy on the head from behind. Mr. Hardy was subsequently arrested and charged with disturbing the peace.

In Jackson, another SNCC worker, Dion Diamond, was arrested for running a stop sign, described in court by the arresting officer as a "freedom rider" and fined $168.

IN ANOTHER Jackson incident, Negro Rafford Johnson was beaten by two law officers after he had been involved in a minor collision with a car driven by a white woman. The Negro underwent surgery for skull injuries.

A 19-year-old Clarksdale Negro woman in Coahoma County was arrested and accused by police of a theft. In jail, she said, she was stripped of her clothes and beaten with a belt.

Aaron Henry, state president of the NAACP, was charged with and convicted of making homosexual advances to a hitchhiker, despite the support of sworn witnesses to the contrary. Later, when he publicly stated the prosecutor and police chief in Shelby, Bolivar County, had framed him, he was successfully sued for defamation with an all-white jury awarding $25,000 to the prosecutor and $15,000 to the police chief.

These and other reported incidents fill the 17-page chronology by the council's voter education project.

PROJECT director Branton noted that the U.S. Department of Agriculture "made a welcome contribution to Negro morale by successfully pressuring (Leflore) County to resume, on April 1, distribution of federal surplus food, which had been cut off by the county last fall."

But, he added, "the federal government has done little to protect the peace in Leflore or elsewhere in Mississippi. . . . The peace of the United States is broken and shattered by the lawlessness in Mississippi. The federal government has an obligation, which it is not fulfilling, to restore it."

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

ATLANTA JOURNAL

16B

Date:
MAR 31 1963

file Jefferson

MENTAL MECHANISMS

6B

Why Is There Not More Moral Resistance to Mississippi Evil?

By PAT WATTERS

"The peace of the United States is broken and shattered by the lawlessness in Mississippi." — Voter Education Project news release.

WE HAVE read so much of mass and cosmic murder, insanity and suicide that we are numbed, and react helplessly and hopelessly to these entirely human horrors (and all the array of lesser acts of inhumanity) as we do to the impersonal destructions of nature.

It takes something like the quietly terrifying book by Hannah Arendt on the Eichman trial to penetrate numbness and make clear and understandable that the ultimate horror of the Nazi race murder thing was, indeed, entirely human, involving millions more of normal, decent people, passively and even actively, than abnormal monsters.

INDIVIDUALS

Mental mechanisms involved were many. Good conscience could come by respecting authority, not questioning what authority did or compelled one to do. One did not accept evil, only the power to do it, and one tended to shift the blame from the persecutors to those unlucky enough to be persecuted. Individuals were not the vehicles of decency and morality.

In only a very few countries occupied by Germany was there a show of resistance, of decent humanity's and civilization's contempt and horror at the "final solution" of murdering every Jew — man, woman, child. But, and Miss Arendt reiterates the point, wherever there was resistance, it succeeded.

The question, crying out from such a book, is why wasn't there more? Why not more people ready to die if necessary for life? Why?

Now, 250 miles away, in Mississippi there builds the climax to years of a pattern of violence and intimidation against Negroes. Racism has not of course reached the extremes and its ultimate in Mississippi that it did in Nazi Germany, but enough has happened to raise the same question of why is there not more moral resistance, why don't Americans protest and stop what is happening? Why?

Pat Watters' column appears regularly in the daily Atlanta Journal.

One of a number of pointings up of the pattern is the news release by the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council, a respected source of race news information in the nation, which sets out 64 acts of "violence and intimidation" since January, 1961, against Negroes in Mississippi.

The release says the list is based on newspaper stories. Certainly over the years, the casual reader could piece out from these casual tellings of terror the pattern. The impact of this news release is the totality of reading such a list all at once.

This ranges from the charges of senseless, you might almost say playful, brutality—lassoing from a car, a 9-year-old girl with wire and dragging her along a street—to the purposeful bombings and shotgun blastings of homes and people. Always, the worst of it, are the stories and incidents showing police and courts and governments (power and authority) supporting the intimidation, the violence.

Fully half the incidents in this particular study are related to efforts of Negroes to register to vote. And that is what the current crisis, the police dog dispersal of marchers, is about.

COMPLICATED

America reacted to the sit-ins and freedom rides with much the mechanism of Europe to Nazism. It deplored what happened, but accepted use of power to put down Negroes, and somehow shifted blame to Negroes for being in a position to suffer from such use of power.

The rights in question then were legally complicated. But the right involved in Mississippi now is the basic one of voting. Can we shift blame again to the victim?

Federal help, long overdue, is being called for — the "entire strength" of the nation to protect constitutional rights. But where is the "entire strength," far more powerful than formal federal action, of America's moral opinion, civilization's horror and contempt and condemnation of what has been going on in Mississippi? Why is there not more individual indignation? Why?

J.M.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
p. 1 A
Date: MAR 31 1963

U. S. Files Greenwood Vote Suit

Government Asks End of Tampering With Registration

By David Maddux

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 30 (UPI)—The Federal Government filed suit today asking that officials of this north Mississippi town halt alleged "intimidation" of Negro voter applicants.

The suit also requests the release of eight Negroes jailed last week when they and about 100 others marched on City Hall to protest acts of violence aimed at persons taking part in a Negro voter registration drive.

One registration worker was wounded recently by gunfire from a moving automobile, and two shotgun blasts were fired into the home of another worker last week.

During the past week police clashed repeatedly with groups of Negroes attempting to march to the Leflore County Courthouse to register.

Today's suit announced by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy in Washington, was filed with Judge Claude F. Clayton at Oxford, Miss. Clayton agreed to hear the action Monday at Aberdeen.

Restraining Order Asked

Specifically, the suit seeks a temporaray restraining order against interference with voter registration. It names a long list of local authorities as defendants.

One of those named, Mayor Charles E. Sampson said he was not surprised.

"This is the Government's usual policy in supporting the agitators," he said. "We'll continue on as we have until after the hearing."

City officials have said they would not interfere with Negroes attempting to register so long as they did not attempt mass marches on the courthouse.

Gray Evans, the local prosecutor, said that if the Governments request were granted it would "permit a mob of any size to form and move down the street."

Supporting Affidavits

The Government submitted two supporting affidavits with its suit today—one by the Rev. Donald Tucker, pastor of a Negro church in Greenwood, and another by Arvid Sather, a Justice Department attorney.

Tucker said he was bitten by a police dog turned loose by authorities to break up a group of 42 Negroes that had gone to the courthouse to register.

Sather's statement told of witnessing the dispersal of a group of Negroes Thursday.

The Justice Department told Judge Clayton that unless he grants the temporary restraining order—usually the first legal step toward obtaining a permanent injunction—the "intimidation will continue."

In addition to Sampson and prosecutor Evans those named in the suit included Buff A. Hammond, fire and police commissioner of Greenwood; Curtis Lary, Greenwood police chief; Wilbur Smith, Leflore County deputy sheriff; John J. Fraiser, Leflore County attorney, and the City of Greenwood and Leflore County.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
6 A
Date APR 1 1963

Leflore

Greenwood Is Symbol Of Negro Vote Hopes

By Robert E. Baker

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 31—"Political dominions of the white race are threatened by the education of the Negro."

The speaker was James K. Vardaman when he was editor of the old Greenwood Enterprise from 1890 to 1896. He rolled into the governor's mansion with such white supremacy appeal, part of the movement common to the South in that era to disenfranchise the Negro and return him to inferior status.

In 1904, Governor Vardaman closed the state's Negro schools.

Today Greenwood is the focal point of the modern Negro's fight for a voting franchise. It is the symbol of all the social, economic and political ingredients that have chained the Negro in the Deep South.

There is no deeper Deep South than Greenwood. It is the cotton capital of the Mississippi delta. It is the national headquarters for the White Citizens' Councils. It is the seat of Lefore County with a population of 31,000 Negroes and 17,000 whites.

Less than 2 Per Cent

Less than two per cent of the voting-age Negroes are registered to vote. More than 90 per cent of the voting age whites are registered.

This is the delta country of Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), a symbol to Negroes of Mississippi's white supremacy who has told white Mississippians that they have an obligation to disobey Federal court desegregation orders and has equated the quest for equality with the Communist line.

Greenwood, then, is the symbolic heart of Mississippi defiance.

In the summer of 1961, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) operating out of headquarters in Atlanta sent field workers into Southern Mississipi to schol Negroes in the voter registration process.

SNCC is an active group of college students and young graduates that grew out of the initial sit-in demonstrations against segregation in the South.

Their voter registration efforts met with resistance and violence. In Amit County, a SNCC worker was beaten in liberty by the cousin of the sheriff. The Walthall County registrar pistol-whipped another SNCC worker.

Last summer, the voter Education Project was established in Atlanta to coordinate and study voter registration in the South. The foundation-backed project coordinated and guided the registration efforts of the National Urban League, the NACCP, CORE, the Southern Chritsian Leadership Conference of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and SNCC.

The project is a program of the venerable Southern Regional Council in Atlanta. Hired as project director was Wiley Branton of Pine Bluff, Ariz., the Negro attorney who handled the Litle Rock school desegreation case.

Move Caused Dismay

Meanwhile, the Leflore County Board of Supervisors made a move that caused dismay among the delta's Negroes. The supervisors in July discontinued the Federal surplus food program which 22,000 persons, mostly Negro farm hands, depended on for food during the non-growing winter season.

Until that action, SNCC was having little success in encouraging Leflore Negroes to break free from their status as non-voters.

But SNCC got food donations sent in from the north, including a shipment accompanied by Negro comedian Dick Gregory. The SNCC workers then became heroes to Delta Negroes.

Last August, a SNCC worker in Greenwood was beaten by three white men. Three SNCC workers fled from the second-floor registration headquarters when a group of white men broke into the first floor.

SNCC workers complained of intimidation and harrassment. On Feb. 28, three registration workers in a car were shot at. One of them, James Travis of SNCC, was wounded in the neck and shoulder. Voter education project announced in Atlanta that, because of the shooting, it was launching a "saturation effort" to register every qualified Negro in Leflore County who wanted to register.

Supplementing the handful of SNCC workers in Leflore, the project pulled in 16 other workers from elsewhere in Mississippi. The NAACP hired five more. The SCLC sent in three workers to organize "citizenship schools." Core hired 20 part-time workers from the Leflore community.

Fire Ruins Office

Last Sunday, fire partially destroyed the voter registration office in Greenwood. Officials collected some correspondence strewn in the street. Some of it popped up later in the week in stories in the Jackson Daily News.

During the week, registration workers held morning sessions with prospective Negro voters in churches and then would set off for the county registrar's office.

Greenwood police called them demonstration that invited racial violence. Police Chief Curtis Lary said nobody would stop individual Negroes from making their registration applications but groups or marches were forbidden.

On Wednesday, police dispersed a group of 100 Negroes with police dogs. Eleven Negroes were arrested on charges of "disturbing the peace." Charges against three were dropped.

On Thursday, a police dog bit a Negro minister as Negroes again headed for the courthouse. Maximum sentences of four months in jail and $400 fines were given those arrested the day before.

Outsiders Blamed

During the week, Mayor Charles E. Sampson of Greenwood blamed "outside agitators" for the racial unrest. On Thursday, voter project director Branton, who had flown from Atlanta in midweek, addressed a Negro rally.

The light-skinned Branton said he didn't consider himself an outsider.

"I was born in Arkansas but my father was born here in Greenwood and my father's mother was the daughter of Greenwood Leeflore who founded this place," he said.

"The only thing I'm interested in seeing is that my father's folks and his mother's folks go down and vote."

A city official later said that Branton should confine such talk outside of Greenwood because there are some powerful white descendants of Leflore still around.

On Friday, Mayor Sampson bitterly attacked the disruption of Greenwood's way of life. "It is tragic when the professional agitators, operating under the false face of non-violence, attempt to create violence," he said.

He criticized the Justice Department for sending observers to the scene.

"The only purpose of these agitators," he said, "is to follow the Communist line of fomenting racial violence and the obvious purpose of the attorney general is to get votes."

Ironically, the Negro leaders all week had been criticizing the Justice Department and the Kennedy Administration for looking but not acting.

Told to Leave Farm

Friday night, a 67-year-old Negro told a rally that he and his 14-member family had been told by a delta planter to get off the farm by Monday because he had made application to vote.

The names and addresses of voter applicants are published for two weeks under Mississippi law to permit any "moral objections" from the citizenry, a provision now under attack in Federal Court by the Justice Department.

On Saturday, the planter said voter registration had nothing to do with the dismissal. The Negroes just weren't working, he said.

The Negroes held their usual morning school for prospective registrants and a group went to the courthouse. But the registrar's office, usually open till noon on Saturdays, was closed. In Oxford, scene of the riots at the University of Mississippi last September, the Justice Department went into Federal Court. It asked for an injunction to prohibit Greenwood officials from interfering with Negro registration. It asked that the eight convicted leaders be released from jail without bond pending their appeal.

Federal Judge Claude Clayton set a hearing for Monday in Aberdeen.

Today, the registration workers lined up more Negroes to go to the courthouse to attempt to register on Monday. They worked on a new headquarters to replace the one burned out a week ago and furnished it with tables and chairs and equipment donated by Negroes from the delta.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

NEW YORK TIMES
p. 15
Date APR 1 1963

U.S. COURT HEARS RACE PLEA TODAY

15

Government to Ask Action in Greenwood, Miss.

By CLAUDE SITTON
Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 31—A Federal court will receive a request tomorrow that could lead to the most serious challenge yet faced by this city in its racial crisis.

Justice Department attorneys will ask District Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. to issue a temporary restraining order against city officials directing them to take the following actions:

¶Release eight Negro voter registration workers from prison.

¶Refrain from further interference with a regisration campaign and those taking part in it.

¶Permit Negroes to exercise their constitutional right to assemble for peaceful protest demonstrations and protect them from whites who might object.

A Justice Department official termed the suit "highly significant." He pointed out that it was the first time the department had interceded to protect the right of Negroes to demonstrate.

Racial tension aroused here by the registration drive in Laflore County and an attempt by Negroes to protest against an attack on a voter worker's home has eased considerably.

But authorities have expressed doubt over their ability to control the situation that might arise in this Mississippi Delta cotton and manufacturng center of 23,000 persons if further demonstrations take place.

A reliable source reported that some whites had placed firearms in downtown business establishments where they would be easily accessible.

Department attorneys will submit the request for a restraining order to Judge Clayton at noon in Aberdeen, Miss. He could grant the request or withhold action pending a hearing of their arguments and those of lawyers for the city.

Court circles believe Judge Clayton will deny the department's request. This would open the way for immediate action before a judge of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. The appellate court has granted relief similar to that sought here in a previous Mississippi case involving a vote registration worker.

The attitude of city officials was summed up in a statement by Gray Evans, the city prosecutor.

"If the police power of the city, the county and the state is suspended, then we cannot be responsible for anything that happens," said Mr. Evans.

Mayor Charles E. Sampson commented that the court action was part of the "government's usual policy in supporting the agitators."

Denounced by Eastland

In a statement issued in Washington, Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi denounced the move. He accused the Justime Department of seeking "to strip the power and destroy the ability of local peace officers to maintain law and order in the community and arbitrarily have registered to vote any person that these outside agitators parade to the circuit clerk for the purpose of registration."

The department's suit made no request for action against county officials who administer the stiff registration requirements imposed by the state in an attempt to restrict Negro participation in elections. These regulations are under challenge in another suit before the Federal courts.

The request for a restraining order and a supporting complaint, signed by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, were filed yesterday in Oxford, Miss., by John Doar. Mr. Doar is first assistant in the department's Civil Rights Division and has been in charge of an investigation into events here.

The complaint noted that although there are 13,567 Negroes and 10,274 whites of voting age in Leflore County, about 9,800 whites and 250 Negroes are registered to vote.

The department asserted that a registration campaign opened here last August by members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee had been met with violence.

The first outbreak of violence occurred Feb. 28, when a car carrying Negro voter registration workers was fired on. This incident has been followed by other acts of violence.

"During the last month rifles and shotguns have been fired at some of the registration workers, and on March 24, 1963, the interior of the office of the registration workers was burned," it said.

VOLUME 47—NUMBER 179 Greenwood Commonwealth GREENWOOD, LEFLORE COUNTY, MISS., MONDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 1, 1963

Barnett Pledges City Support

Governor Ross Barnett today pledged the full support of the state to officials here in "the exercise of their lawful duties."

The governor compared recent Negro marches to the courthouse here to "a loaded bomb lying in the city's streets," and maintained that local law enforcement has the right and duty under state and federal consitutions to 'remove the bomb from the streets."

The Justice Department is seeking to enjoin city and county law officers from interferring with the marches. The suit also seeks to have eight march leaders freed from county jail under their own recognizance pending appeal of their disturbing the peace conviction. A date for a hearing was expected to be set today.

The eight were among 11 arrested Wednesday.

Before Wednesday's march on city hall and the courthouse, which was broken up by police, Negroes had been going to the circuit clerk's office in varying numbers for some 10 months applying to register to vote. They have continued to go in smaller groups.

Gov. Barnett's statement follows in full:

"It is quite disturbing to note from the press the presence of hired outside agitators in the peaceful and law abiding city of Greenwood, seeking for their own gratification and the gratification of powerful political minorities in pivotal states to stir up strife and hatred among our people ,and worst of all they are falsely doing it under the banner of freedom.

"Justice Benjamin Cardozo, a great jurist, and man of great principle, must have had such as these agitators in mind when in 1931 he said:

'Many an appeal to freedom is the masquerade of privilege and inequity seeking to entrench itself behind the catchword of principle.'

"It is said that these people accumulate into crowds and then by their speeches are exhorted into frenzy and then seek to march in a body to the circuit clerk's office to register. Neither white nor colored people have registered in this manner before. Neither is the circuit clerk's office sufficiently staffed to accomodate such crowds. if a white or colored person is qualified to vote, he needs no crowd to accompany him. It is quite evident that the crowd serves no good purpose in the registration. What then is its purpose?

"The City of Greenwood, Leflore County and their officers are charged with the responsibility and duty under the law to keep the peace. if mobs are undertaking to march freely up and down its streets disturbing the peace and tranquility of the county and city and destroying the friendly relations presently existing between the races, then they become a source of infection that cannot be tolerated in the community.

"When stripped down to its real purpose, denuded of its false claim of its right to march under the banner of freedom, divested of its false claim of right under the constitution, and bared down to its real core, these marches stand forth as a badly infected and misguided body of people and as dangerous to the community as a loaded bomb, resting in a street in the heart of the city.

"The power to remove a bomb from a street of the city is well extablished by the law and in the state and federal constitutions, which remains and shall ever remain with the states and their municipalities.

"The election and selection of liberals does not amend the constitution and I shall stand by the officials of Greenwood and Leflore County to assist them in the exercise of their lawful duties.

"My information is that these same agitators have been to Jackson, McComb, Montgomery, Ala., and other places, and all they have left is strife, bitterness and heartaches.

"I am reliably informed that no Negro has evern been denied the right to apply for registration in Leflore County, and all have been received with every courtesy.

"I congratulate the mayor, all police officers the sheriff, his deputies, auxiliary police who helped out in this crisis, and all others who assisted in law enforcement, I applaud the attitude of the citizens of Greenwood and Leflore County and I urge the local Negroes in Leflore County to stand by the officials and ignore the agitators.

"I am a strong advocate of local self government, and I have expressed to the mayor of Greenwood the officials of Leflore County my sincere appreciation for the splendid job they are doing on the local level.

"I assure them of the full cooperation of every phase and everyfacility of the state executive department."

✣ ✣ ✣

Negro Comic Says He'll Be Here Tonight

Negro comedian Dick Gregory will speak at a Negro registration rally here tonight

Gregory, of Chicago, will talk at another rally Tuesday night in Clarksdale.

Gregory, in a telegram to the Commonwealth, said "the purpose of the rallies is to see that Negroes get their full rights as American citizens."

✣ ✣ ✣

Agents Join Photographers At Courthouse

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents joined a large group of news photographers in front of the county courthouse today.

Two agents took pictures of small groups of Negroes as they approached the county building and then reported back by radio after each group had entered the building.

This was the first time the federal agents had been observed at the courthouse.

The Negroes approached the courthouse in groups of threes and fours as requested by the police and there was no unusual activity, except that of the news photographers taking pictures.

The street in front of the county building remained open to traffic and city police cars were in the area.

Meanwhile at the old Greenwood Grocery warehouse near the Illinois Central Railroad commodities were being handed out. This is the first day of the commodity program being paid for by the federal government.

A large group of Negroes were seen at the commodity house waiting for the free food. The program was started again today only after the federal government told the county Board of Supervisors that if they didn't do it the federal government would.

City police continued on their 12 hour shifts and no day off schedule. City authorities said this schedule would be maintained until the situation here becomes normal.

At 11:30 a.m. the group of Negroes started forming up in two columns in front of the courthouse steps. As they proceeded out toward the street Chief of Police Curtis Lary told them they would have to break up into smaller groups.

The Negroes started leaving by threes and fours as they approached the building earlier in the morning.

A number of them got into automobiles parked in front of the building and drove off.

The area in front of the courthouse was clear by noon.

✣ ✣ ✣

BULLETIN

ABERDEEN — U. S. District Judge Claude Clayton today denied the Justice Department's plea for a temporary injunction against the city and county interferring with marching Negroes.

Judge Clayton set a hearing for 10 a.m. Thursday in federal court in Greenville on the government's motion for a permanent injunction.

"I feel that the proper way to handle this," Clayton told justice attorneys, "is for a show cause order to issue to the defendants giving them proper notice."

The government's injunction motions had asked the city police be ordered not to interfere with Negro marches to the courthouse and that eight Negroes now in jail on charges of disturbing the peace be released on their own recognizance pending an appeal.

City Judge O. L. Kimbrough has set $500 appeal bonds for the eight.

Greenwood Commonwealth 4-1-63

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

The paid attercops that have invaded our peaceful Leflore County and screamed Riot didn't count on our county and its citizens to display a complete reversal of their word Riot. We the loyal citizens made a slight addition to their word Riot. We added three letters P, A, AND T--thus we have the word Patriot.

That we are and that we shall remain. Loyal we shall be to our families, community, our town, our county and our country.

Patriotism and loyalty is born and nurtured within the family circle, from the home it is taken and reflected by chain reaction. The men what now perorate to our Negro citizens are among the unblessed -- for they know not the meaning of true loaylty, patriotism love of home and family, nor country.

Respectively submitted Patriotic Instruction Ladies Ladies Auxiliary,
VFW Alfreda Risher

Dear Sir:

The Supreme Court of the United States and the attorney general and the president now and before, are the ones responsible for the fighting and evil doings being done in Greenwood now. The negro is a free and independent citizen of the U. S. A. but now the federal government has become trannical and has lost much of the meaning of the constitution. The Negro today does not want equal rights or representation. They (the devil) want the white race to bow down to them. This will (by the idea) lead to destruction of both of the races. Churches, negro and white find all kind of things in the Holy Bible to justify their words and actions. The Supreme Court finds all kinds of things not in the constitution of the United States. Years ago President Thomas Jefferson foresaw what an all powerful federal government, whose nose is in everything and whose money can buy anything backed a court whose judgement is their will can do. Let the federal government answer this How can the Supreme Court made up of 9 men who are not representatives of the people appointed for life by the spoils system decide a law made by over 400 representatives of the people unconstitutional. How can 9 men not representatives of the people make the country's law as in 1954.

Today the answer is love and understanding between the races, in sight of God negro and whites are equal and brothers. Wouldn't God's heaven mean more then a sinful human world. Here men are tempted of the devil and today many are hypocites. Let the black and white races in this put away this listening to northern foreign agents. Peace to him who has the dull ear.

Yours Truly,
R. L. M.

Dear Sir:

This seems to be about the most opportune time to bring out something that has been bothering me for quite some time. At this writing we are faced with a tense racial situation and by the time you receive this feeling may have worsened. What ever the case may be, I would like to ask this question: Why do the radio stations continue to play Negro music all day long and in some cases all night long? We are being brain washed with hollering and yelling no-talent negroes. The music--and I use the word loosely--put out by these city bred coton pickers is not even fit for a morons ears. The young people of this generation think that this is the way music is supposed to sound --can you blame them: Mr. radio stations, who are you catering to--the Negro or the White? Why do you continue to help pay their NAACP dues by plugging their jungle music?

One station in town eliminated all this junk music in their programming, but not too long ago started playing the trash from four to five P. M.

When are the white people of this city going to get wise? We yell about marches, sit ins, NAACP, CORE, SNVCC, etc., --- and yet right on the heels of a news broadcast concerning a race incident, here comes a record of a big fat black boy yelling his empty head off. Just whom are you trying to convince. Mr. Radio station?

Music Lover

NYT 4-1-63
p. 15

U.S. COURT HEARS RACE PLEA TODAY

file editorially

Government to Ask Action in Greenwood, Miss.

By CLAUDE SITTON
Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 31—A Federal court will receive a request tomorrow that could lead to the most serious challenge yet faced by this city in its racial crisis.

Justice Department attorneys will ask District Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. to issue a temporary restraining order against city officials directing them to take the following actions:

¶Release eight Negro voter registration workers from prison.

¶Refrain from further interference with a regisration campaign and those taking part in it.

¶Permit Negroes to exercise their constitutional right to assemble for peaceful protest demonstrations and protect them from whites who might object.

A Justice Department official termed the suit "highly significant." He pointed out that it was the first time the department had interceded to protect the right of Negroes to demonstrate.

Racial tension aroused here by the registration drive in Laflore County and an attempt by Negroes to protest against an attack on a voter worker's home has eased considerably.

But authorities have expressed doubt over their ability to control the situation that might arise in this Mississippi Delta cotton and manufacturng center of 23,000 persons if further demonstrations take place.

A reliable source reported that some whites had placed firearms in downtown business establishments where they would be easily accessible.

Department attorneys will submit the request for a restraining order to Judge Clayton at noon in Aberdeen, Miss. He could grant the request or withhold action pending a hearing of their arguments and those of lawyers for the city.

Court circles believe Judge Clayton will deny the department's request. This would open the way for immediate action before a judge of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. The appellate court has granted relief similar to that sought here in a previous Mississippi case involving a vote registration worker.

The attitude of city officials was summed up in a statement by Gray Evans, the city prosecutor.

"If the police power of the city, the county and the state is suspended, then we cannot be responsible for anything that happens," said Mr. Evans.

Mayor Charles E. Sampson commented that the court action was part of the "government's usual policy in supporting the agitators."

Denounced by Eastland

In a statement issued in Washington, Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi denounced the move. He accused the Justime Department of seeking "to strip the power and destroy the ability of local peace officers to maintain law and order in the community and arbitrarily have registered to vote any person that these outside agitators parade to the circuit clerk for the purpose of registration."

The department's suit made no request for action against county officials who administer the stiff registration requirements imposed by the state in an attempt to restrict Negro participation in elections. These regulations are under challenge in another suit before the Federal courts.

The request for a restraining order and a supporting complaint, signed by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, were filed yesterday in Oxford, Miss., by John Doar. Mr. Doar is first assistant in the department's Civil Rights Division and has been in charge of an investigation into events here.

The complaint noted that although there are 13,567 Negroes and 10,274 whites of voting age in Leflore County, about 9,800 whites and 250 Negroes are registered to vote.

The department asserted that a registration campaign opened here last August by members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee had been met with violence.

The first outbreak of violence occurred Feb. 28, when a car carrying Negro voter registration workers was fired on. This incident has been followed by other acts of violence.

"During the last month rifles and shotguns have been fired at some of the registration workers, and on March 24, 1963, the interior of the office of the registration workers was burned," it said.

VEP

U. S. Treading on City Rights, Mississippi Official Charges

Greenwood, Miss., March 31 (AP).—Greenwood's city prosecutor says a Justice Department request for a restraining order is "unwarranted" and "irresponsible." He said officials of this delta town had not interfered with Negroes registering to vote.

Prosecutor Gary Evans said he thought Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy "was trying to substitute his judgment for that of local authorities who are on the scene and have all the facts."

While Evans made the charges, the government prepared to go before a federal judge in Aberdeen tomorrow and ask for an order banning interference of any persons trying to register.

The government, in its suit filed yesterday, also asked that eight Negroes jailed after a demonstration march last week be released. The Negroes were asking better police protection.

Federal District Judge Claud Clayton is scheduled to hear the government request for a temporary restraining order—and eventually a permanent injunction—against officials of Greenwood and Leflore County.

Negroes have begun a voter registration drive in this County where the Negro population outnumbers whites 2-to-1. There are some 400 registered Negro voters to 6,400 white voters.

The Justice Department charged city and county officials with arrest and prosecution of Negro registration workers to discourage their campaign.

Evans, named in the government suit along with Mayor Charles Sampson and four other city and county officials, said the city had not interfered with the rights of anyone trying to vote.

"I think the application for an injunction is an unwarranted interference with the police power of the city and an irresponsible action by the Justice Department," Evans said.

"The city has not interfered with any person's right to vote," he said. "And doesn't intend to do so. If the police power of the city is suspended, then we cannot responsible for anything that appens."

City officials said they would continue their normal routine of turning back mass marches but accepting small groups of voter applicants.

Intentionally Struck, Cameraman Charges

Greenwood, Miss., March 31 (UPI).—Bruce Palmer, a cameraman for the National Broadcasting Company, charged today that he was intentionally struck by a Greenwood Police car yesterday.

Palmer said he was brushed by the patrol car and srtuck in the face by the vehicle's antenna when he attempted to take a picture of the policemen during Negro voter registration activities.

Palmer said he was not hurt. He said the patrol car veered at least three feet off the road to strike him.

file Leflore Clips 4-2-63

lution introduced for this purpose. My distinguished colleague, the senior Senator from Ohio [Mr. LAUSCHE] and other Senators joined me as coauthors. That joint resolution was reintroduced on the opening day for receiving resolutions and bills in the present Congress.

Mr. President, the facts are that on July 23, 1962, only a short time before the joint resolution was introduced in this Chamber by me and cosponsored by my colleague [Mr. LAUSCHE] and other Senators, the Plain Dealer, a great newspaper in Cleveland, Ohio, and in our Nation, published an excellent article on Winston Churchill. The article was entitled, "Hero of Two Nations." Its author was Kay Halle.

Miss Halle is one of the outstanding women in the United States. She is a personable television and radio commentator, a journalist, an author, and a world traveler of note. Not only is she at the present time one of the world's outstanding women, but also during World War II she served her country in an executive capacity in the Office of Strategic Services. In recent years she has been serving the administration as a member of President Kennedy's Advisory Committee on the Arts.

Miss Halle, of Cleveland, Ohio, first met Winston Churchill in 1931. At that time she was writing a column from London for the Cleveland News. During her stay in England in the following years, she spent many weekends at Chartwell with the Churchill family. She recalled those years, 30 years later, in her article published in the Plain Dealer.

In that article she wrote of the contribution and the service which Winston Churchill had rendered to his nation, to the United States and, in fact, to all the nations of the free world. She suggested that it would be fitting if the President of the United States, under an act of Congress, should bestow upon Winston Churchill honorary citizenship of this country.

When the word goes out from Washington that the President of the United States has issued such a proclamation—and it will be issued very shortly, due to the authorization by both bodies of the Congress—it will be a fitting honor, and, I fear, one of the final honors which will come to this great citizen of the world.

I invite attention, Mr. President, to the fact that although many resolutions have been introduced in both bodies to confer honorary citizenship upon Winston Churchill, we should recall at this time that Kay Halle of Ohio was the person who first suggested that this be done.

We can all take some satisfaction that this action, without precedent in the history of our country, has taken place; and that, in his final days on this earth, Winston Churchill, former Prime Minister of England, former leader of the free world, is an honorary citizen of the United States.

Mr. LAUSCHE and Mr. DIRKSEN addressed the Chair.

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. I yield first to my distinguished senior colleague.

Mr. LAUSCHE. Mr. President, I merely wish to commend my colleague for the beautiful remarks he has made with respect to Sir Winston Churchill. I was glad to join him in sponsorship of the measure. I am prouder now, knowing that the objective is reaching its achievement, to be a sponsor along with him of this very fine measure. I commend him for the remarks he has made.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. I yield to the Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DIRKSEN. I should afford full credit to the distinguished Senators from Ohio and West Virginia for having introduced the measures in the Senate.

I was directed by the Committee on the Judiciary this morning to report the House bill and ask for its passage, because the Senate bill carried a preamble. Since there was a variance as between texts, the Senate bill would have had to go to conference. Time was of the essence. Therefore, we submitted the House version, and the bill was passed today.

I am deeply grateful to my friend from Ohio for having taken cognizance of this matter quite some time ago.

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. The distinguished minority leader has, from the beginning, been enthusiastic in his support of this measure, and all Americans can be grateful to him for the fact that, largely due to his leadership, this action was taken today.

The bill will go immediately to the White House, and very shortly Winston Churchill will be made an honorary citizen of the United States.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield once more?

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. Yes, indeed.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Since the Constitution of the United States allows for no titles of nobility, I think the record ought to show that, here, he will be Mr. Winston Churchill.

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. I agree. Like the distinguished Senator from Illinois, I have no truck with titles of nobility.

THE SITUATION IN GREENWOOD, MISS.

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, I desire to speak briefly concerning the situation at Greenwood, Miss., largely a factual statement, and I prefer not to yield until I have finished my brief statement, at which time I shall be glad to yield.

The public statements about the situation at Greenwood made by outside agitators and picked up and circulated by the newspapers, radio, and television, have painted a very unfair and wholly misleading picture.

I am not saying the newspapers gave slanted accounts—certainly not all of them—but the statements themselves were slanted, and as reflected through this medium, gave a very unfair and wholly misleading picture. Also, these statements are an unjust vilification of the fine people and public officials of Greenwood and Leflore County.

The facts are simple. The people of Greenwood are the innocent victims of organized pressure groups imported into Greenwood from outside Mississippi, hundreds and thousands of miles away. Under the guise of assisting the local Negro people in registering to vote, these professional troublemakers have organized one of the most bitter hate campaigns ever devised in this country. In conducting these meetings, they have gone out of their way to flaunt their organized mobs and publicize their intentions to secure the widest possible public notice and to create all possible resentment. In short, they have purposely inflamed the public mind, through their meetings, their organized mob marches on the courthouse, and their wild charges and speeches. They have misled not only the local Negroes they profess to be assisting, but they have misled the people of the Nation into believing there is a wholesale effort on the part of local city and county officials to prevent the local Negroes from registering to vote.

The fact, however, is that the circuit clerk, Mrs. Martha Turner Lamb, a fine public official, has received the applications for registration offered by those who presented themselves.

If I may add a statement at this point, it should not be in order for mobs of people to congregate and push themselves as a group into the office of any public official, much less the office of a lady public official; and it should not be in order to do so anywhere, and make immediate demands on the lady official, or any other official, so far as that is concerned, for immediate mass attention and immediate favorable response to their requests, whatever they may be. If we have reached the point where that is the rule to be followed, we have reached the point where we no longer have law and government.

Those found by Mrs. Lamb to be qualified for registration, according to the laws of the State of Mississippi, have been registered. The office of the circuit clerk, the registrar, is open each day. Each day, a number of qualified applicants have been registered. Last week, during 1 day alone, I am advised that 50 Negro applicants were actually registered to vote.

I do not know that all 50 had applied that day—there has to be an examination—but I am told that at least that many were put on the rolls that day. Others registered as late as yesterday.

Of course, the law does not permit any organized group, white or Negro, to form in the middle of a public street in the business district of the city of Greenwood, blocking, traffic and disturbing the peace and good order of the community, and march shouting to the courthouse, creating further violence every step of the way.

And of course, this is what the officials of the city of Greenwood have stopped. They have the legal duty and responsibility to maintain law and order, to quell disturbances, to keep traffic moving and to arrest those disturbing the peace. They have not interfered with an attempt of any person to enter the courthouse or the county registrar's office, individually or in small groups, to make an application to register to vote.

But, in the face of these facts, the Justice Department has filed a suit, with many requests for the court to enter orders against the local officials.

The Justice Department should stop its well-known practice of filing suits right and left whenever a member of some minority group makes an allegation unsupported by proof, and contrary to the facts. The Federal Government does not have a monopoly on protecting constitutional rights. Under the facts, it has no authority whatever in this matter in the city of Greenwood. Our State and local governments have the responsibility for maintaining law and order; and Greenwood, Miss., and Leflore County are doing this very thing under the most difficult circumstances.

The law-abiding citizens of a peaceful community like Greenwood rightfully look to their local public officials to maintain law and order and to protect them from unlawful invasions and breaches of the peace.

In connection with this very suit, I should like to turn briefly, not merely to what I might say about the situation, but to what Judge Claude F. Clayton said yesterday at the regular term of court in Mississippi, in passing on the application of the Justice Department for a temporary restraining order against these very officers I have been talking about.

Judge Clayton is one of the outstanding Federal judges in the entire Nation. I assure my colleagues that I know Judge Clayton personally, and have known him for a long time. He is an experienced, able judge. He had served on the bench before he was appointed a Federal judge. He is a man of firm convictions. He is resolute by nature. He has the greatest professional pride and also the highest judicial pride. He represents integrity on and off the bench.

As I have said, in hearing this matter yesterday, on a temporary basis, Judge Clayton very properly ruled that the request of the Justice Department was not sufficient to "warrant trampling on the rights" of these officials, and he refused to take any action pending a full hearing on the merits on Thursday of this week.

In announcing his action, Judge Clayton said:

> I detest any action on the part of anyone which interferes in any way with any right of any person which is given and protected by law.
>
> This includes the right to register and the right to vote, provided the standards now rightfully established by the laws of the State of Mississippi are met.
>
> These are the rights which belong to all of us. These are the rights which belong to the city of Greenwood, its officials and its police officers and to the officers of Leflore County.

Mayor Charles E. Sampson, of Greenwood, has rightfully announced his intention to keep law and order in Greenwood, Mayor Sampson and City Commissioners B. A. Hammond and W. G. Mize, Jr., have done an outstanding job in dealing with this most difficult situation.

The chief of police, Curtis Lary, has taken precautions to prevent breaches of the peace, and has repeatedly made a public announcement to these groups, as follows:

> Because of present public excitement resulting from recent events here, it is considered necessary to peace and order that no large organized groups be allowed on the streets of Greenwood. Therefore, you must disperse. If it is your purpose to go to the courthouse to apply for voter registration, you will not be prevented from doing so but in order to insure that there will be no breach of the peace you must proceed in smaller groups.

This is a step which is absolutely necessary in order to maintain law and order under the most difficult circumstances and tremendous provocation.

The real issue is whether unwanted and unwelcome outside organizers, vote peddlers and pressure groups will be permitted to invade a peaceful community for the sole purpose of creating turmoil and disturbing the peace.

These professional troublemakers are not interested in Greenwood, in Leflore County, or in Mississippi. Nor are they truly interested in the welfare of the Negro citizens of that community. Nor are they welcome or wanted by either race. Their sole purpose is to create strife and discord and to overturn the peaceful and harmonious cooperation among the people of the two races built up over generations.

These people, representing the so-called Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, CORE, and other notorious busybodies, had hardly parked their cars in Greenwood before they were sending telegrams to Washington calling for Federal troops.

As is usual in such cases, once the trouble starts these paid professional agitators will be satisfied and will move on elsewhere to start new battles and new tensions, leaving behind them the turmoil and unrest they were paid to create. Unfortunately, they also will leave to the local people of both races the hopeless task of repairing the damage and attempting to restore the peaceful and harmonious cooperation between the races built up over the years.

The people of Greenwood are not responsible for the situation in which they find themselves. They have acted in good faith, with remarkable patience and admirable restraint, under the most extreme provocation.

I am confident the duly constituted law enforcement officers of the city of Greenwood and Leflore County will continue to maintain law and order.

To the degree that I have kept in touch with these gentlemen during this ordeal, I can say that they are carrying this added responsibility, and have uniformly obtained certain assurances which were supported by action from day to day.

I think the public will soon realize what is happening and will no longer follow these schemes of publicity and building up of false issues and the carrying out of such planned provocation.

Instead of the Federal Government filing suits against local authorities, if they are going to be there at all, they ought to be standing side by side or at least encouraging them to follow a pattern of their own law as made by the legislature and as written in the regular constitutional way and in the processes of self-government, and to maintain law and order and orderly processes of government in that way.

Heretofore all the complaint has been directed to the charge that local forces do not maintain law and order. In this case the entire pattern has been within the processes of the law, according to the statutes, and action through duly constituted authority.

If that is not protection through local government and self-government and representative government and free government, I do not know where we can turn for an example of it.

I warn the people of this Nation against taking a superficial and surface impression, artificially created. They should look to the facts and determine the real issues and to get down to the heart of the problem.

Instead of condemning, we should command. I believe that the filing of suits of injunction against all the officers is an invitation to violence and an invitation for some group outside the law to act for themselves.

I hope that this matter will be reconsidered. In the meantime I urge the people of the city of Greenwood and the county of Leflore, through their officials, to stand their ground and continue, of course, to follow their course as in the past.

Mr. EASTLAND. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. STENNIS. I am glad to yield to my colleague from Mississippi.

Mr. EASTLAND. As my colleague realizes, there has been no allegation that an attempt has been made to prevent people from registering.

Mr. STENNIS. The Senator is correct. I have not had an opportunity to read the bill of particulars in the suit that has been filed. Perhaps the Senator has.

Mr. EASTLAND. There has been no allegation of that kind; in fact, 300 persons have applied to register in the past few days. Those who are qualified will be registered. There is no such contention as has been suggested. Outside agitators from New York and other areas talk to Negroes and say, "If you want to get relief, if you want to get social security, if you want to get commodities, come with us." Then they take them in a body and parade them down the street, demonstrating and stopping all traffic, walking through red lights, and being taken to the courthouse. The only obstacle has been that they cannot demonstrate, they cannot stop traffic, they cannot violate the the ordinances of that city. When they reach the courthouse they can go to the clerk's office at any time and make their application, as provided by the laws of our State.

Judge Clayton is a great lawyer. I agree with my colleague that he is one of the great judges of this country. Charley Sampson, the mayor, has rendered distinguished service. The chief of police has done a good job. The city attorney has done a good job. There is no allegation anywhere that an attempt has been made to prevent these people from applying for registration. In fact, they have come forward by the hundreds to do so. They have been there at the instance of outside agitators who say, "You cannot get relief, you cannot get social security, you cannot get commodities unless you follow us, and follow us down the main street, against red lights, and deprive the citizens of the city of the right to govern their own affairs."

The suit which the Department of Justice has filed is not a voting rights suit. The question is, Can the people maintain order on the streets of their own city?

Mr. STENNIS. Through their own officials.

Mr. EASTLAND. Of course; through their own officials. That is the test. Judge Clayton was eminently correct in his decision.

Mr. STENNIS. I thank my colleague.

This situation can come close to home in the case of each of us in Washington in our official offices. It can come much closer home than anyone might think. Only last week some of this same group that is in Greenwood, Miss.—perhaps not the same individuals, but individuals with the same connections—showed up in our offices in the Senate Office Building, to parade and picket and make a show. The way we learned about the probable presence of these people in our offices was through the members of the Senate Press Gallery, who called and said, "Have they gotten there?"

The response was, "Whom are you talking about?"

We were told, "We have been called by this group and they said they were going to picket your offices."

The purpose is to make a show of publicity, to create a disturbance, and to create a false issue, merely to carry a point or to create a disturbance and mislead the American people.

It is pitiful to me—and I say this with the greatest respect to our news media—that items like this can be instantly picked up and publicized in every living room or drawing room, and on every newsstand all over the Nation, causing the public to fall victims to such misleading tactics and to planning of this kind.

It is a severe strain upon free government.

Mr. EASTLAND. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. STENNIS. I yield.

Mr. EASTLAND. I live close to the city of Greenwood. I was in Greenwood several days last week. I speak with firsthand knowledge. This demonstration had not caught on. There is not the tension in Greenwood that has been pictured in the eastern press. The movement is not supported by a majority of the Negro race or by a majority of the white race; in fact, it is condemned by a majority of the Negro race. The Justice Department action was merely an attempt to rescue a drowning baby. It is not possible to get citizens of the Negro race from the city of Greenwood to participate. So the instigators have gone into the rural areas and have contacted Negroes who want commodities and have said, "Join with us, and we will lead you to the promised land, provided you march down the street, obstruct traffic, walk a red light, and go to the court house."

Those acts of walking down the street and obstructing traffic are the heart of the suit that has been filed.

Mr. STENNIS. I thank the Senator.

The officers, the board of aldermen, the mayor, the police, the city attorney, and others, are due the commendations and the appreciation of the whole body of people of the Nation, especially those who appreciate the difficulty that is always present when any kind of agitation starts which would try to pit the races one against the other.

I feel certain that every Senator, if he understood the situation, would join with me in heartily commending the action taken by those officials. I hope they will continue their pattern of conduct; I believe they will.

AMENDMENT OF FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1961—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT (H. DOC. NO. 94)

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. EDMONDSON in the chair) laid before the Senate a message from the President of the United States, transmitting a draft of proposed legislation to amend further the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, and for other purposes, which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

(For message from the President, see House proceedings of today).

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President——

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, a parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TOWER. Mr. President, will the Senator from Arizona yield?

Mr. GOLDWATER. I yield.

Mr. TOWER. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Arizona yield for that purpose?

Mr. GOLDWATER. I yield for that purpose, with the understanding that I do not lose the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That will be the understanding. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. TOWER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, I have agreed to yield to the Senator from Alaska, with the understanding that I will not lose my place on the floor.

WHY STAND IN THE WAY OF CUBA'S FREEDOM FIGHTERS?

Mr. GRUENING. Mr. President, yesterday, while the able senior Senator from Oregon [Mr. MORSE] was criticizing the Cuban refugees for their raids on Castro's Cuba, I engaged in a colloquy with him in which I expressed my sympathy for, and understanding of, these courageous freedom fighters who feel impelled at the risk of their lives to strike whatever blows they can at Castro's totalitarian tyranny and its ruthless and bloody suppression of the liberties of the Cuban people.

While I did not engage in a lengthy discussion with the Senator, who was making his customarily effective presentation of the legal and other aspects of these raids, condemning them unqualifiedly, I sought to indicate my view that there was another side to this issue, and that I was not convinced of the correctness of his view and of the position which the administration appears to be taking that these raids should at all costs be prevented by the United States.

I was therefore interested to note in this morning's Washington Post a column entitled "The Cuban Raids," with the subtitle "Why Stand in the Way?" written by Roscoe Drummond. The article expresses a view with which I find myself in general accord. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed at this point in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE CUBAN RAIDS—WHY STAND IN THE WAY?

(By Roscoe Drummond)

Many Americans must feel both confused and frustrated by the difference between what the administration says about Castro's Cuba and what it does.

Unquestionably President Kennedy seeks the goal of a "free Cuba." He told the released Cuban invasion prisoners on their return to Florida that he was confident their battalion flag would fly victoriously in Havana.

But when those Cubans hit at the Castro and Soviet forces, the President wants them to stop it.

Vice President LYNDON JOHNSON tells the graduating class of the Inter-American Defense College that we "cannot be content until communism is gone from Cuba."

But when the Cuban refugees, who are intent upon wresting their freedom from those who have taken it from them, take action to do something about it, the highest officials of the administration express only disapproval.

Thus far President Kennedy has given no adequate explanation as to why he does not want the anti-Castro Cubans to fight the Castro-Soviet forces at any point they can make contact.

Until the administration makes a more persuasive case against the Cuban refugee's harassing their oppressors every chance they get, my instinct is on the side of the refugees.

I think a good case can be made that the refugee raids are useful and that we ought not to discourage them or stand in the way.

We say we want the Castro regime overthrown. We say that only the Cuban people can bring it about. With those two conditions, who is to begin the process unless it is the Cuban refugees?

You may believe that the hit-and-run raids are only insignificant, hectoring pinpricks. So were Castro's first hit-and-run attacks on Batista. The only way to begin is to begin.

Remember Hungary? Surely any prudent man could have told the latent and fer-

feb Sefflare Clips 4-2-63

menting Hungarian freedom fighters that it would be fantastically foolhardy for them to consider attacking the occupying Soviet tanks with their bare fists and handmade grenades. But they did. You couldn't have prevented them. And despite the ultimate repression, it was a revolt for freedom which was worth all the bravery that went into it. Hungary is better off today for it.

Admittedly there are risks for the United States in the Cuban hit-and-run raids. Castro might sink an American boat in a spasm of anger. But might it not be better to deal with such an incident than to say that the Cuban freedom fighters must not decide how they shall fight for their freedom?

The administration has said it "will not be content until the last of Soviet forces are withdrawn from Cuban soil." It can be honestly argued that the refugee raids may provide an excuse for Moscow to keep Soviet troops in Cuba. The opposite may be nearer the truth. Is it likely that finding things calm in Cuba will provide any incentive for Khrushchev to call his troops home?

In 1960 Mr. Kennedy proposed that we would do more to help the Cuban resisters both inside and outside Cuba. Now that the refugees are regaining their morale after the Bay of Pigs, it seems ironic, at the very least, that the United States should send the FBI and the Coast Guard after them.

Telling the Cuban resisters what not to do isn't going to further the cause of a free Cuba. If the administration is convinced that the Cuban refugees are doing it wrong, then at the very least it should be making suggestions and helping them to do it right.

THE SITUATION IN GREENWOOD, MISS.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, will the Senator from Arizona yield, provided he does not lose the floor?

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, I yield to the Senator from New York, with the understanding that I do not lose the floor.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, I have been informed that while I was at lunch, the distinguished junior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. STENNIS] made a statement on the Senate floor which at least brings into question the propriety of the action taken by the Attorney General of the United States in connection with the situation in Greenwood, Leflore County, Miss., where the United States is seeking to enjoin local authorities from interfering with a petition by the local citizenry—Negroes, to be precise—for the redress of grievances.

I express my approval of the action of the Attorney General in instituting the suit. I think it was his manifest duty to do so, in view of the fact that constitutional rights are brought into question, including the right of petition for the redress of grievances by constituted authorities. I approve very much of the Attorney General's taking this action.

As a matter of general principle, I have very deep faith in the processes of the law and the courts. I have argued this point before, and I do so again. In the face of situations which have such incendiary possibilities as in this particular area about which the press has written so much, the chances will be very much better for the processes of order and tranquillity if an individual citizen feels that tongue may be given for his grievances through the courts, and that there is a possibility of redress.

The Attorney General is in this civil injunction suit proceeding under section 1971 of title 42 of the United States Code, which was part of the Civil Rights Act of 1957. The important thing, which I wish to emphasize, is that here is an outlet, here is a substitute for either the effort which the marchers are making or the efforts to stop them which are being made by the police and other municipal authorities. In an area where there are the raw materials of violence, the capability of the courts to act in situations of this kind is designed to head them off and to give, as I say, an outlet, a tongue, to every man's grievance.

Therefore, I have always favored strongly the so-called part III in regard to civil rights, so that the Attorney General might sue in representative cases; and I feel very deeply that this is the way to save ourselves from the dangers involved in such situations—dangers which we have already seen erupt into violence, not only like that which occurred at Oxford, Miss., where marshals and troops are employed, but also the danger involved when people are fired on while they are in their homes and the danger involved when buildings are burned. This is no tea party. This situation is very, very dangerous, in terms of the future of the Nation. So anything we can do to give it a peaceful outlet—and I think recourse to the courts is the most logical and most desirable procedure—we should encourage.

Although I respect, and indeed would fight for, the right of the Senator from Mississippi to say whatever he believes he should say, I also feel it my duty to juxtapose to the general thrust of the statement of the Senator from Mississippi—as I understand it from what I have been told by my assistants who heard him make it—this statement of my own position.

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, I should like to say to the Senator from New York that, if I correctly understood him, I am glad he did not substantially contradict the facts I related in regard to the registration—in other words, that the applications were being received and were being passed on, without denying any person the right to file his application in an orderly way and to have it passed on. The Senator from New York does not know of any exception to that general statement, does he?

Mr. JAVITS. I was addressing myself to what we have read in the press about the action of the police and other authorities in blocking and breaking up any march by a number of persons—for example, on one day last week by a group of some 100, and on another by a group of some 42. It is claimed—and the courts will try it out—that in the community there is a climate of intimidation which runs counter to the fundamental provisions of the 1957 Civil Rights Act which prohibit interference with any effort to register and to vote. I say to the Senator from Mississippi that the courts will decide as to that.

For myself, I believe that the path of constitutional propriety is to permit people to march peaceably in order to petition for redress of their grievances.

But the fundamental point I make now is even more limited than that. I only say that if we do not want violence—and I know of no Senator who does want it—in my opinion, people must have an outlet. So I think litigation of this character is a proper and sensible outlet; and I hope very much the Attorney General will prosecute this suit with speed and with diligence.

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, let me say that it would be one thing to bring a suit if someone had been denied an opportunity to file an application or to take the examination or to register, or even had protested and had been arrested on that account, or if someone wanted to test the legality of an arrest. But this is a broadside lawsuit, in the absence of an application by anyone to have the law-enforcement machinery used to enjoin such action. It has not been charged that there has been a violation of anyone's right. It is to that point that I addressed my remarks.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, I only say that when it appears that in a particular community it would be unhealthy for some persons to register and to vote, the U.S. Government has a right to take action. In my opinion, those who at least seemingly make the situation look unhealthy have the burden to withdraw such barriers.

So I think the Attorney General is taking action in that situation; and I am glad he is doing so by means of action of that kind.

U.S. ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT AGENCY—PLAN WITH SOVIET UNION FOR RECIPROCAL BURNING OF OBSOLETE BOMBERS

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, at this time I see on the floor the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLARK]. Therefore, I wish to refer now, briefly, to a statement he made yesterday.

Mr. President, yesterday the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLARK], had a number of remarks to make about my efforts to get a straight story from the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency on its plan with the Soviet Union for the reciprocal burning of obsolete bombers. He charged me with doing a "disservice to the cause of peace" by implying that officials of the Disarmament Agency are either guilty of crass dishonesty or are being misunderstood by newspaper reporters. He then went on to make out a case for the fact that the Disarmament Agency officials were misunderstood by newspaper reporters.

Mr. President, the whole episode goes back to March 9, when, in a speech I made in Aurora, Ill., I asked whether it was true that plans were in the making for the reciprocal burning of 30 American B-47's and 30 Russian Badgers, in a giant disarmament demonstration. On March 11, wire service stories which appeared in the newspapers reported:

U.S. Disarmament officials deny that any plan has been shaped for reciprocal burning of bombers by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Now let me quote the reference by the Senator from Pennslyvania to the denial story, in his remarks on the floor yesterday. He said:

This story which appeared in the papers on Monday, March 11, was based on telephone conversations between reporters and the Agency spokesman. These conversations took place on Sunday, March 10. On Monday morning, March 11, the Agency representative who spoke to the press the day before felt after reading the morning papers that his earlier comments to the newspaper correspondents evidently had not been clearly understood. To clarify any misunderstanding the agency at noon that day released the following statement through the State Department.

The statement referred to by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLARK] was that the Disarmament Agency had been engaged in several internal studies, and that among them was the possibility of a simultaneous reduction of B-47's and Russian Badgers.

Before I proceed, Mr. President, let me quote from a press release which the Senator from Pennsylvania issued yesterday in support of his remarks on the floor. Here is what it said, in part:

It is a disservice to the cause of peace to imply that honorable men patriotically and intelligently serving their country are either guilty of crass dishonesty or are being misunderstood by reporters. Neither charge is true. The first suggestion is inaccurate; the second, just plain wrong.

Mr. President, if my suggestion that Disarmament officials are being misunderstood by reporters is "just plain wrong," as the Senator from Pennsylvania claimed, why is it necessary for him to defend the denial story which was based on the conversations with the Disarmament official? Why is it necessary for the Senator from Pennsylvania to point out that, after reading the newspapers, the Disarmament official decided that he had not been clearly understood?

Another point I should like to raise right here is that if—as the Senator from Pennsylvania contended—the Disarmament official hastened to issue a statement clarifying the situation at noon on March 11, why did the press release referred to carry the date of March 12? Could it be that the testimony of Secretary of State Dean Rusk before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on March 11 prodded the Disarmament official to issue a clarification on March 12? In that testimony, Secretary Rusk told the committee that the bomber-destruction plan had been under study and consideration, and that the stories about a denial from the Disarmament Agency must have stemmed from a misunderstanding.

Another point made in the press release by the Senator from Pennsylvania was that the Disarmament Agency told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth about the bomber-destruction plan. This raises several questions.

First. If the Disarmament Agency had told the whole truth—including the fact that the bomber-destruction plan about which I inquired had been under discussion—is it likely that competent newspapermen would have been so lacking in understanding that they would have taken that statement to be a flat denial of the plan?

Second. Why did it take the Disarmament Agency 3 days to tell the whole truth?

I submit that the fact remains that I asked a perfectly legitimate question, based on solid information; and the Disarmament Agency answered it in a fashion that caused most newspapers in the United States to publish headlines to the effect that the Government had denied the existence of a bomber-destruction plan. The fact also remains that the Disarmament Agency apparently did not get around to trying to correct this impression until after Secretary of State Rusk had testified that the denial story was erroneous. With the flow of news being what it is today, of course, the Agency's clarification never saw the light of day in any newspaper I read. So the public was left with the impression that the question I had put to the administration had no basis in fact. I say this was as neat an operation in news management—whether wittingly or unwittingly—as any I have witnessed since the New Frontier came into office.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent at this time to place in the RECORD two newspaper stories, one from the Washington Post of March 11, 1963, entitled "Plan To Burn 30 Bombers Hotly Denied," and the other from the Washington Star of the same date, entitled "Administration Denies Bomber-Burning Plan."

There being no objection, the articles were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, Mar. 11, 1963]

PLAN TO BURN 30 BOMBERS HOTLY DENIED

U.S. disarmament officials denied yesterday that any plan has been shaped for reciprocal burning of bombers by the United States and the Soviet Union.

The disavowal of such plans came as a result of a speech given in Illinois Saturday by Senator BARRY GOLDWATER, of Arizona, a spokesman for Republican conservatism and a frequent critic of U.S. disarmament negotiations.

GOLDWATER asked, "Is it true that there are plans in the making to give up 30 of our B-47 bombers along with 30 Russian Badgers—that there then would be a gigantic bonfire in which all these weapons would be destroyed for the benefit of mankind?"

GOLDWATER said, "I have heard that the administration is seriously considering a pool with Russia to destroy weapons, item for item." He added this would be "stupid (and) ridiculous."

A spokesman for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency said he is puzzled by GOLDWATER's reference to 30 bombers and hazarded a guess that the Senator might have been confusing it with the figures in a proposed general disarmament treaty suggested by the United States at Geneva last summer.

That draft called for mutual destruction of 30 percent of all basic weapons in the first phase of a move toward general and complete disarmament.

The proposals never got anywhere and one of the chief obstacles was, the spokesman said, that while the Russians agreed that there should be mutual inspection of the destruction of weapons, they rejected further inspection to determine what arms remained. The U.S. position was that there could be no destruction without the right of followup inspection.

The spokesman said that in view of the failure of this broad proposal, there has been some internal discussion within the Government of less ambitious programs as first steps toward a general program which seems many years away.

But, he said, none of these proposals have even been agreed upon internally, let alone offered to the Russians. He noted that destruction of 30 B-47's and 30 Badgers would be no more than a token gesture, in any event, since there are many hundreds of each type in service.

[From the Washington Star, Mar. 11, 1963]

ADMINISTRATION DENIES BOMBER-BURNING PLAN

U.S. disarmament officials deny that any plan has been shaped for reciprocal burning of bombers by the United States and the Soviet Union.

The disavowal of such plans came as a result of a speech given in Illinois Saturday by Senator GOLDWATER of Arizona, a spokesman for Republican conservatism and a frequent critic of U.S. disarmament negotiations.

Senator GOLDWATER asked, "Is it true that there are plans in the making to give up 30 of our B-47 bombers along with 30 Russian Badgers—that there then would be a gigantic bonfire in which all these weapons would be destroyed for the benefit of mankind?"

GOLDWATER STATEMENT

Senator GOLDWATER said, "I have heard that the administration is seriously considering a pool with Russia to destroy weapons item for item." He added this would be "stupid (and) ridiculous."

A spokesman for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency said yesterday he is puzzled by Senator GOLDWATER's reference to 30 bombers and hazarded a guess that the Senator might have been confusing it with the figures in a proposed general disarmament treaty suggested by the United States at Geneva last summer.

That draft called for mutual destruction of 30 percent of all basic weapons in the first phase of a move toward general and complete disarmament.

The proposals never got anywhere and one of the chief obstacles was, the spokesman said, that while the Russians agreed that there should be mutual inspection of the destruction of weapons, they rejected further inspection to determine what arms remained. The U.S. position was that there could be no destruction without the right of followup inspection.

INTERNAL DISCUSSION

The spokesman said that in view of the failure of this broad proposal, there has been some internal discussion within the Government of less ambitious programs as first steps toward a general program which seems many years away.

But, he said, none of these proposals have even been agreed upon internally, let alone offered to the Russians. He noted that destruction of 30 B-47s and 30 Badgers—both obsolescent bombers—would be no more than a token gesture in any event since there are many hundreds of each type in service.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. GOLDWATER. I am happy to yield to my friend from Pennsylvania.

Mr. CLARK. I listened with interest to the comments made by my good friend from Arizona. As a result of what he has said, I should like to ask him whether register and the right to vote, provided the standards now rightfully established by the laws of the state of Missisippi are met.

U.S. COURT REJECTS NEGRO-VOTER SUIT

Continued From Page 1, Col. 1

"These are the rights which belong to all of us. These are the rights which belong to the city of Greenwood, its officials and its police officers and to the officers of Leflore County."

Defendants in the justice department suit are Greenwood Mayor Charles Sampson, Fire-Police Commissioner Buff A. Hammond, Police Chief Curtis Lary, City Prosecutor Vary Evans, Deputy Sheriff Wilburn Smith, County Attorney John J. Frazier, and the City of Greenwood and the County of Leflore.

When the justice department filed suit Saturday for a temporary restraining order, Greenwood officials said they would continue their normal procedure —breaking up mass marches but permitting registration in small groups.

Barnett Backs City

JACKSON, Miss., April 1 (AP)—Gov. Ross Barnett said today he was behind Greenwood officials.

"The election of the Kennedys does not amend the Constitution," Mr. Barnett said in a statement, "and I shall stand by the officials of Greenwood to assist them in the exercis of their lawful rights."

The Governor, who has been cited for civil contempt for trying to block James Meredith' admission to the University of Mississippi, said the marchers were led by "hired outside agitators."

"These marchers stand forth as a badly infected and mis-

Associated Press

TO HOLD HEARING: Federal Judge Claud Clayton, who refused to issue order against interference with Negroes' attempts to register in Greenwood, Miss.

guided body of people," Governor Barnett said, "and as dangerous to the community as a loaded bomb resting in a street in the heart of the city."

Greenwood had the power to remove a bomb from its streets, the Governor said, and he added, it holds the same power to preserve law and order.

Greenwood Is Quiet

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 1 (AP)—Negroes went to the Court House in small groups today to apply for voter registration. Wooden barricades used last week to thwart mass marchers were down. Traffic flowed normally.

County officials resumed a full-scale program of giving out surplus food to needy families. The program is financed by the Federal Government, and the operation resumed under the Government's threat to take over if county officials did not get it under way.

Continued on Page 10, Column 2

U.S. COURT DENIES NEGRO-VOTER SUIT

NYT 4-2-63

Federal Bid for Action in Greenwood, Miss., Put Off

file Leflore Clips

By The Associated Press

ABERDEEN, Miss., April 1 —A Federal judge turned down today the Justice Department's request for an immediate court order prohibiting interference with Negro voter registration efforts in Greenwood, Miss.

Sitting in a regular session of Federal Court, Judge Claud Clayton said the Justice Department request was not "sufficient to warrant trampling on the rights" of Greenwood and Leflore County officials.

His refusal, in effect, puts off a decision on the Justice Department's suit until after a formal hearing. He set the hearing for 10 A.M. Thursday in Federal court at Greenville, Miss.

Judge Clayton issued his ruling between sessions of a car-theft trial. He said he had studied the suit during a noon recess.

"I consider that the proper way to deal with this matter and give reasonable consideration to the rights of all parties is for a show cause order to be entered," he said.

He said the Government's request for a restraining order came without giving the defendants "either notice or an opportunity to be heard."

The judge added:

"I detest any action on the part of anyone which interferes in any way with any right of any person which is given and protected by law.

"This includes the right to

He Can't Buy It

Greenwood Commonwealth 4/8/63

Heard Dick Gregory's speech last night. The Negro comedian from Chicago wasn't very funny. And he didn't make much sense, either, which isn't surprising because most entertainers don't when they try to get into public affairs seriously.

Gregory is at his best spoofing both sides on racial matters and his wit flashed briefly last night.

He brought down the house with a series of well timed jokes about the white-Negro conflict

But when he criticized Mississippi's political leadership ,spoke of manufacturing "incidents" in Greenwood as if they actually happened, the comic became just one more rabble rouser, and not a very good one.

Gregory took a couple of roundhouse swings at the Commonwealth, which we suppose should be an indication of the good job the newspaper is doing for the community but probably isn't. Gregory had just come to criticize and he was scattering his shots everywhere.

If the comedian's announced plans to lead a march to the courthouse have materialized this afternoon, Gregory will undoubtedly have accumulated more notoriety around the country than he could get if he airlifted enough food to Africa to feed all of Katanga. Of course that won't do the entertainer's show business stock any harm at all.

Meanwhile, perhaps the federal employees whom Gregory blasted last night for inefficiency in nursemaiding Negro agitators (while FBI agents and justice department attorneys prowled the streets outside Wesley Memorial Church on orders from Washington to look after the comedian) might want to ponder just how far they must go to appease those who manipulate the block votes in Chicago and Harlem. (T. W.)

Greenwood Commonwealth 6-3-54

Council Says 'No Crowds'

The Greenwood city council yesterday issued a statement saying that no large crowds will be allowed on city streets in "view of recent events."

The statement:

"Because of present public excitement resulting from recent events, no large organized groups, white or colored, will be allowed on the public streets or sidewalks of the City of Greenwood for the time being."

J. M.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
p. 6A
Date: APR 2 1963

Greenwood Move Lost by Justice Dept.

6A

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 1 (AP)—A Federal judge today turned down the Justice Department's request for a court order banning interference with Negro voter registration efforts here.

Sitting in a regular session of Federal court at Aberdeen, Miss., Judge Claud Clayton said the Justice Department reqeust was not "sufficient to warrant trampling on the rights" of Grenwood and Leflore County officials.

His refusal, in eect, puts off a decision on the Justice Department's suit until after a formal hearing. He set the hearing for 10 a. m. Thursday in Federal court at Greenville, Miss.

Meanwhile, developments in the simmering civil rights controversy unfolded quietly in this Delta cotton country town in northwest Mississippi. Negroes went to the courthouse in small groups to apply for voter registration. Wooden barricades used last week to thwart mass marches were down. Traffic flowed normally.

County officials resumed a full-scale program of giving out surplus food to needy families. The program is financed by the Federal government, and the operation resumed under the government's threat to take over if county officials didn't get it under way.

Clayton issued his ruling between sessions of a car theft trial. He said he had studied the suit during a noon recess.

"I consider that the proper way to deal with this matter and give reasonable consideration to the rights of all parties is for a show cause order to be entered," he said.

When the Justice Department filed suit Saturday for a temporary restraining order, Greenwood officials had said they would continue their normal procedure — breaking up mass marches but permitting registration in small groups.

In Jackson, Gov. Ross Barnett said he was behind Greenwood officials.

"The election of the Kennedys does not amend the constitution," Barnett said in a statement, "and I shall stand by the officials of Greenwood to assist them in the exercise of their lawful rights."

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 2, 1963 Greenwood Commonwealth FIVE CENTS

Police Jail Negro, Gregory Moved On

'March' Disperses On Orders From Chief After Church Rally

City police arrested a 19-year-old Negro at the courthouse this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct when he refused to obey an officer and move on.

Placed under arrest and now in the city jail is Landy McNair of Jackson.

Later officials said McNair was picked up during the demonstration this morning and taken to the city jail where he was questioned by the deputy state fire marshall.

The questioning, officials added, was in regard to a fire that happened here. After the questioning McNair was released.

At the same time Negro Dick Gregory was escorted across the street by police when he refused to move, claiming he didn't know the way. Officers told the Chicago Negro they would be glad to show him the way.

Gregory left the courthouse at the head of the line of about 30 to 40 Negroes. When the group crossed Fulton Street they were met by three policemen who told them to break up into smaller groups with some going straight ahead and others to the right.

The group refused to move and stood face to face with the officers for about four minutes. Gregory told the officers: "I am waiting for the peoplee I came with. I don't know the way."

One of the officers then took the comedian by the arm and headed across Market Street with him. When they arrived on the other side of the street Gregory waited for several Negro women and then started down Fulton Street toward the C & G Railway.

The arrest of McNair today is the first this week on a charge of breach of the peace. Last week 11 Negroes were arrested and eight were convicted on this charge and sentenced to a $200 fine and a four month jail sentence.

Gregory arrived in Greenwood last night and spoke at a rally at the Wesley Methodist Church. More than a 1,000 people turned out at the rally.

During the rally Gregory said, "If what has been happening here had happened anywhere else in the world, America would be at war".

This morning Gregory met with the Negroes at the SNCC headquarters where they started out walking for the courthouse. The group of about 40 was stopped three blocks away by Police Chief Curtis Lary who told them they would have to break up into smaller groups.

Charles McDew, SNCC committee worker, told Lary: "you are interferring with our right of assembly and association."

The group then dispersed and proceeded to the courthouse by car.

Gregory told newsmen at the courthouse he was in Greenwood to apply for a license plate and would leave for Clarksdale for a rally tonight.

✣ ✣ ✣

Judge Sets Hearing On

Butts Gave Away Plays, Says Prober

ATLANTA AP) — Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook reported to Gov. Carl E. Sanders today that Wallace Butts gave advance information to Paul Bryant on last Septembers Georgia-Alabama football game which was "unethical, improper and unsportsmanlike."

"The furnishing of such information might well have vitally affected the outcome of the game in points and the margin of victory,' Cook said in a summation of his findings after a two week investigation.

Sanders ordered the investigation after the Saturday Evening Post charged in its March 23 issue that there was collusion to affect the outcome of the game between Butts, recenly resigned as Georgia athletic director, and Bryant, the University of Alabama coach.

Alabama won the game 35-0.

Cook said it had been established that George Burnett, Atlanta insurance salesman, had been accidentally cut in on a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant and heard the Georgian giving information on his universitys plays.

'The undisputed evidence produced in my investigation,' Cook said, "conclusively shows that a telephone conversation was made from Coach Wally Butts in Atlanta to Coach Bryant on Sept. 13, 1962.

"The telephone company records establish the fact of this phone call and that the conversation between the two lsted approximately 16 minutes, in which there was an exchange of conversation regarding football plays formations and techniques which might be employed by Coach John Griffith in the game between Georgia and Alabama on Sept. 22.

"It is established that this telephone conversation was intercepted by George Burnett, who made notation of the same."

Cook said the evidence clearly indicates that the conversation was not "casual and general football conversation."

"This fact is established and coroborated by Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama, in a letter to Dr. O.C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia, dated March 6, 1963.

"The conversation as recorded pened here. After the questioning McNair was released.

At the same time Negro Dick Gregory was escorted across the street by police when he refused to move, claiming he didn't know the way. Officers told the Chicago Negro they would be glad to show him the way.

Gregory left the courthouse at the head of the line of about 30 to 40 Negroes. When the group crossed Fulton Street they were met by three policemen who told them to break up into smaller groups with some going straight ahead and others to the right.

The group refused to move and stood face to face with the officers for about four minutes. Gregory told the officers: "I am waiting for the peoplee I came with. I don't know the way."

One of the officers then took the comedian by the arm and headed across Market Street with him. When they arrived on the other side of the street Gregory waited for several Negro women and then started down Fulton Street toward the C & G Railway.

The arrest of McNair today is the first this week on a charge of breach of the peace. Last week 11 Negroes were arrested and eight were convicted on this charge and sentenced to a $200 fine and a four month jail sentence.

Gregory arrived in Greenwood last night and spoke at a rally at the Wesley Methodist Church. More than a 1,000 people turned out at the rally.

During the rally Gregory said, "If what has been happening here had happened anywhere else in the world, America would be at war".

This morning Gregory met with the Negroes at the SNCC headquarters where they started out walking for the courthouse. The group of about 40 was stopped three blocks away by Police Chief Curtis Lary who told them they would have to break up into smaller groups.

Charles McDew, SNCC committee worker, told Lary: "you are interferring with our right of assembly and association."

The group then dispersed and

✣ ✣ ✣

Judge Sets Hearing On U. S. Motion

A federal judge has rejected a Justice Department request for an immediate court order barring interference with Negro marches to the courthouse here.

But U.S. Dist. Judge Claude F. Clayton of Tupelo plans a hearing on the matter Thursday at Greenvile, Miss.

Clayton, who took timeout during a car theft trial in federal court at Aberdeen Monday to hear the Justice Department request, said it was "not sufficient to warrant trampling on the rights" of Greenwood and Leflore County officials. He said he wanted to hear both sides of the case.

✣ ✣ ✣

Says Prober

ATLANTA AP) — Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook reported to Gov. Carl E. Sanders today that Wallace Butts gave advance information to Paul Bryant on last Septembers Georgia-Alabama football game which was "unethical, improper and unsportsmanlike."

"The furnishing of such information might well have vitally affected the outcome of the game in points and the margin of victory,' Cook said in a summation of his findings after a two week investigation.

Sanders ordered the investigation after the Saturday Evening Post charged in its March 23 issue that there was collusion to affect the outcome of the game between Butts, recenly resigned as Georgia athletic director, and Bryant, the University of Alabama coach.

Alabama won the game 35-0.

Cook said it had been established that George Burnett, Atlanta insurance salesman, had been accidentally cut in on a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant and heard the Georgian giving information on his universitys plays.

'The undisputed evidence produced in my investigation,' Cook said, "conclusively shows that a telephone conversation was made from Coach Wally Butts in Atlanta to Coach Bryant on Sept. 13, 1962.

"The telephone company records establish the fact of this phone call and that the conversation between the two lsted approximately 16 minutes, in which there was an exchange of conversation regarding football plays formations and techniques which might be employed by Coach John Griffith in the game between Georgia and Alabama on Sept. 22.

"It is established that this telephone conversation was intercepted by George Burnett, who made notation of the same."

Cook said the evidence clearly indicates that the conversation was not "casual and general football conversation."

"This fact is established and coroborated by Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama, in a letter to Dr. O.C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia, dated March 6, 1963.

"The conversation, as recorded by Burnett in his notes dealt with specific offensive and defensive formations, patterns, plays, and information with respect to players of the University of Georgia football team."

Cook said he had questioned all members of the Georgia athletic staff, with the exception of Charlie Trippi, and members of the football team to determine the value and importance of information alleged to have been conveyed from Butts to Bryant with respect to the plays and the formations.

Cook said the letter from Rose to Aderhold "confirms the fact that the telephone conversations between Butts and Bryant took place and that offensive and defensive plays of the Georgia team were discussed."

Moses Hedges On Draft Status, Conscientious Objections Nixed

One of eight Negroes convicted last week on a breach of the peace charge said today he wasn't sure about his status as a conscientious objector.

Robert Moses, field secretary for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee said from his Leflore County jail cell that it was a personal matter and he didn't care to talk about it.

Moses, a resident of New York City, was classified by his New York draft board as a 1-A on June 14, 1961. Upon notification of his classification he appealed, claiming he was a conscientious objector.

January 8, of ths year T. Oscar Smith, chief of the Department of Justice's Conscientious Objector section denied Moses' request for that status and informed him that he had 30 days to appeal the ruling.

Moses said from his cell: "I don't believe in war. This is something that came about back in 1957, It's a personal matter and I don't care to talk about it."

He appeared to be uncertain about his status in the draft and refused to answer whether or not he planned to appeal the ruling or had already appealed it.

He did say, however, that his belief isn't based upon religious conviction.

Moses was one of eight out of state Negroes convicted last week in city court on a charge of breach of peace. He was fined $200 and sentenced to four months in the county jail.

During the past year he has been working in Mississippi with the SNCC voter registration campaign.

In the summer of 1962 he toured the state with Carl Braden of Louisville, Kentucky who has served time in a federal prison on a contempt of Congress charge involving investigations by the House UnAmerican Activities Committee.

Braden has also been convicted in his hometown of dynamiting his house in order to cause a racial incident. Braden and Moses spent about three weeks together in the state, part of that time was spent in Greenwood and Bolivar County.

file Leflore

D.C. Post 4/2/63 Lindsay Pearson

The Right to Vote

No part of the United States Constitution is more simple, straighforward, readily understandable or unequivocal than the 15th Amendment, ratified in 1870. It says: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude." No legal learning is needed to comprehend this plain statement. No doubt exists about its purpose. As everyone knew when it was adopted, it was meant to confer specifically upon the recently emancipated black men the basic right of American citizenship, the right to vote.

That right has never been fully realized for Negroes. In some states, Mississippi conspicuous among them, the right to vote has been denied precisely on account of race and directly by state action. There is really no room for doubt that this is exactly what has been happening in Leflore County, Miss., in the past few days. An effort by Negro leaders to register qualified Negro voters so that they can exercise their right of franchise has been resisted, in some instances with violence, by state officials acting under the color of law. The United States Department of Justice could not, in good conscience, have ignored the situation a moment longer. It had a clear obligation to intervene, as it now has done.

Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi says that the Department of Justice suit "is bottomed not on law, but on politics," and Mayor Charles Sampson of Greenwood, Miss., says that the suit does not surprise him because it is the Government's "policy to support the agitators." No doubt there is an element of truth in what they say, although it is very doubtful that either of them quite realizes what he has said. When one considers what the agitators are agitating for in Greenwood, one must ask how the Federal Government could do other than support them. And when one thinks of the political implications of what is happening in Greenwood, one can readily understand Senator Eastland's dismay.

Negroes outnumber whites by about two to one in Leflore County; yet the county vote rolls contain the names of only 400 registered Negro voters as compared with 6400 white voters. If Negroes were registered throughout Mississippi in proportion to population, it probably would not be good news for Senator Eastland. Perhaps his opposition to what is going on down there is "bottomed on politics."

file Tuflare Clips 4-2-63

lution introduced for this purpose. My distinguished colleague, the senior Senator from Ohio [Mr. LAUSCHE] and other Senators joined me as coauthors. That joint resolution was reintroduced on the opening day for receiving resolutions and bills in the present Congress.

Mr. President, the facts are that on July 23, 1962, only a short time before the joint resolution was introduced in this Chamber by me and cosponsored by my colleague [Mr. LAUSCHE] and other Senators, the Plain Dealer, a great newspaper in Cleveland, Ohio, and in our Nation, published an excellent article on Winston Churchill. The article was entitled, "Hero of Two Nations." Its author was Kay Halle.

Miss Halle is one of the outstanding women in the United States. She is a personable television and radio commentator, a journalist, an author, and a world traveler of note. Not only is she at the present time one of the world's outstanding women, but also during World War II she served her country in an executive capacity in the Office of Strategic Services. In recent years she has been serving the administration as a member of President Kennedy's Advisory Committee on the Arts.

Miss Halle, of Cleveland, Ohio, first met Winston Churchill in 1931. At that time she was writing a column from London for the Cleveland News. During her stay in England in the following years, she spent many weekends at Chartwell with the Churchill family. She recalled those years, 30 years later, in her article published in the Plain Dealer.

In that article she wrote of the contribution and the service which Winston Churchill had rendered to his nation, to the United States and, in fact, to all the nations of the free world. She suggested that it would be fitting if the President of the United States, under an act of Congress, should bestow upon Winston Churchill honorary citizenship of this country.

When the word goes out from Washington that the President of the United States has issued such a proclamation—and it will be issued very shortly, due to the authorization by both bodies of the Congress—it will be a fitting honor, and, I fear, one of the final honors which will come to this great citizen of the world.

I invite attention, Mr. President, to the fact that although many resolutions have been introduced in both bodies to confer honorary citizenship upon Winston Churchill, we should recall at this time that Kay Halle of Ohio was the person who first suggested that this be done.

We can all take some satisfaction that this action, without precedent in the history of our country, has taken place; and that, in his final days on this earth, Winston Churchill, former Prime Minister of England, former leader of the free world, is an honorary citizen of the United States.

Mr. LAUSCHE and Mr. DIRKSEN addressed the Chair.

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. I yield first to my distinguished senior colleague.

Mr. LAUSCHE. Mr. President, I merely wish to commend my colleague for the beautiful remarks he has made with respect to Sir Winston Churchill. I was glad to join him in sponsorship of the measure. I am prouder now, knowing that the objective is reaching its achievement, to be a sponsor along with him of this very fine measure. I commend him for the remarks he has made.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. I yield to the Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DIRKSEN. I should afford full credit to the distinguished Senators from Ohio and West Virginia for having introduced the measures in the Senate.

I was directed by the Committee on the Judiciary this morning to report the House bill and ask for its passage, because the Senate bill carried a preamble. Since there was a variance as between texts, the Senate bill would have had to go to conference. Time was of the essence. Therefore, we submitted the House version, and the bill was passed today.

I am deeply grateful to my friend from Ohio for having taken cognizance of this matter quite some time ago.

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. The distinguished minority leader has, from the beginning, been enthusiastic in his support of this measure, and all Americans can be grateful to him for the fact that, largely due to his leadership, this action was taken today.

The bill will go immediately to the White House, and very shortly Winston Churchill will be made an honorary citizen of the United States.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield once more?

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. Yes, indeed.

Mr. DIRKSEN. Since the Constitution of the United States allows for no titles of nobility, I think the record ought to show that, here, he will be Mr. Winston Churchill.

Mr. YOUNG of Ohio. I agree. Like the distinguished Senator from Illinois, I have no truck with titles of nobility.

THE SITUATION IN GREENWOOD, MISS.

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, I desire to speak briefly concerning the situation at Greenwood, Miss., largely a factual statement, and I prefer not to yield until I have finished my brief statement, at which time I shall be glad to yield.

The public statements about the situation at Greenwood made by outside agitators and picked up and circulated by the newspapers, radio, and television, have painted a very unfair and wholly misleading picture.

I am not saying the newspapers gave slanted accounts—certainly not all of them—but the statements themselves were slanted, and as reflected through this medium, gave a very unfair and wholly misleading picture. Also, these statements are an unjust vilification of the fine people and public officials of Greenwood and Leflore County.

The facts are simple. The people of Greenwood are the innocent victims of organized pressure groups imported into Greenwood from outside Mississippi, hundreds and thousands of miles away. Under the guise of assisting the local Negro people in registering to vote, these professional troublemakers have organized one of the most bitter hate campaigns ever devised in this country. In conducting these meetings, they have gone out of their way to flaunt their organized mobs and publicize their intentions to secure the widest possible public notice and to create all possible resentment. In short, they have purposely inflamed the public mind, through their meetings, their organized mob marches on the courthouse, and their wild charges and speeches. They have misled not only the local Negroes they profess to be assisting, but they have misled the people of the Nation into believing there is a wholesale effort on the part of local city and county officials to prevent the local Negroes from registering to vote.

The fact, however, is that the circuit clerk, Mrs. Martha Turner Lamb, a fine public official, has received the applications for registration offered by those who presented themselves.

If I may add a statement at this point, it should not be in order for mobs of people to congregate and push themselves as a group into the office of any public official, much less the office of a lady public official; and it should not be in order to do so anywhere, and make immediate demands on the lady official, or any other official, so far as that is concerned, for immediate mass attention and immediate favorable response to their requests, whatever they may be. If we have reached the point where that is the rule to be followed, we have reached the point where we no longer have law and government.

Those found by Mrs. Lamb to be qualified for registration, according to the laws of the State of Mississippi, have been registered. The office of the circuit clerk, the registrar, is open each day. Each day, a number of qualified applicants have been registered. Last week, during 1 day alone, I am advised that 50 Negro applicants were actually registered to vote.

I do not know that all 50 had applied that day—there has to be an examination—but I am told that at least that many were put on the rolls that day. Others registered as late as yesterday.

Of course, the law does not permit any organized group, white or Negro, to form in the middle of a public street in the business district of the city of Greenwood, blocking, traffic and disturbing the peace and good order of the community, and march shouting to the courthouse, creating further violence every step of the way.

And of course, this is what the officials of the city of Greenwood have stopped. They have the legal duty and responsibility to maintain law and order, to quell disturbances, to keep traffic moving and to arrest those disturbing the peace. They have not interfered with an attempt of any person to enter the courthouse or the county registrar's office, individually or in small groups, to make an application to register to vote.

But, in the face of these facts, the Justice Department has filed a suit, with many requests for the court to enter orders against the local officials.

The Justice Department should stop its well-known practice of filing suits right and left whenever a member of some minority group makes an allegation unsupported by proof, and contrary to the facts. The Federal Government does not have a monopoly on protecting constitutional rights. Under the facts, it has no authority whatever in this matter in the city of Greenwood. Our State and local governments have the responsibility for maintaining law and order; and Greenwood, Miss., and Leflore County are doing this very thing under the most difficult circumstances.

The law-abiding citizens of a peaceful community like Greenwood rightfully look to their local public officials to maintain law and order and to protect them from unlawful invasions and breaches of the peace.

In connection with this very suit, I should like to turn briefly, not merely to what I might say about the situation, but to what Judge Claude F. Clayton said yesterday at the regular term of court in Mississippi, in passing on the application of the Justice Department for a temporary restraining order against these very officers I have been talking about.

Judge Clayton is one of the outstanding Federal judges in the entire Nation. I assure my colleagues that I know Judge Clayton personally, and have known him for a long time. He is an experienced, able judge. He had served on the bench before he was appointed a Federal judge. He is a man of firm convictions. He is resolute by nature. He has the greatest professional pride and also the highest judicial pride. He represents integrity on and off the bench.

As I have said, in hearing this matter yesterday, on a temporary basis, Judge Clayton very properly ruled that the request of the Justice Department was not sufficient to "warrant trampling on the rights" of these officials, and he refused to take any action pending a full hearing on the merits on Thursday of this week.

In announcing his action, Judge Clayton said:

> I detest any action on the part of anyone which interferes in any way with any right of any person which is given and protected by law.
>
> This includes the right to register and the right to vote, provided the standards now rightfully established by the laws of the State of Mississippi are met.
>
> These are the rights which belong to all of us. These are the rights which belong to the city of Greenwood, its officials and its police officers and to the officers of Leflore County.

Mayor Charles E. Sampson, of Greenwood, has rightfully announced his intention to keep law and order in Greenwood, Mayor Sampson and City Commissioners B. A. Hammond and W. G. Mize, Jr., have done an outstanding job in dealing with this most difficult situation.

The chief of police, Curtis Lary, has taken precautions to prevent breaches of the peace, and has repeatedly made a public announcement to these groups, as follows:

> Because of present public excitement resulting from recent events here, it is considered necessary to peace and order that no large organized groups be allowed on the streets of Greenwood. Therefore, you must disperse. If it is your purpose to go to the courthouse to apply for voter registration, you will not be prevented from doing so but in order to insure that there will be no breach of the peace you must proceed in smaller groups.

This is a step which is absolutely necessary in order to maintain law and order under the most difficult circumstances and tremendous provocation.

The real issue is whether unwanted and unwelcome outside organizers, vote peddlers and pressure groups will be permitted to invade a peaceful community for the sole purpose of creating turmoil and disturbing the peace.

These professional troublemakers are not interested in Greenwood, in Leflore County, or in Mississippi. Nor are they truly interested in the welfare of the Negro citizens of that community. Nor are they welcome or wanted by either race. Their sole purpose is to create strife and discord and to overturn the peaceful and harmonious cooperation among the people of the two races built up over generations.

These people, representing the so-called Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, CORE, and other notorious busybodies, had hardly parked their cars in Greenwood before they were sending telegrams to Washington calling for Federal troops.

As is usual in such cases, once the trouble starts these paid professional agitators will be satisfied and will move on elsewhere to start new battles and new tensions, leaving behind them the turmoil and unrest they were paid to create. Unfortunately, they also will leave to the local people of both races the hopeless task of repairing the damage and attempting to restore the peaceful and harmonious cooperation between the races built up over the years.

The people of Greenwood are not responsible for the situation in which they find themselves. They have acted in good faith, with remarkable patience and admirable restraint, under the most extreme provocation.

I am confident the duly constituted law enforcement officers of the city of Greenwood and Leflore County will continue to maintain law and order.

To the degree that I have kept in touch with these gentlemen during this ordeal, I can say that they are carrying this added responsibility, and have uniformly obtained certain assurances which were supported by action from day to day.

I think the public will soon realize what is happening and will no longer follow these schemes of publicity and building up of false issues and the carrying out of such planned provocation.

Instead of the Federal Government filing suits against local authorities, if they are going to be there at all, they ought to be standing side by side or at least encouraging them to follow a pattern of their own law as made by the legislature and as written in the regular constitutional way and in the processes of self-government, and to maintain law and order and orderly processes of government in that way.

Heretofore all the complaint has been directed to the charge that local forces do not maintain law and order. In this case the entire pattern has been within the processes of the law, according to the statutes, and action through duly constituted authority.

If that is not protection through local government and self-government and representative government and free government, I do not know where we can turn for an example of it.

I warn the people of this Nation against taking a superficial and surface impression, artificially created. They should look to the facts and determine the real issues and to get down to the heart of the problem.

Instead of condemning, we should command. I believe that the filing of suits of injunction against all the officers is an invitation to violence and an invitation for some group outside the law to act for themselves.

I hope that this matter will be reconsidered. In the meantime I urge the people of the city of Greenwood and the county of Leflore, through their officials, to stand their ground and continue, of course, to follow their course as in the past.

Mr. EASTLAND. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. STENNIS. I am glad to yield to my colleague from Mississippi.

Mr. EASTLAND. As my colleague realizes, there has been no allegation that an attempt has been made to prevent people from registering.

Mr. STENNIS. The Senator is correct. I have not had an opportunity to read the bill of particulars in the suit that has been filed. Perhaps the Senator has.

Mr. EASTLAND. There has been no allegation of that kind; in fact, 300 persons have applied to register in the past few days. Those who are qualified will be registered. There is no such contention as has been suggested. Outside agitators from New York and other areas talk to Negroes and say, "If you want to get relief, if you want to get social security, if you want to get commodities, come with us." Then they take them in a body and parade them down the street, demonstrating and stopping all traffic, walking through red lights, and being taken to the courthouse. The only obstacle has been that they cannot demonstrate, they cannot stop traffic, they cannot violate the the ordinances of that city. When they reach the courthouse they can go to the clerk's office at any time and make their application, as provided by the laws of our State.

Judge Clayton is a great lawyer. I agree with my colleague that he is one of the great judges of this country. Charley Sampson, the mayor, has rendered distinguished service. The chief of police has done a good job. The city attorney has done a good job. There is no allegation anywhere that an attempt has been made to prevent these people from applying for registration. In fact, they have come forward by the hundreds to do so. They have been there at the instance of outside agitators who say, "You cannot get relief, you cannot get social security, you cannot get commodities unless you follow us, and follow us down the main street, against red lights, and deprive the citizens of the city of the right to govern their own affairs."

The suit which the Department of Justice has filed is not a voting rights suit. The question is, Can the people maintain order on the streets of their own city?

Mr. STENNIS. Through their own officials.

Mr. EASTLAND. Of course; through their own officials. That is the test. Judge Clayton was eminently correct in his decision.

Mr. STENNIS. I thank my colleague.

This situation can come close to home in the case of each of us in Washington in our official offices. It can come much closer home than anyone might think. Only last week some of this same group that is in Greenwood, Miss.—perhaps not the same individuals, but individuals with the same connections—showed up in our offices in the Senate Office Building, to parade and picket and make a show. The way we learned about the probable presence of these people in our offices was through the members of the Senate Press Gallery, who called and said, "Have they gotten there?"

The response was, "Whom are you talking about?"

We were told, "We have been called by this group and they said they were going to picket your offices."

The purpose is to make a show of publicity, to create a disturbance, and to create a false issue, merely to carry a point or to create a disturbance and mislead the American people.

It is pitiful to me—and I say this with the greatest respect to our news media—that items like this can be instantly picked up and publicized in every living room or drawing room, and on every newsstand all over the Nation, causing the public to fall victims to such misleading tactics and to planning of this kind.

It is a severe strain upon free government.

Mr. EASTLAND. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. STENNIS. I yield.

Mr. EASTLAND. I live close to the city of Greenwood. I was in Greenwood several days last week. I speak with firsthand knowledge. This demonstration had not caught on. There is not the tension in Greenwood that has been pictured in the eastern press. The movement is not supported by a majority of the Negro race or by a majority of the white race; in fact, it is condemned by a majority of the Negro race. The Justice Department action was merely an attempt to rescue a drowning baby. It is not possible to get citizens of the Negro race from the city of Greenwood to participate. So the instigators have gone into the rural areas and have contacted Negroes who want commodities and have said, "Join with us, and we will lead you to the promised land, provided you march down the street, obstruct traffic, walk a red light, and go to the court house."

Those acts of walking down the street and obstructing traffic are the heart of the suit that has been filed.

Mr. STENNIS. I thank the Senator.

The officers, the board of aldermen, the mayor, the police, the city attorney, and others, are due the commendations and the appreciation of the whole body of people of the Nation, especially those who appreciate the difficulty that is always present when any kind of agitation starts which would try to pit the races one against the other.

I feel certain that every Senator, if he understood the situation, would join with me in heartily commending the action taken by those officials. I hope they will continue their pattern of conduct; I believe they will.

AMENDMENT OF FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1961—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT (H. DOC. NO. 94)

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. EDMONDSON in the chair) laid before the Senate a message from the President of the United States, transmitting a draft of proposed legislation to amend further the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, and for other purposes, which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

(For message from the President, see House proceedings of today).

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President——

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, a parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TOWER. Mr. President, will the Senator from Arizona yield?

Mr. GOLDWATER. I yield.

Mr. TOWER. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Arizona yield for that purpose?

Mr. GOLDWATER. I yield for that purpose, with the understanding that I do not lose the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That will be the understanding. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. TOWER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, I have agreed to yield to the Senator from Alaska, with the understanding that I will not lose my place on the floor.

WHY STAND IN THE WAY OF CUBA'S FREEDOM FIGHTERS?

Mr. GRUENING. Mr. President, yesterday, while the able senior Senator from Oregon [Mr. MORSE] was criticizing the Cuban refugees for their raids on Castro's Cuba, I engaged in a colloquy with him in which I expressed my sympathy for, and understanding of, these courageous freedom fighters who feel impelled at the risk of their lives to strike whatever blows they can at Castro's totalitarian tyranny and its ruthless and bloody suppression of the liberties of the Cuban people.

While I did not engage in a lengthy discussion with the Senator, who was making his customarily effective presentation of the legal and other aspects of these raids, condemning them unqualifiedly, I sought to indicate my view that there was another side to this issue, and that I was not convinced of the correctness of his view and of the position which the administration appears to be taking that these raids should at all costs be prevented by the United States.

I was therefore interested to note in this morning's Washington Post a column entitled "The Cuban Raids," with the subtitle "Why Stand in the Way?" written by Roscoe Drummond. The article expresses a view with which I find myself in general accord. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed at this point in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE CUBAN RAIDS—WHY STAND IN THE WAY?

(By Roscoe Drummond)

Many Americans must feel both confused and frustrated by the difference between what the administration says about Castro's Cuba and what it does.

Unquestionably President Kennedy seeks the goal of a "free Cuba." He told the released Cuban invasion prisoners on their return to Florida that he was confident their battalion flag would fly victoriously in Havana.

But when those Cubans hit at the Castro and Soviet forces, the President wants them to stop it.

Vice President LYNDON JOHNSON tells the graduating class of the Inter-American Defense College that we "cannot be content until communism is gone from Cuba."

But when the Cuban refugees, who are intent upon wresting their freedom from those who have taken it from them, take action to do something about it, the highest officials of the administration express only disapproval.

Thus far President Kennedy has given no adequate explanation as to why he does not want the anti-Castro Cubans to fight the Castro-Soviet forces at any point they can make contact.

Until the administration makes a more persuasive case against the Cuban refugees harassing their oppressors every chance they get, my instinct is on the side of the refugees.

I think a good case can be made that the refugee raids are useful and that we ought not to discourage them or stand in the way.

We say we want the Castro regime overthrown. We say that only the Cuban people can bring it about. With those two conditions, who is to begin the process unless it is the Cuban refugees?

You may believe that the hit-and-run raids are only insignificant, bedeviling pinpricks. So were Castro's first hit-and-run attacks on Batista. The only way to begin is to begin.

Remember Hungary? Surely any prudent man could have told the latent and fer-

file Leflore Clips 4-2-63

menting Hungarian freedom fighters that it would be fantastically foolhardy for them o consider attacking the occupying Soviet anks with their bare fists and handmade grenades. But they did. You couldn't have prevented them. And despite the ultimate epression, it was a revolt for freedom which as worth all the bravery that went into t. Hungary is better off today for it.

Admittedly there are risks for the United tates in the Cuban hit-and-run raids. astro might sink an American boat in a asm of anger. But might it not be better to deal with such an incident than to say hat the Cuban freedom fighters must not lecide how they shall fight for their freedom?

The administration has said it "will not be content until the last of Soviet forces are withdrawn from Cuban soil." It can be honestly argued that the refugee raids may provide an excuse for Moscow to keep Soviet troops in Cuba. The opposite may be nearer the truth. Is it likely that finding things calm in Cuba will provide any incentive for Khrushchev to call his troops home?

In 1960 Mr. Kennedy proposed that we would do more to help the Cuban resisters both inside and outside Cuba. Now that the refugees are regaining their morale after the Bay of Pigs, it seems ironic, at the very least, that the United States should send the FBI and the Coast Guard after them.

Telling the Cuban resisters what not to do isn't going to further the cause of a free Cuba. If the administration is convinced that the Cuban refugees are doing it wrong, then at the very least it should be making suggestions and helping them to do it right.

THE SITUATION IN GREENWOOD, MISS.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, will the Senator from Arizona yield, provided he does not lose the floor?

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, I yield to the Senator from New York, with the understanding that I do not lose the floor.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, I have been informed that while I was at lunch, the distinguished junior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. STENNIS] made a statement on the Senate floor which at least brings into question the propriety of the action taken by the Attorney General of the United States in connection with the situation in Greenwood, Leflore County, Miss., where the United States is seeking to enjoin local authorities from interfering with a petition by the local citizenry—Negroes, to be precise—for the redress of grievances.

I express my approval of the action of the Attorney General in instituting the suit. I think it was his manifest duty to do so, in view of the fact that constitutional rights are brought into question, including the right of petition for the redress of grievances by constituted authorities. I approve very much of the Attorney General's taking this action.

As a matter of general principle, I have very deep faith in the processes of the law and the courts. I have argued this point before, and I do so again. In the face of situations which have such incendiary possibilities as in this particular area about which the press has written so much, the chances will be very much better for the processes of order and tranquillity if an individual citizen feels that tongue may be given for his grievances through the courts, and that there is a possibility of redress.

The Attorney General is in this civil injunction suit proceeding under section 1971 of title 42 of the United States Code, which was part of the Civil Rights Act of 1957. The important thing, which I wish to emphasize, is that here is an outlet, here is a substitute for either the effort which the marchers are making or the efforts to stop them which are being made by the police and other municipal authorities. In an area where there are the raw materials of violence, the capability of the courts to act in situations of this kind is designed to head them off and to give, as I say, an outlet, a tongue, to every man's grievance.

Therefore, I have always favored strongly the so-called part III in regard to civil rights, so that the Attorney General might sue in representative cases; and I feel very deeply that this is the way to save ourselves from the dangers involved in such situations—dangers which we have already seen erupt into violence, not only like that which occurred at Oxford, Miss., where marshals and troops are employed, but also the danger involved when people are fired on while they are in their homes and the danger involved when buildings are burned. This is no tea party. This situation is very, very dangerous, in terms of the future of the Nation. So anything we can do to give it a peaceful outlet—and I think recourse to the courts is the most logical and most desirable procedure—we should encourage.

Although I respect, and indeed would fight for, the right of the Senator from Mississippi to say whatever he believes he should say, I also feel it my duty to juxtapose to the general thrust of the statement of the Senator from Mississippi—as I understand it from what I have been told by my assistants who heard him make it—this statement of my own position.

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, I should like to say to the Senator from New York that, if I correctly understood him, I am glad he did not substantially contradict the facts I related in regard to the registration—in other words, that the applications were being received and were being passed on, without denying any person the right to file his application in an orderly way and to have it passed on. The Senator from New York does not know of any exception to that general statement, does he?

Mr. JAVITS. I was addressing myself to what we have read in the press about the action of the police and other authorities in blocking and breaking up any march by a number of persons—for example, on one day last week by a group of some 100, and on another by a group of some 42. It is claimed—and the courts will try it out—that in the community there is a climate of intimidation which runs counter to the fundamental provisions of the 1957 Civil Rights Act which prohibit interference with any effort to register and to vote. I say to the Senator from Mississippi that the courts will decide as to that.

For myself, I believe that the path of constitutional propriety is to permit people to march peaceably in order to petition for redress of their grievances.

But the fundamental point I make now is even more limited than that. I only say that if we do not want violence—and I know of no Senator who does want it—in my opinion, people must have an outlet. So I think litigation of this character is a proper and sensible outlet; and I hope very much the Attorney General will prosecute this suit with speed and with diligence.

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, let me say that it would be one thing to bring a suit if someone had been denied an opportunity to file an application or to take the examination or to register, or even had protested and had been arrested on that account, or if someone wanted to test the legality of an arrest. But this is a broadside lawsuit, in the absence of an application by anyone to have the law-enforcement machinery used to enjoin such action. It has not been charged that there has been a violation of anyone's right. It is to that point that I addressed my remarks.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, I only say that when it appears that in a particular community it would be unhealthy for some persons to register and to vote, the U.S. Government has a right to take action. In my opinion, those who at least seemingly make the situation look unhealthy have the burden to withdraw such barriers.

So I think the Attorney General is taking action in that situation; and I am glad he is doing so by means of action of that kind.

U.S. ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT AGENCY—PLAN WITH SOVIET UNION FOR RECIPROCAL BURNING OF OBSOLETE BOMBERS

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. President, at this time I see on the floor the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLARK]. Therefore, I wish to refer now, briefly, to a statement he made yesterday.

Mr. President, yesterday the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLARK], had a number of remarks to make about my efforts to get a straight story from the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency on its plan with the Soviet Union for the reciprocal burning of obsolete bombers. He charged me with doing a "disservice to the cause of peace" by implying that officials of the Disarmament Agency are either guilty of crass dishonesty or are being misunderstood by newspaper reporters. He then went on to make out a case for the fact that the Disarmament Agency officials were misunderstood by newspaper reporters.

Mr. President, the whole episode goes back to March 9, when, in a speech I made in Aurora, Ill., I asked whether it was true that plans were in the making for the reciprocal burning of 30 American B-47's and 30 Russian Badgers, in a giant disarmament demonstration. On March 11, wire service stories which appeared in the newspapers reported:

Atla. Const. 4-2-63 p.10

Mississippi Is Upheld In Voter Bias Case

Leflore Co.

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—A federal judge turned down the Justice Department's request Monday for a court order banning interference with Negro voter registration efforts here.

Sitting in regular session of U.S. District Court at Aberdeen, Miss., Judge Claud Clayton said the Justice department request was not "sufficient to warrant trampling on the rights" of Greenwood and Leflore County officials.

His refusal, in effect, puts off a decision on the Justice department's suit until after a formal hearing. He set the hearing for 10 a.m. Thursday at Greenville, Miss.

In Jackson Gov. Ross Barnett sharply criticized Negro voter demonstrations in racially-tense Greenwood Monday and vowed to stand behind authorities who have dispersed the demonstrators with police dogs and barricades.

Barnett broke his silence on the week-long series of marches in Greenwood in which eight Negroes were arrested with a statement describing the demonstrations as a "loaded bomb resting in a street in the heart of the city."

Meanwhile, developments in the simmering civil rights controversy unfolded quietly in Greenwood, a delta cotton country town in northwest Mississippi. Negroes went to the courthouse in small groups to apply for voter registration. Wooden barricades used last week to thwart mass marches were down. Traffic flowed normally.

County officials resumed a full-scale program of giving out surplus food to needy families.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 3, 1963 Greenwood Commonwealth FIVE CENTS

Police Arrest 19, Ignore Gregory

* * *

19 Arrested Identified

The 19 arrested this morning are:

Ida Hallan, Greenwood; Eric Rainey, Chicago; Lucius Ledbetter, Greenwood; Willie Wilson, Greenwood; Levi Hamilton Greenwood; L. H. Hancock, Greenwood; Robert Stuart, Greenwood; James Sanders, Chicago; Mary Booth, Greenwood; Lucius DeBerry, Greenwood; Louis Cooper, Greenwood; Henry Smith, Greenwood; Alberta Brown. Greenwood; Rev. Robert Kinleth of Brooklyn New York; John Turner, Greenwood Oscar Broom, Chicago; Mathew Hughes, Greenwood; Henry Gilmore, Greenwoood and Willie McGee of Greenwood.

This is the second time Smith has been arrested being one of the original 11 picked up last week by the police and later released.

"I will stay here in Greenwood until the federal government moves in and guarantees all the Negroes the right to go to the courthouse ad register," he said.

Prior to the start of the march this morning from the Student Non-Violent Coordinating office, Donald Stewart Harris, 19, Negro SNCC worker from Jackson, was served a subpoena by a U.S. Marshall to appear in court tomorrow in Greenville at 10 a. m. for the federal hearing against Greenwood.

The subpoena listed John Doar, assistant U. S. Attorney general for civil rights as attorney for the plaintiff.

Doar arrived here last night. This morning he spent about an hour and half in the county jail talking with the eight Negroes convicted last week in city court. After he left, another attorney with the department of justice resumed conferring with the eight.

The march by the Negroes started from the SNCC headquarters late in the morning. When they were arrested by the police it was 10:30 a.m. about one hour from closing time at the Circuit Clerk's office for lunch.

Gregory told newsmen at the police station when he started to leave that he was going to call Martin Luther King, James Farmer and Roy Wilkins to come to Greenwood. All of these men are Negroes working in integration movements.

Gregory added: "I am going now to call the president." asked by newsmen what president he replied, "President Kennedy."

This afternoon bond was set for the 19 arrested at $500 each.

* * *

School Bus Load Taken To County Jail

The police stopped a group of marching Negroes who refused to obey police orders to disperse this morning and arrested 19 of them, taking them to the county jail in a school bus.

"We will not disperse," a Negro girl at the head of the marchers told the police. The group had walked two-by-two on the sidewalk heading for the courthouse.

Police commissioner B. A. Hammond said the Negroes started out from their headquarters on Avenue N. When they were about 10 blocks from the courthouse police chief Curtis Lary, assisted by auxiliary police stoppped the group. Lary told the Negroes they could ride to the courthouse in the school bus, disperse or go home. They refused to do any of these.

At this point officers started putting the Negroes into the bus. One big Negro refused to get in and a police officer spun the Negro around and with the assist of another officer placed him in the bus.

After officers had put the Negroes into the bus one lone figure, Dick Gregory, Negro comedian from Chicago, was left standing there.

The officers then took the bus load to the Leflore County jail where the 19 were booked. They were arrested, city prosecuting attorney Gray Evans said on a charge of disorderly conduct and refusing to obey a police officer in the performance of his duty.

Evans said they were being lodged in the county jail because of the lack of space in the city jail located in the city hall.

Gregory continued on his walk alone accompanied, by newsmen, to the City Hall and police station. He said he came to see about posting bond for the 19 and what the charges were.

He told newsmen there that he had cancelled all his engage-

Congress Has Voting Measure

Sherman Connecticut 4-3-63

WASHINGTON (AP) —Congress has received the Kennedy administration's package of civil rights legislation which Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says is aimed at speeding up registration of Negro voters.

President Kennedy had outlined the program to Congress in a February message to Congress.

The proposed legislation, which Atty. Gen. Kennedy called a four-point "do-it-now" bill to accelerate Negro vote registration, would:

1. Provide for temporary referees to pass on the qualifications of Negro applicants in any county in which court action has been brought charging discrimination against them and in which fewer than 15 per cent of those old enough to vote are actually registered.

2. Require that judges be appointed to handle voting right law suits immediately and that these judges process the cases "in the most expeditious way possible.

3. Require election officials to use the same tests and standards for all applicants seeking to vote in a federal election.

4. Establish a presumption that anyone with a sixth grade education is literate enough to vote in a federal election.

I do, but budget, a large deficit,
I think that we've done about as much as we now can do.
In other years we could,
to do more because this year we held our nondefense expenditures at the same figure as last year.

24 Q.—Mr. President, yesterday, according to reports, comedian Dick Gregory was manhandled by police in Greenwood, Miss. Do you have any comment on the voter registration drive in Greenwood and particularly do you think the Justice Department can do more in terms of speed and effectiveness to enhance the effort down there?

A. No. Well, we've had a suit there since last August against the registrar on the ground of discrimination in voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of the voters themselves, and that's due for a hearing very shortly — perhaps this week. Then I would hope that the court would find that there has been a denial of rights which seems to me evident, but which the court must decide.

Now, if we had been—if we secure the passage of the voting bill, which we sent up to the Congress this week, in the case of the voter registrar case a registrar would be permitted to sit during the period that the case was being considered.

But what we now have is a registrar who is charged with discrimination in denying certain citizens the right to vote, and he's been sitting since last August when our suit was filed, and the suit, because of the law's delay, has not yet been settled.

So that is a area where there is a vacuum in the law, and I would hope we could fill it. But on the subject itself, we have two Federal suits and both of them are very important, and both of them, I hope, will result in actions which will bring justice in Greenwood, Miss.

Q. Thank you, Mr. President.

SERS Library

file Leflore

JM

JACKSON DAILY
NEWS (MISS.)
P.8
Date: APR 3 1963

Restraint In Leflore County

Regarding that oddball invasion under way up in Leflore County, the good citizens up that way are to be commended for their extraordinary coolness and self restraint in the face of provocation.

The people of Jackson, all veterans of a summer-long parade of queers, crackpots, dope heads, prostitutes and the like during our famous "rider" ordeal, extend sympathy and understanding to the residents of Greenwood.

As for that publicity stunt being conducted by Dick Gregory, alleged comedian, the guy might be half funny and worth a few quarters tossed to him in the gutter if he wore a bone in his nose, feathers glued to his head and Mau Mau markings on his cheeks.

Otherwise, if he's trying to mimic a hot show from the Congo he's out of costume.

We urge continued restraint in the Mississippi Delta.

Egypt survived the locusts, and that was before DDT was discovered. Leflore's plague will pass eventually.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

ST. LOUIS
POST DISPATCH
P2D
Date: APR 3 1963

Greenwood's Challenge

Ninety per cent of the whites of voting age but less than 2 per cent of the Negroes are registered in Leflore county, Miss. Negro voting demonstrations have been met with arrests; a minister was bitten by a police dog. Fire damaged the registration headquarters. Against this background the Justice Department seeks a federal injunction against interference with voter registration, and a court will hear the matter Thursday. The suit charges that intimidation of the right to vote means "irreparable damage to the United States." In effect, Leflore county has challenged the Constitution. Though Greenwood's Mayor blames "outside agitators," the delta county itself has invited federal intervention. The outcome is, we think, inevitable.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Doesn't it seem strange that the distinguished comedian, so Bobby Kennedy says, Dick Gregory can find no other engagements except the courthouse lawn in Greenwod.

Comedians are usually booked well in advance for tidy sums of money. Just three years ago this 'emancipator' was first seen on Jack Paar show, where it was reported he was "starving to death' in Chicago when discovered.

We hear he is coming back to Grenwood today. Is he being paid his regular nite club fee by the Justice Department, or is this a show of charity? Maybe he isn't so funny after all and can't get work? In that case stick around Dick. You may be able to join the commodity line. Here in Leflore County we never let anybody starve to death. Even non-funny, agitating commedians.

An eyewitness

Greenwood Commonwealth
4-3-63

Atlanta Const
4-3-63
p. 6

RALPH McGILL

End Brutality By the Ballot

Greenwood, Mississippi, has fired shots heard around the world. There will be no noble poems or statues in bronze to commemorate them.

Gunfire aimed at the small, perhaps symbolic, home of the father of a young man who had sought to enter the state university became paragraphs in the earth-girdling news. This night-riding violence by the witless toughs of Greenwood was followed on the next day by the breaking up by police of a demonstration of protest against the brutalities which have marked attempts at registering as voters. That the protests were peaceful is not denied. That there was no disorder by those exercising a constitutional right peaceably to seek a redress of grievances is also a part of the record. Yet, police broke up the marchers and made arrests charging disorderly conduct.

Here again we have the familiar elements of a great tragedy Southern style. The final act is known before it is played. The qualified voters will be registered in Greenwood, Mississippi. Qualified students will be admitted to the schools and the university. (This is legally true in Alabama and all other regions where the power structure seeks to halt the irresistible momentum.) So we already know what the answer will be. It seems incredible that the sheriff in Greenwood, the mayor, the businessmen, the lawyers, the clergy, are not equally familiar with the inevitable conclusion of the tragedy in which they are all playing roles, visible or invisible. But that men should insist on bringing violence, grief, shame and bitterness to their communities rather than doing what is moral and lawful and what finally must be done is a memorable commentary on the leadership involved.

Human Events

These men should have learned by now that neither gunfire nor jails will halt the momentum of human events and historical changes, and yet we have shotgun blasts by night and street violence aimed at peaceful demonstrations by day. The momentum of change which is in motion all around the world will be hastened in our country by those newly coming to the ballot. The thoughtful Southerner will welcome the qualified Negro to the voting booth. His coming will mean an end to those brutal sheriffs, deputies, mayors and police chiefs whose deeds and methods have for so long a time been a shameful part of the Southern scene. When one citizen has one vote, government will improve in health and character.

One can understand the fury and fear of a mayor or sheriff who sees the line of potential, new citizens at the registration booths. Certainly none of these will vote for retention of brutality or a denial of their constiutional rights. There has not been, and on the face of things, there is not now equal protection of the law.

Negro Population

From Greenwood comes the argument that the Negro population is in a majority. This is true. But the bugaboo image thereby created is false. There would not, for a long time at least, be a majority of Negro voters. The families of the latter are larger. Children do not vote. The educational inadequacies across a span of generations have been such that a high percentage of adults, especially older persons, are not literate enough to qualify. There is not a majority of Negro voters.

What we have in plain view in Mississippi and in other agrarian communities is a massive display of guilt-fear. Why, except for this fearful guilt, would there by any fear of the vote of a qualified citizen? Actually the new Negro voter has more reason to want and seek good government than anyone else. He would not, and does not, vote as a bloc unless his interests are threatened or denied.

If the South could, by a surge of new voters interested in decent, honest government, rid itself of those sheriffs and police chiefs who practice brutal discrimination, would not that be a good thing? Would not the South be a cleaner, better region without them?

Defense Of Greenwood – 4-3-63
Greenwood Commonwealth

Sen. Stennis Blasts Outside Troublemakers In Floor Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mississippi's senator's Tuesday blamed "outside agitators and professional troublemakers" for stirring up federal injunction proceedings against Greenwood and Leflore County, Miss.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., took issue with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's request last week for an injunction to halt interference with Negroes attempting to register to vote in Greenwood.

Stennis told the Senate the injunction request was "a blanket law suit" without basis of fact.

Both he and Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., denied any attempt had been made to prevent Negroes from going individually or in small groups to file applications for registration.

Instead of proceeding to seek registration in this way, they said, agitators formed marching parties of Negroes to parade through the main street, blocking traffic, creating disorders and purposely trying to inflame the public and mislead local Negroes.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said, however, he approved of the attorney general's action.

"When it looks unhealthy in a community on the right to register to vote," Javits said, "the United States has the right to go in there and see that it is healthy to register."

Eastland said there has not been a single allegation of any attempt to keep people from applying to vote. More than 300 applications have been received in the past few days, he said.

"What you've got are outside agitators going around picking up Negroes" with promises of social security, commodities and relief and getting them to march through the city, Eastland said.

He said officials of the city and county have been unjustly condemned for maintaining order.

"That is at the heart of this lawsuit," Eastland added. "It's not a voting rights suit — its a questioning of people maintaining order."

Stennis touched off the denunciations with a prepared speech saying reports stemming from pressure groups have "painted a very unfair and wholly unjust picture" of the people and officials at Greenwood.

Under the guise of assisting Negroes to register, he added, these groups have "organized one of the most bitter hate campaigns ever devised."

Stennis said the Justice Department "should stop its well-known practice of filing suits right and left" whenever a minority group makes an allegation "unsupported by the proof and contrary to the facts."

He charged that people representing "the so-called Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, CORE and other notorious busybodies had hardly parked their cars in Greenwood before they were sending telegrams to Washington calling for federal troops."

Stennis called the injunction suits "an invitation to violence" by some groups outside the law to act for themselves.

4-3-63

I do, ...
budget, a large ...,
I think that we've done about as m[illegible] we now can do. In other years [illegible] to [illegible] because this year we held our nondefense expenditures at the same figure as last year.

24 Q.—Mr. President, yesterday, according to reports, comedian Dick Gregory was manhandled by police in Greenwood, Miss. Do you have any comment on the voter registration drive in Greenwood and particularly do you think the Justice Department can do more in terms of speed and effectiveness to enhance the effort down there?

A. No. Well, we've had a suit there since last August against the registrar on the ground of discrimination in voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of the voters themselves, and that's due for a hearing very shortly — perhaps this week. Then I would hope that the court would find that there has been a denial of rights which seems to me evident, but which the court must decide.

Now, if we had been—if we secure the passage of the voting bill, which we sent up to the Congress this week, in the case of the voter registrar case a registrar would be permitted to sit during the period that the case was being considered.

But what we now have is a registrar who is charged with discrimination in denying certain citizens the right to vote, and he's been sitting since last August when our suit was filed, and the suit, because of the law's delay, has not yet been settled.

So that is a area where there is a vacuum in the law, and I would hope we could fill it. But on the subject itself, we have two Federal suits and both of them are very important, and both of them, I hope, will result in actions which will bring justice in Greenwood, Miss.

Q. Thank you, Mr. President.

Dick Gregory Defies Police in South

Associated Press Wirephoto

Dick Gregory being hurried from the front of the Leflore County Courthouse yesterday morning in Greenwood, Miss.

By CLAUDE SITTON

Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 2—A policeman twisted the left arm of Dick Gregory, the comedian, today and hustled him across the street when he and 15 other Negroes ignored a command to disperse. He was released at once by police officials. They apparently wanted to avoid the controversy his arrest would have aroused. Landy McNair, a 19-year-old voter registration worker from

Continued on Page 39, Column 1

NYT 4-3-63 p. 1

4/3/63

WBC

COMEDIAN DEFIES SOUTHERN POLICE

Continued From Page 1, Col. 3

Jackson, Miss., was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. As Mr. Gregory was pushed away, Mr. McNair shouted to the others, "Don't move, don't anyone move."

The incident took place as 40 or more Negroes marched away by twos from the Leflore County Courthouse shortly before noon after a handful had applied for voter registration. Chief of Police Curtis Lary repeatedly ordered them and white bystanders to break up into smaller groups.

A crowd of whites gathered quickly at the intersection on the southeast corner of the courthouse grounds as a dozen or more policemen and auxiliary policemen halted Mr. Gregory's group. But the whites only looked on curiously and made no move toward the Negroes.

Earlier, Mr. Gregory openly taunted 10 policemen headed by Chief Lary after they had stopped 48 persons marching through a Negro residential section toward the courthouse.

Dispersal Ordered

The chief told the marchers they must disperse into small groups. The Negroes refused and returned to the headquarters of the voter registration drive and took cars to the courthouse.

As a voter registration worker argued with the chief, the Chicago comedian nodded toward the police around him and said, "There's your story, guns and sticks for old women who want to register."

"Look at them," he urged again, "a bunch of illiterate whites who couldn't even pass the test themselves. That's what you see, guns and sticks in America."

The policemen and auxiliary policemen gave no indication that they had heard this challenge to their ability to pass the literacy tests required of prospective voters in Mississippi.

"A disgrace, unbelievable," asserted the entertainer as he turned to follow the line back to headquarters. "There's no law that prevents you from going downtown in a group."

"I think that there are many people all over the world who would not have believed this could have happened," he said.

A radio newsman asked Mr. Gregory if the comedian would be called an "outside agitator" because of his participation in the march.

"No more so than Hitler called Southern white boys outside agitators," Mr. Gregory replied.

Back at the headquarters of the registration drive, Charles McDew explained why the Negroes refused to break up into smaller groups.

"We've taken a position that as citizens of this country we have the right to walk the public streets of Greenwood," he said. "The very act of breaking up the people is an act of intimidation to keep people from registering and voting because many of these people have expressed a fear of going down alone."

Mr. McDew is chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, which began the voter registration drive in this delta agricultural and industrial center of 23,000 persons last August.

The committee is now cooperating with other major civil rights organizations in a saturation drive, which resulted from attempts by whites to discourage the original campaign through violence.

A Justice Department lawyer and six or more agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation observed the turning back of the marchers and their dispersal at the courthouse.

The department will seek a preliminary injunction against the City officials Thursday in Greenville, Miss., before Federal District Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. It would prohibit harassment of the voter registration campaign workers and protect the right of Negroes to assembly peaceably for protest demonstrations.

Another section of the department suit seeks the release of eight voter registration workers. They were arrested last week during a demonstration and given the maximum sentence for disorderly conduct—four months' imprisonment and a $200 fine.

The prisoners include Robert P. Moses of New York, director of the Council of Federated Organizations, the coalition group conducting the registration campaign throughout the Mississippi delta. James Forman of Atlanta, secretary of the Student Coordinating Committee, is also among them.

United Press International Telephoto

URGES NEGROES TO REGISTER: Dick Gregory, the Chicago Negro comedian, at speaker's stand Monday night in a church at Greenwood, Miss. Mr. Gregory has been assisting Negroes seeking to register as voters in the area.

Police Surprise Negro Marchers With Ride Back To Headquarters

Police, under the direction of Fire and Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond, arrested 15 Negroes, including Negro comedian Dick Gregory yesterday, and hauled them back to the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee offices about 10 blocks away.

The 15 Negroes, all thinking they were being taken to the Greenwood city jail, cheered and hollered as they rode off in the police cars, only to be surprised when the officers released them at the SNCC headquarters on Avenuue N.

The demonstration yesterday afternoon was the first such afternoon march staged since 11 Negroes were arrested last Wednesday.

During the morning police broke up a march of about 40 Negroes as they left the courthouse at 11:30. Leading the group was Gregory. When he reached the intersection of Fulton and Market streets officers started breaking the group up, sending two or three in different directions. It was at this point that Gregory was assisted across the street by a policeman after he had complained he didn't know the way.

The demonstration in the afternoon started the same way as the morning march. The Negroes started appearing at the courthouse about 90 minutes before closing time Two went on into the courthouse to take the voter registration test and the remainder waited outside with the Negro comedian.

As the court house clock struck 4:30 p. m. police chief Curtis Lary announced to the Negroes: "We willl not interfere with genuine applications to register. If you plan to return to the courthouse, you may do so in an orderly fashion We will not allow any large groups to march through the streets."

At this point the 40 Negroes led by Gregory and a Negro woman started away from the courthouse, turning right toward Cotton Sreet. At the intersection of Cotton and Market they turned south onto Cotton and started walking.

This was a new route for the marchers and police allowed them to continue. At the intersection of Cotton and Church the large group was split into two groups of 20 and 22. Commissioner Hammond said "we will let them go on like this just as long as they don't try to turn and go into the main business district.'

When they reached the corner of Cotton and W. Henry Streets officers started to break the group up again. They stopped the group and directed some to go straight ahead and some to the left. at this point a young SNCC worker started creating a ruckus, telling the Negroes to all go the same direction. He was picked up by police officers bodily and placed in a police car. Several minutes later a second SNCC worker was picked up by the police. Both were whisked away thinking they were headed to jail, but were let out at the Avenue N. Headquarters of SNCC.

The remainder of the group continued to intersection of W. Henry and Fulton where they stood on the corner for about 10 minutes.

Chief Lary, using his new famous bullhorn, said, "you will move and disperse or you will be placed under arrest." Lary repeated his order and then called for his car.

The two Negroes at the head of the line were put in the car and Gregory volunteered to go to jail with them. Instead of jail the officers took the Negroes to their voter registration headquarters. This same process continued with officers taking them away four at a time until they had taken about 15.

Commissioner Hammond said the Negroes were technically under arrest while in the police car, but no one was taken to the city jail and no charges were ever placed against any of the 15.

Meanwhile it became apparent that Gregory had come to Greenwood with the intention of being placed under arrest.

Shortly after 1:30 P. M. Yesterday Commissioner W. G. Mize answered the telephone in the police department and the long distance operator asked for Gregory.

Mize informed the operator the comedian was not there and that she had called the police department. The party at the other end of the line said he had been given that number by Gregory as the number at which he could be reached that afternoon.

Greenwood Commonwealth
4-3-63

p. 22

19 NEGROES HELD; GREGORY SPARED

Comedian Leads March in Greenwood, Miss.

By CLAUDE SITTON

Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 3—The police arrested 19 Negroes today as they marched toward the Leflore County Court House behind Dick Gregory, the comedian.

But the police refused for the second day to take Mr. Gregory into custody despite a stream of abuse he directed toward B. A. Hammond, the Police Commissioner, and other officials.

The entertainer was left standing in the street as policemen and auxiliary policemen jerked the others out of line of 24 persons marching by two's to the court house to apply for voter registration. A waiting school bus carried them to the county jail, where city officials charged them with disorderly conduct.

The police seized 11 voter registration workers last Wednesday during and after a similar demonstration to protest an attack by night riders on a Negro home.

Attorneys for the Justice Department have obtained a court order directing the city to release the eight persons still in prison as a result of the Wednesday arrests. They would be handed over to a Federal marshal for appearance tomorrow before a Federal District Court in Greenville, Miss.

Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. will conduct a hearing then on a Justice Department request for an injunction against Greenwood city officials. If granted, it would force authorities here to release the prisoners, to refrain from further harassment of registration workers and to honor the Negroes' right to assemble for peaceable protests.

There was little tension in this Mississippi delta city of 23,000 as the march began this morning at the headquarters of a voter registration campaign.

United Press International

ARRESTED: Rev. Robert Kinloch of New York is taken to jail after he and other Negroes in Greenwood, Miss., refused to disband march to courthouse in voter registration drive.

The police appeared to be on their best behavior because of the presence of a swarm of news reporters and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, one of whom filmed the incident.

Nevertheless, a man who had sought to squirm away from a patrolman was bounced repeatedly on the pavement while being carried to the bus. A second was thrown into the bus and the thump of his falling body could be heard 20 feet away.

The Rev. Robert M. Kinloch, associate pastor of the Baptist Chapel of the Free Spirit, New York, was snatched away with such force that his clerical collar flew open.

One policeman spotted a local Negro voter registration worker photographing the action. He sought to grab the camera but the youth fled. The policeman threw his nightstick at the fugitive but it glanced harmlessly off his shoulder.

The arrests took place in the heart of the business district after Chief of Police Curtis Lary had told the marchers again and again that they must break up into small groups if they wanted to continue on their way to the court house.

"We will stand here together," one of the marchers said.

"Tell those policemen to move out of the way," said another, who was quickly grabbed by the patrolman.

"All right," several policemen repeated, "do you want to go to register, do you want to go home or do you want to go to jail?"

"I want to go home," replied an old woman, shuffling away.

As the last of the marchers were shoved into the bus, one of the auxiliary policemen (all of whom were wearing yellow helmets and civilian clothes) grabbed Mr. Gregory by the coat sleeve.

"Wait a minute, wait a minute, wait a minute," Commissioner Hammond called out. He hurried forward and led the policeman away. The other officers grinned at this threatened departure from the policy of avoiding the arrest of the comedian at almost any cost.

"You dirty dogs," said the entertainer to the police as the school bus pulled away. "You're nothing but a bunch of dirty dogs."

He and four other Negroes then walked to the City Hall, where he approached Mr. Hammond and W. G. Mize, also a Commissioner, to inquire about posting bond for those arrested.

Mr. Gregory seemed concerned about James H. Sanders, 27 years old, his personal manager and writer, who was one of the 19 arrested.

"They got my No. 1 writer," he said. "I told him, 'Boy, you haven't ever been to jail.' I said, 'Go ahead and go. Maybe it'll make you a better writer.'"

Mr. Gregory also accused Commissioner Hammond of "lying." The official turned him away with a soft answer.

The 30-year-old entertainer, wearing a mustache and goatee, was dressed in a gray suit of Italian cut with no lapels or cuffs. He wore a white shirt and black tie and chain-smoked cigarettes.

He came here Monday and spoke to a mass meeting that night. Yesterday he led an attempt to march on the court house but was turned back by the police.

Mr. Gregory started away from the court house shortly before noon yesterday with another group. He was seized by a policeman and hustled across the street after the group had refused to disperse.

During a similar demonstration yesterday afternoon, the police told him and more than 40 others that they were under arrest. However, squad cars took them back to the voter registration headquarters instead of to jail and no charges were brought.

Mr. Gregory spoke to a Negro mass meeting last night at the Centennial Missionary Baptist Church at Clarksdale, 50 miles to the north. A tear gas cannister was thrown into the church during the meeting and some persons in the audience got up to run.

Mr. Gregory chided them.

"If you're not ready to die, get on out of here," he told them. "If you're frightened, go on home."

"I don't know what you're running for," he went on. "I don't know why you're afraid to die because you haven't got a damn thing to live for."

President Voices a Hope

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 3—President Kennedy said today he hoped a Federal court would find that there had been a denial of voter registration rights in Greenwood, Miss. [Question 24, Page 10]

Commenting on Justice Department action seeking to open voting rolls to Negroes in Greenwood, Mr. Kennedy told his news conference:

"We have had a suit down there since August against the Registrar on the grounds of discrimination in the voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of the voters themselves, and that is due for a hearing very shortly, perhaps this week.

"Then I would hope that the court would find that there has been a denial of rights, which seems to me evident, but which the court must decide."

The preliminary hearing on the Justice Department suit for a preliminary injunction seeking to prohibit harassment of voter registration campaign workers is scheduled tomorrow in Greenville, Miss., before Federal District Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr.

file Leflore

U.S. PROTECTION DEMANDED; JUSTICE DEPT. SEEKS COURT ORDER

V+I South Nat. Guardian 4/4/63

Mississippi Negroes defy terror, push vote drive

By Joanne Grant

UNDER THE PRESSURE of mounting demands for federal action to stem the tide of violence against voter registration workers in the Mississippi Delta, the U.S. Department of Justice has asked for a retraining order against Greenwood and Leflore County officials.

Federal Judge Claud Clayton refused to grant an immediate order and a Federal court hearing on the government's request was scheduled for April 4 in Greenville.

In defiance of the white terrorism, Negroes in the area are determinedly flocking to the courthouse to apply for registration in what one leader described as "a breakthrough of the fear which has held Negroes back."

Eight incidents of violence since Feb. 28 were recorded in a report released March 31 by the Voter Education Project, which is helping to finance a voter registration drive in Mississippi and other Southern states. The project, a program of the Southern Regional Council, is directed by Wiley A. Branton, civil rights attorney who was lawyer for Little Rock, Ark., Negro students.

The 17-page report cites 64 acts of violence since Jan., 1961.

Branton said: "The federal government has done little to protect the peace in Leflore, or elsewhere in Mississippi... The peace of the U.S. is broken and shattered by the lawlessness in Mississippi. The federal government has an obligation, which it is not fulfilling, to restore it."

WARNING GIVEN: The lawlessness has brought demands by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, the NAACP and other civil rights organizations that federal marshals or troops be sent to Greenwood. James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, charged that the federal government has "failed to live up to its responsibility." Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said: "I will continue to urge our people in Leflore to remain nonviolent but it is difficult to predict how much longer the Negro in Mississippi can endure this repeated mayhem and attempted murder."

(Continued on Page 9)

Mississippi terror

(Continued from Page 1)

The Justice Department asked the Federal Court to order Greenwood and Leflore officials to:

- Release eight Negro voter registration workers from prison.
- Refrain from further interference with the registration campaign and those taking part in it.
- Permit Negroes to exercise their constitutional right to assemble for peaceful protest demonstrations and protect them from whites who might object.

Greenwood's Mayor Charles E. Sampson, one of those named in the suit, commented: "This is the government's usual policy in supporting the outside agitators."

OFFICE BURNED: Events in Greenwood leading up to the injunction action the week of March 24 were the following:

On March 24 the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee office was burned and records, typewriters and a mimeograph machine were destroyed.

On March 26 two shotgun blasts shattered the front door and bedroom window of the home of Dewey Greene Sr., father of Dewey R. Greene, who had applied for admission to the University of Mississippi, and George Greene, a voter registration worker.

More than 400 Negroes marched to the county courthouse to file registration applications the next day to protest the shooting. Police with shotguns and a German shepherd dog broke up the demonstration. Mayor Sampson said no further demonstrations would be permitted. "I guess we are going to have to load up the jails like they did in Jackson," he said, referring to mass arrests of Freedom Riders in 1961.

NEWSMEN THREATENED: Claude Sitton of the New York Times reported that a group of roughly dressed, sullen white men on the courthouse sidewalk told Karl Fleming, Newsweek reporter "that a camera strap would make a damned good noose to hang you with." Sitton said he and Fleming were threatened and told to leave town. One of the whites said: "We killed two-month-old Indian babies to take this country, and now they want us to give it away to the niggers."

Eleven SNCC field secretaries were arrested, including Robert Moses, head of the coordinated registration drive of the Mississippi Council of Federated Organizations, and James Forman, SNCC executive secretary. Two were found not guilty, one was dismissed and eight were sentenced to four months and fined $200 for "breach of the peace."

On March 28 police set a police dog at the heels of 42 Negroes marching homeward after applying to register. Police drove other Negroes along the sidewalk with nightsticks until they dispersed. Asked why Negroes walking along the sidewalk two by two were dispersed, Sampson replied: "They had a report up there that them niggers was going to the Alice Cafe for a sit-in." The only person arrested that day was Dick Perez, identified by police as a CBS television cameraman. He was released after his film was confiscated. CBS protested the incident.

Rev. B. L. Tucker, who led one group of prospective voters, said he was bitten by a police dog. The police chief said he was faking; a doctor said she had treated him for severe bites on the leg.

COURTHOUSE MOB: More than 150 whites gathered at the courthouse and muttered threats during the trials of SNCC leaders.

On March 29 police broke up two marches to the courthouse. Marchers were stopped at a police barricade near the courthouse and permitted to proceed to the registration office in groups of two or three.

Racial tension is always present in Mississippi, but it has been gathering strength with a series of incidents of violent retaliation by segregrationists against the voter registration campaign which started in August, 1961. Among incidents in the summer and fall of 1961 was the killing of Herbert Lee by State Rep. E. H. Hurst. In September, 1962, two young women in Ruleville were wounded when night riders shot into the home of a couple active in voter registration.

Last Feb. 28 three voter registration workers narrowly escaped death when shots were fired into their car. James Travis, 20, was wounded in the neck and shoulder (see picture, page 3). The next day a concerted registration drive in Leflore county was announced. As Branton described it: "For the first time in a Mississippi county, there has been a breakthrough of the fear which has held Negroes back. Since March 1, over 500 have waited determinedly at the Greenwood courthouse, trying to register. Because of the long drawn-out process in Mississippi, how many will be passed by the registrars is not yet known. Weekly mass meetings are thronged, and Leflore Negroes are saying emphatically and courageously that they will not wait any longer to be treated as American citizens. And police suppression will not stop them."

Leflore County

APRIL 4, 1963

Today the Department of Justice and Attorney for the City of Greenwood and Leflore County reached an agreement under which the Department withdrew its application for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against police officials of the City of Greenwood and Leflore County, and the City of Greenwood and Leflore County agreed that the sentences of the 8 persons who were found guilty of disorderly conduct in the City Court of Greenwood would be stayed pending a full hearing and final decision on the merits of the government's case. The hearing is expected to take place at the regular term of the U. S. District Court at Greenville, Mississippi, in October, 1963.

4-4-63

Proceedings

NYT.

THE SENATE

Approved 52 to 41 and sent to the House a $750,000,000 Federal aid program for urban mass transportation; confirmed nomination of W. Averell Harriman as Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs.

Adjourned at 4:33 P.M. until 9 A.M. Monday.

Government Operations Subcommittee heard Air Force Chief of Staff General Lemay testify on the TFX military plane contract.

Foreign Relations Committee heard top State Department officials testify on bill for a National Academy of Foreign Affairs.

Joint Atomic Committee heard industry witnesses testify on the status of the growth and development of atomic energy.

Armed Services Committee made public testimony by Defense Secretary McNamara on the military position of the United States.

THE HOUSE

Held routine session.

Banking Committee heard Joseph Barr, Mayor of Oil City, Pa., testify on Area Redevelopment Act amendments.

Merchant Marine Committee heard top Association of American Railroads officials testify on labor-management disputes in the maritime industry.

Space Subcommittee heard a top space official say the United States was preparing for a possible three-day manned orbital flight if one was necessary.

Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously approved a two-year building program for new United States diplomatic buildings abroad.

Departments and Agencies

State Department spokesman announced Secretary Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin would hold their second talk on the Berlin situation Saturday.

Justice Department spokesman announced that Attorney General Kennedy had received assurances that law and order would be maintained in Greenwood, Miss.

Labor Department official reported the United States employment situation in March improved greatly as unemployment rate dropped from 6.1 per cent to 5.6 per cent in March.

SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

[April 5, 1963]

President Kennedy sees Gov. William Barron of West Virginia, 9:30 A.M.; sees Ridgway B. Wright, United States Ambassador to Syria, 10 A.M.; receives American League baseball pass for the 1963 season, noon.

Welfare Clips

Sefore Clips

Behan Cancels Visit Here Due to Gregory Incident

Irish playwright Brendan Behan has canceled a scheduled visit here Friday for a performance of one of his plays because of a news item he said he read in New York about police mistreatment of Negro comedian Dick Gregory in Mississippi.

Frank Wittow, director of the Academy Theater here, said the fiery and unpredictable Iishman called Wednesday, "enraged" about the Gregory incident, and said he refused to come south.

Mr. Behan's play, "The Hostago," opened recently at the theater on Roswell Road and will show Friday. Mr. Wittow said no amount of persuasion could make the playwright change his mind about coming to Atlanta.

"We were looking forward to seeing and working with Behan," Mr. Wittow said. "Unfortunately, we are all identified with the crude actions in Mississippi. This is a case of everybody suffering."

Comedian Gregory was in Greenwood, Miss., during a voter registration drive. Wire reports said local police grabbed him during a voter demonstration and twisted his arm and marched him across the street when he refused to obey a command to move on. He claimed he later was struck in the back by police but was not injured.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 4, 1963 Greenwood Commonwealth FIVE CENTS

Justice Officials, City Reach Pact

City Board Says Rules Still Same

In connection with today's court agreement, the mayor and commissioners of Greenwood issued the following statement:

"The City of Greenwood and Leflore County are, of course, happy that the Justice Department has withdrawn its application for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against police officers of the city and county.

"This means that law enforcement in the City of Greenwood will remain in the hands of local law enforcement officials.

"Our Police Department has magnificiently demonstrated its ability to preserve peace and order, and we again urge all citizens of our community to continue to extend to them the same confidence and cooperation that has been so overwhelmingly extended during the past several days.

"The city's policy in reference to maintaining peace and order is unchanged.

"Because of present public excitement resulting from recent events, no large organized groups will be allowed on the public streets of the city for the time being.

'Groups violating this policy will be dispersed and anyone refusing to disperse when ordered to do so by a law enforcement officer will be arrested.

"This directive is not issued for the purpose of impeding or interfering with the right of any one to proceed to the courthouse to apply to register to vote. It is issued for the sole purpose of assuring that peace and order will be maintained in Greenwood."

Reasonable Accord

(AN EDITORIAL)

The city of Greenwood today worked out a partial solution to the present crisis which is perfectly fair to both sides.

The agreement between the Justice Department and the city attorneys is both reasonable and timely. It represents a meeting of minds and objectives which some of us have felt would be next to impossible to achieve, and certainly does credit to everyone connected with it.

Briefly, here is what today's move in federal court means.

The city police will continue to keep order as they have. No marches or other demonstrations will be permitted. At the same time anybody, white or Negro, who wishes to apply for voter registration at the circuit clerk's office will do so — in the normal manner.

Eight Negroes convicted of disorderly conduct and breach of the peace — still under the original sentence — will be permitted to go free until a full dress hearing in federal court in October. But, if they break the law from now till then ,they will be arrested and tried for the new offenses.

The 19 people arrested yesterday will be tried on the charges against them and aren't affected by the agreement.

Certainly the agreement today was worked out by both sides with a view toward returning Greenwood to its normal peacefulness. We congratulate the Justice Department officials for their attitude.

That attitude was nurtured, of course, by the splendid work of Greenwood's police and auxiliary forces and the restraint with which our citizens have reacted to the activities of recent days, together, probably, with the lack of restraint shown by certain other groups and individuals.

It goes without saying, then, that further good citizenship on the part of all of us is even more important in the days ahead.

So many officials and private citizens have had an active part in shaping Greenwood's good record so far, that we aren't going to get in trouble calling names.

It has been a community project, and must continue to be. (T. W.)

Injunction Petition Is Withdrawn

The government today withdrew its request for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against police officals of the City of Greenwood and Leflore County.

Greenwood officials agreed to stay the sentences of the eight Negroes arrested and convicted last week.

U. S. Dist. Judge Claude Clayton, who heard both sides briefly in a federal court in Greenville, may hold a full hearing later on the government's request for a permanent injunction. The hearing is expected during the court's regular term in October.

The agreement worked out by the city's attorneys and those from the Department of Justice was reached last night and was subject to the approval of Judge Clayton this morning.

The full text of the statement made by the Department of Justice and the City is:

"Today the Department of Justice and Attorney for the City of Greenwood and Leflore County reached an agreement under which the Department withdrew its application for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against police officials of the City of Greenwood and Leflore County, and the City of Greenwood and Leflore County agreed that the sentences of the 8 persons who were found guilty of disorderly conduct in the City Court of Greenwood would be stayed pending a full hearing and final decision on the merits of the government's case. The hearing is expected to take place at the regular term of the U. S. District Court at Greenville, Mississippi, in October, 1963.'

It means, in effect, that the eight Negroes being held in jail will be released from jail without bond until Judge Clayton's final decision.

It also means that the city will maintain control of its police duties. Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond said after the court ruling, "we will continue as we have in the past. There will be no interference with persons wishing to go to the courthouse to register, but they will not be allowed to go in a large group."

The days already served in jail by the 8 Negroes will be counted against their sentence, it was disclosed.

The 8 were taken yesterday from the Leflore County jail by three U. S. Marshalls, to the Washington County jail to await the hearing today.

The agreement does not cover the 19 Negroes arrested yesterday by the city police when they refused to disperse. The trials for these people is expected to be held Friday in the city court.

Hammond said, "should the 8 Negroes released come back to Greenwood and break our laws again we will place them under arrest."

It was learned through a highly placed source that the justice department was highly pleased with the way the city has handled the matter in the past few days.

Police dismissed the charges and released from jail this afternoon seven of 19 Negroes arrested yesterday during a march toward the courthouse.

The remaining 12 were due to go on trial on disturbing the peace and refusing to obey a police officer charge in city court at 3 p.m. today.

Those released were: Lucius Ledbetter, Greenwood; Willie Wilson, Greenwood; Robert Stuart, Greenwood; Lucius DeBerry, Greenwood; Alberta Brown, Greenwood; Louis Cooper, Greenwood and Mary Booth of Greenwood.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
12 A
Date APR 4 1963

Police Seize 19 Negroes, Skip Greg

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 3 (UPI)—Police broke up a voter registration march led by Dick Gregory today and arrested 19 Negro participants —all but the nationally known comic.

Gregory immediately announced that he was canceling all of his nightclub engagements and would remain in this delto community to "fight this thing until the Government sends in troops.

"If it takes 20 years, I'll be here in an effort to put down the police brutality," Gregory said.

The Negroes, including teen-age boys and girls and elderly men and women, were stopped just a few blocks from their voter registration headquarters by a cordon of police headed by City Commissioner B. A. (Buff) Hammond. Hammond ordered them to disperse.

He told the Negroes they could go to the Leflore County courthouse and take the voter registration tests, but only individually or in small groups.

The leaders—Gregory, Ida Holland, 18, of Greenwood, and the Rev. Robert Kinloch, 40, a Baptist pastor from Brooklyn, N. Y., refused to break up the group. While they were talking a Negro in the rear rank urged his companions to stand fast. Police moved in on the young Negro, lifted him bodily, and placed him in a waiting school bus driven by an auxiliary patrolman.

The officers then surrounded the marchers and asked each individually whether he preferred to "go home, go to jail, or go to register to vote alone."

Most of the Negroes refused to move and were arrested and herded aboard the school bus.

However, Hammond instructed the officers not to arrest Gregory.

One Negro youth tried to snap a picture of an officer as the arrests were being made. The officer objected and tried to grab the youth's camera. When the Negro youth fled, the officer hurled his nightstick at his back, but the Negro escaped.

The Negroes were taken to the Leflore County jail because the city dentention cell would not hold the large number arrested today. They were charged with disorderly conduct and refusing to obey an officer.

Gregory and the Rev. Donald L. Tucker, who was bitten by a police dog during a march last week, later conferred with Commissioner Hammond and Police Chief Curtis Lary about the arrests.

A twentieth Negro, Rosie Johnson, 58, of Pugh City near here, was arrested at the jail after police said she came there and began yelling upstairs at the other Negroes.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

NEW YORK TIMES
p.22C
Date APR 4 1963

19 NEGROES HELD; GREGORY SPARED

Comedian Leads March in Greenwood, Miss.

By CLAUDE SITTON

Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 3—The police arrested 19 Negroes today as they marched toward the Leflore County Court House behind Dick Gregory, the comedian.

But the police refused for the second day to take Mr. Gregory into custody despite a stream of abuse he directed toward B. A. Hammond, the Police Commissioner, and other officials.

The entertainer was left standing in the street as policemen and auxiliary policemen jerked the others out of line of 24 persons marching by two's to the court house to apply for voter registration. A waiting school bus carried them to the county jail, where city officials charged them with disorderly conduct.

The police seized 11 voter registration workers last Wednesday during and after a similar demonstration to protest an attack by night riders on a Negro home.

Attorneys for the Justice Department have obtained a court order directing the city to release the eight persons still in prison as a result of the Wednesday arrests. They would be handed over to a Federal marshal for appearance tomorrow before a Federal District Court in Greenville, Miss.

Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. will conduct a hearing then on a Justice Department request for an injunction against Greenwood city officials. If granted, it would force authorities here to release the prisoners, to refrain from further harassment of registration workers and to honor the Negroes' right to assemble for peaceable protests.

There was little tension in this Mississippi delta city of 23,000 as the march began this morning at the headquarters of a voter registration campaign.

United Press International

ARRESTED: Rev. Robert Kinloch of New York is taken to jail after he and other Negroes in Greenwood, Miss., refused to disband march to courthouse in voter registration drive.

The police appeared to be on their best behavior because of the presence of a swarm of news reporters and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, one of whom filmed the incident.

Nevertheless, a man who had sought to squirm away from a patrolman was bounced repeatedly on the pavement while being carried to the bus. A second was thrown into the bus and the thump of his falling body could be heard 20 feet away.

The Rev. Robert M. Kinloch, associate pastor of the Baptist Chapel of the Free Spirit, New York, was snatched away with such force that his clerical collar flew open.

One policeman spotted a local Negro voter registration worker photographing the action. He sought to grab the camera but the youth fled. The policeman threw his nightstick at the fugitive but it glanced harmlessly off his shoulder.

The arrests took place in the heart of the business district after Chief of Police Curtis Lary had told the marchers again and again that they must break up into small groups if they wanted to continue on their way to the court house.

"We will stand here together," one of the marchers said.

"Tell those policemen to move out of the way," said another, who was quickly grabbed by the patrolman.

"All right," several policemen repeated, "do you want to go to register, do you want to go home or do you want to go to jail?"

"I want to go home," replied an old woman, shuffling away.

As the last of the marchers were shoved into the bus, one of the auxiliary policemen (all of whom were wearing yellow helmets and civilian clothes) grabbed Mr. Gregory by the coat sleeve.

"Wait a minute, wait a minute, wait a minute," Commissioner Hammond called out. He hurried forward and led the policeman away. The other officers grinned at this threatened departure from the policy of avoiding the arrest of the comedian at almost any cost.

"You dirty dogs," said the entertainer to the police as the school bus pulled away. "You're nothing but a bunch of dirty dogs."

He and four other Negroes then walked to the City Hall, where he approached Mr. Hammond and W. G. Mize, also a Commissioner, to inquire about posting bond for those arrested.

Mr. Gregory seemed concerned about James H. Sanders, 27 years old, his personal manager and writer, who was one of the 19 arrested.

"They got my No. 1 writer," he said. "I told him, 'Boy, you haven't ever been to jail.' I said, 'Go ahead and go. Maybe it'll make you a better writer.'"

Mr. Gregory also accused Commissioner Hammond of "lying." The official turned him away with a soft answer.

The 30-year-old entertainer, wearing a mustache and goatee, was dressed in a gray suit of Italian cut with no lapels or cuffs. He wore a white shirt and black tie and chain-smoked cigarettes.

He came here Monday and spoke to a mass meeting that night. Yesterday he led an attempt to march on the court house but was turned back by the police.

Mr. Gregory started away from the court house shortly before noon yesterday with another group. He was seized by a policeman and hustled across the street after the group had refused to disperse.

During a similar demonstration yesterday afternoon, the police told him and more than 40 others that they were under arrest. However, squad cars took them back to the voter registration headquarters instead of to jail and no charges were brought.

Mr. Gregory spoke to a Negro mass meeting last night at the Centennial Missionary Baptist Church at Clarksdale, 50 miles to the north. A tear gas cannister was thrown into the church during the meeting and some persons in the audience got up to run.

Mr. Gregory chided them.

"If you're not ready to die, get on out of here," he told them. "If you're frightened, go on home."

"I don't know what you're running for," he went on. "I don't know why you're afraid to die because you haven't got a damn thing to live for."

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
13 A
Date: APR 4 1963

Leflore County Moral Booster

Gregory Can't Avoid the Issue

By Wallace Terry
Staff Reporter

Why has Negro comedian Dick Gregory turned up in racially embattled Leflore County, Mississippi?

A few days ago, between sales of a recording he cut to benefit a drive he has spearheaded to insure the surplus food distribution to Negroes in Leflore voter registration drives, Gregory explained:

"Man, I'm just trying to get my people straight."

Sources inside the civil rights movement believe that, beyond his fund-raising efforts on their behalf, the very presence of the famous 30-year-old Negro is a well-needed morale booster.

"No one feels that life in Mississippi is going to be any easier because Gregory is there," said Clarence Mitchell Jr., Washington NAACP representative, "but it shows that somebody who is important cares."

Unusual Pattern

With the notable exception of former baseball star Jackie Robinson, most Negro performers and entertainers have usually limited their support of the civil rights movement to contributions and an occasional guest appearance.

But like Robinson, Gregory stays on a heavy speaking schedule and keeps abreast daily of the changing race picture. One day he is at a rally for the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Birmingham, the next day at an NAACP freedom fund dinner in Atlanta, then here sharing a platform with Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N. Y.).

Whether he emerges as a seriously accepted voice on the civil rights scene remains to be seen. But like Robinson he has declared himself a maverick who won't settle for anything less than direct confrontation with the issues.

Gregory emerged from the obscurity of Negro night clubs in Chicago three years ago in the midst of the so-called New Wave comedians. However, he is neither "sick" nor "beat." He is a glib satirist of racism.

His success catapulted him from $50-a-night stands into the $5000-a-week category and, as he says, "into the eyes of the Internal Revenue."

Most Audiences White

Most of his audiences are white. He is probably the first stand-up Negro comedian since the late Bert Williams to gain such wide acceptance from whites. Yet he has made his mark without "Tomming" or being what Negroes call a "handkerchief head."

The fact that Gregory's act has sat well with whites, observers say, is chiefly because a changing racial climate in America has liberalized attitudes.

Not all of his humor deals with race relations. But most of it does, and it sounds like social criticism of a deeply probing sort.

"If you want to have some fun," he says to whites, "make like you're colored. But don't do it during the week, though, you might get fired."

His monologues extol self-respect and race pride, but he is no black nationalist and Powell's suggested purge of whites from Negro rights groups is not likely to win his support. He believes segregation is no less than everyone's problem.

Only in America

His faith in the American people matches that of Dr. King's.

Where else but in America, he says, can you "go into a Jewish community and eat pizza in a Chinese restaurant . . . give to the NAACP in a Catholic church and drive away in a German car?"

"Negro crime is American crime," he says. And if the $37,000 he is raising for the food drive does not go to Leflore it will be put in the Dick Gregory Foundation for combating juvenile delinquency.

Educated at Southern Illinois University, Gregory is considered one of the brightest comedians on the scene. He has become a favorite with college students, whom he constantly prods to "think, always think."

"I made a vow," he once said, "to expose the facts of racial discrimination, and America will get rid of the problem."

What Gregory is doing, one writer wrote, is "a kind of immemorial, unchurched racial lament, a cataloguing of wrongs, a reading of indictments."

While public facilities were being desegregated in the Deep South, Grgory recalled that when swimming pools were integrated in his home town, St. Louis, "They hired a new life guard for us. He was blind. We got up on the new diving board and jumped. They drained the pool."

He isn't annoyed by riding in the back of buses. "Next time you get on one," he points out, "you notice where that emergency door is located."

For the moment his single contribution in racial matters has been to ease the Nation's guilt and pain while prodding it to action. "Trying to make you laugh is like trying to explain integration to a lynch mob," he once jibed before an unreceptive white audience.

Long Shipping Route

Reuters

HONG KONG, April 3 Communist China has opened its longest shipping route—1497 miles—along the Yangtse River between Shanghai on the east coast and Chunking inn the southwest, the offisial new China news agecy reported.

WB

Q.—Mr. President, yesterday, according to reports, comedian Dick Gregory was manhandled by police in Greenwood, Miss. Do you have any comment on the voter registration drive in Greenwood and particularly do you think the Justice Department can do more in terms of speed and effectiveness to enhance the effort down there? Suff. Miss

A. No. Well, we've had a suit there since last August against the registrar on the ground of discrimination in voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of the voters themselves, and that's due for a hearing very shortly — perhaps this week. Then I would hope that the court would find that there has been a denial of rights which seems to me evident, but which the court must decide.

Now, if we had been—if we secure the passage of the voting bill, which we sent up to the Congress this week, in the case of the voter registrar case a registrar would be permitted to sit during the period that the case was being considered.

But what we now have is a registrar who is charged with discrimination in denying certain citizens the right to vote, and he's been sitting since last August when our suit was filed, and the suit, because of the law's delay, has not yet been settled.

So that is a area where there is a vacuum in the law, and I would hope we could fill it. But on the subject itself, we have two Federal suits and both of them are very important, and both of them, I hope, will result in actions which will bring justice in Greenwood, Miss.

Q. Thank you, Mr. President.

NYT 4/4/63

W

19 NEGROES HELD; GREGORY SPARED

Comedian Leads March in Greenwood, Miss.

By CLAUDE SITTON

Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 3—The police arrested 19 Negroes today as they marched toward the Leflore County Court House behind Dick Gregory, the comedian.

But the police refused for the second day to take Mr. Gregory into custody despite a stream of abuse he directed toward B. A. Hammond, the Police Commissioner, and other officials.

The entertainer was left standing in the street as policemen and auxiliary policemen jerked the others out of line of 24 persons marching by two's to the court house to apply for voter registration. A waiting school bus carried them to the county jail, where city officials charged them with disorderly conduct.

The police seized 11 voter registration workers last Wednesday during and after a similar demonstration to protest an attack by night riders on a Negro home.

Attorneys for the Justice Department have obtained a court order directing the city to release the eight persons still in prison as a result of the Wednesday arrests. They would be handed over to a Federal marshal for appearance tomorrow before a Federal District Court in Greenville, Miss.

Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. will conduct a hearing then on a Justice Department request for an injunction against Greenwood city officials. If granted, it would force authorities here to release the prisoners, to refrain from further harassment of registration workers and to honor the Negroes' right to assemble for peaceable protests.

There was little tension in this Mississippi delta city of 23,000 as the march began this morning at the headquarters of a voter registration campaign.

The police appeared to be on their best behavior because of the presence of a swarm of news reporters and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, one of whom filmed the incident.

Nevertheless, a man who had sought to squirm away from a patrolman was bounced repeatedly on the pavement while being carried to the bus. A second was thrown into the bus and the thump of his falling body could be heard 20 feet away.

The Rev. Robert M. Kinloch, associate pastor of the Baptist Chapel of the Free Spirit, New York, was snatched away with such force that his clerical collar flew open.

One policeman spotted a local Negro voter registration worker photographing the action. He sought to grab the camera but the youth fled. The policeman threw his nightstick at the fugitive but it glanced harmlessly off his shoulder.

The arrests took place in the heart of the business district after Chief of Police Curtis Lary had told the marchers again and again that they must break up into small groups if they wanted to continue on their way to the court house.

"We will stand here together," one of the marchers said.

"Tell those policemen to move out of the way," said another, who was quickly grabbed by the patrolman.

"All right," several policemen repeated, "do you want to go to register, do you want to go home or do you want to go to jail?"

"I want to go home," replied an old woman, shuffling away.

As the last of the marchers were shoved into the bus, one of the auxiliary policemen (all of whom were wearing yellow helmets and civilian clothes) grabbed Mr. Gregory by the coat sleeve.

"Wait a minute, wait a minute, wait a minute," Commissioner Hammond called out. He hurried forward and led the policeman away. The other officers grinned at this threatened departure from the policy of avoiding the arrest of the comedian at almost any cost.

"You dirty dogs," said the entertainer to the police as the school bus pulled away. "You're nothing but a bunch of dirty dogs."

He and four other Negroes then walked to the City Hall, where he approached Mr. Hammond and W. G. Mise, also a Commissioner, to inquire about posting bond for those arrested.

Mr. Gregory seemed concerned about James H. Sanders, 27 years old, his personal manager and writer, who was one of the 19 arrested.

"They got my No. 1 writer," he said. "I told him, 'Boy, you haven't ever been to jail.' I said, 'Go ahead and go. Maybe it'll make you a better writer.'"

Mr. Gregory also accused Commissioner Hammond of "lying." The official turned him away with a soft answer.

The 30-year-old entertainer, wearing a mustache and goatee, was dressed in a gray suit of Italian cut with no lapels or cuffs. He wore a white shirt and black tie and chain-smoked cigarettes.

He came here Monday and spoke to a mass meeting that night. Yesterday he led an attempt to march on the court house but was turned back by the police.

Mr. Gregory started away from the court house shortly before noon yesterday with another group. He was seized by a policeman and hustled across the street after the group had refused to disperse.

During a similar demonstration yesterday afternoon, the police told him and more than 40 others that they were under arrest. However, squad cars took them back to the voter registration headquarters instead of to jail and no charges were brought.

Mr. Gregory spoke to a Negro mass meeting last night at the Centennial Missionary Baptist Church at Clarksdale, 50 miles to the north. A tear gas cannister was thrown into the church during the meeting and some persons in the audience got up to run.

Mr. Gregory chided them.

"If you're not ready to die, get on out of here," he told them. "If you're frightened go on home."

"I don't know what you're running for," he went on. "I don't know why you're afraid to die because you haven't got a damn thing to live for."

United Press International

ARRESTED: Rev. Robert Kinloch of New York is taken to jail after he and other Negroes in Greenwood, Miss., refused to disband march to courthouse in voter registration drive.

President Voices a Hope

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 3—President Kennedy said today he hoped a Federal court would find that there had been a denial of voter registration rights in Greenwood, Miss. [Question 24, Page 10]

Commenting on Justice Department action seeking to open voting rolls to Negroes in Greenwood, Mr. Kennedy told his news conference:

"We have had a suit down there since August against the Registrar on the grounds of discrimination in the voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of the voters themselves, and that is due for a hearing very shortly, perhaps this week.

"Then I would hope that the court would find that there has been a denial of rights, which seems to me evident, but which the court must decide."

The preliminary hearing on the Justice Department suit for a preliminary injunction seeking to prohibit harassment of voter registration campaign workers is scheduled tomorrow in Greenville, Miss., before Federal District Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST
24 A
Date: APR 4 1963

Lifelore dyes

Transcript of President K

Lie Tests

Q. Mr. President, when a Government department feels it necessary to check on a news story that is displeasing to that department, how do you feel about using lie detectors on men you have appointed to office?

A. Well, are you talking about a hypothetical case or an actual case?

Q. I am talking about a case that started at the Pentagon, but was called off today.

A. No, well, I think that the case (Defense) Secretary (Robert S.) McNamara was asked to investigate how this Air Force document was put out to the press. And at the suggestion of the (Senate Investigations) Committee, investigation was begun. I think that it was a mistake to suggest a polygraph, and I think Secretary McNamara, when he learned that in the investigation that the document was suggested which would indicate that the witness might be willing to accept a polygraph, I think he decided that this was in error, and he and (Air Force) Secretary (Eugene M.) Zuckert changed it. So I don't think we need concern ourselves in the future about it. As a matter of fact, no polygraph was given.

SEC Report

Q. Mr. President, do you intend to support SEC (Securities and Exchange Commission) staff recommendations for legislation designed to curb certain abuses in the securities industry?

Q. I will have to see the recommendations when they come to the White House and then we will have a chance to look at it and then I can give you a better answer, after we have examined it.

Greenwood Incidents

Q. Mr. President, yesterday, according to reports, comedian Dick Gregory was manhandled by police in Greewood, Mississippi. Do you have any comments on the voter registration drive in Greenwood, and particularly do you think the Justice Department can do more in trems of speed and effectiveness to enhance the effort down there?

A. We have had a suit there since last August against the registar on the ground of discrimination in the voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of the voters themselves, and that is due for a hearing very shortly, perhaps this week.

Then I would hope that the court would find that there has been a denial of rights, which seems to be evident, but which the court must decide. If we secure the passage of the voting bill which we sent up to the Congress this week, in the case of the voter registar case, a registar would be permitted to sit during the period that the case was being considered, because what we now have is a registar who is charged with discrimination in denying certain citizens the right to vote and he has been sitting since last August when our suit was filed, and the suit, because of the law's delay, has not yet been settled. So that is an area where there is a vacuum in the law, and I would hope we could fill it But on the subject, itself, we have two federal suits and both of them are very important and both of them, I hope, will result in actions which will bring justice in Greenwood, Mississippi.

Q. Thank you, Mr. President.

4/5/63

-16-

REGNAT

as

LE ROCK, FRID

Red Tape of Baths, TV

some public service officials.

★ "In many towns and settlements there are no public baths * * * a man likes to take a steaming bath."

★ Lagging construction laundries.

★ Bad Upkeep of ho

★ Low quality production in m

★ Wall pap design — " we came and wall p adorn our petty bourgeoi

In addition, Vo

"In certain r u stricts there are no dry clea ng shops, repair centers for home utensils, homes and furniture. Collective and state farmers have to resort to the services of private persons."

At the same time, Voronov criticized workers in heavy industry who minimized the importance of consumer goods productions.

"Certain leading workers in heavy industry think that with the development of light industry that they can curtail manufacture of consumer goods in some of their factories," he said. "Such an opinion is erroneous. The curtailment and cessation of manufacture of consumer goods for the population is impermissable."

Reg. Council
the St. Ga.
7-3-63
DO

Arkansas Gazette 4-5-63

Truce Reached At Greenwood

U. S. Won't Press For Court Order

From Gazette Press Services

The Justice Department and Greenwood, Miss., officials reached an agreement yesterday that freed eight Negro voter registration workers arrested a week ago.

A Department attorney said that as a result the government would not press a request now for a federal court order to prohibit interference by the city with registration efforts.

The agreement set the stage for negotiations designed to bring a truce between the drive's leaders and city authorities and thus ease the racial crisis in the farming and manufacturing center.

In Washington, the Justice Department said Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had been assured there would be no registration interference and law and order would be maintained.

March Ended

Thirty-eight Negroes started to register, walking double-file from vote headquarters, at Greenwood yesterday. They turned back after five blocks with police taking their pictures at every intersec-

Red Tape of Baths, TV

some public service officials.

★ "In many towns and settlements there are no public baths * * * a man likes to take a steaming bath."

★ Lagging construction [illegible] laundries.

★ Bad Upkeep of ho[illegible]

★ Low quality [illegible] production in m[illegible]

★ Wall pap[illegible] design — "[illegible] we came [illegible] and wall p[illegible] adorn our [illegible] petty bourgeoi[illegible]

In addition, Vo[illegible]

"In certain r u[illegible] [illegible]stricts there are no dry clea[illegible]ng shops, repair centers for home utensils, homes and furniture. Collective and state farmers have to resort to the services of private persons."

At the same time, Voronov criticized workers in heavy industry who minimized the importance of consumer goods productions.

"Certain leading workers in heavy industry think that with the development of light industry that they can curtail manufacture of consumer goods in some of their factories," he said. "Such an opinion is erroneous. The curtailment and cessation of manufacture of consumer goods for the population is impermissable."

Arkansas Gazette 4-5-63

Truce Reached At Greenwood

U. S. Won't Press For Court Order

From Gazette Press Services

The Justice Department and Greenwood, Miss., officials reached an agreement yesterday that freed eight Negro voter registration workers arrested [illegible] ago.

A Department attorney said that as a result the government would not press a request now for a federal court order to prohibit interference by the city with registration efforts.

The agreement set the stage for negotiations designed to bring a truce between the drive's leaders and city authorities and thus ease the racial crisis in the farming and manufacturing center.

In Washington, the Justice Department said Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had been assured there would be no registration interference and law and order would be maintained.

March Ended

Thirty-eight Negroes started to register, walking double-file from vote headquarters, at Greenwood yesterday. They turned back after five blocks with police taking their pictures at every intersection.

A fire truck barreled down the road—which has no sidewalk—and cars suddenly appeared, congesting the area.

"This was a deliberate attempt to manufacture a traffic situation," Wiley Branton of Atlanta, formerly of Pine Bluff, Ark., a leader in the vote campaign, said.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who helped lead the mass voter walk, said he turned the group back because he did not want to accept the responsibility of "harassment" from the photographs.

Federal District Judge Claude Clayton, sitting in Greenville 75 miles west of Greenwood, said he would schedule a full hearing later on a government request for a permanent injunction against Greenwood and Leflore County officials.

He gave city and county officials until May 20 to file pleas. A formal hearing was not expected before the next term of court in October.

Mayor 'Happy'

Greenwood Mayor C. E. Sampson and other local officials said they were "happy" the Justice

(See RACIAL on Page 2A.)

e, Greenwood Officials in Accord

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

WASHINGTON POST

2 A

Date: APR 5 1963

file before

By James E. Clayton
Staff Reporter

The Department of Justice and city officials in Greenwood, Miss., reached an agreement yesterday that may cool off what has been developing into one of the hottest racial problems in the South.

The Department withdrew its request for an immediate court order telling Greenwood officials to stop harassing and arresting Negroes who attempt to register to vote. In return, the city released eight Negroes who were jailed in a mass march last week.

Although Greenwood City Attorney Hardy Lott said this was the full extent of the agreement, a statement by the Department here indicated other factors are involved. The statement said Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had been assured that there will be no further interference with attempts to register and that Greenwood police will maintain law and order.

From comments made to the Associated Press and United Press International by Greenwood officials, it seemed that the assurances were that city officials will not interfere with Negroes who approach the voter registration office singly or in small groups.

The AP quoted Greenwood Mayor C. E. Sampson as saying that police will continue to break up large groups but will let Negroes go to register in small groups.

Daily Mass Marches

Whether this will solve the problem that led to daily mass marches by Negroes to the voting registration office remainst o be seen. But if many Negroes are able to apply to vote without interference, Greenwood will be establishing a new pattern in the Delta country of Mississippi.

News dispatches said last night that several car loads of Negroes entered the registration office during the afternoon without apparent interference. When one group emerged, Greenwood Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond learned that they lacked transportation home and called a school bus to deliver them to their front doors.

Earlier in the day, however, a march of about 40 Negroes toward the registration office ended abruptly when Greenwood police began to take pictures of the marchers. At that time, comedian Dick Gregory, who has been encouraging the marchers, said this was a new form of harassment that would not halt the marches.

8 Are Released

About the same time, however, the terms of the agreement were unveiled by Justice Department Attorney John Doar before Federal Judge Claude Clayton in nearby Greenville. Judge Clayton then indicated he will hear the Department's basic complaint about discrimination in Greenwood at his regular term of court next October.

An hour later, the eight Negroes whose release the Department has also been seeking left the Greenville jail singing "This Little Light of Mine." A few hours later, they passed out a statement that they would continue to help people register and were glad to know that the police would no longer permit interference.

The Department had charged that once the voting registration drive got under way seriously in Greenwood and Leflore County local officials actively harassed the Negroes and failed to provide protection for them.

Although Negroes outnumber whites by 13 to 10 in Lefore County, white voters outnumber Negro voters by 39 to 1. In the seven years prior to last June, only 40 Negroes attempted to register. From then until the end of February, another 30 went to the registration office. City Atorney Hardy Lott said yesterday that 336 have applied to vote within the last month, although he doubted if more than 10 had been accepted as qualified.

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

NEW YORK TIMES
Date: APR 5 1963

file letter

8 NEGROES FREED IN REGISTRY DRIVE

Accord Is Reached by U.S. and Greenwood, Miss.

Byy CLAUDE SITTON
Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 4 —The Justice Department and city officials reached an agreement today that freed eight Negro voter registration workers who were arrested a week ago.

A department attorney said that the Government would not now press a request for a Federal Court order prohibiting the city from interfering with registration efforts here.

The agreement set the stage for negotiations on a truce between Negro registration leaders and city authorities and ease the racial crisis here.

The leaders called back 40 Negroes marching toward the Leflore County Courthouse this morning and charged that an attempt had been made to "manufacture" evidence that the group was blocking traffic.

The action disappointed Dick Gregory, the comedian, who led four similar marcher Tuesday and yesterday.

"I hope these cats will let us through today so I can get back to work tonight," the entertainer said as he and the other Negroes set out for the courthouse.

Group Tries to Register

A group of Negroes was driven to the courthouse this afternoon and applied for registration. Few applicants have been able to pass the stringent literacy and constitutional interpretation requirements, and less than 2 per cent of the county's Negroes of voting age are registered.

Nineteen persons were arrested by the police on charges of disorderly conduct yesterday after they refused repeated com mands by Chief Curtis Lary to disperse into smaller groups. However, the police refused to arrest Mr. Gregory despite his disparaging remarks to them.

Charges against seven of the 19 Negroes were dropped today for "lack of evidence" and the prisoners were released.

The voter campaign leaders contend that Negroes have a Constitutional right to walk in an orderly manner to the courthouse to apply for registration. The city argues that groups larger than two or three create a threat to the peace.

The agreement between the city and the Justice Department was announced by John Doar, a department attorney, this morning in the Federal District Court in Greenville.

Judge Opens Hearing

He issued it after Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. opened a hearing on the department's request for a preliminary injunction against city officials, a county deputy sheriff and the county attorney.

Mr. Doar said that the city had agreed to stay execution of the sentences imposed against the eight Negroes, pending the outcome of the department's injunction request. A full hearing of the case will be held in October.

The eight Negroes were seized March 27 during and after a demonstration by 100 Negroes at the City Hall to protest a shotgun attack on the home of a voter worker the night befoe. All drew the maximum penalty for disorderly conduct —four months in prison and a $200 fine.

The march this morning was halted by Wilie A. Branton of Atlanta, a lawyer who is director of the Voter Education Project.

He sai that it became apparent this morning that someone was attempting to "manufacture" a traffic jam along the line of march.

After the eight prisoners wer released this afternoon, the campaign headquarters issued a statement that said in part:

"We will continue to walk with people to the courthouse for the purpose of voter registration, and we call pon the city police of Greenwood not to interfere with this duty we are performing for our country."

NYT
4-5-63
Leflore Cty.

C

8 NEGROES FREED IN REGISTRY DRIVE

Accord Is Reached by U.S. and Greenwood, Miss.

Byy CLAUDE SITTON
Special to The New York Times

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 4 —The Justice Department and city officials reached an agreement today that freed eight Negro voter registration workers who were arrested a week ago.

A department attorney said that the Government would not now press a request for a Federal Court order prohibiting the city from interfering with registration efforts here.

The agreement set the stage for negotiations on a truce between Negro registration leaders and city authorities and ease the racial crisis here.

The leaders called back 40 Negroes marching toward the Leflore County Courthouse this morning and charged that an attempt had been made to "manufacture" evidence that the group was blocking traffic.

The action disappointed Dick Gregory, the comedian, who led four similar marcher Tuesday and yesterday.

"I hope these cats will let us through today so I can get back to work tonight," the entertainer said as he and the other Negroes set out for the courthouse.

Group Tries to Register

A group of Negroes was driven to the courthouse this afternoon and applied for registration. Few applicants have been able to pass the stringent literacy and constitutional interpretation requirements, and less than 2 per cent of the county's Negroes of voting age are registered.

Nineteen persons were arrested by the police on charges of disorderly conduct yesterday after they refused repeated com mands by Chief Curtis Lary to disperse into smaller groups. However, the police refused to arrest Mr. Gregory despite his disparaging remarks to them.

Charges against seven of the 19 Negroes were dropped today for "lack of evidence" and the prisoners were released.

The voter campaign leaders contend that Negroes have a Constitutional right to walk in an orderly manner to the courthouse to apply for registration. The city argues that groups larger than two or three create a threat to the peace.

The agreement between the city and the Justice Department was announced by John Doar, a department attorney, this morning in the Federal District Court in Greenville.

Judge Opens Hearing

He issued it after Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. opened a hearing on the department's request for a preliminary injunction against city officials, a county deputy sheriff and the county attorney.

Mr. Doar said that the city had agreed to stay execution of the against the eight Negroes pending the outcome of the department's injunction request. A full hearing of the case will be held in October.

The eight Negroes were seized March 27 during and after a demonstration by 100 Negroes at the City Hall to protest a shotgun attack on the home of a voter worker the night befoe. All drew the maximum penalty for disorderly conduct —four months in prison and a $200 fine.

The march this morning was halted by Wilie A. Branton of Atlanta, a lawyer who is director of the Voter Education Project.

He sai that it became apparent this morning that someone was attempting to "manufacture" a traffic jam along the line of march.

After the eight prisoners wer released this afternoon, the campaign headquarters issued a statement that said in part:

"We will continue to walk with people to the courthouse for the purpose of voter registration, and we call pon the city police of Greenwood not to interfere with this duty we are performing for our country."

How Mississippi Tries To Curb Negro Voting

GREENWOOD, Miss. — (UPI) — The Negro voter registration campaign here is aimed at accomplishing more than the registration of Negro voters.

On this point, white and Negro leaders are agreed, but there the agreement ends.

Negroes say the campaign is for all civil rights; whites claim it is for publicizing pro-integration groups and attracting financial donations.

Several groups have been conducting Negro voter registration drives throughout the South during recent years. Greenwood became a focal point of their efforts following a controversy in which authorities were accused of purging the surplus commodity rolls as retaliation for civil rights activities by Negroes.

Voter registration marches through downtown Greenwood have turned out to be the Negroes' chief method of protesting segregation in general.

COMPLICATED PROCEDURE

Marchers and other Negroes must confront Mrs. Martha Lamb, the Leflore County circuit clerk, to apply to vote. Mrs. Lamb is accused in a Justice Department lawsuit filed last year of practicing discrimination.

In applying to vote in Mississippi, a person faces a complicated procedure devised by a segregation-minded legislature and attacked by civil rights leaders and the Federal government.

Each applicant must answer two pages of questions about himself and interpret a section of Mississippi's constitution to the circuit clerk's satisfaction. He also must have a moral character considered good by the circuit clerk.

Still he is not a voter. A 1962 law allows any qualified electors to challenge the moral character of any applicant. A companion law requires that the names and addresses of all applicants for registration be published in a newspaper.

POLL TAX PAYMENT

If no one has challanged an applicant's moral character several days after publication of his name, he may return to the courthouse and register. Then he may vote in future elections if he pays his $2 annual poll tax regularly.

Before the Justice Department began filing suits against Mississippi circuit clerks, segregationists in the state frankly admitted they did not want voting to become too widespread among Negroes. They denied charges that qualified Negroes were actually prohibited from casting ballots. "But, to be perfectly candid, we do not encourage too many Negroes to vote," a spokesman for the state said in 1961. "Complete enfranchisement of the Negro in Mississippi would allow them to control many of our elections."

Negroes outnumber whites in Leflore and 28 of the state's other 81 counties. the 1960 population breakdown in Leflore was 30,307 Negroes and 16,699 whites.

CITES FIGURES

It is not known just how many Negro voters there are in Leflore. But the government suit against Mrs. Lamb and circuit clerks of five other counties charged that out of 49,998 Negro adults in the six counties only 1,995 were registered.

Greenwood city attorney Hardy Lott says fewer than 100 Negroes applied to vote here from 1955 through 1961. He said 336 applied last month, but that he doubted if more than 10 passed the examination.

"The records will show," said Lott, "that very few colored people ever bother to register to vote unless somebody talks them into it."

file copy

Microfilm Code No.

Suff Miss.

SERS Library

CHICAGO DEFENDER

p. 4

Date: April 6-12, 1963

4/6/63

Greenwood Commonwealth 4-6-63

Council Lauds Local Negroes, Promises Them Protection

The Greenwood City Council today made the following statement in connection with the recent crisis in the city:

"The City Council is pleased that the great majority of Greenwood's local colored citizens refused to take part in the silly, noisy demonstrations that have lately disturbed the people of this City. The Council desires to express its gratification at the good sense shown by most of our colored citizens in not supporting the professional colored trouble-makers from other states who have been trying to create violence in Greenwood.

"These trouble-makers have tried to create discord and distrust between different groups of our colored citizens as well as between the white and colored people of our city. These agitators from other places will soon be gone, and it will then be our wish and aim speedily to re-establish the good relations that formerly existed here.

"The Council has received numerous reports that these agitators have been threatening some of our local colored citizens. We want to assure the people so threatened that if they will report the matter to Mayor Sampson or to Mr. W. G. Mize or Mr. Buff Hammond or to the Chief of Police, they will receive full support and protection from the entire City, including its police force."

COMEDIAN GREGORY LEADS GROUP

New Registration March Broken Up By Delta Police

Birmingham World

Leflore City Clips

By DAVID MADDUX

4-6-63

GREENWOOD, Miss. — (UPI) — Police broke up a voter registration march led by Dick Gregory Wednesday and arrested all 20 of the Negro participants — but not the nationally known comedian.

Gregory immediately announced he was cancelling all of his night club engagements and would remain in this delta community to "fight this thing until the government sends in troops."

The Negro comedian told a voter rally Tuesday night "if Bobby Kennedy or any of his family came down here painted black, they wouldn't send troops but missiles."

"If it takes 10 years I'll be here in an effort to put down the police brutality," Gregory said following the arrest of 19 Wednesday.

The marchers were stopped just house and take the voter registra- a few blocks from their voter registration headquarters by a cordon of police headed by City Commissioner B. A. Buff Hammond. Hammond ordered them to disperse.

He told the marchers they could go to the Leflore County Courtion tests but only individually or in small groups.

REFUSE TO BUDGE

The leaders—Gregory, Ida Holland and the Rev. Robert Kinloch, a Baptist pastor-refused to break up the group. While they were talking, a Negro in his early 20's spoke up from the rear rank and Negro, lifted him bodily, and placed urged his companions to stand fast.

Police moved in on the young him in a waiting school bus driven by an auxiliary patrolman.

The officers then surrounded the marchers and asked each individually whether they preferred to "go home, go to jail or go to register to vote alone."

Most of the marchers refused to move and were arrested and herded aboard the yellow school bus.

COMEDIAN ESCAPES ARREST

However, Hammond instructed the officers not to arrest Gregory.

The Negroes were charged with disorderly conduct and refusing to obey an officer.

There was more racial trouble in Birmingham, Ala. In that city 10 Negroes were arrested when they attempted sit-in demonstrations at downtown stores. This apparently was the start to a new drive, since integration leader Martin Luther King announced in Atlanta that he would go to Birmingham later Wednesday to help with the effort.

Arkansas Gazette
4-6-63
Leflore
Clips

Gregory Feels Situation In Greenwood Better; He Announces Departure

Greenwood, Miss, April 5 (UPI).—Negro comedian Dick Gregory who came to this delta town to lead a series of Negro voter registration marches, announced today he was leaving.

Gregory, who vowed two days ago to stay here 10 years if necessary to "put down police brutality," explained:

"I feel the situation has improved about as much as it could. "We got all we can get out of them."

The latter statement apparently was a reference to city officials, who earlier in the day agreed to supply a bus to transport Negroes between their headquarters and the Leflore County Courthouse, where the voter registration office is located.

Gregory said he would leave as soon as $6,000 could be raised to provide bonds to free 12 Negroes arrested during the voter marches of the past week.

The 12 were convicted on disorderly conduct charges in city court earlier today.

The comedian said he would put the money up himself tomorrow if the funds can't be raised locally. Each drew a 30-day jail sentence and a $100 fine from Judge O. H. Kimbrough.

Second Conviction

It was the first time marchers had been convicted since eight participants in the first march last week were found guilty of breaching the peace.

They were given four-month terms but released yesterday under the "agreement" between the Justice Department and city officials.

The Negroes are protesting alleged discrimination in voter registration.

Gregory criticized the "agreement" last night at a rally attended by about 400 Negroes.

"The Justice Department has made deals with these people and they're still making deals with them," Gregory charged.

He told the audience the Kennedy administration isn't "worried about you because you don't vote."

James Foreman of Atlanta, another of the leaders in the voter drive, said he would follow Gregory's example and depart.

"We feel the situation is less tense," Foreman said.

The announcements by Gregory and Foreman coincided with an obvious loss of momentum in the voter drive.

Only a few Negroes turned out to register today, and they traveled to the courthouse by car.

WITH THIS ISSUE--AFRO'S BIG ANNUAL CAREER SUPPLEMENT

Short Of Cash? You Can Still Go To College

'THRILLED' SAY ASTRONAUT'S PARENTS

Some for Leflore County article

The Afro-American

71st Year, No. 37 | Contents of Newspaper Copyrighted 1963 by AFRO-AMERICAN Co. | BALTIMORE, MD., APRIL 6, 1963 | NATIONAL EDITION | 80 PAGES ★★★★ | 15 CENTS

U. S. BACKS VOTE DRIVE

Showdown Looms Deep In The Delta

Names In The News

FATHER DIVINE — DOROTHY DANDRIDGE

DOROTHY DANDRIDGE, 39, the actress-singer, Friday appeared in federal court at Los Angeles, saying that she was broke despite income that exceeded $100,000 the past two years. She listed debts at $57,000 on unsecured trust deed claims, plus $61,502 to individual creditors. She divorced John Denison, 49, the restaurant operator, last December.

Colleges beckon to all students

BALTIMORE

Although tuition and fees are expected to increase 10 per cent in two years, and overall costs 35 per cent within the next decade, a college education still isn't as expensive as some parents think.

Top-flight athletes and the "cream of the crop" of annual high school graduates are gobbled up immediately by colleges and universities. But what about the students of ability who show financial need?

The first thing to do, educators advise, is to consider a wide variety of colleges — not on the basis of costs, but in terms of the student's planned course of study.

After selecting a college, seek admission. Admission decisions are made independently of requests for financial aid.

* * *

DESPITE THE fact of the often repeated statement that "many scholarships go begging," which isn't quite true, there are a variety of ways for students of ability to finance a college education.

RFK files order plea at Oxford

OFXORD, Miss. — (NNPA) — The Department of Justice started legal action Saturday to prevent further interference with colored citizens attempting to register and vote in LeFlore County, Miss.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy asked Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. of the U. S. District Court of Northern Mississippi here to issue a temporary restraining order prohibiting Greenwood officials from further action against any citizen attempting to exercise his voting rights.

Will make sacrifices, people vow

By MOSES J. NEWSON
AFRO Staff Correspondent

GREENWOOD, Miss. — This is showdown week in the vote registration drive in this delta city where the state's White Citizens Councils maintain headquarters.

As federal officials acted to make permanent a restraining order ending interference with aspirant voters, Leflore Countians braced for stepped-up reprisals.

Nearly 500 persons noisly made clear their determination to stick with the register-vote campaign during a face-the-facts rally Friday night

Names In The News

FATHER DIVINE — DOROTHY DANDRIDGE

DOROTHY DANDRIDGE, 39, the actress-singer, Friday appeared in federal court at Los Angeles, saying that she was broke despite income that exceeded $100,000 the past two years. She listed debts at $57,000 on unsecured trust deed claims, plus $61,502 to individual creditors. She divorced John Denison, 49, the restaurant operator, last December.

* * *

DR. FRANCOIS DuVALIER, embattled president of Haiti, told newsmen at Port au Prince that "I would rather see Haiti disappear in flames than take dictation from abroad. No nation in the world can teach us a lesson," he said, "We are going to celebrate May 22 (Haiti's Independence Day) in the full dignity of our people and our race."

* * *

JUNETTA JONES, 25, of Baltimore, 1960 graduate of the Peabody Conservatory, has been awarded a $2,000 scholarship and a part-season contract to sing with the Metropolitan Opera Co. next season, as a top prize winner in the Met's nation-wide competition for young American singers. Her father's a steelworker; her mother, a beautician.

* * *

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER, Arizona Republican, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, both informed Editor James J. Kilpatrick of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader that they are members of the NAACP. Goldwater said he contributed $400 to help the NAACP desegregate Phoenix, Ariz., schools.

* * *

FATHER DIVINE, who has not been in the news lately, was the target of a lone picket, Jesus Emanuel, in front of Divine's Philadelphia headquarters last week. Emanuel carried a sign claiming blood relationship to "the real Divine" and contending Father Divine is not the true prophet. Emanuel told the AFRO he lives in Brooklyn, N.Y.

* * *

V. TRENTON TUBBS, former AFRO staffer, who became the first press agent of his race hired by a major Hollywood studio, has been released by Warner Bros. "Hawaiian Eye," the television account to which he was assigned, is going off the air.

* * *

MRS. MARY HARPER, a doctoral student at St. Louis University, has been elected president of District Three, Missouri State Nurses Association. All previous presidents have been white.

DR. FRANCOIS DuVALIER — GOVERNOR ROCKEFELLER

Colleges beckon to all students

BALTIMORE

Although tuition and fees are expected to increase 10 per cent in two years, and overall costs 35 per cent within the next decade, a college education still isn't as expensive as some parents think.

Top-flight athletes and the "cream of the crop" of annual high school graduates are gobbled up immediately by colleges and universities. But what about the students of ability who show financial need?

The first thing to do, educators advise, is to consider a wide variety of colleges — not on the basis of costs, but in terms of the student's planned course of study.

After selecting a college, seek admission. Admission decisions are made independently of requests for financial aid.

* * *

DESPITE THE fact of the often repeated statement that "many scholarships go begging," which isn't quite true, there are a variety of ways for students of ability to finance a college education.

Most of the scholarships that "go begging," it was pointed out, are highly restrictive. One such scholarship, for example, can be awarded only to students who don't smoke cigarettes.

Who will get what and how much is determined on the basis of financial need. Colleges and universities usually have only so much money available. It is distributed among the best qualified.

If a student needs $2,000, he is most likely to get $1,500 in scholarship, a $300 loan and a campus job which will pay $200. The loan is repayable at a very low interest rate, after graduation.

* * *

ALSO AVAILABLE are loans under the National Defense and Educational Act program. Students planning to teach get a 10 per cent reduction. The loan is repayable within 10 years after graduation, with payments beginning the first year after graduation.

Other means of financing a college education include state loan programs, bank loans, scholarships and grants from private organizations, and in many cases, scholarships offered by the parents employers.

Quite a few parents, however, begin thinking in terms of a college education for their children before the child enters elementary school.

Included in these long-range plans are bank accounts, deposits in savings and loan associations, mutual funds and insurance policies.

* * *

ON STUDENTS holding jobs, educators agree that students should hold summer jobs, but disagree on the number of hours students should spend on campus jobs. The concensus, however, is 10 to 15 hours a week.

But another bit of advice from educators would have parents, if at all possible, to borrow the money so that the student can spend the time he would use to work to study. How much the parent should borrow should be determined by the student's program.

Another popular method is for parents buying

(Continued on Page 2)

GROUNDED IN MISSISSIPPI — A Civil rights demonstrater is shown on the pavement in Greenwood, Miss., Thursday, as police broke up a march to the City Hall and Courthouse. One man was bitten by a snarling police dog and another had his trousers ripped by the animal.

Astronaut's parents are so excited

WASHINGTON

Air Force Captain Edward J. Dwight Jr. was named as the first colored astronaut last week. The announcement came Saturday from President Kennedy who said he is among 14 new candidates for the Air Force's Aero-Space Research Program at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Capt. Dwight, therefore, becomes the first colored flier involved in the space program designed ultimately to put a man on the moon. At 29 years of age, he has

(Continued on Page 2)

Town is tensed for more violence

By MOSES NEWSON
AFRO City Editor

GREENWOOD, Miss. — Colored Mississippians were told Thursday night the Federal Government encourages them to register to vote, then fails to provide proper protection.

"So far the government has let us down", an enthusiastic overflow crowd in Turner's Chapel AME Church, was told by James Farmer, executive secretary of the Congress of Racial Equality.

The charge hit this tense town as the "scared no more" chant spread throughout Le Flore County, in the face of bullets, dog bites, court convictions and mysterious fires.

Farmer declared:

"It is irresponsible for the administration to encourage people to register and vote on one hand, and then fail to give them protection.

"But with or without protection we will register and vote.

"We will hold the government responsible for anything that happens."

Meanwhile, in Washington the office of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, was reported as saying:

"Now in process of getting a report on what is happening in Greenwood and is prepared to take whatever appropriate action is indicated as soon as possible."

ANOTHER HIGHLIGHT of the mass meeting came when the Rev. Donald L. Tucker

(Continued on Page 2)

KFK files order plea at Oxford

OFXORD, Miss. — (NNPA) — The Department of Justice started legal action Saturday to prevent further interference with colored citizens attempting to register and vote in LeFlore County, Miss.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy asked Judge Claude F. Clayton Jr. of the U. S. District Court of Northern Mississippi here to issue a temporary restraining order prohibiting Greenwood officials from further action against any citizen attempting to exercise his voting rights.

Mr. Kennedy also asked for the immediate release of the eight persons who were arrested last Wednesday when they walked into the Greenwood City Hall to plead for police protection.

* * *

THE EIGHT WERE tried and sentenced to four months in jail and fined $200 each. Appeal bonds for them were set at $500 each.

Those arrested and sentenced were Lawrence Guyot, Lafayette Surney, Robert Moses, James Foreman, James Wilson Jones. Willie Peacock, Charles McLauren and Frank Smith.

Besides the City of Greenwood and LeFlore County others named in the government's application for the restraining order were Greenwood's Mayor Charles E. Sampson, City Prosecutor Gary Evans, Fire and Police Commissioner Buff A. Hammond and City Attorney Curtis Lary.

Also named were LeFlore County Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Smith and County Attorney John J. Frazer.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the release of the eight persons the Justice Department asked the court to instruct Greenwood officials to cease all activities designed to interfere with or hinder all other would-be voters and those assisting them.

Mr. Kennedy asked the court especially to require Greenwood officials to halt

(Continued on Page 2)

Will make sacrifices, people vow

By MOSES J. NEWSON
AFRO Staff Correspondent

GREENWOOD, Miss. — This is showdown week in the vote registration drive in this delta city where the state's White Citizens Councils maintain headquarters.

As federal officials acted to make permanent a restraining order ending interference with aspirant voters, Leflore Countians braced for stepped-up reprisals.

Nearly 500 persons noisly made clear their determination to stick with the register-vote campaign during a face-the-facts rally Friday night in First Christian Church.

* * *

ALL THE KEY civil rights groups cooperating in the registration effort were represented at the meeting.

The drama-packed rally included:

1. A stirring revelation from an elder minister-farmer, the Rev. Jesse Crain, who told how he and 14 others in his family were given three days to leave a plantation at Money, Miss., for trying to

(Continued on Page 2)

People of 'good will' not talking

By MOSES NEWSON
AFRO Staff Correspondent

GREENWOOD, Miss. — A foreigner unable to understand the ominous news coming out of this Delta town should be reminded that this community is but a hoot and holler from where they killed 14-year-old Emmett Till for wolf-whistling at a white woman and an Oxford-jump from where it took the U.S. Army to get James Meredith into Ole Miss.

Also, it helps to know this is headquarters for the state's White Citizens Council, a segregationist group, and that colored persons outnumber whites in the city itself and by nearly 2-1 in Le-

(Continued on Page 2)

LEARN OF DAD'S DEATH — Four of the five children of former featherweight champion Davey Moore, who live in Columbus, O., learn from their mother by phone from Los Angeles of their father's death. They are left to right, David, 5; Denise, 10; Lynise, 3; and Ricky, 8. Simone, 2, is staying with relatives in Springfield, O. Detailed story on sports page.

Dayton opens arms to destitute family from New Orleans

DAYTON, Ohio — Joseph Parker, 33, and his family of eight arrived here last week from New Orleans on a "reverse freedom ride." An NAACP spokesman said she's "reasonable sure he will get a job."

The Parker family was given lodging at the YMCA and the YWCA until social agencies could ready a house for the family on the westside. Various organizations donated food, clothing and utensils.

During an interview with a Travelers Aid Society social worker, Mr. Parker said he would "do anything that's decent" to make a living for his family.

Accuse Fla. plant of rigid color bar

PENSACOLA, Fla. — A company contracing with the government was charged Monday with practicing wholesale discrimination at one of its Southern branches. The branch calls itself, "the first completely integrated nylon plant in the U.S."

A Pensacola resident, employed for nine years by the Monsanto Chemical Co., brought the charges against the branch here, Chemstrand Corporation, where he is assigned.

The employee indicated that "integration" at Clemstrand referred only to its plant layout and definitely not its personnel policy. He charged the company with discrimination in hiring, promotion, pay, and use of plant facilities.

* * *

THE MONSANTO CO., with headquarters at 800 North Lindberg Blvd., St. Louis 66, Mo., produce chemicals, plastics, petroleum products and chemical fibers. Chemstrand, which became a subsidiary last April, specializes in nylon.

The employee said out of 4,000 women employed at Chemstrand six are colored—all restroom attendants and of 3,000 male employees, 300

(Continued on Page 2)

Ban repealed

LINCOLN, Neb. — The Nebraska Legislature Thursday passed a law which for the first time would permit interracial marriages. Utah enacted a similar statute two weeks ago.

Nebraska law previously forbade marriage between whites and those who have one-eighth or more of colored, Japanese or Chinese blood.

WHEN YOU FINISH READING YOUR AFRO PASS IT ALONG TO A FRIEND

Carl Rowan Takes Oath As Envoy To Finland

WASHINGTON (NNPA).—Carl T. Rowan, 37, of Minneapolis, was sworn in March 29 as United States Ambassador to Finland. He plans to depart for his new post in early May.

A group of personal friends, family members, and State Department officials were on hand as Angier Biddle Duke, U. S. Chief of Protocol, administered the oath of office.

Mr. Rowan, who served until recently as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, succeeds Bernard Gufler.

Born at Ravenscroft, Tenn. on Aug. 11, 1925, Mr. Rowan attended Tennessee State University during the 1942 - 43 school year. He joined the U. S. Navy in 1943 and served as a communications officer on a fleet tanker in the North Atlantic.

* * *

FOLLOWING HIS discharge in 1946, Mr. Rowan continued his formal education at Oberlin College where he received a B. A. degree in mathematics in 1947. One year later he was awarded a master's degree in journalism from the University of Minnesota.

The new Ambassador has been granted honorary degrees by Simpson College, Hamline University, Oberlin College and the Distinguished Achievement Award of the University of Minnesota.

Following the completion of his formal education, Mr. Rowan was employed briefly by the Baltimore AFRO - AMERICAN and was then hired as a copywriter by the Minneapolis Star and Tribune. He became a staff writer for that paper in 1950 and held that position until he was appointed to the State Department in 1961. During 1962 he also se rved as a member of the United States Delegation to the 17th United Nations General Assembly.

* * *

WHILE A newspaperman, Mr. Rowan received three successive medallions from Sigma Delta Chi Journalism Fraterity, as well as a number of other honors. He also wrote four books, "South of Freedom" (1952). "The Pitiful and the Proud" (1956), "Go South to Sorrow" (1957) and "Wait 'Til Next Year" (1960).

Ambassador Rowan is married to the former Vivien L. Murphy, of Buffalo, N. Y. They have three children.

FATHER MARSHALL VIRDURE
Facing difficulty? Evil conditions? Bad luck? Seek success, blessing and peace of mind. Prayer and God's daily special blessing is the answer. Phone 262-9343.
88 West Springfield St., Boston, Mass.
"I'll Keep a Light Burning For You."

PROFESSIONAL NURSE VACANCIES
For Staff Nurse positions at Freedmen's Hospital, Washington, D.C., affiliated with Howard University. All the liberal benefits of Federal Employment. Starting salary $4,565 or $5,035 a year (Grades GS-5 or GS-6), depending on experience. Salary may be set at a higher rate if you have had prior Federal service. Must be a graduate of an ac credited school of profession-are colored, all assigned as janitors, cooks, and laborers.

—Chemstrand

(Continued from Page One)

"White" and "colored" signs are posted throughout the plant, he said, except in the administration building. Here signs were taken down to impress visitors, the worker said, but colored employes are told to act as if the signs were still up.

* * *

HE SAID workers at Chemstrand were especially unhappy with the racial policy because the company handles federal projects and because the plant segregation is more strict than in the city generally.

According to a 1962 report, Monsanto handled research for 18 government agencies under 30 separate contracts, made and sold nuclear sources and operated a laboratory for the Atomic Energy Commission. Company contracts extended to 1966.

Pensacola has colored policeman, and sheriffs, and colored sales-girls in downtown stores and at shopping centers, the worker said. School and public lunch counters are integrated and very few drinking fountains and restrooms still have race signs, he said.

* * *

SPECIFIC PRACTICES of discrimination charged to Chemstrand by the employee included the following:

—Non whites are hired only as cooks, janitors, and laborers.

—A colored worker is assigned to fill-in as cashier in the separate cafeteria for non-whites, while the white cafeteria has on duty a paid cashier.

—Colored laborers do all company driving except when white women are involved; white automobile mechanics are called for this task.

—Colored and white workers serve side by side handling company mail, but nonwhites are paid as laborers while whites get mail-handlers' pay.

—Non-whites are not allowed to sit in the company day waiting room; they are assigned a small closet-type room to sit in.

—Non-whites may not enter the employment office where whites are hired.

—A white worker may request the dismissal of a colored driver if he feels the driver does not show proper respect.

* * *

THE WORKER said a fellow Pensacola worker was dismissed because he failed to show enough "respect for a white employee for whom he was driving."

Only colored workers are classified as laborers, according to the employee because this prevents the worker from getting raises. He said his wages after nine years are the same as that of a beginning laborer.

The Chemstrand Corporation has headquarters in New York, and besides Pensacola, has plants at Decatur, Ala; Greenwood, S.C., and a research plant at Durham, N.C.

The parent company, Monsanto Chemical, has 24 plants in the United States, and others overseas.

—RFK files

(Continued from Page One)

—Astronaut's

(Continued from Page 1)

been an Air Force reserve officer and returned to the Air Force in 1960.

Following a stint as a test pilot, Capt. Dwight attended the Aero-Space pilot school at Edwards and will graduate from this course April 19. This school is something of a post-graduate course for test pilots to prepare them for the operation of satellites, manned capsules and other space vehicles.

"WE'RE JUST tickled to death," said his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Dwight Sr., 1616 Seventh St., Kansas City, Kan. In a special interview with the AFRO, the senior Mr. Dwight said:

"The wife and I both are thrilled that our son is the first colored flier selected in the aero-space program."

Mr. Dwight said that his son called Friday night to give him the news but he had gotten it already from Sen. Frank Carlson, (Rep., Kans.). Over the long-distance telephone wires from California to Kansas; Mr. Dwight could hear his son's family celebrating.

The future astronaut's family includes: Mrs. Dwight, the former Sue Lillian James whom he met in his dad's ice cream parlor in Kansas City; a daughter, Tina Sheree, 7, and a son, Edward J. Dwight 3rd, 5.

* * *

THE MAN WHO could be the first to set foot on the moon was reared in a family with four sisters.

"This made him very masculine," his mother said.

The sisters are: Mrs. Rita Wilson, a housemother at boys industrial school in Topeka; Mrs. Mary Lane, Kansas City housewife; Mrs. Elizabeth Chow, wife of an internal revenue official, and Sister Martin Mary, the first homes to use all excess to reduce the mortgage while the children are still in public schools. When a child reaches college age, the house can be re-financed as a means to pay for college costs.

-Colleges

(Continued from Page One)

The time has passed when financial need alone is a block to a college education. The first step toward a college education is a fine high school record.

Mayor didn't want to talk about jobs

GREENWOOD, Miss. — The AFRO called Mayor Charles E. Sampson for more details on the good racial relations he insists "outside agitators" are destroying.

(After introduction). Will you explain further what constitutes good race relations in Greenwood

A — We've had perfect relations between the colored and white people here. There has never been any trouble at all, none.

Q — Are the colored citizens making any progress under. . .?

A — Progress? What do you mean by progress?

1 — For example, are any colored persons now working in city jobs?

* * *

A — YES, PLENTY of them. In street jobs, maintenance and utilities. You know we own our own utilities here.

Q — You mean, Mayor Sampson, in service and janitorial level jobs

A — Yes.

Q — Under the good racial relations situation you speak of here, can you foresee the day when colored persons will get higher level city jobs?

A — No I don't, not what you are talking about (PAUSE). . .

Q — Mayor Sampson -

A — Well look, I'll see you later. I've got someone here waiting for me (CLICK).

—Vow, sacrifices

(Continued from Page 1)

register.

Some shed tears when Rev. Crain declared: "It didn't worry me none. The Lord is my shepherd, I ain't scared no more. Don't talk so much, do me something. Register."

2. A $100 cash gift to Rev. Crain by Medgar Evers, NAACP secretary, who noted:

"We are going to encourage Rev. Crain and any others like him. I might say, where that came from, there is more."

* * *

3. A PLEDGE to match the $100 by James Farmer, executive secretary of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Farmer said CORE would help share the burden of Rev. Crain and others. Adding, "There is also in our office more where that is coming from." 4. Farmer warned his listeners, "Mr. Charlie has more weapons. Don't be surprised if your boss starts putting pressure on you.

"You're in for a long, hard fight. Don't think this is going to be easy.

"No war ever has been won without sacrifice."

He told them (there are more colored people in Greenwood than white and colored predominate in the county near 2-1):

"The white man in Leflore County needs you more than you need him" he said he didn't think the average white woman would be able to take care of a home without help.

* * *

5. CHARLES McDEW, a field secretary for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, guest speaker, reminded the crowd food and clothing are being collected in various cities to support them.

6. Miss Annell Ponder, a field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by Martin Luther King, assured the would-be-voters:

"If you have any difficulty along the lines of Rev. Crain, we will be able to help you."

7. The Rev. Donald L. Tucker, the AME minister bitten by a police dog, challenged the "Little People" to demand their professional people and some ministers stand with them.

"It is very disturbing," he said, "to have Mayor (Charles) Sampson saying the better people here are not in accord with what's going on here. I'm tired of hearing our mayor say it."

He suggested some empty churches on a Sunday morning would cause something to happen.

* * *

8. ATTY. WILEY BRANTON, director of the Voter Education project, a 11-state venture including the Mississippi activities, told the cheering rally:

"The greatest thing President John F. Kennedy could do to show the world we believe in democracy would be to fly down to a little town called Greenwood and say if you want to walk down there and vote, as president of the United States, I''ll walk down there with yoc."

In his address Charles McDew, who has been arrested 27 times, declared:

"President Kennedy has abdicated his responsibility . . . the first duty of a president is protection of the lives of the people."

He said the government has not stood alongside colored citizens who are trying to make democracy safe for the world.

* * *

OUTCOME OF THE rally was that the people overwhelmingly agreed to register no matter the obstacles.

The NAACP, SNCC, CORE and SCLC have combined forces in the Magnolia State to form the Council of Federated Organizations for Mississippi. Aaron Henry of Clarksdale is president.

COFORM is working as a phase of the Voter Education project directed by Branton.

New headquarters have been set up in the Sanders Building.

8 sutdents won't post $500 bail

GREENWOOD, Miss. — Eight student non-violent coordinating committee leaders have refused to post $500 appeal bail on sentences of four months in county jail and $200 fines each.

Atty. Wiley Brandon, chief of the Voter Education Project, said the convictions on disorderly charges would be appealed.

Maximum sentences and fines were imposed by City Judge O. L. Kimbrough.

One of the eight, Lawrence Guyat of Chicago, was given an extra day and an additional $50 fine on a contempt charge growing out of an incomplete hearing on Thursday.

* * *

ELEVEN PERSONS were arrested Wednesday when a group marched downtown protesting lack of protection after shots were fired Sunday night into the home of Dewey Greene, whose son seeks to enter the University of Mississippi.

Sentenced in addition to Guyat, were: Robert Moses, New York: Lafavette Surney, Ruleville, Miss.; James Forman, Atlanta; Frank Smith, Atlanta; James W. Jones, Jackson, Miss.; Willie Peacock, Charleston, Miss., and Charles McLauren of Jackson.

The other three arrested were dismissed or released. Donald Harris, arrested Friday during the walk to register, was later released for lack of evidence.

—Town is tensed

(Continued from Page 9)

told how he was bitten Thursday morning by a dog held by a policeman.

The Rev. Mr. Tucker, 31, said the incident occurred as the group was returning from the courthouse where about six had registered.

As they walked in pairs, police cars pulled up, police jumped out and started commanding "break it up—break it up right now."

of Leflore and is home headquarters for the Mississippi White Citizens Council. Leflore County has a total population of 46,700, of which 30,307 are colored and 16,393 are white.

The Justice Department has FBI agents on the scene but ministers and other citizens continue to complain that they are not receiving protection from either federal or local authorities.

* * *

THE 11 PEOPLE who were arrested here Wednesday ap-

—Good will

(Continued from Page 1) ATTY. WILEY BRANTON

Minnesota

The new Ambassador has been granted honorary degrees by Simpson College, Hamline University, Oberlin College and the Distinguished Achievement Award of the University of Minnesota.

Following the completion of his formal education, Mr. Rowan was employed briefly by the Baltimore AFRO -

FATHER MARSHALL VIRDURE
Facing difficulty? Evil conditions? Bad luck? Seek success, blessing and peace of mind. Prayer and God's daily special blessing is the answer. Phone 262-9343.
88 West Springfield St., Boston, Mass.
"I'll Keep a Light Burning For You."

PROFESSIONAL NURSE VACANCIES

For Staff Nurse positions at Freedmen's Hospital, Washington, D.C., affiliated with Howard University. All the liberal benefits of Federal Employment. Starting salary $4,565 or $5,035 a year (Grades GS-5 or GS-6), depending on experience. Salary may be set at a higher rate if you have had prior Federal service. Must be a graduate of an ac credited school of professional nursing and registered in one of the States or the District of Columbia. Interested parties write the Personnel Officer, Freedmen's Hospital, Washington 1, D.C., for details.—Adv.

CHOIR & PULPIT GOWNS
All Colors and Color Combinations
Badges for Ushers and Organizations
CHURCH FURNITURE DEPT.
Pulpits, Pews, Comm. Tables
Lowest Prices Available
WRITE FOR FREE CATALOG
SPRINGER FASHION UNIFORMS
701 H St., N.E. Washington 2, D.C. — 77 Alabama St., S.W. Atlanta 3, Georgia rally.

According to a 1962 report, Monsanto handled research for 18 government agencies under 30 separate contracts, made and sold nuclear sources and operated a laboratory for the Atomic Energy Commission. Company contracts extended to 1966.

Pensacola has colored policeman, and sheriffs, and colored sales-girls in downtown stores and at shopping centers, the worker said. School and public lunch counters are integrated and very few drinking fountains and restrooms still have race signs, he said.

* * *

SPECIFIC PRACTICES of discrimination charged to Chemstrand by the employee included the following:

—Non whites are hired only as cooks, janitors, and laborers.

—A colored worker is assigned to fill-in as cashier in the separate cafeteria for non-whites, while the white cafeteria has on duty a paid cashier.

—Time cards and pay checks are handled separately for each race and whites may not reveal their pay scale.

—Non-whites are not allowed to attend the company's training school.

—College trained colored applicants are not considered for employment.

* * *

NON-WHITES may not wear coveralls set aside for whites; tan uniforms are for whites, grey for colored.

—Non-whites may not buy coffee or cold drinks from venders in the administration building.

—Non-whites may not engage in recreational play with whites in the company's play grounds.

respect.

* * *

THE WORKER said a fellow Pensacola worker was dismissed because he failed to show enough "respect for a white employee for whom he was driving."

Only colored workers are classified as laborers, according to the employee because this prevents the worker from getting raises. He said his wages after nine years are the same as that of a beginning laborer.

The Chemstrand Corporation has headquarters in New York, and besides Pensacola, has plants at Decatur, Ala; Greenwood, S.C., and a research plant at Durham, N.C.

The parent company, Monsanto Chemical, has 24 plants in the United States, and others overseas.

—RFK files

(Continued from Page One)

the use of police dogs and any other action that would bring bodily harm to those seeking to register and vote.

Included in the government's application to the court were affidavits filed by the Rev. Donald Tucker, minister of Turner Chapel AME Church in Greenwood, who was bitten by one of the dogs, and Arvid Sathern, Justice Department attorney, who witnessed the jailing of the eight persons last Wednesday.

* * *

THE GOVERNMENT said that some 49,998 colored persons live in six Mississippi counties, but only 1,995 had succeeded in registering to vote.

the aero-space program.

Mr. Dwight said that his son called Friday night to give him the news but he had gotten it already from Sen. Frank Carlson, (Rep., Kans.). Over the long-distance telephone wires from California to Kansas; Mr. Dwight could hear his son's family celebrating.

The future astronaut's family includes: Mrs. Dwight, the former Sue Lillian James whom he met in his dad's ice cream parlor in Kansas City; a daughter, Tina Sheree, 7, and a son, Edward J. Dwight 3rd, 5.

* * *

THE MAN WHO could be the first to set foot on the moon was reared in a family with four sisters.

"This made him very masculine," his mother said.

The sisters are: Mrs. Rita Wilson, a housemother at boys industrial school in Topeka; Mrs. Mary Lane, Kansas City housewife; Mrs. Elizabeth Chow, wife of an internal revenue official, and Sister Martin Mary, the first colored nun in the "mother house" of the Sisters of Charity order in Leavenworth.

* * *

"HE WAS A good boy," Mrs. Dwight said, "a boy like every mother wants.

"He always like to tinker with machinery. He has driven a car since he was 14 and before he was 21, he had owned four.

"He bought and paid for all of them himself with the odd jobs he held while going to school. Now he's 29 and he's owned about eight cars."

Mrs. Dwight said her son is five feet, two inches tall but played football in high school and won letters in track in high school and junior college.

Breaking the ice is nothing new to him. He was the first colored pupil at Ward Catholic High School in Kansas City. He also attended Donnelly and Kansas City Junior Colleges.

He was graduated from Arizona State College at Tempe with a degree in aeronautical engineering.

* * *

"WHEN EDDIE was here last summer," his mother continued, "he spoke for the Holy Name Society. He told them and he told me that he wished he could stress to young people to go after the things in life they want.

"He never believed in waiting for something to come to him but, rather, one should prepare himself and go after what you want."

* * *

A CONGRESSIONAL spokesman said of the Dwight appointment: "He is a top boy and could easily be the first American to set foot on the moon."

Captain Dwight begins training in mid-June in the Dyna-Soar (X-20) program which envisions an earth orbit mission with the landing on the ground rather than at sea.

This program, administered by the Air Force, parallels the NASA Gemini project, which is the program designed to put men on the moon. However, it is no presently coordinated with the NASA program although such coordination is expected.

1 — For example, are any colored persons now working in city jobs?

* * *

A — YES, PLENTY of them. In street jobs, maintenance and utilities. You know we own our own utilities here.

Q — You mean, Mayor Sampson, in service and janitorial level jobs

A — Yes.

Q — Under the good racial relations situation you speak of here, can you foresee the day when colored persons will get higher level city jobs?

A — No I don't, not what you are talking about (PAUSE)...

Q — Mayor Sampson -

A — Well look, I'll see you later. I've got someone here waiting for me (CLICK).

—Good will

(Continued from Page 1)

flore County.

With that background, try some statements.

Leaders of the Council of Federated Organizations for Mississippi say they have been shot at, burned out, jailed and attacked by police dogs for trying to register people.

* * *

GREENWOOD MAYOR Charles E. Sampson says outside agitators have done these things themselves — to get publicity.

The Rev. Donald L. Tucker, pastor of Turner Chapel AME Church, says he was bitten on the left ankle by a police dog after a jeering group urged a policeman to let the dog at him.

A police officer denied the minister was bitten by the dog.

Dr. Mable T. Garner said "Rev. Tucker was bitten, had several bites about his ankle, swelling of the foot, pain and stiffness of the leg.

"I treated him and sent him to Greenwood - Leflore General Hospital where he got further treatment from Dr. Howard Nelson, who advised him to rest four or five days.

"That must mean he had a bite, not a scratch."

ATTY. WILEY BRANTON of the Voter Education project called Leflore "a major break through against fear in Mississippi."

And James Farmer, executive secretary of the Congress of Racial Equality, drew cheers from a packed church when he said a special CORE task force was heading for Greenwood.

But Mayor Sampson says the colored people of Greenwood and Leflore County are happy with the good race relations they already have and will help "Get rid of these outside agitators."

The night James Farmer told a clapping mass rally that the Kennedy Administration is letting colored registrants down, the Mayor told a Citizens Council rally Kennedy had a lot of unfriendly people there asking questions.

* * *

WHITE CITIZENS are saying colored voters would take all the city and county if all could register and vote.

Not so, says local leaders. However they agreed with a statement by Atty. Branton, "I would be naive to not say you will not elect people who would sic dogs on a minister of the Gospel."

Back to Mayor Sampson: "If anybody starts anything, it won't be the white or colored people of this city."

Civil rights leaders call for city, state and federal protection, saying so far "all the violence has come from the other side."

One unnamed prominent banker says of the rights groups, "This whole thing is the most calculated, most sinister and most damnable thing in the history of mankind. They're out to destroy an All-American City."

NOW, DAVE DENNIS, a local CORE field secretary: "I'm here tonight because I'm tired of being called boy, Ni--er, and told I can't sit here, can't do this, can't do that.

"But every Sunday he's at my door to pick up my black mammy to go cook for him."

Said Jim Farmer: "I just wish those people of goodwill in Leflore who are not black would stand up and be counted."

So far, no statement from that quarter to confuse anyone — not a peep.

SEN. WAYNE MORSE, Oregon Democrat, told students at the University of Bridgeport, Conn., that there are more colored persons holding doctorate degrees than there are colored plumbers and elecctricians. He blamed the imbalance on job discrimination. He added this discrimination is slowing down the national rate of economic growth by depriving colored citizens of purchasing power.

care of a home without help.

* * *

5. CHARLES McDEW, a field secretary for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, guest speaker, reminded the crowd food and clothing are being collected in various cities to support them.

6. Miss Annell Ponder, a field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by Martin Luther King, assured the would-be-voters:

"If you have any difficulty along the lines of Rev. Crain, we will be able to help you."

7. The Rev. Donald L. Tucker, the AME minister bitten by a police dog, challenged the "Little People" to demand their professional people and some ministers stand with them.

"It is very disturbing," he to form the Council of Federated Organizations for Mississippi. Aaron Henry of Clarksdale is president.

COFORM is working as a phase of the Voter Education project directed by Branton.

New headquarters have been set up in the Sanders Building.

Jones, Jackson, Miss.; Willie Peacock, Charleston, Miss., and Charles McLauren of Jackson.

The other three arrested were dismissed or released. Donald Harris, arrested Friday during the walk to register, was later released for lack of evidence.

—Town is tensed

(Continued from Page 9)

told how he was bitten Thursday morning by a dog held by a policeman.

The Rev. Mr. Tucker, 31, said the incident occurred as the group was returning from the courthouse where about six had registered.

As they walked in pairs, police cars pulled up, police jumped out and started commanding "break it up—break it up right now."

* * *

HE QUOTED someone as saying "Hey, the black preacher ain't going to move."

Another voice from the crowd of whites said, "Let the dogs bite the black b——d," the minister recalled.

He said the dog brushed him and he fell while he was down, the dog bit him on his left ankle.

The Rev. Mr. Tucker said an officer told him, "You aren't hurt, you better get out of here, I can't keep these people off you much longer."

The young minister said a newsman took a picture but police confiscated the film.

Later, he told the AFRO. "I'm a little more determined now than ever."

* * *

MR. FARMER told the cheering audience that when the police dog bit the minister, he "stuck his fangs into the legs of 20 million colored people in the United States and millions of people all over the world.

"As I look at your faces, I know that a few dogs and a few bullets through windshields and a few fires can't stop you."

Mr. Farmer promised the Mississippians a special CORE task-force would be be sent to help them.

* * *

ATTORNEY Wiley Branton, director of the voter education project in 11 Southern states, called the Leflore operation "a major breakthrough against fear in Mississippi."

Aaron Henry of Clarksdale, who heads the Council of Federated Organizations in Mississippi, declared:

"We are not giving in to fear any longer.

"The cooperation evident here means this is one project that's going to succeed."

* * *

MR. BRANTON was given thunderous applause when he stated:

"We decided it was time for the colored man to stop running."

"Mr. Branton, who often is mistaken for a white man, told the crowd his father was born in Greenwood, his grandfather in Leflore County, and that the latter's father's name was Greenwood, Leflore.

He said all the violence so far has come from the other side.

Mr. Branton said "Democracy is more on trial here in Greenwood than anywhere else and the rights groups are here to stay until every person who wants to register does so."

* * *

GREENWOOD CITY has a population of 20,436; 10,586 of whom are colored. There are 9,850 whiites.

Greenwood is county seat of Leflore and is home headquarters for the Mississippi White Citizens Council. Leflore County has a total population of 46,700, of which 30,307 are colored and 16,393 are white.

The Justice Department has FBI agents on the scene but ministers and other citizens continue to complain that they are not receiving protection from either federal or local authorities.

* * *

THE 11 PEOPLE who were arrested here Wednesday appeared in court Thursday before City Judge Orman Kimbrough. Two were found not guilty, one had his case postponed; trial of another was held up when he was cited for contempt; and the others were found guilty.

They are scheduled to be sentenced on disorderly conduct convictions at 1 p.m. Friday.

They are: James Foreman, case postponed; Laurence Guyat, held in contempt of court; Charles McLauren, found guilty; Lafayette Surner, found guilty; James W. Jones, found guilty; Robert Moses, New York, in charge of the registration operation, found guilty;

Also: Curtis Haves, found guilty; Frank Smith, found guilty; Willie Peacock, found guilty; Robert Talbert, found not guilty; Henry Smith, dismissed.

Mr. Guyat, of Chicago, was cited for contempt when he interrupted the testimony of Curtis Lary, police chief. Chief Lary said that mob violence could have been caused by the colored group. When Mr. Guyat disputed this, the judge held him in contempt.

Earlier in the day the Greenwood City Council said that the tension in the city was caused by "outside agitators."

THE AFRO-AMERICAN
Published every Saturday by the AFRO-AMERICAN Company, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md., MUlberry 5-6015.

Second class mail privilege authorized at Baltimore, Md.

Carl Murphy, Chairman of the Board; John H. Murphy, 3rd, President; Elizabeth M. Phillips, Vice President and Treasurer; Mae E. Dyson, Secretary; Cliff Mackay, Editor; Art Carter, Managing Editor.

A CHAMPION OF CIVIC WELFARE AND THE SQUARE DEAL

National Advertising Representatives
Amalgamated Publishers, Inc. 310 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York

Affiliated Newspapers
Baltimore AFRO-AMERICAN 628 N. Eutaw St. MUlberry 5-6015
Washington AFRO - AMERICAN, 1800 11th St., NW — DEcatur 2-0080
Philadelphia AFRO - AMERICAN, 427 S. Broad St. — KIngsley 5-1927
Richmond AFRO-AMERICAN, 301 E. Clay St., MIlton 3-7112
New Jersey AFRO - AMERICAN, 190 Clinton Ave. — BIgelow 8-3636

$11.00; 1 year, $7.25; six months, $4.00

Foreign Rages
1 year, $11.50; Six months $6.00.

YOU CAN EARN FROM $2 TO $10 EVERY WEEK BY DELIVERING AN

AFRO ROUTE

IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

START NOW!

. . . always on the job!

Rain or shine, hot or cold, you can depend on your newspaper boy steadfastly to maintain his schedule of deliveries to your doorstep.

YOUR AFRO DISTRIBUTOR OF THE WEEK:

CARELOCK DILLIE

MARSHVILLE, N.C.

FOR COMPLETE DETAILS Write

THE AFRO-AMERICAN
BALTIMORE 3,
P.O. BOX 1857
BALTIMORE, MD.,

YOUR NEWSPAPER STANDS ON THE FRONTIER OF FREEDOM

UPSET SKIN?

PIMPLES, RASHES, ECZEMA, TETTER MAKING YOUR LIFE MISERABLE?

Don't scratch! . . . it can cause infection! Stop! Internationally famous Palmer's "Skin Success" Ointment contains eleven important ingredients skillfully compounded . . . induces fast, blessed relief when skin cries "help"! Don't risk disfigurement or dangerous infection by scratching tormented upset skin. Use the skin comfort secret of millions . . . Palmer's "Skin Success" Ointment. Only 35c. Large economy size containing four times as much, only 75c. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

LOVELIER COMPLEXION

. . . plus head-to-toe protection with the deep-acting foamy medication of "Skin Success" Soap. It beauty bathes while it fights germs that often aggravate ugly blemishes and perspiration odors . . . makes you sure you're nice to be near. Palmer's "Skin Success" Soap. Only 25c.

DEPENDABLE QUALITY SKIN CARE PRODUCTS SINCE 1840

VOLUME 47—NUMBER 184 Greenwood Commonwealth 4-6-63

Peaceful City Seen For Future

Leflore Cty

Federal Court Agreement Eases Tension; 12 Tried In City Court

The tension which has gripped the city for the past three weeks appeared to be easing today.

The critifal point in the situation was reached Thursday in a federal courtroom in Greenville when the federal government announced it was withdrawing its request for a temporary restraining order against the city and county police.

When this notice was made public here it brought an air of satisfaction not only to city and county officals who have stated all along that they were doing the right thing, but it also gave the citizens of the city the satisfaction of knowing that local law enforcement officers would remain in control.

This move broke the back of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee's efforts to create more demonstrations.

It was just minutes after the decision of the court was made public that a line of marchers headed down Broad Street then turned back for their headquarters That afternoon, with the aide of James Forman, Negro leader of SNCC from Atlanta, who had just been released from jail, a new effort was made to breathe life into their demonstrations, but it failed.

When the trial of 12 persons was held at the city court it could be seen from the actions of their attorney, Wiley Branton, Negro from Atlanta, that they knew they were broken.

Branton while representing the eight Negroes first convicted on th breach of peace charge said no bond would be posted. But when the 12 were convicted Friday he said bond would be made for them and they would appeal the cases.

Justice Department had dropped it request for a temporary restraining order was because they were pleased with the way the city had been handling the matter.

It was learned this sentiment was voiced by John Doar when he met with city attorneys to work out the agreement reached Thursday.

Mayor Charles Sampson and Co missioners W. G. Mize and Hammond have all said that 'We are real proud of our good colored citizens who have not been taken in by these outside agitators from other states and areas. We are also proud of the way the white citizens of the community have acted in helping us to maintain peace and order. It could not have been done with out the help of thse people.'

People who have been close to the situation are all forecasting that it should be back to normal in Greenwood in a short while.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who Commissioner B. A. Hammond said, "started out with 40 followers, then dwindled to 19 and then to 3 and is a pest," made known that he planned to leave Greenwood when bond was posted for these last 12.

Hammond also made known that the city will continue to handle the situation just as it has in the past. He did say Friday afternoon,' as long as the situation exists as it has and we feel it is better in order to prevent an incident a bus will be provided for the Negores, either to take them back to their headquarters or to jail."

It has been learned from a highly placed source that the reason the

✦ ✦ ✦

Convicted 12 Expected To Post Bond

Appeal bonds were expected to be made today for 12 Negroes convicted yesterday in police court on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The 12 tried yesterday were arrested Wednesday afternoon by the police after they refused to disperse at the corner of Avenue E and McLaurin Streets.

Judge O. L.Kimbrough sentenced each of the 12 to 30 days and a $100 fine. The days on four of those were suspended pending their good behavior for a period of two years.

Those convicted yesterday were: Ida Holland, 18, of Greenwood; Eric Rainey, 19, of Chicago; Levi Hamilton, 25, of Greenwood; M. L. Hancock, 27, of Greenwood; James Sanders, 28, of Chicago; Henry Smith, 59, of Greenwood; Robert Kinlock, 40, of New York; John Turner, 18, of Greenwood; Oscar Broom of Chicago; Mathew Hughes, 19, of Greenwood; Henry Gilmore, 22, of Greenwood, and Willie McGee, 21, of Greenwood.

SERS Library

NEW YORK TIMES
P/E
Date APR 7 1963

SERS
Library

THE NEWS OF TH

Eyes Southward

Greenwood, Miss.

Leflore

A key tool in the administration's program to assure Negroes their constitutional rights is the drive for voter registration. Attorney General Robert Kennedy has made it clear that he counts on an enlarged Negro electorate to vote down racial barriers. Toward that goal, the Justice Department has filed voting suits against Southern localities. Negroes themselves have spurred the drive through voter registration programs.

In many areas the combined efforts of the Administration and local Negroes have had some success. Thus far, Mississippi has been the hardest nut to crack; but Negroes there, spurred by the admission of James Meredith to the state university last fall, have stepped up their registration efforts. The most concerted effort thus far has been in Leflore County, where 95.5 per cent of the 10,274 whites of voting age are registered, and only 1.9 per cent of the 13,567 Negroes.

The registration drive in Greenwood, the county seat, began last month. Hundreds of Negroes have filed into the Leflore court house to fill out registration applications; two are known to have been accepted. In the name of "law and order," the city has arrested groups of Negroes for "disorderly conduct" and "blocking traffic," and accused "outside agitators" of leading the drive.

Gregory's Role

Last week, the struggle in Leflore gained national attention when the comedian Dick Gregory, a Negro, led four marches on the court house, and was roughed up during one by a policeman. But when police arrested 19 Negroes Wednesday afternoon, they did not touch Mr. Gregory — presumably because they wanted to minimize publicity over the incident. As they drove the prisoners away, he taunted them: "You dirty dogs. You're nothing but a bunch of dirty dogs."

The Justice Department sought to aid the drive in Federal court in Greenville, Miss. Last week Judge Claude Clayton opened a hearing on a department request for an injunction against Greenwood officials. The department agreed not to press its request immediately, and the city released eight imprisoned Negroes. The agreement raised hopes for talks between city officials and the Negroes.

The outcome of the Leflore drive may have crucial bearing on the rights struggle in Mississippi. As the first major Negro effort to get the vote there, its success would undoubtedly encourage Negroes elsewhere in the state. If it fails, white resistance is expected to become even more determined.

Embattled Powell

Adam Clayton Powell, the Democratic Congressman from Harlem, recently has seemed to run into trouble at every turn. He has been under attack in Congress for junketing and nepotism; Republican Senator John Williams of Delaware called him "an authority on adult delinquency." Mr. Powell has also drawn the fire of integrationist leaders for assailing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for permitting whites in leadership positions.

Last week Mr. Powell came out on the losing end of another dispute. A jury in New York found against him in a civil libel case and ordered him to pay $211,500 to the plaintiff. She is Mrs. Esther James, whom Mr. Powell in a 1960 television program called "a bag woman [graft-collector to accept gamblers' payoffs] for the Police Department."

Mrs. James greeted the verdict with the remark: "I was afraid of the king in Harlem, but I found out this is America." Mr. Powell said he would appeal.

file Leflore County 1963

a good profit—from the fertilizer he sold the farmer and the spray materiel etc. etc. But where does the farmer stand? A big loss, year after year until right now 95 percent of the farms are in debt, to the limit. We know. Only a few years ago we were free of debt and had small savings but now its all gone, everything. Everything, through no fault of ours—only because we raise potatoes for every Tom, Dick, and Harry to make a good profit from. Two years ago, we had to finance under FHA and this spring the Federal Land Bank plans to slap a foreclosure on, because of 2 years delinquent taxes. This week the price of potatoes dropped from $2.15 to $1.50 a barrel when we had hoped, by now, to be getting at least $3 for these beautiful seed potatoes and we could have avoided that foreclosure. Last spring there were 30 foreclosures in Fort Fairfield alone (by Federal land bank). (No hearsay—the Fort Fairfield FHA manager told me himself.)

Last spring our next door neighbor walked off the farm that had been in that family for 70 years. They were young folk, college graduates who wanted to farm where his father had made a good living for his family and had sent four children through college (losing one (lieutenant) in the Korean war). This can be duplicated hundreds of times in our farm families. We are in a desperate condition. The consumer has no pity for us, and I don't blame them, when they pay $5.50–$6 per barrel for the same potatoes we get $1.50 for, right here in our county, where we grow them. There is too big a spread between the producer and consumer; and each one makes a profit, all but the producer, who's at the mercy of everyone. No one labors so hard and such long hours as we do, and so many are sick at heart, after 6 years of unheard of low prices. It is much worse than the depression years, as one could squeeze a dollar in those days, but production costs are so high. How embarrassing to present a check for produce sold, to the FHA and ask for enough from it, to pay the light bill, gas bill, groceries, and so forth, after being so independent all these years.

We are 60 years old and had supposed these years would be our best ones, after all the hard work, the saving, the long hours of waiting when we could take things easier, and so forth. Most farmers' wives work at some job, but because of a brain injury, at birth, to our only child, 38 year ago, she is retarded and only because we love her so much, have all these years been bearable—but I am unable to follow my profession of teaching because of this.

I'm sorry to have written such a long letter, but I feel we must, outlaw the trading on the Mercantile on Maine potatoes. They have us bound and there is no hope for us, if they continue this damaging practice. In three different referendums the farmers have voted it out by 93 percent, but it still is here.

Please do all you can to help us get rid of it. Maine is the only State that allows it and potatoes are the only agricultural product not getting a subsidy, and the potato industry is the hardest hit financially, of all the agricultural products. The diversion program was not enough to make a dent in the situation, and helped very little. High-paid officials aren't helping us any, nor the processing plants.

Congratulations to you on your courage to speak out with convictions on many issues and let them know there are still people in Government who stand for the right and not afraid to say so.

My apologies for such a lengthy letter.

Sincerely,

MRS. FLOYD J. KIERSTEAD.

P.S. As you must know—Maine is the only State allowing trading of potatoes on Mercantile Exchange. This week the price dropped from $2 per barrel to $1.75 because on Monday the Mercantile plunged 13 cents. Then on Thursday the price dropped from $1.75 to $1.50 because the Mercantile took another plunge of 13 cents. I noticed the price in the stores remained the same—49 cents per bushel.

ON LIVING TOGETHER

Mr. STENNIS. Mr. President, the Evening Star published in Washington, D.C., in its issue for Monday, April 8, 1963, carried an editorial entitled "On Living Together."

Mr. President, this editorial has to do with recent events at Greenwood, Miss., and on the broader subject of racial relations among the people who live in the Deep South.

The author of the editorial has a clear understanding, great tolerance, and a very practical approach and viewpoint upon this matter. This is one of the best editorials I have ever read written outside of the immediate area in question. I commend the editorial writer and the Evening Star highly. It is only through better understanding and a consideration of the practical points involved that we avoid trouble and make progress.

I wish to give this publication to my colleagues as well as to the people of the United States; therefore, I ask unanimous consent that the editorial may be printed in the body of the RECORD.

There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

ON LIVING TOGETHER

The legal "truce" which has been arranged in the clash over registering Negro voters in two Mississippi counties strikes us as being a rational settlement of what looks very much like a phony issue.

Several days ago the Justice Department asked a Federal judge in Greenwood, Miss., to issue a temporary restraining order barring any interference with registration of Negro voters. The judge declined to issue such an emergency order, and set Thursday of last week as the day for a hearing in which the Mississippi officials could be heard. Somewhere along the line a closer look apparently was taken, the so-called truce was arranged, and the court hearing was put off until October.

We doubt that it will ever be held. For the indications, or at least those available in press reports, do not suggest that there has been any concerted plan or effort to prevent Negroes from registering as voters in Greenwood or Leflore Counties.

Not having been born yesterday, we do not think that the white people in those counties, heavily outnumbered by Negroes, would like to encourage Negro voting. The fact is, however, that the Associated Press has reported day after day that the local authorities in the two counties were permitting Negro registration by individuals and in small groups. What the police were breaking up were marches on the registration places by large groups of Negroes—some of whom possibly were eligible voters and many of whom certainly were not. After all, the risk of incitement to race riot in Mississippi is something that cannot be ignored.

Why the Department of Justice at first jumped eagerly into this situation, and then backed off, we do not know. If the real purpose was to help insure the right of qualified Negroes to register as voters, that was both necessary and proper. If, on the other hand, the purpose was to grab some of the headlines from such as Negro comedian Dick Gregory, the action of the Justice Department was wrong and unworthy.

At one meeting in Greenwood, a Negro preacher from Texas said that mass demonstrations were unwise. "We've got to live together," he stated, "and all the fault is not in the white man." An audience of some 350 Negroes called him an "Uncle Tom" and shouted him down.

In modern vocabulary, "Uncle Tom" has become a term of opprobrium. It suggests that any Negro who is not actively fighting the white man is betraying his own race. We suspect, however, that in time it will be shown that the preacher in this instance, the Reverend W. R. Fairley, was right. For when the last demonstration is over, when the Justice Department has made its last gesture, when all Negroes who went to register and who are qualified have been registered, the truth of the Reverend Mr. Fairley's statement will remain, "We've got to live together."

APPOINTMENT OF STUDENTS TO SUMMER FEDERAL JOBS

Mr. CARLSON. Mr. President, I want to commend the Chairman and the members of the Civil Service Commission for their very prompt and definite action in regard to the appointment of students to summer Federal jobs.

There were many positive evidences that the appointments of students to summer jobs were to be made on the basis of political patronage.

The order issued to the heads of executive departments and agencies of our Government not only contains quotations from the civil service rules in regard to this, but also contains statements on the part of the Commission which completely prohibit the clearing of jobs for students through the Democratic National Committee or the White House.

I ask unanimous consent that the order issued by the U.S. Civil Service Commission of April 5 and also a column written by Jerry Kluttz, which appeared in the Washington Post this morning, be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the order and column were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION,
Washington, D.C., April 5, 1963.

To the heads of executive departments and agencies:

Recent press reports alleging that political clearance is necessary for summer employment in civil service positions in the Washington metropolitan area indicate serious misunderstanding about this program. The image of the Federal service can be gravely damaged and future quality staffing can be jeopardized unless all doubt as to the integrity of merit system operations is dispelled. We must make sure that no steps are taken to defeat the President's expressed intention "to protect fully the civil service merit system."

Political clearance in filling competitive civil service positions is clearly illegal, as shown by the following quotations from the civil service rules:

"SEC. 04.2. Prohibition against racial, political, or religious discrimination: No person employed in the executive branch of the Federal Government who has authority to take or recommend any personnel action with respect to any person who is an employee in the competitive service or any eligible or applicant for a position in the competitive

p12 file Reflare

IE NEW YORK TIMES, TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1963.

Russians Denounce Travel Curb As Caused by 'Terror' in South

MOSCOW, April 8 (AP)—Tass complained today that Soviet correspondents were not permitted to visit Southern areas of the United States.

A dispatch by the Soviet press agency from New York began: "Racists continue terrorizing the Negro population and its leaders in the South.

The dispatch concluded:

"Realizing that political terror in the South of the United States contradicts the attempts of American propaganda to present the United States as a country of equal opportunities and a model democracy, the American authorities do not permit Soviet correspondents to visit the Southern states.

"Permits for such trips were recently refused, because of temporary reasons, to the correspondents of Tass, Pravda, Trud, Selskaya Zhizn and Moscow radio, who are accredited in New York."

About one-fourth of the Soviet Union is off limits to Americans. Americans stationed in Moscow must get special permission to travel outside the Moscow area.

The Soviet ban applies to Americans stationed in Moscow and to those in the Soviet Union temporarily.

'Tense Situation' Cited

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 8—The State Department said today it had canceled the travel privileges of two groups of Soviet correspondents going from New York to Mississippi because of "the tense situation" there.

Under a State Department memorandum of Jan. 6, 1961, holders of Soviet passports are limited to prescribed areas within 25 miles of New York and Washington and to specified automibile routes between those cities and resort areas used by Soviet diplomats.

The rravel restrictions are based on "strict reciprocity with their restrictions on travel by Americans in Russia," a spokesman said, "and we don't like them." Since last summer, the restrictions have not applied to Soviet visitors on exchange programs.

Procedures for travel by Soviet newsmen outside the prescribed areas require a travel plan to be filed in advance at the State Department. If the State Department does not deny permission within 48 hours, the travel plan is assumed to have been approved.

file Jeffor Cabeg

Debate on H.R. 5517 — making supplemental appropriations for fiscal year ending 6-30-63

erated Public Works Act was to assist communities of this type. If we fail to make available the money, there will be no water system at Quicksand, Ky., in the foreseeable future. The local people just do not have the means to support a project of this type. These are a few of the projects that are dependent upon this appropriation. There are some 40 applications pending in the district that I represent, including 8 administration buildings such as courthouses.

If we cannot give assistance to people in such circumstances, then I certainly think this Congress is being derelict in carrying out its responsibility. We know that this program is being administered well notwithstanding what may be said about it.

Mr. BOLAND. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PERKINS. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. BOLAND. I compliment the gentleman on his statement. If there is anyone who knows about depressed areas and the unemployment problem, it is the gentleman who is now addressing us in the well of the House. At page 111 of the hearings, I had inserted by the ARA a list of the States and the areas in which this money is being expended. As the gentleman just indicated, the people who are running this program have done a fantastically fair, reasonable and equitable job in a very, very difficult program.

Mr. PERKINS. And they have done a nonpolitical job.

Mr. BOLAND. Yes, they have done a nonpolitical job. There is no question about that and the record bears that out. The record with respect to the distribution of funds among the States clearly shows that those States that have had the largest percentage of unemployment have benefited the most by this program and they include States like Kentucky, the State from which the gentleman now addressing us from the well of the House comes, and the States of Tennessee, West Virginia, Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. These are the States that have received the most under these programs and these are the States that have had the worst problems with respect to unemployment. I congratulate the gentleman on his statement.

Mr. PERKINS. In southeastern and eastern Kentucky, southwestern Virginia, in the Williamson, West Virginia area, and particularly in the district of my good friend, the gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. SILER], I can think of millions of people who have been affected by recent floods and where their communities have bonded indebtedness to the hilt. They deserve and expect this assistance and I am certainly hopeful that we will not put the dollar ahead of our people.

This nation cannot afford to expend our substance in idleness, for that would be as wasteful as burning our forests, and sealing our mines. We need to make these communities more attractive for industry. They need sewer systems to dispose of their waste, water lines to permit them to sustain life more easily, other utilities, such as roads and streets. To get these they are willing to put up some of their own money for the results are tangible. The unemployed and underemployed in these communities are given an opportunity to work. The project takes shape before their eyes. A program of this type is our only hope to make these communities, such as we have in the coal-producing sections, attractive for industry.

We need to extend this program further. We need to provide an additional program that will put people to work cleaning up the streams and building country roads, especially in these depressed areas where we have one-third of our people unemployed.

Mr. Chairman, I think this appropriation should be restored. It is good economy to restore these funds.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the distinguished gentleman from Mississippi, senior member of the committee [Mr. WHITTEN] such time as he may consume.

(Mr. WHITTEN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WHITTEN. Mr. Chairman, first may I say with regard to the public works item which has been discussed here today, I have always been a strong advocate of domestic public works. In fact, in 1959 when President Eisenhower vetoed the public works bill of that year because it provided for 67 new starts, I was the author of the successful motion which overrode the President's veto and saved the 67 new starts in public works.

Insofar as the particular program, however, is concerned, it has always been my belief that it would be much better if you had a set of rules in connection with the selection of these projects. As it stands now, as I understand it, the criteria is whether it is a depressed area which in turn is set by unemployment. I respectfully submit that that is only one element to be considered. There are other features such as local tax rate, the tax structure, the assessed valuation of the area, the indebtedness of the county and of the city. The thing that creates most of the problems in a given district is the use of only one yardstick in the determination. Frequently this leads to the area of greatest need being overlooked. Not only that, but the question is raised why one area was included and the other one left out, and that in turn leads to some real explaining, if I may use that phrase. Also, it is apparent that if funds here were restored, four out of five projects which either are or would be approved, could not be financed—and the prohibition by the committee against buying land would eliminate still others.

I repeat I am for public works. I truly believe my successful motion to override President Eisenhower's veto—which was the first time in history that any President had to take that which he had vetoed where the House had first sustained him in his veto—was probably the act of which I am most proud. I repeat what I said then, "the greater the national debt the more imperative it is to look after our own country, develop our harbors, harness our rivers, and improve our country. Here, however, we need some guide rules for fair treatment based on value and need.

THE MISSISSIPPI SITUATION

Mr. Chairman, in Mississippi we are up against a difficult situation. I represent the district in which is located the University of Mississippi. I have been sorely distressed, not only at what has been done to my fine university by the Federal Government but to government itself. I believe in my 21 years here I have been temperate in my remarks. I do not recall ever having any controversy with any of my colleagues which reached personalities, but included in this bill are funds for the restoration of money that was expended for the use of U.S. marshals and Assistant Attorneys General at the University of Mississippi. May I say that we in the Mississippi delegation feel very strongly about it, and we feel we are right that such use was not within the law.

For the record I want to point out several things. One of the first is that the Supreme Court had not rendered a final decision when this action by the Attorney General and the President was taken. The next is that under the law of the State of Mississippi the only police force that any Governor has is the State militia. The State militia was taken from the Governor by the President prior to this movement of Federal marshals into the area. The highway patrol in Mississippi is limited in its jurisdiction to the highways and places adjacent thereto, thus the Governor was without any force to maintain order. Later I shall point out other facts which have not been brought to your attention.

In this bill is an appropriation of $559,000, as requested by the President's proposed supplemental budget, Presidential Document No. 61.

I quote:

> For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses, U.S. attorneys and marshals," $1,140,000.
>
> This proposed supplemental appropriation includes $559,000 for the cost of enforcing court orders in the University of Mississippi school registration case and $581,000 to cover the cost of pay increases under Public Law 87-793.

In the report of the committee, page 11, is this statement:

> Department of Justice. The Department has included in the bill $1,110,000 for salaries and expenses of U.S. attorneys and marshals. The allowance will require that 5 percent of the cost of pay increases be absorbed.

Then I refer you to pages 561 and 562 of the hearings where facts were developed as to the personnel, equipment, and weapons which were used on that occasion.

May I ask the chairman of the subcommittee or a member of the Committee on the Judiciary whether this is to restore funds that heretofore have been expended or to pay obligations now existing?

Mr. ROONEY. The total amount requested with regard to U.S. attorneys and marshals is comprise of two items; first, the amount of the pay increases, which was cut to the extent of 5 percent, and the amount in connection with the Mississippi incident.

With regard to the Mississippi incident, this is to replenish funds for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service to the extent of $185,880; the Bureau of Prisons, $31,389; the U.S. marshals' appropriation itself, $294,362; the U.S. attorneys' appropriation, $491; the Civil Rights Division, $27,950; the Civil Division, $12,337; and $6,591 for the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice.

This supplemental appropriation would replenish these various accounts in the Department of Justice for the costs of the people they had at Oxford, Miss., during this unfortunate period of time, including equipment, including gasoline for the automobiles, and mileage for the deputy marshals and employees at the usual 10 cents a mile.

Mr. WHITTEN. May I ask a further question. The gentleman mentioned the Immigration and Naturalization Service. May I say that Service advised our House delegation from Mississippi that they supplied a plane, but their plane happened to be available for this use.

Mr. ROONEY. It appears at page 565 of the printed hearings that there were 316 specially deputized enforcement officers from the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Mr. WHITTEN. This does not apply to the use of the plane that belonged to that Service but applies to the personnel?

Mr. ROONEY. Yes.

Mr. WHITTEN. Does the gentleman have the authority under which funds that had been appropriated for different purposes last year could be diverted to this use, as was done in this case?

Mr. ROONEY. I think that this was a part of the activities of each one of the branches of the Department of Justice.

Mr. WHITTEN. The Immigration and Naturalization Service, may I say, has a different authority.

Mr. ROONEY. I submit to the gentleman they are all law enforcement officers, and that is what they were there for in Mississippi.

Mr. WHITTEN. May I say to the gentleman, the Comptroller General supplied a listing of statutes under which the Federal Government acted. As the gentleman may appreciate we do not agree.

Mr. Chairman, I serve on the Appropriations Subcommittee for Defense. When the Secretary of Defense was before our committee, I questioned him relative to the Mississippi episode. It was developed that the Federal Government used 22,000 soldiers in Oxford and adjacent areas at a time when we had only 6,000 soldiers in Berlin.

I would like to quote from a distinguished military man who rose to the rank of general as to whether these orders were in accord with general law.

I quote:

I have served in a command status with the National Guard, the Reserves, and 9 years on active duty in three wars. This was practically always in a command status, from a battery on up to a division or posts, commanding 35,000 officers and men. Therefore, I believe that I have been fully exposed to the regulations governing command, authority, and the responsibilities of a commander. After reading the Look article (much of the information contained therein, I presume, was given to Messrs. Alsop and so forth by the Attorney General's office), I assume that this is the Department of Justice's position in the matter. It would appear unquestionably that Mr. Kennedy, in making these charges, takes the position that there should have been a divided command at the University of Mississippi. How he expected Governor Barnett to maintain law and order after the President had taken away from his command 11,000 officers and men of the Mississippi Air and Army National Guard, is inconceivable. Had he armed the 50 State patrolmen, he would have set up a separate force on the field along with the 100-odd marshals who were present under arms.

In all of my experience in the military, I have never heard of a divided command authority. The regulations do not even countenance such a situation, but are very explicit in requiring that the senior officer take full command, full authority, and full responsibility. Especially during a riot, anyone should realize that two commanders under such circumstances would be impossible in the employment of armed forces.

I am taking the liberty of forewarding to you photostatic copies of Army Regulations No. 600-20, dated August 11, 1960, subject "Personnel—General, Command," along with changes 4 and 5 which represent the current regulations dealing with command. I believe that these regulations will bear out my point that under any conditions where Federal troops are employed, the overall command, authority, and responsibility rest with the senior officer present. In the case at Ole Miss, this was Mr. McShane who had command over the U.S. marshals and later the National Guard units when they appeared on the field. Later General Billingsley assumed the overall command, including the Army troops who were brought in. In my opinion, in the face of these regulations and the regulations quoted in my previous letter, had Colonel Birdsong with his 50 patrolmen—attempted to exercise any authority or control over the situation in maintaining law and order, he could have been subject to arrest and prosecution for interference with the implementation of Army Regulations No. 600-20.

When the Secretary of Defense, Mr. McNamara, was before our Appropriations Committee I requested him to list the orders issued in connection with the University of Mississippi. I quote them here:

From: DA Wash DC

To: The Honorable Ross R. Barnett, Governor of Mississippi.

Info: CG, Army National Guard, State of Mississippi; CG, Air National Guard, State of Mississippi; CG, USCONARC, Ft Monroe, Va; CG, US Army Three Ft McPherson Ga; COFS USAF; UNCLAS

From: The Secretary of the Army, Cyrus R. Vance.

Subject: Calling Army and Air National Guard units into Active Federal Military Service.

In order to enforce the laws of the United States and to enforce any orders of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit Court for the removal of obstruction of justice in the State of Mississippi with respect to matters relating to enrollment and attendance at the University of Mississippi, Oxford, Mississippi, the President has exercised the authority vested in him by the Constitution and laws to authorize the Secretary of Defense to call the Army National Guard and Air National Guard of the State of Mississippi into active Federal service as necessary for that purpose.

I am, in consequence, instructed by the Secretary of Defense to transmit through you his call into the service of the United States for an indefinite period and until relieved by appropriate orders as of and from 0002 EDT, September thirtieth, nineteen hundred and sixty-two, all of the Army and Air National Guard organizations of the State of Mississippi, and all personnel assigned thereto, which the President desires shall be assembled at their respective Army National Guard armories and Air National Guard air bases in the State of Mississippi.

National Guard units so called will be under the operational command of U.S. Army Field Commander, Brig Gen Charles Billingslea, who will issue timely instructions through the commanding officers of the Army and Air National Guard of Mississippi.

Commanding General, U.S. Continental Army Command will furnish necessary administrative and logical support to Army National Guard. Personnel procedures, Section II, Army Regulations 130-10, and paragraph 32, Army Regulations 135-300 will apply.

For Air National Guard units, logistical and administrative support will be furnished by the gaining command. The Mississippi Air National Guard units of appropriate gaining commands are:

153d Tac Recon (Meridian)—Tactical Air Command

183d Aeromod Transp Sq (Jackson)—MATS

238th Mobile Communications Flt—AF Communications Service Personnel procedures are set forth in AFM 45-2.

For your information, the text of the order from the Secretary of Defense is quoted as follows:

"By virtue of the authority conferred upon me by the President under the provisions of Executive Order 11053 dated 30 September 1962, I hereby call into the active military service of the United States, effective 0002, 30 September 1962, all of the units and members of the Army National Guard and Air National Guard of the Stae of Mississippi, to serve in the active military service of the United States for an indefinite period and until relieved by appropriate orders.

"I further direct the Secretary of the Army to take such action as he deems necessary, utilizing active Army forces or the National Guard units and members named in the first paragraph above, or both, to implement the mentioned Executive Order and this Order, and I hereby delegate to the Secretary of the Army any and all of the authority vested in me by the mentioned Executive Order with respect to the use of such active Army forces and the use of such National Guard units and members.

"Copies hereof shall be furnished forthwith to the Governor of Mississippi and to the commanding officers of the Army National Guard and Air National Guard of the State of Mississippi."

Origin: OSA

Distr: OCS, AAA, ACSI, (MA'S), AF, AFIE, AMC, AMS, ASBCA, ASESB, CH, CI, CLL, CMC, COMPT, CONARC LN, CORC, CSCPD, CSMD, CUSR, DACC, DASA, DCA, DCSLOG, DCSOP (MAAGs & MSNs), DCSPER, DIA, DPSC, DSA, ENG, FAAO, FIN, FT MCNAIR, FT MYER, HIS, ICAF, IG, JAG, JBD, JCS, MDW, MED, MPS, NAVY, NBPRP, NGB, NGRP, NSA, NWC, OSD, OSS, PDC, PMG, R&D, RES, SCAF, SDMIC, SHAPE LN, SIG, TAG, TC, USASA LN, USRSG, WSEG, AMMC, ENG COM DC, JBUSDC, MLC, PJBD, SEL SVC, STATE, USDEL IADB

From: DA WASH DC
To: Brig Gen Charles Billingslea, Memphis Naval Air Station; Tenn
Info: CGUSCONARC
CGUSARMYTHREE Ft McPherson Ga
COFS USAF: (DLVL)
CNO: (DLVD)
Secret DA 919745. From DCSOPS for Gen Billingslea.

1. (S) You are designated field commander of all U.S. Army Forces, except those assigned to Tent City, but including National Guard units of the State of Mississippi, which may be called to action by the President, employed to enforce Federal authority. You will carry out the provision of EXECUTIVE ORDER No. 11053, dated 30 Sep 62, subject, PROVIDING ASSISTANCE FOR THE REMOVAL OF UNLAWFUL OBSTRUCTIONS OF JUSTICE IN THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI:

WHEREAS on September 30, 1962, I issued Proclamation No. 3497 reading in part as follows:

"Whereas the Governor of the State of Mississippi and certain law enforcement officers and other officials of that State, and other persons, individually and in unlawful assemblies, combinations and conspiracies, have been and are willfully opposing and obstructing the enforcement of orders entered by the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit; and

"Whereas such unlawful assemblies, combinations and conspiracies oppose and obstruct the execution of the laws of the United States, impede the course of justice under those laws and make it impracticable to enforce those laws in the State of Mississippi by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings; and

"Whereas I have expressly called the attention of the Governor of Mississippi to the perilous situation that exists and to his duties in the premises, and have requested but have not received from him adequate assurances that the orders of the courts of the United States will be obeyed and that law and order will be maintained:

"Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, including Chapter 15 of Title 10 of the United States Code, particularly Sections 332, 333, and 334 thereof, do command all persons engaged in such obstructions of justice to cease and desist therefrom and to disperse and retire peaceably forthwith;" and

Whereas the commands contained in that proclamation have not been obeyed and obstruction of enforcement of those court orders still exists and threatens to continue:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, including Chapter 15 of Title 10, particularly Sections 332, 333, and 334 thereof, and Section 301 of Title 3 of the United States Code, it is hereby ordered as follows:

Section 1. The Secretary of Defense is authorized and directed to take all appropriate steps to enforce all orders of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and to remove all obstructions of justice in the State of Mississippi.

Section 2. In furtherence of the enforcement of the aforementioned orders of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, the Secretary of Defense is authorized to use such of the armed forces of the United States as he may deem necessary.

Section 3. I hereby authorize the Secretary of Defense to call into the active military service of the United States, as he may deem appropriate to carry out the purposes of this order, any or all of the units of the Army National Guard and of the Air National Guard of the State of Mississippi to serve in the active military service of the United States for an indefinite period and until relieved by appropriate orders. In carrying out the provisions of Section 1, the Secretary of Defense is authorized to use the units, and members thereof, ordered into the active military service of the United States pursuant to this section.

Section 4. The Secretary of Defense is authorized to delegate to the Secretary of the Army or the Secretary of the Air Force, or both, any of the authority conferred upon him by this order.

THE WHITE HOUSE, September 30, 1962.

2. (S) In carrying out your duties, you will be directly responsible to the Chief of Staff, United States Army. You will establish your headquarters initially at Memphis NAS, Tennessee. Direct liaison is authorized with USAF and US Navy agencies and with the local representative of the United States Attorney, the Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Oberdorfer in all matters connected with your duties as field commander.

3. (S) You will assume command of such Regular Army forces allocated for this operation upon their arrival at Columbus and Memphis or at such other arrival point as may be designated. You will assume command of all National Guard forces which are ordered to active duty in connection with the execution of the President's Executive Order. In this respect, you will, on approval of the Dept of the Army in each instance, order into the area(s) of operations only those units of the National Guard of the United States called into the service of the United States which you require for the performance of your mission. You will direct the remaining National Guard units to remain at their home areas, subject to your orders.

4. (S) In carrying out your assigned mission, you will use the minimum force necessary.

5. (S) Direct communication with the Department of the Army (DCSOPS) is authorized and directed. To facilitate this measure, the Chief Signal Officer will establish direct line telephone facilities between your Field headquarters and the Office of the Director of Operations, ODCSOPS.

6. (S) Major General Creighton W. Abrams, Jr. is designated as the personal representative of the Chief of Staff for this operation. While not in the chain of command, he is authorized to issue orders in the name of the Chief of Staff.

7. (S) Necessary staff, logistics and administration support will be provided to you by CG, Third Army.

8. (S) You will insure that this headquarters is kept fully informed of the operation through the submission of reports as follows:

a. Telephonic spot reports every two hours on the odd-numbered hours.

b. Interim telephonic reports on major changes which warrant the immediate attention of this headquarters.

c. Written periodic reports covering each six-hour period, ending 1700 hours local time and transmitted so as to reach this headquarters by 0400 hours the following day.

d. You will be informed of any changes in these reporting requirements.

SCP 4.

From: DA WASH DC
To: CG XVIII AIRBORNE CORPS OXFORD MISS; CGUSCONARC FT MONROE VA
Info: CGUSARMYTHREE FT MCPHERSON GA; CGUSARMYTHREE (REAR) MEMPHIS TENN; COFS USAF; UNCL From DCSOPS.

1. You are directed to redeploy to home station, effective 101400Z Oct, the following units:

Hq XVIII Airborne Corps.
Hq 101st Airborne Division.
1st Battle Group, 327th Infantry.
1st Battle Group, 501st Infantry.
503d MP Battalion.
Hq 82d Airborne Division.
1st Battle Group, 187 Infantry.
82d Signal Battalion.
Appropriate support elements.

2. CG XVIII Airborne Corps will pass command of all operations under his command to the CG, 2d Infantry Division, Brig Gen Charles Billingslea, at a time agreed upon by the two commanders. This time will be reported to the DA. The CG, 2d Infantry Division, Brig Gen Charles Billingslea, will be directly under command of the Chief of Staff, United States Army, General Earle C. Wheeler. Continuous reliable telephone and teletype communications will be sustained between the DA and the command post of the CG, 2d Infantry Division. The CG, 2d Infantry Division will assure continuous, reliable, adequate communications between his command post and all operational elements immediately subordinate to his headquarters. This will include appropriate and adequate communications between the commander and his command post and/or his subordinate elements whenever he is absent from the command post. Adequate aviation support will be provided the CG, 2d Infantry Division.

From: DA WASH DC
To: CG XVIII AIRBORNE CORPS FT BRAGG NC
Info: CGUSCONARC FT MONROE GA; CGUSARMYTHREE FT MCPHERSON GA; COFS USAF; CNO, BRIG GEN CHARLES BILLINGSLEA, MEMPHIS NAS, TENN
Secret DA919750 From DCSOPS exclusive for Gen Howze. Sgd. Gen Parker.

1. (S) Upon your arrival in the objective area in Mississippi you will contact Brig Gen Charles Billingslea. At that time you are designated field commander of all U.S. Army Forces, except those assigned to Tent City, but including National Guard units of the State of Mississippi which have been called to action by the President, employed to enforce Federal authority. You will carry out the provision of EXECUTIVE ORDER No. 11053, dated 30 Sep 62, subject, PROVIDING ASSISTANCE FOR THE REMOVAL OF UNLAWFUL OBSTRUCTIONS OF JUSTICE IN THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI.

Whereas on September 30, 1962, I issued Proclamation No. 3497 reading in part as follows:

"Whereas the Governor of the State of Mississippi and certain law enforcement officers and other officials of that State, and other persons, individually and in unlawful assemblies, combinations and conspiracies, have been and are willfully opposing and obstructing the enforcement of orders entered by the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit; and

"Whereas such unlawful assemblies, combinations and conspiracies oppose and obstruct the execution of the laws of the United States, impede the course of justice under those laws and make it impracticable to enforce those laws in the State of Mississippi by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings; and

"Whereas I have expressly called the attention of the Governor of Mississippi to the perilous situation that exists and to his duties in the premises, and have requested but have not received from him adequate assurances that the orders of the courts of the United States will be obeyed and that law and order will be maintained:

"Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, including Chapter 15 of Title 10 of the United States Code, particularly sections 332, 333 and 334 thereof, do command all persons engaged in such obstructions of justice to cease and desist therefrom and to disperse and retire peaceably forthwith;" and

Whereas the commands contained in that proclamation have not been obeyed and obstruction of enforcement of those court orders still exist and threatens to continue;

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, including Chapter 15 of Title 10, particularly Sections 332, 333 and 334 thereof, and Section 301 of Title 3 of the United States Code, it is hereby ordered as follows:

Section 1. The Secretary of Defense is authorized and directed to take all appropriate steps to enforce all orders of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and to remove all obstructions of justice in the State of Mississippi.

Section 2. In furtherance of the enforcement of the aforementioned orders of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, the Secretary of Defense is authorized to use such of the armed forces of the United States as he may deem necessary.

Section 3. I hereby authorize the Secretary of Defense to call into the active military service of the United States, as he may deem appropriate to carry out the purposes of this order, any or all of the units of the Army National Guard and of the Air National Guard of the State of Mississippi to serve in the active military service of the United States for an indefinite period and until relieved by appropriate orders. In carrying out the provisions of Section 1, the Secretary of Defense is authorized to use the units, and members thereof, ordered into the active military service of the United States pursuant to this section.

Section 4. The Secretary of Defense is authorized to delegate to the Secretary of the Army or the Secretary of the Air Force, or both, any of the authority conferred upon him by this order.

THE WHITE HOUSE, September 30, 1962.

2. (S) In carrying out your duties, you will be directly responsible to the Chief of Staff, United States Army. You will establish your headquarters initially in the vicinity of Oxford, Mississippi. Direct liaison is authorized with USAF and US Navy agencies and with the local representatives of the United States Attorney in all matters connected with your duties as field commander.

3. (S) You will assume command of such Regular Army forces allocated for this operation upon their arrival in Mississippi. You will assume command of all National Guard forces which are ordered to active duty in connection with the execution of the President's Executive Order. In this respect, you will, on approval of the Dept. of the Army in each instance, order into the area(s) of operations only those units of the National Guard of the United States called into the service of the United States which you require for the performance of your mission. You will direct the remaining National Guard units to remain at their home areas, subject to your orders.

4. (S) In carrying out your assigned mission, you will use the minimum force necessary.

5. (S) Direct communication with the Department of the Army (DCSOPS) is authorized and directed. To facilitate this measure, the Chief Signal Officer will establish direct line telephone facilities between your field headquarters and the Office of the Director of Operations, ODCSOPS.

6. (S) Major General Creighton W. Abrams, Jr. is designated as the personal representative of the Chief of Staff for this operation. While not in the chain of command, he is authorized to issue orders in the name of the Chief of Staff.

7. (S) Necessary staff, logistics and administration support will be provided to you by CG, Third Army.

8. (S) You will insure that this headquarters is kept fully informed of the operation through the submission of reports as follows:

a. Telephonic spot reports every two hours on the odd-numbered hours.

b. Interim telephonic reports on major changes which warrant the immediate attention of this headquarters.

c. Written periodic reports covering each six-hour period, ending 1700 hours local time and transmitted so as to reach this headquarters by 0400 hours the following day.

d. You will be informed of any changes in these reporting requirements.

SCP 4.

From: DA WASH DC
To: CO USARMY FORCES OXFORD MISS
Info: CGUSCONARC FT MONROE VA; CG USARTHREE FT McPHERSON GA; COFS USAF WASH DC; CNO WASH DC; CONFIDENTIAL DA 920510 From DSCOPS. Ref: A.
DA 920432, 19 Oct 62; B. 2d Inf Div, Oxford Miss AJHGT-R-20-2-2; C. CO USARMY FORCES Oxford Miss RRGT-R-20-3-3; D. DA Msg 919745, 30 Sep 62; E. DA 919746, 30 Sep 62.

1. Refs A, B and C above pertain to the change of field commander of US Army forces in Oxford, Mississippi special operation. Effective with the change of command 202030Z Oct 62, all the responsibilities and authority directed to General Billingslea by refs D and E are hereby transferred to Col Lucien F. Keller.

2. Comments and recommendations regarding guidance and policy contained in refs D and E will be addressed to DA. SCP 4.

From: DA WASH DC
To: CO US ARMY FORCES OXFORD MISS
Info: CGUSCONARC FT MONROE VA; CGUSARTHREE FT McPHERSON GA; UNCLAS DA320296 from DCSOPS. Reference: a. US ARMY FORCES OXFORD MISS RRGT S2-1-1 DTG 212210Z OCT 62; b. DA 919746 ATG 301322Z SEP 62.

Recommendation in Reference a is approved. This message constitutes authority to revise paragraph 4d(2) Reference b as requested in Reference a.

(This changes the priority of use of minimum force. Change attached.)

From: DA WASH DC
To: BRIG GEN CHARLES BILLINGSLEA, MEMPHIS NAVAL AIR STATION, TENN
Info: CCUSCONARC, FT MONROE VA; CCUSARMYTHREE FT MCPHERSON GA, COFS USAF CNO

Secret DA919746 from DCSOPS for Gen Billingslea. Ref DA 919745, the following additional instructions are provided:

1. (FOUO) The following fragmentary order is based on assumed Army missions resulting from expected Executive Orders. Although the mission and tasks may alter slightly, the general concept of the operation should remain firm.

2. (S) SITUATION:

a. (FOUO)) Mississippi State official(s) and police prevent the enrollment and attendance of Mr. Meredith at the University of Mississippi, Oxford, Mississippi.

b. (S) SECRET.

3. (S) MISSION:

a. (S) SECRET.

b. (FOUO) DA takes all appropriate steps to enforce any orders of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi for removal of the obstruction of justice in the State of Mississippi with respect to matters relating to the enrollment and attendance of Mr. Meredith at the University of Mississippi located at Oxford, Mississippi.

4. (S) TASKS:

a. (FOUO) Concept of Operation: This operation will be a two-phase operation:

Phase I: (S) Secret.

(FOUO) Removal of all obstruction that interferes with the enrollment and attendance of Mr. Meredith at the University of Mississippi.

(FOUO) Phase II: Maintenance of law and order upon completion of Phase I. In this operation the Army will use minimum strength and force to accomplish its mission. This does not preclude the use of the entire Task Force Oxford, if necessary.

(FOUO) b. Task Force Oxford—General Billingslea, Commanding.

(FOUO) (1) Remove all obstruction interfering with enrollment and attendance of Mr. Meredith at the University of Mississippi.

(2) (S) SECRET.

(FOUO) (3) Be prepared for assignment of any National Guard units that may be called into the service of the United States. In this respect:

(FOUO) (a) If situation permits, have units perform duties at home station.

(FOUO) (b) Plan for the phasing-in of National Guard units and the eventual release of all Regular Army units from the Oxford, Mississippi area. Timing on this will be determined by the situation.

(FOUO) c. DA Agencies (omitted).

(FOUO) d. Coordinating Instructions:

(FOUO) (1) For the purpose of this operation, it is desired that minimum strength necessary be employed. If a squad can do the job, do not employ a platoon. Accordingly, to assure successful completion of the mission, reserve forces must be responsive to any degree of escalation requiring more troops.

(FOUO); (2) For the purpose of this operation, it is desired that minimum force necessary be applied. Normally, force will follow this priority: unarmed rifles (no bayonets); unarmed rifles (fixed bayonets with sheaths on); tear gas (ON); unarmed rifles (fixed bayonets, unsheathed); loaded rifles. Similar: priorities for carbines and pistols. A desire for minimum force must not jeopardize successful completion of mission.

(FOUO) (3) Whenever possible, Federal marshals should take action when civilian personnel (ring leaders, etc.) should be taken into custody. When it becomes necessary for Army personnel to taek this action they will immediately seek a Federal marshal to take over such custody.

(FOUO) (4) The Army mission calls for removing the obstruction to justice. It does not require the physical or actual escort of Mr. Meredith; (S) Secret.

(FOUO) The Army provides only the assurance that no one will interfere with the Federal marshals carrying out the court orders. Federal marshals will do the actual apprehension and escorting; the Army clears the path. This policy will apply to any subsequent missions resulting from Executive Order(s), unless directed otherwise by DA.

(FOUO) (5) Riot Control Gas (CS) or (CH) may be used when its use is clearly required to accomplish the mission and lesser efforts would not suffice. Authority to use CS or CH is delegated to Brigadier General Billingslea, who is not authorized to further delegate this authority.

(FOUO) 5. (U) Administration and logistics:

(FOUO) DA furnishes PAG and CINFO support as previously announced.

(FOUO) 6. Command and signal:

(FOUO) a. Command: When Gen. Billingslea assumes command of Task Force in objective area, command lines are from Task Force to DA.

(FOUO) b. Signal: DA supports as previously announced.

SCP 4.

JOB015
Priority
DE RUEPJO Ø46
PR 212216Z
FM CO US Army Forces Oxford Miss
To Dept of the ARMY War Room Wash DC
Info CG USCONARC Ft Monroe Va
CG 101ST ABN CORPS BT Bragg NC
CG 101ST ABN Div and Ft Campbell KY
CG 2D INF DIV Ft Benning GA
DA GRNC
BT
In reply refer to RRGT S2-1-1
Application of force in Oxford area

1. (U) REFENENCES:

A. DA 919746 FROM DCSOPS FOR GEN BILLINGSLEA DTG 3Ø1322Z SEP 62 (NOTAL).

B. TELECON COL JUNG DA WAR ROOM/LT COL CONNELL, OXFORD,

2. IT IS RECOMMENDED THAT THE INSTRUCTIONS IN PARAGRAPH 4D(2) OF REFERENCE A. BE REVISED AS FOLLOWS:

"FOR THE PURPOSE OF THIS OPERATION, IT IS DESIRED THAT

Page two REEPJO Ø46

Minimum force necessary be applied. NORMALLY APPLICATION OF FORCE WILL FOLLOW THIS PRIORITY:

First: Unloaded rifles with bayonet fixed with scabbard on bayonet.

Second: Unloaded rifles with bare bayonets fixed.

Third: Tear gas (CN).

Fourth: Loaded rifles with bare bayonets fixed."

3. Experience in the Oxford area during the period 3Ø Sep 1 Oct clearly demonstrated that the unloaded rifle without bayonet did not provide an adequate means to insure the first application of force necessary for crowd or riot control.

SCP 4
BT
21/2235Z

From: DA WASH DC
To: CG FT BENNING GA
Info: COUSCONARC FT MONROE VA; CGUSARTHREE FT MCPHERSON GA; CGUSAOX OXFORD MISS
From: OCSOPS for COLONEL WARREN HODGES. Reference DA 920510 and DA 320206.

1. You are designated to replace Colonel Lucien Keller as field commander of all U.S. Army Forces in Oxford, Mississippi (USAOX).

2. References above pertain to responsibilities and authority assigned to Colonel Keller as COUSROX. Colonel Keller will pass command of all operations under his command to Colonel Hodges at a time agreed upon by Colonel Keller and the Chief of Staff, General Wheeler. When this passing of command takes place, the responsibilities and authority stated in referenced messages will be transferred to Colonel Hodges. Portions of these references that appear to be past history remain as guidance for any subsequent event similar in nature. SCP 4.

Mr. Chairman, we have had further troubles in our fine State, and it is certainly believed, and there is much evidence to support the fact, that this agitation and disturbance has been for the purpose of reaping certain benefits in other sections of the United States. In my judgment, as I have said many times, once any government takes into its hands the absolute control, uses all services and all money and, as Secretary McNamara says, spends $5 million, certainly they never stop short of going the whole hog, and I hope we can, when this item is reached in the reading of the bill, delete these funds from this measure.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WHITTEN. I yield to the gentleman from Iowa.

Mr. GROSS. General Walker was arrested by the Federal Government when he put in an appearance in Oxford, Miss. I am not in a position to say whether he should or should not have been there, but he was arrested. Does it not seem to the gentleman that it is strange no arrests have been made since by the Federal Government of anyone coming into the State of Mississippi for the purpose of creating a disturbance? Is it not strange that no one else has been arrested on the same basis as General Walker was arrested?

Mr. WHITTEN. May I say to the gentleman from Iowa that professional agitators, people who admittedly went there to create trouble, who have said they meant to stay in Greenwood, Miss., until the Federal Government sent troops, have not only gone without Federal arrest but have had the help of U.S. attorneys. They were and are on the opposite side from that which General Walker was charged with taking. These people, trying to incite local people to riot have gone free of arrest by the Federal Government. It appears there are two rules—not only in Mississippi but here in Washington. While I know others disagree, I am convinced that sending troops to Oxford, prior to final court decision by the Supreme Court, was beyond the authority of any Attorney General or President.

Mr. GROSS. I cannot help but wonder whether there are two standards of justice and law enforcement on the part of the Department of Justice.

Mr. WHITTEN. Mr. Chairman, ours is a small State. To lose its vote by reason of supporting present agitators who are doing their best to force the Federal Government to send more troops there, would not hurt any national campaign too much, if thereby appeals could be made to the large minority votes of other States.

Truly we must be proud of the officials of Greenwood, Miss., and of Leflore County who have withstood these efforts to create riots and every other thing which would give excuse for a second movement of troops into Mississippi.

These officials sincerely feel that the Federal Government has made real efforts to support those who would incite to riot the people in the area.

The mayor has pointed out that the initial cause of the trouble at Greenwood has never been listed, beginning with the night of February 27 when a car occupied by five Negroes reportedly tried to run down some white youths who were walking alongside a highway.

Arrests were made and charges of felonious assault were lodged against the Negroes involved. They are now free on bond awaiting the action of the Grand Jury. This episode has either not been mentioned, or has been watered down in news reports.

The city cites events beginning with activist Negro Samuel Block's report that on different occasions he had been shot at, beaten, and had his Greenwood office set afire by white persons. The statement said each of the incidents had been investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and that in each case no evidence was found that indicated Block's reports to the Justice Department were true.

In the case of Block's reported beating, immediately thereafter Block was engaged in his usual activities, and was observed by many persons to have no sign of injuries.

Full investigation proved his charges to be wholly untrue, but the false picture created by the giving of nationwide publicity to Block's statement has never been corrected. The FBI investigated the matter, and it is our belief that the Department of Justice has full knowledge that Block's accusations were not true.

On the night of March 26, when an unidentified person shot into the house of a Negro here, the mayor said:

It was known to everyone here, including representatives of the Justice Department, that the Negro organizations presently in Greenwood were deliberately framing criminal charges against white people for crimes against Negroes.

Through good fortune or advanced planning, no one was hurt in the shooting.

On the subject of the city's dispersal of groups of Negroes marching on the Leflore County Courthouse with the use of one police dog, city officials said:

This action is not designed to prevent or impede voter registration. Little effort has been made to explain to the American public that there is no plausible reason for the marches.

In fact, the groups dispersed are advised by the police that they can proceed to the courthouse in an orderly fashion if they desire to do so.

It is difficult for us to comprehend why the Justice Department should dictate to us what should or should not be done to preserve safety on the streets of Greenwood when it is common knowledge that they either cannot provide or do not provide protection for the people using the public streets of Washington, the headquarters of the Justice Department itself.

As yet no one has been seriously hurt in Greenwood. We have never had race riots in Greenwood and we want none now.

If a crime occurs in a community, it does not follow that the community is peopled by criminals. We make no claim to perfection, but we join with most civilized people in being unalterably opposed to violence.

Mr. Chairman, who would have believed this could have happened in the United States? The use of Federal might may suit some people in this instance, for they may believe the end justifies the means. But they are wrong. Power once used will continue to be used—and I would point out here, for the executive department through the Department of Justice, to intervene in private suits in the courts, obtain the decree sought from the Court, and then use the military to enforce the decree, can only mean the executive and the judiciary are working hand in hand, and the balance of power—legislative, judiciary, and executive has gone by the boards.

Remember, no other democracy ever survived under such use of power. Thus are dictatorships made.

(Mr. WHITTEN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LANGEN. Mr. Chairman, I yield minutes to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. KYL].

(Mr. KYL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KYL. Mr. Chairman, a short while ago the gentleman from Ohio, after quoting indisputable authority, suggested that we should get our think factory working in regard to this bill. Now, this Member will confess that as he enters his third term in this body he almost gets to believing that he thinks better than he did when he came, probably because he finds himself agreeing with certain esteemed colleagues. Then all of a sudden he realizes that he really is not thinking better at all, but that he just has a little higher regard for a poor opinion. Some of the Members perhaps remember the old Earthworm Tractor stories that used to run in the Saturday Evening Post. I suggest that there is some comedy of errors going on in the public debt acceleration program which makes the hero of the Earthworm Tractor stories, Mr. Elmer Botts, look considerably like Ralph Waldo Emerson.

I know about one program, and I want to relate a few facts concerning it.

The gentleman from Oklahoma stated a moment ago that there are two primary criteria for this public works acceleration program. First, that it must meet a need in the community and, second, it must make jobs.

Mr. Chairman, no doubt these are fine criteria. But I would ask, Mr. Chairman, to prove Robert Burns' old observation that "the best-laid schemes o' mice an' men Gang aft agley."

In the Fourth Congressional District of Iowa there are two counties which are labeled depressed areas. They did not ask for this designation. One of these counties we shall refer to hereafter as county A. It asked for $379,000 to perfect a waterworks extension. It is labeled "APW-41." The reason this extension was needed was the fact that there was an industry moving into the community which would employ 1,100 people. That is making jobs, you see. Everything was "go" on this project. All of the engineering was completed. It was ready, and it could have an accelerated public works designation. The industry, incidentally, was not attracted by ARA or APW. So, these people made application and, as I say, it was the first one presented in the region. The regional office said of this project, "These papers are finest we have seen. This is a wonderful project. This is it. This is a good one. We will see that it goes through immediately."

So, it came to Washington, and after a time I called some of the people downtown in the Department. I said, "How are we moving on APW-41 for county A in Iowa?" They said, "We have to turn this project down because under our fair distribution formula"—a formula, incidentally, which the regional office did not know existed at that time—"under our fair distribution formula we cannot approve a program for more than $200,000."

Mr. Chairman, being someone who wanted to get some of the goodies for his own district, I said, "Why can we not reduce the amount of the request to $200,000 and let the home folks supply the rest?" They said they would check this, which I assume they did, in a period of about a week. The answer came back, "No; we cannot do this."

Incidentally, in spite of the fact they cannot approve project 1 because it was over $200,000, this same county submitted a request for another program to the regional office and was advised to take it home and make it bigger because it was not big enough. It answered the local purpose, but this one was not big enough.

On March 15 our office received a list of approved public works projects, as your offices did, and included here was the project for county A listed as Grade and Base Coarse, and note the amount—$385,000.

Mr. Chairman, we did not get our waterworks to the factory which was going to employ 1,100 people, but somewhere there was this program which had been approved to grade and put on a base coarse costing not $200,000, but $385,000.

Well, I immediately called the Department.

Mr. Chairman, to my amazement, or I guess I really was not amazed, nobody in the Department knew where this project was or what it was or whether it had been approved. But after about 10 days they found it, not in ARA, not in Accelerated Public Works, not through any request anyone had made from the district, but in the Bureau of Public Roads. Somebody said this has to satisfy a local need, people have to ask for it. These people at home in the county office, in the city office, the OEPD people, nobody knew anything about it. But here it was on the books.

Mr. Chairman, to make this long story short, we finally found that this project is to grade and improve 4.9 miles of road leading to an Iowa State Park. But the road is not even located in county A, or any other depressed county. It is in a county that has never received such a designation.

Mr. Chairman, the industrial plant is being built without the benefit of this money. I suppose this means that the county will no longer have a depressed status, and I might suggest that there are some who will not be greatly disappointed.

Mr. Chairman, after listening to a lot of the debate on the floor this afternoon, I would say that it is quite obvious that there are many Members here who are concerned directly with unemployment, but it is very obvious that the unemployment which concerns them most is their own.

Mr. BOLAND. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MOORHEAD].

(Mr. MOORHEAD asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MOORHEAD. Mr. Chairman, I am taking the time of the Committee this afternoon because there are two items in this bill that disturb me.

The first is the subject of civil defense. This afternoon the Committee heard the distinguished gentleman from California, the chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, the chairman of the Military Operations Subcommittee of the Government Operations Committee, a subcommittee on which I have the privilege to serve, a gentleman who knows whereof he speaks, urge that we give greater attention to civil defense. This program is also supported by the very distinguished Secretary of Defense, Mr. McNamara.

What I am saying is that this program is one that is supported by people who know whereof they speak.

I remember at the height of the Cuban crisis last October people coming to me, not in panic but asking for advice, saying, "What do I do—where do I go—in the event of an attack?" I think at that time we learned in a time of crisis when we had to take action we could not take any drastic action for fear of developing a panic in our people. Now the crisis is over and we do not act.

Mr. EDMONDSON. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MOORHEAD. I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma.

Mr. EDMONDSON. There are many in this body who share the concern the gentleman has expressed about this civil defense item and who are very hopeful that the Committee on Appropriations will take a long further look at it when additional evidence has been presented on the impact of this cut on the program now underway.

Mr. MOORHEAD. I thank the gentleman for his comments. I think the gentleman would be interested to know that the military operations subcommittee in a report issued last summer said:

> If a crisis should occur that threatens imminent attack, the people of this country will inquire in a single and loud voice what the Government has done to protect them. A wise administration—and a wise Congress—will not be caught unprepared.

I hope we have that wisdom.

The second point that disturbs me here is, of course, the cut—no, not the cut, the abolition of the accelerated public works program. I come from a depressed area. Unemployment in the city of Pittsburgh is over 11 percent. We have been working hard to rebuild our city to make it a lovely place, to give ourselves a new economic base for the future. We have been working, but we cannot do it all by ourselves because we are in a depressed area. Under this program we have been able to achieve new water facilities and sewage facilities, and street improvements, all of which are essential if we are to build a new economic base for future growth and future contribution to our country.

We were able to acquire a new library addition, a new public safety facility. All of these are essential for a healthy economy in a community. Not only did this program provide a base for our economic development in the future, but it also provided the economic support in immediate man-months of work to tide some of our unemployed over the period when our economy will be working out.

In Pittsburgh alone the programs approved amount to over 2,300 man-months of work. The total in Allegheny County is over 4,800 man months of work. In addition to these programs which will result in employment, we managed to build a new hospital and make additions to existing hospitals to provide for the needs of our people.

With the exception of the tax bill, I believe there is no program which will face the Congress this year, that is more important to cure unemployment. I urge my colleagues to vote to replace the money cut from the accelerated public works program.

Mr. BOW. Mr. Chairman, I yield 10 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. LAIRD].

Mr. LAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I take this time to support the action of the full House Committee on Appropriations in reducing the funds for the accelerated public works program by $500 million from the request made by the President.

Last year, when the accelerated public works program passed the House of Representatives, it is true that there was an authorization for $900 million in this particular area. But, only 2 weeks ago we heard here on the floor of the House of Representatives, the gentleman from the other side of the aisle say "Well, now there is no need to worry about this authorization for military procurement in the amount of $15,890 million because, after all, this is just an authorization bill and the Committee on Appropriations will have an opportunity to work its will later on on this program when the appropriations request is before the Committee on Appropriations and also later when it comes to the floor of the Congress." The story then was—not to worry about this increased authorization because an authorization, after all, is just an authorization and the Committee on Appropriations must work its will on this program.

When this particular request came before the Committee on Appropriations last year, the committee did not appropriate for fiscal year 1963 $900 million authorized for this program or the $500 million requested by the President. The Committee on Appropriations appropriated only $400 million. No commitment has been made to any community in the United States that an additional $500 million will be funded in this total authorization for 1963. Let me further state that in the bill and in the amendment proposed by the administration, the $500 million was not made available for fiscal year 1963. This appropriation was requested for obligation through fiscal year 1964. Mr. Chairman, the language which was inserted in that bill by the Bureau of the Budget, I am sure was subject to a point of order here on the floor of the House of Representatives because you cannot insert in a deficiency appropriation bill a provision authorizing the obligation of these funds through fiscal year 1964. This has to be considered under the regular appropriation procedure and in the regular funding bill for fiscal 1964.

Mr. Chairman, this is not an easy vote for the Members of the Congress to make. Many Members of the Congress feel that the manner in which they are judged here in the Congress is by how much Federal money they bring back to their particular congressional districts. I have areas in my congressional district which qualify under the accelerated public works program. It may not be an easy vote for any Member of the Congress to make, but if we are going to be serious about reducing the funds in the new obligational authority budget of the President, and the new obligational authority budget of the President is for $108 billion—if we are going to be serious in making reductions in this budget, we must be willing to face up to tough votes.

We must be willing to face up to question of what are the responsibilities of the Federal Government, what are the responsibilities of the State government, and what are the responsibilities of the local government in this year 1963 and as we face fiscal year 1964.

The President of the United States has told us, and leading economists throughout the country have said, that if we are going to get this economy moving again the No. 1 priority which we as a Congress face is a tax reduction in this year 1963. The position of some of us on both sides of the aisle, of the minority party as well as of the majority party, has been: "Yes, a tax cut; but before we can have this tax cut it is necessary for us to make substantial reductions in Federal expenditures and substantial reductions in the President's new 1964 obligational authority budget of $108 billion."

It seems to me that this is the time, this is the test, this is the most important test we have had in this session of Congress. Are we willing to stand up here and agree with the President of the United States that the No. 1 priority as far as our economy is concerned is to try to stimulate the private sector of our economy through tax reduction at the corporate and individual level? And if you believe in tax cuts at the corporate and individual level it is necessary for us to do something about the $12.8 billion deficit which is anticipated under this particular budget for fiscal year 1964. It is necessary for us to do something about this budget of our President.

We cannot stimulate our economy, we cannot get our country moving again by going in two directions at the same time. Increasing spending and making tax cuts at the same time just does not make sense.

Let us see if we can get our country moving again by the use of this particular Federal spending program.

As of February 15 the total Federal obligations under this program were $244 million. The number of projects approved under the accelerated public works program were 2,060. The man-years of employment that were provided by these 2,060 projects that had been approved was a total of 29,921 individuals put to work. Thus in spending almost one-fourth billion dollars on this program we were only able to employ seven-tenths of 1 percent of the unemployed. These are very unsatisfactory figures. The total Federal cost per man-year of employment under this program was $8,150.

On the basis of program experience through February 15 reflected in the foregoing figures, it would require a Federal expenditure of $32,620 million under this program to put 4 million people to work.

The total cost of this program including local contributions for each job that has been provided has been estimated at $10,225 for every job created under this particular program.

All we need do is look at the testimony before the Joint Economic Committee where the leading economists of this country told us that we could secure more job opportunities, we could go in the direction of getting this economy of ours moving again if we are willing to reduce Federal spending and taxation. If we are going forward with spending programs at an ever-increasing rate, getting into the area of local and State responsibility, we cannot pursue a course of Federal tax reduction in the next fiscal year. It may be good politics to "ride both these horses" at the same time but it is very poor economics.

All of you who believe that it is time to get our economy going, that we can do it through the private sector instead of Government handouts from Washington, D.C., must face up and vote for economy in our first big test tomorrow. We should vote for this reduction of $500 million in the President's new obligational budget. We can make reductions, we can have tax cuts, but only if the Congress exercises its responsibility under our Constitution of controlling the pursestrings and the runaway spending represented in $108 billion new obligational authority of the executive branch. We must not pass on to our children and grandchildren these ever-increasing Federal deficits. This is a real opportunity that we have tomorrow, and I hope that the House of Representatives will sustain the action of the full Appropriations Committee.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the distinguished gentleman from California [Mr. ROOSEVELT] 5 minutes.

(Mr. ROOSEVELT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROOSEVELT. Mr. Chairman, I wish to go back to an item in this bill which was previously referred to by my good friend and colleague from California [Mr. HOLIFIELD]. It has to do with the stocking of the shelters under the civil defense program.

Some of you will remember that at the time of the Cuban crisis there was a

Greenwood Commonwealth

City Police Thank Officers Of Auxiliary

7-10-63

Greenwood policemen today expressed appreciation to auxiliary officers who volunteered to serve alongside them in the city's recent racial crisis.

Some 62 auxiliaries volunteered to ride in police squad cars and help patrol streets during marches. About 50 of these were actually called on to serve.

The regular officers said today that they "couldn't have done it alone," and wished to thank the auxiliaries for their help.

The police force has gone back to its regular manpower and hours following round-the-clock alert and no-days-off duty during the crisis.

Mississippi In Brief— Greenwood Commonwealth 6-10-63

Barnett Lists Expense Items, Including Liquor, Of Agitators

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett said he held proof today the Negro leaders in the recent voter march demonstrations at Greenwood were paid salaries and expenses.

Barnett commended the officials at Greenwood for their actions in handling the marches which developed no inter-racial incidents.

"I doubt very seriously that the people who put up money for such demonstrations realize how their money's being spent."

"It is amazing to note that not one of these expense accounts, filed by one of the agitators," Barnett said, "is listed expenditures for Old Taylor, beer, movies and sodas."

"It is even more amazing to note that he spent more money for whisky, beer and movies than he did for food," Barnett said.

The governor said another leader "admitted taking money under false pretenses from the Welfare Department by using the birth certificate of a child who had died."

Barnett said another leader had previously been indicted by a grand jury for bigamy "and he admitted to having four wives, without a single divorce."

"I am happy that these hired professional troublemakers have now packed their carpetbags and are leaving," Barnett said.

He points out that in 1958 it was the belief of both Russian and American scientists that there would have to be an international inspection system with about 180 control posts, of which 19 would be in the Soviet Union. It would have taken between 4 to 6 years to install this system; scores of international technicians would have been included in the project; the system would have cost $2 billion to build and several hundred million dollars a year to maintain. Today no such system needs to be established at all.

The United States, like Russia, can now identify nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water, and in outer space. If Russia would agree to a treaty outlawing such tests, the risks of successful evasion or cheating would form no problem. The real concern is with tests conducted underground where they may be harder to detect or may be confused with earthquakes.

Senator HUMPHREY reports that in the past 5 years the United States has greatly improved its ability to identify earthquakes in Russia. It is a generous figure to suggest that these unidentified occurrences in any one year will be "only a few dozen at most." Under the British-American treaty each of these mysterious events would be subject to inspection. From a scientific or technical standpoint, the problem of security is wholly manageable. Russia would soon learn this fact if it were willing to give the proposed treaty a fair trial.

Senator HUMPHREY asked the Kennedy administration to make available the results of studies of underground events in Russia from 1958 through 1962. He has quoted "a competent administration official in whom I repose the highest confidence" as saying that the United States has the present ability to monitor a test ban agreement with full safeguards for American security.

Under these new arrangements it would be necessary to supplement these monitoring devices by inspections inside Russia carried out by inspectors who could be accompanied by Soviet observers. The inspected area would be small and would be located by using the records of at least four detection stations. There would be no more than seven inspections each year. The treaty would lapse and the United States would be free to resume its tests if Russia refused to agree to any suggested inspection or was caught in a secret test.

Since the 1960 campaign Mr. Kennedy has shown much more eagerness than the general public to reach a disarmament agreement with Russia, above all on a test ban treaty. The public has tended to view the Geneva talks with resigned apathy as a meaningless charade. Yet all the time hard-working and often misunderstood officials have been closing the gap between the Russian and American positions, while always striving for a treaty that would be endorsed by two-thirds of the Senate. It is high time that we realize that American public indifference is very helpful to Russia in resisting a treaty. For Russia can twist and equivocate at Geneva without being called to account by a bored American press.

The Crisis of Democracy

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

OF

HON. WILLIAM FITTS RYAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, April 10, 1963

Mr. RYAN of New York. Mr. Speaker, I wish to bring to the attention of my colleagues an article on the voter registration drive in Leflore County, Miss., which appeared in the New York Times on April 6, 1963. This article describes the violence, threats and intimidation which have marked the fight for constitutional rights in Greenwood, Miss.

I have long been concerned over the stiuation in Leflore County. Last August the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee started its campaign in Leflore County to have Negroes register to vote. This campaign has met with extreme hostility which, as the New York Times article points out, has broken out in violence. The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee is dedicated to the fundamental principles of our democracy. These students deserve our highest admiration, for they are truly fighting in the frontline of liberty.

Afer the campaign to register Negroes began, the Leflore County officials announced that they would not distribute U.S. agricultural surpluses. Since over 90 percent of the surplus food which the county receives free from the Federal Government is distributed to Negroes, this was an obvious move to retaliate against the registration campaign. When this was brought to my attention, I urged the Secretary of Agriculture to take appropriate action. After the Department of Agriculture announced that it would distribute the food if necessary, the county officials finally gave in and began to distribute the food.

The New York Times article also relates the many instances of violence against those who have participated with great courage in the registration drive. As soon as it was clear that violence was being used to stop the registration drive, I urged the Department of Justice to intervene. I am happy that the Department of Justice has filed a suit in Greenwood, Miss.

Mississippi State Representative Karl Wiesenburg of Jackson County, Miss., in an article for the Pascagoula (Miss.) Chronicle stated the problem well when he said:

States rights must be coexistent with State responsibilities.

Mr. Speaker, in order to further the understanding of the crisis of democracy in Mississippi I commend the following article to all my colleagues:

[From the New York Times, Apr. 6, 1963]

MISSISSIPPI COUNTY IS TURNED INTO MAJOR BATTLEGROUND OF NEGROES' CIVIL RIGHTS FIGHT—TENSION BUILDS UP AFTER GUN ATTACK; VOTER-REGISTRATION DRIVE IS INTENSIFIED AFTER LEADER IS WOUNDED BY VOLLEY

(By Claude Sitton)

GREENWOOD, MISS., April 5.—The night of February 28 was mild with a hint of early spring as the black sedan rolled westward along U.S. Route 82 across the Mississippi Delta.

One of its three Negro occupants recalled later that as a string of traffic faded to the rear near Itta Bena, a car that had trailed them from Greenwood pulled alongside. Two white men sat in front, one in back.

Bursts of gunfire rang out. Thirteen .45-caliber bullets stitched a ragged seam of fingersized holes along the sedan's left side and one copper-jacketed slug burned into the drivers shoulder to within an inch of his spine.

The wounded man, James Travis of Jackson, Miss., recovered. He has since returned here to his voter registration work as a field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

THREE WHITES ARRESTED

Five days after the shooting Sheriff John Ed Cothron of Leflore County arrested three Greenwood whites, who were charged with felonious assault. Two are well-known citizens—William H. Greenlee, a petroleum products wholesaler, and Wesley Kersey, service manager for an industrial company. The third is a juvenile.

This shooting incident, the first of several, set off a string of events that has turned Leflore County into a major battleground in the Southern civil rights struggle.

Mr. Travis' companions in the car were Robert P. Moses, a field secretary of the student committee and director of the Council of Federated Organizations, and Randolph Blackwell, field director of the voter education project.

The council, known as Cofo, is a coalition of Negro organizations that began a concerted voter registration drive in the Delta last summer. The voter education project, established last year by the southern regional council, has provided funds for Cofo's work.

The attack on the three men set off an angry flurry of activity in the project's headquarters at 5 Forsyth Street in Atlanta.

BIG CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Wiley A. Branton, director of the project, announced a saturation campaign to register Leflore's Negroes, who make up about 64 percent of the county's population of 47,142.

"The State of Mississippi," he asserted, "has repeatedy thrown down a gauntlet at the feet of would-be Negro voters, not only by the discriminatory practices of the registrar, but also by the economic pressures, threats, coercions, physical violence and death to Negroes seeking the right to vote," he said.

"The time has come for us to pick up the gauntlet. Leflore County has elected itself as the testing ground for democracy and we are accordingly meeting the challenge there."

Leflore County lies on the eastern bulge of the Delta, a football-shaped expanse of fertile fields, pasture lands and swampy stands of hardwood. This alluvial plain, bounded roughly by the rolling loops of the Mississippi and Yazoo Rivers, stretches flat as a table for 200 miles between Memphis and Vicksburg.

The tree-screened beauty of its Greek-revival mansions contrasts with the weather-beaten squalor of the shacks of clapboard and tarpaper that stand amid the long brown furrows that lie waiting for the cotton and soybean seed.

In recent years, increasingly efficient machines and chemicals have revolutionized agriculture here.

NEED FOR LABOR CUT

But mechanization has slashed the need for labor by more than half. Many Negroes have moved away but many still remain.

Greenwood is the State headquarters for the Citizens' Council, a militantly segregationist organization founded in 1954 in adjoining Sunflower County.

The John Birch Society followed the council to Greenwood.

Many whites consider the voter registration campaign a Communist plot. Mayor Charles E. Sampson, a loyal member of the Citizens' Council, echoed their sentiments last week when he said that "the only purpose of these agitators is to follow the Communist line of fomenting racial violence."

There are a number of whites who disagree with this attitude and who contend that some compromise must be made with the demands of the Negroes. But they are afraid to speak out publicly.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee began a registration campaign last August in Leflore County. This committee, which grew out of the 1960 sit-in demonstrations against lunch counter segregation, has headquarters in Atlanta.

Two young Delta Negroes were designated as field secretaries for the project—Willie B. Peacock, of Charleston, Miss., and Samuel T. Block, of Cleveland, Miss.

A tall, gaunt youth of 25, Mr. Block became the chief target of white animosity in the campaign's early stages. He initially called attention to himself by asserting that he had been beaten by whites at a local automobile parts business. This drew the first in a long string of denials from whites, who said that they had seen no bruises on him.

The Leflore voter drive met little success last year, according to Mr, Moses. The 28-year-old Negro, who holds a masters degree in philosophy, left his job as a mathematics teacher at the Horace Mann School in New York in July 1961, to come to Mississippi as a field secretary for the student committee.

FEW ABLE TO QUALIFY

His explanation for the poor showing is the same one repeated privately by white officials; under present State voting regulations, few if any Negroes can pass the test.

Most whites of voting age were registered when the more stringent regulations went into effect.

Mrs. Martha T. Lamb, Leflore County circuit court clerk and registrar, said she did not know how many Negroes were registered because records were not kept by race. She and six other Mississippi registrars are defendants in a broad-scale legal attack on the voting laws that is now before a Federal court.

The Justice Department, which brought the suit, states in its complaint that there are 10,274 whites and 13,567 Negroes of voting age in Leflore County. Approximately 95.5 percent of the whites and 1.9 percent of the Negroes are registered.

The suit contends that white political supremacy is maintained by regulations that include the following:

Registrants must be able to read, write, and interpret any section of the Mississippi Constitution to the registrar's satisfaction;

Registrants must be of good moral character, as determined by the registrar; and

Names of applicants and their addresses must be published for 2 consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county.

SAYS IT APPLIES TO ALL

"It applies equally to all, white and black alike," said a member of the county board of supervisors with a grin in defending publication of the names.

Despite their dismal prospects, Negroes began applying for registration in increasing numbers in February.

The key factor in the increased applications for registration, according to Mr. Moses and a number of white observers, was the growing hunger among the field hands and the refusal of the county to relieve it by distributing surplus food provided by the Federal Government.

Until last fall, Leflore gave the food to public welfare recipients all year long. It expanded the program during the winter months to include all needy persons.

The county spent only $38,000 of its $2,095,874 budget for the 1961–62 fiscal year to store and distribute the food to 27,000 persons, about 90 percent of whom were Negroes.

MALNUTRITION REPORTED

But the board of supervisors voted to drop the program for nonwelfare recipients last fall. They explained recently that it had cost more than the county could afford and was not needed because of a bumper crop.

Four Justice Department lawyers who toured the county earlier this month reported that they had found widespread evidence of malnutrition.

Among the cases they describe was that of a mother who could offer her children only a breakfast of fried hoecake and sirup made from water and sugar. Another family had had no breakfast at 10 o'clock and said their dinner the night before had been pinto beans and blackeyed peas.

Other families said they had one big meal a week—chicken for Sunday morning breakfast.

A 34-year-old widow with nine children, ages 1 to 13, had only one bed and a bottomless chair in her shanty home. She said the plantation manager had given her $3 a week "furnish money" to be repaid from her earnings and those of her children. She was asked what she did after the cotton chopping and picking seasons.

"Ain't nothing to do but just wait on the calendar," she replied.

A night visit by two newsmen to a plantation cabin found a 57-year-old Negro hand, his wife and 11 of their 13 children crowded before an old television set in 1 of the 4 rooms.

The crisp stage setting of the Mikado, which they were watching, contrasted with the few pieces of sagging furniture, the split and peeling paper on the walls, the pine floor studded with patches of ancient linoleum and a two-eyed wood stove resting on an automobile wheel rim.

HAS $10 LEFT OVER

The man, a carpenter and mechanic's helper in the plantation's repair shop, said he made 40 cents an hour or about $20 a week. He receives $10 after payments on a Christmas loan and medical bills are deducted.

The family had just finished a supper of cornbread and fried potatoes. There was no milk for the children.

He was asked what he would choose if granted one wish.

"Rights," he replied. "Freedom, free to speak, free to have a voice, to speak, not be condemned or nothing like that. You know we don't have no voice out here."

As a result of the Justice Department's investigation, the Department of Agriculture told the county that the Federal Government would pay the cost of distributing the surplus food. If the county still refused, the department said, the Government would step in and do the job.

The board of supervisors agreed reluctantly to resume the program with the Government paying the cost. And this week hundreds of Negroes flocked to a warehouse here to receive the food.

HUNGER HELPS DRIVE

Hunger and the urging of the voter registration workers brought more and more Negroes to the county courthouse on the Yazoo's south bank to register. Committee officials obtained a three-room office in a ramshackle building on McLaurin Street and the harassment resumed.

The campaign workers reported another violent episode the night of March 6. Mr. Block said a station wagon had pulled alongside a car in which he and three others were sitting. A shotgun roared once.

The charge of buckshot was fired at such close range that it failed to disperse as it smashed one front window of the car and then the other before gouging into the wall of a home, the Negroes said.

City officials, in a statement, suggested that the incident was a hoax.

"Either by good luck or prearrangement, none of the occupants of the car was injured by the gunfire," he said.

No explanation was offered for the fact that three occupants had been cut by flying glass.

FIRE ON THEATER CROWD

The next night, Mr. Moses reported, a sedan carrying four whites drew up in front of a Negro theater. One pulled out a pistol and fired toward a group waiting on the sidewalk. No one was hit.

Last week brought more violence and the Federal intervention that the city had sought to avoid. Nightriders fired two blasts of buckshot into a voter worker's home Monday.

"Again, through good fortune or advanced planning, no one was hurt," Mayor Sampson and the city commissioners said in a statement.

The next morning, about 100 Negroes marched to the City Hall to protest the incident and to demand protection. At the mayor's orders, the police dispersed them with a German shepherd dog. The dog attacked two voter registration workers.

In all, nine of the workers, including the top leaders, were arrested. Eight of them were later given the maximum penalty for disorderly conduct—4 months in prison and a $200 fine.

MINISTER BITTEN BY DOG

Rev. D. L. Tucker, a minister active in the drive, was bitten Wednesday by the police dog as officers scattered a group of Negroes marching homeward after having applied for registration. He was scrambling to get away from the dog when bitten.

Dick Gregory, the comedian, arrived in Greenwood last Monday. Although he taunted the police as he led groups of Negroes in attempts to walk to the courthouse throughout the week, he was not arrested.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department had filed a request for a Federal court order against city and county officials before District Judge Claude F. Clayton, Jr. It sought to force them to take the following actions:

Release the eight registration workers from prison;

Refrain from further interference with the campaign; and Permit Negroes to exercise their constitutional rights to assemble for peaceable protests and to protect them from whites who might molest them.

FIRST SUCH INTERVENTION

The action marked the first time in the civil rights struggle that the Department had interceded to preserve the right of peaceful protest.

However the Department and the city agreed yesterday that Justice Department attorneys would delay their attempt to obtain the injunctions and the city would stay execution of the sentences against the eight registration workers.

The Department reportedly was concerned over the threat of violence in Greenwood and the possibility that mass demonstrations might lead to a riot.

There is considerable evidence that an explosion has been averted here so far only because leaders of the citizens' council have restrained the more emotional whites. The council's members here include the city's business and professional leaders.

The Department's action disappointed sponsors of the voter registration drive.

WILL KEEP UP CAMPAIGN

Campaign leaders issued a statement yesterday pledging continued attempts by prospective voter applicants to walk in groups to the courthouse.

However, a temporary truce in the crisis was reached today between voter-campaign leaders and city officials. The latter agreed that while racial tensions made it necessary they would provide bus transportation between the drive's headquarters and the courthouse.

After tensions subside, according to Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond, the city will permit groups of no more than 20 or so to walk to the courthouse together so long as there is no threat of disorder.

Despite the violence, harassment, and intimidation, the campaign has picked up momentum. Hundreds of persons packed the mass meetings in the city's Negro churches to cheer top leaders in the civil rights movement.

If local whites could hear the statements being made they might question the accuracy of the Commonwealth's recent observation that "nothing will be changed after democracy has been tested here."

"The white folks are scared," asserted the Rev. James Bevel at one such session. "That's why they turned the dog loose."

BLAME MANY FACTORS

Leflore County's whites have blamed the voter registration workers, the Kennedy administration and the Communists, in about that order, for the racial crisis.

"It's outsiders that's causing it," said Mayor Sampson recently. "We give them everything. We're building them a new swimming pool. We work very close with the nigger civic league. They're very satisfied."

However, some whites conceded readily in private that it would take more than a new swimming pool to resolve the controversy. Sooner or later, they said, the county will be forced to administer reasonable voting tests and to place all qualified persons on the rolls.

Whose Side Are We on in Cuban Crisis?

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

OF

HON. WILLIAM C. CRAMER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, April 10, 1963

Mr. CRAMER. Mr. Speaker, John Chamberlain has written an illuminating comparison of Fidel Castro and a true hero in Cuban history, Jose Marti, and from this relative estimate is prompted to ask of the present administration, "Who's side are we on?" when we denounce the efforts of some courageous Cuban patriots who are trying bravely to regain their homeland.

Under leave to extend my remarks, I include the following complete text of Mr. Chamberlain's column as it appeared in the Charleston Daily Mail on March 27.

The article follows:

[From the Charleston (W. Va.) Daily Mail, Mar. 27, 1963]

WHOSE SIDE ARE WE ON IN THE CUBAN CONTROVERSY?

(By John Chamberlain)

It was an old, musty, dogeared volume, the sort of thing you pick up on the remainder shelves of secondhand book shops for a nickel. It's title, a longwinded one, was "The War in Cuba, Being a Full Account of Her Great Struggle For Freedom, Containing a Complete Record of Spanish Tyranny and Oppression; Scenes of Violence and Bloodshed; Frequent Uprisings of a Gallant and Long Suffering People." The date of publication was 1896, 2 years before the Spanish-American War.

I brought it home from Miami, and have been trying, at odd moments, to penetrate the dense jungle of its florid 19th century prose. What keeps you going through the worst of the purple passages is the odd sincerity that dwells just below the surface of the cliche-ridden text. Jose Marti, the Cuban patriot, is decked out in all sorts of angelic colors—but, discounting the tropical flowers of oratory (the work of Gonzalo de Quesada, the Cuban republicans' representative in Washington during the 1890's), he comes through as a warm, sentient human being, idealist and realist in one.

I had never known much about Marti before. Like the young Fidel Castro who staged an impossible attack on a Batista strongpoint for its symbolic value, knowing that it must fail, Marti took his chances at the age of 16 when he claimed the authorship of an anti-Spanish article which he had not himself written. But Marti's motivation was different from Castro's; he performed his Quixotic act to save a friend. He was jailed, then exiled to Spain, from which he escaped. For 25 years thereafter Marti worked for a free Cuba supporting guerrilla activity from New York City. It was Marti who created the Cuban Home Rule Party, who arranged for arms shipments to the insurgents, and who took the field eventually as a Cuban rebel general despite the fact that he had had no experience in soldiering.

Gonzalo de Quesada describes the death and martyrdom of Marti on the soil of Cuba in words that sound like an excerpt from an old melodrama: "Under the palms, on a white steed * * * he fell. There, where our only majestic river, the Cauto, opens its arms, where from the rising grounds, the valleys, like a motherly bosom, invite the eternal rest, canopied by a gray firmament, there, where the world seems to dilate, Jose Marti battled for the last time against Spanish tyranny * * * he charges; his spirited horse carries him ahead of his men; it is his first engagement, it is his last victory; he rolls from his horse, fallen, wounded; his breast is riddled with bullets; the murderous lead entering under his chin has disfigured the firm mouth; the heavy mustache is burnt; his golden tongue is forever silent."

Reading de Quesada's perfervid words, you squirm. But you can't quite laugh, for the veneration so flamboyantly expressed still carries a ring of truth after 67 years.

If Marti had lived to become the first President of a free Cuban Republic, he would have scorned to go back on his word. Castro promised the Cubans that the Constitution of 1940 would be restored after the defeat of Batista; he promised a free press; he promised free scope for any and all businessmen who had not collaborated with the Batista government. Every single promise has been betrayed. Marti would have scorned to put a single Cuban under the yoke of an alien Old World power. Castro has delivered all the Cubans in Cuba to Moscow.

Reading the old dogeared book of 1896, I kept thinking about an article I wrote back in the 1930's, about Venezuela, when that South American country was trying to pick up the pieces after the death of the tyrant Juan Vicente Gomez, who had ruled it from 1908 to 1935. Gomez was a caudillo, a petty general, who pretended to have the good of his country at heart. Called "el bagre," the catfish, and "el brujo," the witch doctor, Gomez was feared by everybody—and he ended by being loved by nobody.

Castro pretends to wear the mantle of Marti. But underneath the "buche y pluma," or wind and feathers, he is the contemporary version of Gomez. When Marti was carrying on his struggle against "Butcher" Weyler, the Spanish general sent from Madrid to hold Cuba in thrall, the United States accorded him the rights of a belligerent. But our State Department denounces the modern disciples of Marti, the Cubans who are banded together in Alpha 66, for hitting some Russians while raiding the Cuban coast. Is the State Department on the side of the shade of Jose Marti? Or does it prefer the shade of "Catfish" Gomez?

LAWS RELATIVE TO THE PRINTING OF DOCUMENTS

Either House may order the printing of a document not already provided for by law, but only when the same shall be accompanied by an estimate from the Public Printer as to the probable cost thereof. Any executive department, bureau, board or independent office of the Government submitting reports or documents in response to inquiries from Congress shall submit therewith an estimate of the probable cost of printing the usual number. Nothing in this section relating to estimates shall apply to reports or documents not exceeding 50 pages (U.S. Code, title 44, sec. 140, p. 1938).

Resolutions for printing extra copies, when presented to either House, shall be referred immediately to the Committee on House Administration of the House of Representatives or the Committee on Rules and Administration of the Senate, who, in making their report, shall give the probable cost of the proposed printing upon the estimate of the Public Printer, and no extra copies shall be printed before such committee has reported (U.S. Code, title 44, sec. 133, p. 1937).

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS FOR SALE

Additional copies of Government publications are offered for sale to the public by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C., at cost thereof as determined by the Public Printer plus 50 percent: Provided, That a discount of not to exceed 25 percent may be allowed to authorized bookdealers and quantity purchasers, but such printing shall not interfere with the prompt execution of work for the Government. The Superintendent of Documents shall prescribe the terms and conditions under which he may authorize the resale of Government publications by bookdealers, and he may designate any Government officer his agent for the sale of Government publications under such regulations as shall be agreed upon by the Superintendent of Documents and the head of the respective department or establishment of the Government (U.S. Code, title 44, sec. 72a, Supp. 2).

PRINTING OF CONGRESSIONAL RECORD EXTRACTS

It shall be lawful for the Public Printer to print and deliver upon the order of any Senator, Representative, or Delegate, extracts from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, the person ordering the same paying the cost thereof (U.S. Code, title 44, sec. 185, p. 1942).

CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY

The Public Printer, under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing, may print for sale, at a price sufficient to reimburse the expenses of such printing, the current Congressional Directory. No sale shall be made on credit (U.S. Code, title 44, sec. 150, p. 1939).

RECORD OFFICE AT THE CAPITOL

An office for the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, with Mr. Raymond F. Noyes in charge, is located in room H-112, House wing, where orders will be received for subscriptions to the RECORD at $1.50 per month or for single copies at 1 cent for eight pages (minimum charge of 3 cents). Also, orders from Members of Congress to purchase reprints from the RECORD should be processed through this office.

Daily Digest

HIGHLIGHTS

Senate passed Youth Conservation Corps bill and took up military procurement authorization bill.

House passed bills making supplemental appropriations and repealing silver purchase legislation.

House committee approved military pay increase bill.

Senate

Chamber Action

Routine Proceedings, pages 5857–5885, 5998

Bills Introduced: Nine bills and five resolutions were introduced, as follows: S. 1302–1310; S.J. Res. 69; and S. Res. 122–125. Pages 5870, 5999

Bills Reported: Reports were made as follows:

S. Res. 113, to print as a Senate document a report on the Alliance for Progress (S. Rept. 129);

S. Res. 117, to print as a Senate document a report entitled "Study Mission to Southeast Asia" (S. Rept. 130);

S. Con. Res. 9, authorizing temporary placement in the rotunda of the Capitol of a statue of the late Joseph Ward, of South Dakota; S. Con. Res. 10, to tender thanks of Congress to South Dakota for the statue of the late Joseph Ward; and S. Con. Res. 11, to print as a Senate document the proceedings at the acceptance of the statue of the late Joseph Ward (S. Rept. 131);

S. Con. Res. 30, to reprint copies of a committee print of the 87th Congress entitled "Part 1 of Concentration Ratios in Manufacturing Industry, 1958" (S. Rept. 132);

S. Con. Res. 32, authorizing printing of hearings in the 87th Congress by the Select Committee on Small Business on "Space Satellite Communications" (S. Rept. 133);

S. Con. Res. 35, to print additional copies of part 1 of the hearings of the Joint Economic Committee on the 1963 Economic Report of the President (S. Rept. 134);

H. Con. Res. 86, to print as a House document the pamphlet "Our Flag" (S. Rept. 135);

H. Con. Res. 98, to authorize the printing of a wall map of the U.S. (S. Rept. 136);

H. Con. Res. 108, to print as a House document "How Our Laws Are Made" (S. Rept. 137);

H. Con. Res. 119, to print as a House document the Constitution of the U.S. (S. Rept. 138);

S. Con. Res. 6, accepting the statue of the late John Burke, of North Dakota, and tendering thanks of Congress therefor, with amendment; S. Con. Res. 7, authorizing temporary placement in the rotunda of the Capitol of the statue of the late John Burke; and S. Con. Res. 8, to print the proceedings in connection with the acceptance of the statue of the late John Burke (S. Rept. 139);

S. Res. 119, providing an additional $300 for expenses for Committee on the Judiciary (no written report); and

S. Res. 122–125, authorizing payment of gratuities to survivors of deceased Senate employees (no written report). Page 5858

Bill Referred: One House-passed bill was referred to appropriate committee. Page 5908

President's Communication—Supplemental Appropriations: Communication from President transmitting proposed supplemental appropriations for fiscal year 1963 for Department of the Interior in the amount of $6 million and a proposed provision for Department of Defense, was referred to Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed as S. Doc. 11. Page 5857

Youth Conservation Corps: By 50 yeas to 34 nays (motion to reconsider tabled), Senate passed with amendment S. 1, to establish a Youth Conservation Corps within the Department of Labor, after adopting committee amendment (in nature of a substitute), as amended. This committee amendment was considered as original text for purpose of amendment, and the following actions were taken on amendments and motions offered to it:

Adopted: Inouye amendment respecting definition of term "State" in the bill and providing that each State shall be entitled to not less than 50 enrollees under title I (Youth Conservation Corps), and 50 under title II (State and Community Youth Employment Program); Williams (Delaware) amendment (to title II) establish-

April 10 - 1963 file before debate on Supplemental appropriation bill

Mr. KIRWAN. The money that is going to be spent to build this greatest aquarium in the world is not going to cost the taxpayers a dime. You have been misinformed. Why does the gentleman not state the true facts?

You read the law; why do you not tell them the truth? It is not going to cost the American taxpayer a dime.

Mr. GROSS. I read what law?

Mr. KIRWAN. The law creating this aquarium. It is not going to cost the taxpayer a dime. I proved that the other day.

Mr. GROSS. I have heard that old refrain around here so long that I can almost dance the tune without the music: "It won't cost a dime."

Mr. KIRWAN. It will not cost a dime. That is correct.

Mr. GROSS. We have heard some of that same refrain this afternoon.

Mr. KIRWAN. The experience with the aquarium in Philadelphia is that even with a $2 admission fee they cannot keep them out. This will pay for itself.

Mr. GROSS. Does the gentleman not think this could be put off until his fish palace is completed?

Mr. KIRWAN. No. This research is needed now by the fishing industry.

Mr. GROSS. I was told this was to be a research plant down on Hains Point.

Mr. KIRWAN. This appropriation is for the fishing industry.

Mr. GROSS. That is just fine. But it costs $400,000.

The Clerk read as follows:

BUREAU OF OUTDOOR RECREATION

Salaries and expenses

For necessary expenses of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, $200,000.

Mr. OLIVER P. BOLTON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word.

Mr. Chairman, it is my understanding that we will consider later this afternoon an authorizing bill, H.R. 1762, to promote, coordinate, and develop effective programs relating to outdoor recreation, which is to be under the Interior Department. Is this appropriation for that purpose?

Mr. KIRWAN. A Commission was appointed, headed by Laurence Rockefeller, to make a study of recreation and the Commission recommended this new Bureau to coordinate all the agencies dealing with recreation. This money is for the new Bureau and is for functions now authorized. The authority exists to do it.

Mr. OLIVER P. BOLTON. I would like to ask the gentleman another question. Is not that also the effect and direction of a bill that will be called up for consideration this afternoon?

Mr. KIRWAN. The chairman of that committee is here and can explain the new bill, the gentleman from Colorado, Mr. ASPINALL.

Mr. ASPINALL. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. OLIVER P. BOLTON. I yield.

Mr. ASPINALL. This afternoon, or tomorrow, or whenever we bring up the Bureau of Recreation authorizing bill, we will have legislation before this body to authorize additional appropriations. What is being done at the present time in the Department of the Interior is this. They have a Bureau of Recreation at this time. This effort has been carried on for almost a year. What is requested in the bill before us now is a supplemental appropriation to take care of the additional activities of the Bureau for the rest of this fiscal year.

Mr. OLIVER P. BOLTON. Of course, this appropriation is to start the program. Is it another situation of the youth conservation proposition that was started in March before it was authorized?

Mr. ASPINALL. The gentleman is mistaken. We have general authority for setting up the present Bureau in the Department of the Interior. We have been carrying on the work of the Bureau all this fiscal year in the Bureau of Recreation with an appropriation diverted from the National Park Service over to the Bureau of Recreation in the amount of about a million dollars. In order to put this program into a constructive orderly approach we need this $200,000.

Mr. OLIVER P. BOLTON. Do I understand the gentleman to indicate that if this bill which is to come up later, either this afternoon or tomorrow, is defeated, this money would not then be necessary in the Department of the Interior?

Mr. ASPINALL. The gentleman is once again mistaken in his position. As I tried to explain to the gentleman, the Secretary has the right to establish this Bureau at the present time under general authority. What we are trying to do by the authorization bill to be considered later is going to the operation, authority, limitations, and so forth of the powers of the Secretary.

Mr. OLIVER P. BOLTON. I will discuss that further with the gentleman. I appreciate his response very much.

Mr. COLLIER. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requisite number of words, and I do so for the purpose of pursuing further for a moment, if I may, this particular appropriation.

May I ask the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. ASPINALL] how much has been spent by the Outdoor Resource and Recreation Commission since it was established 4 years ago in the preliminary studies?

Mr. ASPINALL. We authorized an expenditure of $2 million. As I presently recall it is the only commission I know of since I have been in Congress that stayed within its original authorization.

Mr. COLLIER. Two million dollars have been spent for a study of recreation resource areas throughout the country?

Mr. ASPINALL. Resource areas of recreational value. The gentleman was a member of the committee when the authorizing legislation was passed.

Mr. COLLIER. That is correct. I am curious, however, to know whether the commission spent the $2 million, because at the time it was established I had some very definite reservations as to whether $2 million was needed to make the study when, in fact, almost every State in the Union has information in their own conservation department that would have supplied practically all of the information and data necessary.

Mr. ASPINALL. I am not one who can properly say, perhaps, that such a study is worth $2 million, but it was carried on under the chairmanship of one of the best businessmen I know of, Mr. Rockefeller of New York City. I accepted it as being done in an efficient and businesslike manner.

Mr. SAYLOR. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. COLLIER. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SAYLOR. The Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission was authorized by this Congress, and there was appropriated, over the objection of some of the people, $2 million. They did their work within the time designated in the bill and filed its final report. Approximately $50,000 has been turned back in unexpended funds. The Commission performed the functions imposed on it by law, made its report, and it is out of business.

I may say to the Congress that if the Appropriations Committee had had the foresight to give the Commission the money they asked for when they asked for it in the first supplemental appropriation bill after Congress created the Commission, we would have done the job for about $250,000 less.

Mr. COLLIER. My question was not intended to be critical of the Commission or anyone on the Commission. It was simply that I seriously doubt whether we had to go to the extent of spending $2 million on the study.

The Clerk read as follows:

TRAVEL AND MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Travel and miscellaneous expenses", $130,000.

Mr. THOMAS (interrupting reading of the bill). Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that the bill in its entirety be considered as read and open to amendment at any point.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Chairman, I object.

The Clerk read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Legal activities and general administration

Salaries and Expenses, United States Attorneys and Marshals

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses, United States Attorneys and Marshals", $1,110,000.

Mr. WHITTEN. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. WHITTEN of Mississippi: On page 20, line 6, change the figure "$1,110,000" to "$581,000."

(Mr. WHITTEN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WHITTEN. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to proceed for 5 additional minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Mississippi?

Mr. BOW. Mr. Chairman, I must object.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WHITTEN. I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that all debate on this amendment on this paragraph and all amendments thereto close in 10 minutes.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. WHITTEN. Mr. Chairman, I offer this amendment on behalf of myself and my colleagues from Mississippi Congressmen COLMER, WINSTEAD, ABERNETHY and WILLIAMS. What this amendment would do is to require several different agencies of the Government to absorb certain costs. These agencies and the amounts they would absorb are as follows: U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, $185,880; Bureau of Prisons, $31,389; U.S. Marshals appropriation, $294,362; U.S. Attorneys appropriation, $491,000; Civil Rights Division, $27,950; Civil Division, $12,337; and $6,591 for the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice.

These amounts represent what these agencies spent in the Federal action at Oxford. In addition to these amounts of course, the military department spent $5 million.

Mr. Chairman, all of you know how strongly we feel about the action of the Federal Government at the University of Mississippi, which is in my district. I attended "Ole Miss," a great university. Having practiced law before coming here, having been district attorney, I not only feel very deeply about the occurrences that have taken place at this fine institution but firmly believe it should never have happened. But, more than that, my friends, involved here is the destruction, in my opinion, of the very basis upon which our Nation was founded. This Nation was created with a clear division between the judiciary, the legislative, and the executive, a balance of power, each equal and independent of the other. This fact has stood us well through the years. Such provisions were initially provided because the people who framed the Constitution knew what had happened in foreign countries, where all-powerful federal governments were the order of the day. The actions at the University of Mississippi were the culmination of practices which have been growing for some years; that is, the executive department, through the Attorney General, has been going to the Federal courts, intervening in pending lawsuits, asking the courts to enter decrees in accordance with the desires of the executive department, and through the years the courts have yielded to the executive department in issuing such decrees. Then, when the decree as requested by the executive department was issued, the executive department provided U.S. marshals, even Federal troops, to carry out the order which the executive department had the courts of the land to issue in the first instance. Clearly the judiciary and the executive have been working hand in hand, through and through. This, in my opinion, was never intended.

Let me tell you some facts with which you perhaps are not familiar. There were 22,000 soldiers used in and around Oxford, Miss., at a time when we had only 6,000 in Berlin. The Supreme Court had not finally acted on the case at the time the Federal Government moved in, in force, at the University of Mississippi. I know that you have heard reference to the Governor of our State and this, that, and the other, but may I say to you that the Governor of the State of Mississippi has no general law enforcement group except the National Guard or the State Militia, and prior to the Federal Government moving in, those troops had been taken away from the Governor and federalized. The State Highway Patrol of Mississippi has no authority except on matters on the highways or in the area immediately adjacent thereto. So here you find the Governor with his law enforcement group taken away from him and put in the Federal service. Yes, you find him placed in that position at a time when the Supreme Court had not even rendered a final decree.

These facts may not disturb some of you at this time; but believe me, when the Federal forces move in because it is said one Justice of the Supreme Court said that he had got on the telephone and checked with other Supreme Court Justices, and he said they said what they were going to do at some time in the future, it should disturb you. My friends, this Nation was not built on any such shaky foundation as that and certainly could never have lasted this long if it had been. May I say to you again, in this instance it happens to be my fair State, but when it reaches a point where the Executive and the Judiciary can join together and before the Supreme Court renders a final decree, using three time as many troops as they had in Berlin, take over in any State—first taking away the State militia, I say it is time to begin to look to see if involved is not a deeper principle than that of integration.

Mr. ABERNETHY. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WHITTEN. I yield to the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. ABERNETHY. Mr. Chairman, I would like to associate myself with the remarks of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN].

Mr. Chairman, the incident at the University of Mississippi last September is one of the most shameful tragedies ever inspired by men in high Federal office. And, it was so inspired, Mr. Chairman, purely for political purposes.

The premature and hasty action of the U.S. Department of Justice, under cover of the tremendous power which it called into action, was designed to impress the Negro minority and to incur their favor on the election days to follow. No consideration was given to the sacrifice that was to be forced upon this great old institution of learning, its student body of more than 5,000, and the people of a proud State. They were all written off, deliberately and designedly.

The basic law of our land provides that any litigant aggrieved by a decision of a lower court shall have the right of appeal to a higher court, and even later to the Supreme Court, the highest court in the land. Except in most extraordinary and extremely rare cases, the judgment of the lower court or courts are stayed pending a rule of the highest court. A stay of judgment was in effect in the case involving the University of Mississippi, pending action on a perfected and legitimate appeal to the Supreme Court.

Although this matter was pendente lite, and undecided by the Supreme Court, the youthful Attorney General of the United States, evidently having concluded that the end justifies the means, decided to and did take things into his own hands. The pending appeal to the contrary notwithstanding, the Attorney General decided to and did force the enrollment of the applicant in question before the Supreme Court had an opportunity to rule on the pending appeal.

The Attorney General forced this action in a highly dramatic and dangerous fashion, with a display of civil and military might and power never before utilized by the Federal Government except in war against a foreign enemy.

This action led to riot and bloodshed, even death; and to physical destruction of properties on the university campus. It left a proud old institution of learning sick, ailing and deeply hurt. It aroused the animosity of thousands of Americans against the leadership of the Nation, conceding that their action met with the favor and satisfaction of some short-sighted citizens.

When later queried as to why he took this hasty, premature and forceful action, the Attorney General justified same, or at least attempted to do so, on the ground that he was certain of what the Supreme Court would rule on the matter when it did get around to such a ruling. So, he contended there was no point in waiting for the litigation to run its legal and constitutional course.

Mr. Chairman, if this is to be the criterion upon which our Government is to act it would be just as sound to electrocute one convicted in a lower court of a capital offense, while his appeal was pending before the higher court, on the ground that the executioner was convinced that the higher court would affirm the conviction. This is a new concept of justice in the land of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln.

It is obvious, Mr. Chairman, that the hasty action of the Attorney General was without authority of law. It was an illegal act. Being such the taxpayers of this country should not be required to pick up the check for the mistakes of the Attorney General—and that is just what the pending item in this bill is designed to do.

Mr. BOW. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requisite number of words.

Mr. Chairman, may I say to my distinguished friend, the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN], that yesterday we had debate from one o'clock until five o'clock, and I served notice on the Members of the House then that I would object to any extensions of time. I have done that to a number of Members and

I could make no exception on this request. But may I ask the gentleman from Mississippi to explain to me a little more fully the point he was making?

Mr. WHITTEN. I appreciate the kindness of my friend, the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. Bow].

Mr. Chairman, I repeat that the actions taken by the Federal Government were taken prior to a final decision by the Supreme Court of the United States. Point No. 2, that under the law of the State of Mississippi the Governor has only one law-enforcement group, and that is the National Guard, or the State militia, which was taken away from him by the Federal Government.

The courts were called on by the Justice Department to charge the Governor and Lieutenant Governor with the crime of criminal contempt and now the same Justice Department insists they are not even entitled to a jury trial.

Mr. Chairman, in my remarks of yesterday the Members will see a report by the mayor and other representatives of city and county governments describing the situation in Greenwood, Miss. You will note they have one police dog. They point out that there has not been a single person who has been prevented from going to the clerk's office to apply to register. What they have broken up is these large groups walking down the street, headed by a national figure who apparently wants to help his television program, who has said, according to the press, "I am going to stay here until the President sends Federal troops to Greenwood, Miss., like he did at Oxford."

I hope every Member of the House will read my remarks made yesterday in general debate. It is my district that happens to be in trouble today, but it is our Government which is breaking down. Have we reached the place where the executive department through the Attorney General can tell a court what decree to issue, use troops to enforce that decree, and not even wait for it to be a final decree by the Supreme Court and in the process take away the State militia, direct the courts to bring charges of criminal contempt, and then deny to the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of a sovereign State the right to a jury trial when charged with a crime.

Mr. Chairman, we have reached that point and if the President, whoever he may be and from whatever party, continues to rely upon a reported telephone call of one Justice to the other Supreme Court Justices as to what they said they were going to do in the future, sends armed troops in to take over with orders to use all force necessary, truly I say there is little left of the Constitution, of separation of powers, or of protection of rights of the States and of the people from an all-powerful Government.

Mr. BOW. I thank the gentleman from Mississippi for clarifying this situation.

Mr. WINSTEAD. Mr. Chairman, the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN] for the Mississippi delegation is only to prevent restoration of money already spent in the infamous Federal move on the State of Mississippi at Oxford. I regret that time has been limited and does not permit an adequate discussion of this tragic situation. However, it is a well-known fact that during and since the Oxford crisis, the FBI, Department of Justice lawyers, and other Government law-enforcement officials have swarmed over Mississippi like locusts. Every alleged incident involving a white person and a Negro in Mississippi or other Southern States causes more FBI agents to be sent out to make an investigation. All it takes for an investigation to be touched off is for a telegram to be sent to Attorney General Robert Kennedy, charging some white person with violation of so-called civil rights. Such telegrams are immediately made available to the press and publicity is given the charges by every communications medium, and the FBI is sent to investigate. When it is determined that these much-publicized charges are without foundation, neither the Attorney General nor the press makes any effort to furnish this information to the public and neither does the Department of Justice take steps to prosecute those who fabricated these charges.

The recent unfortunate incident in Washington when a white policeman shot a fleeing felon is well known to all of you. Charges were made by certain groups that the white officer who killed the Negro did so without sufficient justification and, in substance, acted in an irresponsible manner. I would like to point out here that some responsible Negroes in Washington, as well as other respected citizens, took the side of the law in this incident. Although no direct charges were made that the white officer was guilty of a so-called civil rights violation, when he shot the Negro, that is what these irresponsible charges amounted to.

Why did not the Attorney General launch a full-scale investigation of this incident? The answer appears to be that the incident occurred in the District of Columbia where no political mileage can be gotten from such an investigation. Had the same incident occurred in Mississippi or Alabama or any other southern State, General Kennedy would have immediately sent a small army of FBI agents and other of his representatives to investigate.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the pending amendment offered by the distinguished gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN].

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Committee of the Whole, there is no one here who appreciates the sincerity of the distinguished gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN] more than I do. But I cannot agree with him in the slightest with reference to the Meredith case on what he is trying to do in this appropriation bill.

Mr. Chairman, if this amendment were adopted the gentleman would deny the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the Bureau of Prisons, the U.S. marshals, the U.S. attorneys, the Civil Rights Division, the Civil Division and the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice necessary funds for their regular activities for the reason that the gentleman's amendment would reduce the amount at line 6, page 20, from $1.11 million to $581,000, which is the full amount of the pay increase money and which this Committee recommended should be reduced by 5 percent, or $30,000. Accordingly, he would allow the full amount of the pay increase money, but he would cut out every nickel for the everyday necessary activities of the various bureaus and divisions that I have just recounted.

Mr. Chairman, as of December 31, 1962, $445,100 had already been spent in connection with the Mississippi incident, and it was estimated that an additional $113,900 would be obligated as a result of it through June 30, 1963. This money, the $1.11 million carried in the pending bill would reimburse the various activities of the Department of Justice and take care of their pay increases. After all, the Attorney General had no alternative but to do what he did in connection with the Oxford, Miss., incident.

The usual day-to-day activities of the Bureau of Prisons, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the U.S. attorneys' offices, the U.S. marshals, et cetera, have to be carried out. As far as the Mississippi incident is concerned, the execution of Federal court orders is primarily the responsibility of the U.S. marshals service. At the beginning of the 1962 school term the fifth circuit court of appeals at New Orleans ordered the admission of the applicant—Meredith had requested admission to the uni-University, Miss. Previously Mr. Meredith had requested admission to the University but school officials would not permit his enrollment.

In order to enforce the court order and protect the integrity of the court the Attorney General determined that a substantial force of U.S. marshals would be required. Actually 130 deputies or chief deputies were detailed from offices throughout the country and participated in the program. These men were also supported by 316 specially deputized enforcement officers from the Immigration and Naturalization Service and 98 custodial officers from 4 penal institutions. These enforcement officers were required to put in many man-hours of overtime work beginning on September 15, 1962, and ending October 8, 1962.

Obligations through December 31, 1962, amounted to $445,100 and it is estimated that $113,900 additional will be obligated through June 30, 1963. The funds already obligated cover mainly the cost of overtime, $194,807; travel, $135,439; communications, $24,329; reporting services and repairs to vehicles, $18,838; and $70,436 for supplies which consist for the most part of gasoline, tear gas, tear gas projectiles, and replacement cost of depleted stock.

Mr. Chairman, I respectfully urge that it would be foolhardy to adopt the pending amendment. It would destroy the day-to-day necessary services of the Department of Justice. I ask that this amendment be voted down.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from New York [Mr. ROONEY] has expired. All time has expired.

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN].

The amendment was rejected.

(Mr. WILLIAMS asked and was given permission to extend his remarks at this point in the RECORD.)

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, inasmuch as the House limited debate on the Whitten amendment, I was precluded from getting time to speak in support of it. I certainly associate myself with the views expressed by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. WHITTEN] on this amendment.

The deportment of Federal marshals during the Oxford incident was shameful. The truth about what happened at Oxford, including the fact that the marshals themselves precipitated the riot by firing tear gas shells into a group of unarmed students, has been censored out of most of the Nation's press.

I have no desire here to reargue the Oxford case, except to say in my opinion, the action taken by the Federal Government at Oxford presents itself as the most shameful misuse of Executive power ever experienced by the people of the United States.

The Clerk read as follows:

FEES AND EXPENSES OF WITNESSES

For an additional amount for "Fees and expenses of witnesses", including an additional amount of not to exceed $25,000 for compensation and expenses to witnesses (including expert witnesses) or informants, $600,000.

Mr. RYAN of New York. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word.

(Mr. RYAN of New York asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RYAN of New York. Mr. Chairman, I cannot remain silent in the face of the statements which have been made in connection with the last amendment. It seems to me that we should at this point commend the Attorney General and the President of the United States for the action which was taken in Oxford, Miss. Any State which seeks to deny to any citizen of these United States his equal rights should have the full power of the Department of Justice brought to bear upon it. For instance, I feel very strongly that the Department of Justice should have intervened with U.S. marshals to protect citizens seeking to register and those active in the registration drive in Greenwood, Miss. I urged that course of action.

For too long a time we have seen, under the color of States rights, the denial of equal opportunity, and the denial of full protection of the laws. We should encourage the Attorney General to use his office, use his powers and use the statutes which are on the books to see to it that American citizens are permitted to register and are permitted to attend any State college or university or any elementary school without discrimination because of race, creed or color.

Mr. WAGGONNER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. RYAN of New York. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. WAGGONNER. Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that I am in complete disagreement with what he has just said.

Mr. RYAN of New York. I would expect the gentleman to say that.

Mr. WAGGONNER. By contrast the Department of Justice should not be commended but condemned for having done what they did, because they have exhibited that there is no such thing as equality on the face of this earth and the world knows this is not their real concern. Equality does not exist anywhere for anybody at any time and never has.

Mr. RYAN of New York. Mr. Chairman, I yielded for a question, not for a speech. But I might point out that I could not disagree more with the gentleman. The foundation principles of this Nation are under attack. The Congress must face this issue and enact meaningful civil rights legislation. The Department of Justice must be constantly vigilant to protect the rights of our citizens and to see to it that equal opportunity is provided to every American.

Mr. WAGGONNER. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word. I should like to ask the gentleman from New York [Mr. RYAN] if he is fully acquainted with the circumstances in Mississippi; has he been to Mississippi to investigate and does he know firsthand, or is he just peddling hearsay?

Mr. RYAN of New York. I think all of us have read the accounts concerning the situation in Mississippi.

Mr. WAGGONNER. Does the gentleman believe everything he reads in the newspapers? Outside agitation is at the root of all this trouble and is complicating the solution.

Mr. RYAN of New York. I think all of us are familiar with the statements of the President of the United States—his television address to the Nation last fall and the statements he has made in his press conferences. I have discussed the situation with the Attorney General and the Chief U.S. Marshal James McShane, who so ably supervised the marshals at Oxford, Miss. I have also had a firsthand report from one of the students who was enrolled at the University of Mississippi at the time. The facts are well established. I firmly believe it would be a good idea for a congressional committee to go to Mississippi and investigate the situation and report back.

Mr. WAGGONNER. Will the gentleman answer my question? Has he been there?

Mr. RYAN of New York. No, I have not been there.

Mr. COLMER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WAGGONNER. I yield to the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. COLMER. I did not intend to get into this because I recognize the futility of it, but the gentleman from New York said he fully expected the gentleman from Louisiana to take the position he took. I am sure no one would be surprised at the position the gentleman from New York took. I might add, if the gentleman from Louisiana is interested, that while the gentleman from New York did not actually visit Mississippi, according to his statement he did come pretty close down there, to Georgia, and have his picture made with some these agitators down there from New York who are stirring up all this trouble.

The Clerk read as follows:

ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL

Extension of the Capitol

For an additional amount for "Extension of the Capitol," $300,000.

Acquisition of property, construction, and equipment, additional House Office Building

The appropriation "Acquisition of property, construction, and equipment, additional House Office Building" shall hereafter be available also for necessary furniture and furnishings for such project.

Mrs. FRANCES P. BOLTON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word.

Mr. Chairman, may I ask this question of the chairman of the subcommittee. What extensions to the Capitol are premeditated in this?

Mr. THOMAS. I will say to the gentlewoman from Ohio that there are none contemplated in this expenditure here.

Mrs. FRANCES P. BOLTON. What is the money for then? There certainly is $300,000.

Mr. THOMAS. This is for lighting. You have about a $1 million authorization, and this is for lighting fixtures and so forth.

Mrs. FRANCES P. BOLTON. In most instances the lighting is twice too strong. In many of the new rooms it is almost intolerable. Some of the other works of the Architect in the extensions of the Capitol are utterly shocking. To think what they have done to our nice little dining room, which was comfortable, and which did not have this terrible vibration it has now. All the comfort and the pleasant atmosphere is gone. It looks like nothing but a service dining room in a penitentiary. Blank walls, no sound conditioning, glaring light, crowded seating has transformed a room Members enjoyed to a place where they would rather not go. So far I have not been able to discover who conceived the change and who ordered it although the Speaker, poor man, takes the responsibility.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES AND CONTINGENCIES

For an additional amount for "International conferences and contingencies," $315,000, of which $250,000 shall be available for expenses of organizing and holding the World Food Congress in the United States, as authorized by the act of October 18, 1962 (Public Law 87–841), and $65,000 shall be available for the U.S. contribution to the International Secretariat on Middle Level Manpower.

Mr. LIPSCOMB. Mr. Chairman, I make a point of order against the language in the bill on page 23, lines 8 through 15, under the heading "International Conferences and Contingencies" on the ground that it is not authorized by law. The authorizations for appropriations for international conferences and contingencies under section 5 of Public Law 84–885 conveys authority for a general appropriation and not author-

Greenwood Commonwealth
4-10-63

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Abraham Lincoln once said, 'you can't fool all the people all the time." Of course he had never heard of Karl Marx since old Karl came on the scene long after Abe's final curtain call at Ford Theater the night he and John Wilkes Boothe stopped the show.

If he was alive today however, it is quite possible that he would agree with Marx that you don't have to fool all the people all the time. In his rustic way he might also see through this government of, by and for high pressure minority groups and go along with Congressman John Bell Williams' statement that all this catering to every whim of these groups is plain and simple "hard wheeling p litics." He might even see that creeping socialism is eating away at this once great country of ours faster even than the malignancy of Communism is eating a pincer movement around us as it enslaves the world one country at a time.

I wonder what Lincoln would have thought of an award winning TV commentator's statement a few nights ago when he said that occassionally "we" have to dot a few "I's" and cross a few "T's" in our outmoded constitution that our (poor old ignorant) forefathers filed to dot and cross --- No Congressional action, no amendments, no anything --- just read the Constitution like an atheist reads the Bible, then pick it to pieces and interpret it to suit any liberal politician's political ambitions.

All true Americans have been of the opinion for over one hundred and fifty years that a Federal law must be made by the Congress, and that anything not expressly stated in the Constitution must be added to the Constitution by an amendment, passed on by the Congress, and ratified by the States.

If the Constitution is s out of date as so-called Liberals should have us believe, let's rewrite the "old thing" and start all over. BUT, in Heaven's name, let's let some true statemen rewrite it, not Brother Bobby, Martin Luther Kin Constance Mobley, Daisy Bates, Earl Warren, and the like.

Let's stop kidding ourselves that we are living in a Democracy. We do not hve a democratic government in Washington--We have a plain and simple Politburo. Take a look at what we lovingly refer to as "our democratic form" of government."

We are being hoodwinked at every turn of the road and information is being withheld even from Congress. We are being propagandized by our own newspaper report ers. radio and TV commentators. Our "majority rule" succembed a long time ago to "rule of and by the chosen few," and we are being taxed into bankruptcy faster than any nation in all of recorded history. We are being lied to at home (admittedly) and lied about all over the worl.d It is Nazism to be a patriot and anti-Christian to be against amalgamation of the races. It is prfectly legal for hundreds of "Commie" inspired students in San Fanciso to riot against the Committee on Un American Activities, but it is forbidden for "a" student at the University of Mississippi to even heckle an unqualified, unwanted, and illegal student, who by his mere presence has disrupted, not only a major university, but a peaceful city of some six thousand citizens. All this is labeled "Progress" and anyone who impedes this 'Porgress" to torn asunder like a "squ ter's" cabin on a railroad right-of-way. We are being "Politicked" xto death and are blindly being led down the road to a POLICE STATE that may very well require another civil war to eradicate.

We have, each of us, said "Let John do it' until with Bobby's help he has. If we let him do it another four years, don't let it surprie you some day when you and a friend are stopped on the street by a couple of "Bobby's Briggade." split up. and asked what you were talking about as you came down the street. If your tales don't "tally" you'll be declared "enemies of the State" and then where will you be? I'll tell you where you'll be--you'll be screaming your busted head off to get back to the collective farm that you used to own.

It can't happen here? When over thrity thousand troops are sent into a sovereign state after a promise by the President that no troops would be used, it has already happened. When a Negro woman attorney can dictate to a left-wing, power usurping Justice jdepartm when and how to punish the Governor of a Sovereign State, it has already happened. When the Justice Department files suit against city and county officials for maintaining law and order, it has already happened. When a former great Army General is thrown in the "booby hatch" by order of a government psychiatrist who diagnosed him as "unbalanced" because of what he read in a newspaper, IT HAS ALREADY HAPPENED.

If we want freedom of speech, Constitutional Government, States Rights, and freedom to choose our own associates, we had better stop worrying about what some Ubangi, Mau Mau, or Fuzzy Wuzzy thinks and buy up a bunch of nickel "four-cent" stamps and start writing Congressmen, Senators and every newspaper we can think of, and let them know that we know what a sad state of affairs we've been "governed" into.

By the way, what ever happened to John Casper after he exercized our famous "freedom of Speech?"

Respectfully,
Bill H. Meeks
Greenwood, Miss.

Dear Sir:

You said that the nation isn't hearing Greenwood's side of the story. Isn't that a principle of pro paganda? Isn't propaganda as much or more what is left untold, as it is of what is told?

Sincerely,
R. N.

COMEDIAN GREGORY LEADS GROUP

Atl. Daily World 4-4-63

New Registration March Broken Up By Delta Police

By DAVID MADDUX

GREENWOOD, Miss. — (UPI) — Police broke up a voter registration march led by Dick Gregory Wednesday and arrested all 20 of the Negro participants — but not the nationally known comedian.

Gregory immediately announced he was cancelling all of his night club engagements and would remain in this delta community to "fight this thing until the government sends in troops."

The Negro comedian told a voter rally Tuesday night "if Bobby Kennedy or any of his family came down here painted black, they wouldn't send troops but missiles."

"If it takes 10 years I'll be here in an effort to put down the police brutality," Gregory said following the arrest of 19 Wednesday.

The marchers were stopped just a few blocks from their voter registration headquarters by a cordon of police headed by City Commissioner B. A. Buff Hammond. Hammond ordered them to disperse.

He told the marchers they could go to the Leflore County Courthouse and take the voter registration tests but only individually or in small groups.

REFUSE TO BUDGE

The leaders—Gregory, Ida Holland and the Rev. Robert Kinloch, a Baptist pastor-refused to break up the group. While they were talking, a Negro in his early 20's spoke up from the rear rank and urged his companions to stand fast.

Police moved in on the young Negro, lifted him bodily, and placed him in a waiting school bus driven by an auxiliary patrolman.

The officers then surrounded the marchers and asked each individually whether they preferred to "go home, go to jail or go to register to vote alone."

Most of the marchers refused to move and were arrested and herded aboard the yellow school bus.

COMEDIAN ESCAPES ARREST

However, Hammond instructed the officers not to arrest Gregory.

The Negroes were charged with disorderly conduct and refusing to obey an officer.

There was more racial trouble in Birmingham, Ala. In that city 10 Negroes were arrested when they attempted sit-in demonstrations at downtown stores. This apparently was the start to a new drive, since integration leader Martin Luther King announced in Atlanta that he would go to Birmingham later Wednesday to help with the effort.

4/10/63

Greenwood Commonwealth

Two Negroes Apply

4-10-63

LEXINGTON, Miss. (AP) A small group of Negroes turned out to apply for vote registration Tuesday in this small Delta town. Only two took voter tests because the circuit clerk—who serves as vote registrar—was occupied with the April term of circuit court.

When 16 Negroes appeared at the courthouse in the morning, a deputy sheriff first told them to disperse, then directed them to gather under a shade tree and wait.

"Were not trying to prevent you from registering," the deputy said.

Lexington, a town of 2,800 population, is the seat of Holmes County, which adjoins Leflore County where an active drive to register Negroes is under way.

✣ ✣ ✣

GREENWOOD, LEFLORE COUNTY, MISS., WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 10, 1963

Police Fund Grows

Greenwood Commonwealth

Letters and contributions for the "Police Appreciation Fund" continued to pour in today, from inside and outside the city, and the group which started the fund expressed deep satisfaction..... ....

One contribution arrived from Columbus, O., today. The previous record for distance was Kokomo, Ind.

Meanwhile Mayor C. E. Sampson and the city commissioners, said that City Council had decided to include overtime pay in the regular checks of all officers who spent 13 days on around-the-clock alert and no-days-off duty.

Sampson said the council members had decided on overtime pay after the crisis stretched into so many days and "we could total it all up.'

But the police appreciation fund, said Frank Miller ,of Delta Jewellers, spokesman for the group which began the fund, should not clash with overtime pay which the city will grant for work performed.

Officials of the fund reported today that contributions at noon totalled $3,538.50.

Miller, when announcing the fund said the group hoped to raise at least $3,000 for $100 check for each man on the force, but 'If we go over so much the better."

Today he urged more contributions and cited a couple of hardships endured by at least two policemen during the recent crisis.

"One man came back on duty too soon after a bout with the flu,' Miller said, "and had to be put in the hospital because of it. Another policeman didn't have time to go home and eat, so he missed out on his diet and had to be hospitalized for awhile, to."

Chief Curtis Lary's force has gone back to regular duty since the crisis abated with an agreement between local and federal authorities in federal court.

Miller added that a permanent record of the contributions are being kept, and the money is being deposited in a separate bank account for distribution to the police officers when the fund is declared complete.

All letters received with contributions have been high in praise of the way city officials, police officers and auxiliary police handled their duties during the 13 days when racial troubles conceivably could have racked the city.

"While I don't see how you controlled yourselves," said a donor from Jackson. "I'm glad you did. You did right.'

With a check from Tchula came this note: 'I was in Greenwood every week during the entire disgusting episode. I was unafraid and did my weekly shopping in the usual way . . . I'll always remember and respect you as the greatest law enforcement group I have ever seen or heard of."

From Paragould, Ark: "Dick Gregory was terribly disappointed when he couldn't get arrested... The look of John Chancellor's face when they couldn't dig up anything to raise hell about was good enough for me."

"The police department in Greenwood is a credit not only to Greenwood. but to the Delta and state as well," wrote a donor from Greenville.

From Lexington: '...small contribution for police. . .whose dignity and forbearance in their recent trials have been an example to the forces of law and order everywhere.'

"Enclose check ... I know you have all had a hard time, and I want to help. . .I have two sisters there,' said a note from Memphis.

There were other letters and personal word from people who have brought cash by city hall for the fund.

The box number for contributions is 848, Greenwood.

Greenwood, Miss.
4-11-63

On The Other Foot

The shoe may be pinching the other foot awhile after all.

That statement the city council got up about alleged incidents in Greenwood charged by Negro voter registration workers has borne a little fruit. At the time the Commonwealth reproduced it we said it was probably the best assessment of the situation as it could be ascertained until all the facts are in.

Using the statement as a wedge, the Washington Bureau of the Commercial Appeal has elicited a fat "no comment" then a "the investigation is continuing" statement from the Justice Department.

Apparently the Commercial Appeal's capitol bureau picked up the city council's challenge to national news media to ferret out Justice Department reports which council said would prove that racial "incidents" here were put up jobs.

We congratulate the big newspaper to the North and hope the reporter in Washington will visit Justice again when the investigation is complete and demand the results. They should be interesting.

In the same report from Washington contained in Tuesday's edition of the CA were some quotes from a Washington Star editorial.

The editorial was favorable to Greenwood and hinted that since the Justice Department pulled out of Greenwood pretty fast when it became apparent Negroes were not being denied the right to apply for registration to vote, maybe they shouldn't have been here in the first place.

We welcome these words of sanity from the Washington Star, too.

But we would add, looking back, that it turned out to be to Greenwood's advantage, probably, that trained Washington observers were on the scene. (T. W.)

'NOTHING OUT THERE IS HOTTER THAN WHAT'S BURNING IN OUR HEARTS'

EXCLUSIVE: Inside Greenwood

(STORY IN COLUMN 1)

The Afro-American

71st Year, No. 38 | Contents of Newspaper Copyrighted 1963 by AFRO-AMERICAN Co. | BALTIMORE, MD., APRIL 13, 1963 | NATIONAL EDITION | 28 PAGES | ★★★★ | 15 CENTS

Yanks, Dodgers—Predicts Sam Lacy

(STORY IN COLUMN 8)

POWELL'S NOT TALKING

EXCLUSIVE:

'We're in for long hard fight,' say vote crusaders

By MOSES J. NEWSON
AFRO Staff Correspondent

Page of Pictures on Page 12

GREENWOOD, Miss. — A nervous quiet fell over jammed First Christian Church. For the moment, the speeches, the cheers and the applause were suspended.

The clanging sound of a fire truck speeding toward, then past the church, proved an omnious reminder that the white citizens of Leflore County — like the colored ones at the rally — were not yet sleeping this sultry night.

But young Dave Dennis, Student Non - Violent Coordinating Committee field secretary from Baton Rouge, La., a veteran campaigner who has faced intimidation before, was on his toes.

'Gracious gesture'

THE ASTRONAUT'S FAMILY — Air Force Capt. Edward J. Dwight, first colored flier to be selected wards Air Force Base, Calif. The happy family are, wife, Sue; son, Eddie, 6 and daughter, Tina, Verdict of $211,500 stuns city

By ALVIN E. WHITE

NEW YORK — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem dandy, who only two weeks ago stirred up such a ruckous with his blast at the NAACP, was not talking Thursday.

Whether or not he had been stunned into silence by the verdict of an all-white State Supreme Court jury awarding $211,000 to a Harlem grandmother he called "a bag woman" was not clear.

Only his lawyer, Charles T. McKinney, was saying anything. "We are confident our appeal will be successful," he said.

Powell has 30 days in

MRS. ESTHER T. JAMES
"I had the last laugh"

We're in for long hard fight,' say vote crusaders

By MOSES J. NEWSON
AFRO Staff Correspondent

Page of Pictures on Page 12

GREENWOOD, Miss. — A nervous quiet fell over jammed First Christian Church. For the moment, the speeches, the cheers and the applause were suspended.

The clanging sound of a fire truck speeding toward, then past the church, proved an omnious reminder that the white citizens of Leflore County — like the colored ones at the rally — were not yet sleeping this sultry night.

But young Dave Dennis, Student Non - Violent Coordinating Committee field secretary from Baton Rouge, La., a veteran campaigner who has faced intimidation before, was on his toes.

"We're hot tonight. But nothing burning out there is hotter than what's burning in our hearts," he shouted. That brought the throng back to the handclapping stage.

But this was just a skirmish in what James Farmer, Congress of Racial Equality excutive director probably pegged correctly when he warned his listeners, "you're in for a long hard fight. Don't think this is going to be easy."

OUTSIDERS WHO only know what they read about Greenwood and Leflore County would be wise to follow the lead of a song sung at the mass meetings to impress upon the people the important goal of the drive.

It goes like this:

"Ain't no harm to keep your mind staying on freedom; walking and talking with my mind staying on freedom. Going to register with my mind staying on freedom, hallelujah, hallelujah."

This is important for two big reasons:

1. — The city officials of Greenwood have on a campaign among reporters on the scene and with other persons, to create as good an image as possible.

2.—Effectivenesses of the vote drive and the real extent of cooperation officials give aspirant voters will show up ONLY in the number of colored citizens qualifying to cast ballots.

• • •

MAYOR CHARLES E. SAMPSON and other local officials have been handing out their own releases to the press. They set up a lounge for reporters. They even put

(Continued on page 2)

'Gracious gesture' is a joke

GREENWOOD, Miss. — Local whites laughed covertly here late last week as they "graciously" agreed to furnish a city bus so colored citizens going to the courthouse to register as voters would not be attacked or harassed.

They laughed because they know the stringent regulations for registration would be enforced to the hilt. Over 95 per cent of Leflore County's 10,274 white eligibles are registered. Only 1.9 per cent of the county's 13,567 colored eligibles have succeeded in getting by the vigilant registrars.

One of the regulations provides that names of registrants, before approval, must be published for two consecutive weeks in a county newspaper.

"It applies equally to all, white and black alike," said a county supervisor with a grin.

Publication of the names enables local whites to identify the colored persons who are seeking their rights and to take vengeance ranging from an economic squeeze to murderous terrorism.

Other registration provisions are that registrants must interpret the Mississippi Constitution and be of good moral character. Publication of the names in the paper permits a situation where whites can challenge

(Continued on page 2)

THE ASTRONAUT'S FAMILY — Air Force Capt. Edward J. Dwight, first colored flier to be selected for possible participation in future manned space flights, poses with his family at their home at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The happy family are, wife, Sue; son, Eddie, 6 and daughter, Tina, 7.

Newsmakers

HOMER L. PERKINS, prominent Albany N.Y., realtor, became the first of his race to be appointed a member of the Board of Supervisors for the County of Albany. He is the father of two sons, Franchot and James.

• • •

SHERMAN W. SMITH last week was officially sworn in as a Los Angeles Muncipal Court judge. The Fort Worth, Texas, native is an honor graduate of West Virginia State College and Howard University.

• • •

J. RAYMOND JONES, who because of his political prowess has been nicknamed "The Fox," is making a bid for the New York City Council seat vacated two months ago when Herbert B. Evans was appointed a member of the City housing and Redevelopment Board. Other council members will choose the new member, pending an election in November.

• • •

C. H. HILDEBRAND Jr., Atlanta's fire chief, Monday announced the hiring of that city's first colored firemen—16 in number — to man a newly constructed fire station on the West Side. They are to serve under white officers.

• • •

MRS. EDNA E. BROWN Tuesday became the first woman of her race to be elected a member of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen, which pays $5,000 a year. She said she will resigned her $4400 a year job as clerk - typist in the Juvenile Court Her husband, Joseph, is a machinist. The couple has two teen-age daughters.

WILMA RUDOLPH — HOMER L. PERKINS

• • •

MISS F. GERTRUDE PAGE, 94, a former seamstress of Brockport, N. Y., left her $120,000 estate equally divided between Livingstone College, Salisbury, N.C., and Tuskegee Institute, Ala., Her father, William L. Page, first colored graduate of the University of Rochester, founded the first coal company in Brockport.

• • •

WILMA RUDOLPH, internationally famous track star, will attend the African Friendship Games in Senegal this month under the sponsorship of the Department of State. She will not participate, but will meet African athletes and discuss American training techniques.

• • •

GOV. ENDICOTT PEABODY on April 1 signed into law a bill outlawing discrimination in the sale or rental of housing in Massachusetts. The law covers all but two-family houses in which the

(Continued on page 2)

Million $$ fraud bared in Harlem

NEW YORK — Federal grand jury indictments returned against prominent local persons have shaken Harlem's social foundations. Twelve defendants are charged with defrauding the Federal Government of one million five hundred thousand dollars!

Climaxing a six months investigation, the indictment named John A. Ross Jr., now living in nearby New Rochelle, as one of the leaders in the plot.

Mr. Ross, formerly an Assistant Attorney General is presently a Deputy Superintendent of the Banking Department of the State of New York, salary, $16,900 per annum and the first colored man to hold the office.

Mr. Ross, prominent in Republican political circles, has been an unsuccessful candidate for state senator and for a judgeship in municipal elections. Previously, he had resided at 131 West 110th Street, in Manhattan.

• • •

ALSO INDICTED on the same charges were Mrs. Ethel Ivy Neely of 2225 Fifth Avenue, formerly a supervisory tax examiner in the Internal Revenue Service at 484 Lexington Avenue; Mrs. Laurel M. Bayley, 2200 Madison Avenue, formerly a federal tax employee; Grover Cooper of Englewood, N.J., formerly an Internal Revenue Service employee;

Also Percy Branker, owner of a cocktail lounge on St. Nicholas Place; Irving Tendrich, owner of the Brown Bomber Restaurant at 710 St. Nicholas Avenue; Herman Mc Tootle, Rockville Center, L.I., Frank McClary, 458 West 151st St., Mrs. Catherine Wood of Englewood, N.J. a formerly an Internal Revenue Service employee.

According to the indictment announced by U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau Mr. Ross is charged with submitting tax returns to Mrs. Neely, then employed in the Internal Revenue Service, which method precluded their being audited.

The returns related to years much earlier than the date of their filing, a situation which ordinarily brings about an audit of those returns.

• • •

IN ONE INSTANCE, the indictment charges, Mr. Ross handled the returns of Judge Kenneth Phipps and his wife for the years 1957, 1958, 1959 and 1960.

Mr. Phipps, a judge in the Criminal Court, is not named in the indictment. However, prior to the time he moved to New Rochelle, Mr. Ross lived in the same house as Judge Phipps.

When questioned on the matter, Judge Phipps told newsmen that Mr. Ross was an old friend of many years and had been his accountant during all that time. He de-

(Continued on page 11)

$211,500 stuns city

By ALVIN E. WHITE

NEW YORK — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem dandy, who only two weeks ago stirred up such a ruckous with his blast at the NAACP, was not talking Thursday.

Whether or not he had been stunned into silence by the verdict of an all-white State Supreme Court jury awarding $211,000 to a Harlem grandmother he called "a bag woman" was not clear.

Only his lawyer, Charles T. McKinney, was saying anything. "We are confident our appeal will be successful," he said.

Powell has 30 days in which to file notice of an appeal.

• • •

BUT MRS. ESTHER JAMES, 66 - year old widow, was not so silent.

"I had the last laugh on Adam," she gleefully informed newsmen. "This is the happiest day of my life. I have my reputation, and that is much more important than the money."

The jury of seven men and five women was unanimous in agreeing that Congressman Powell was guilty of libel in "maliciously" calling Mrs. James the police graft payoff woman for numbers racketeers.

• • •

WINDING UP a four day hearing, the jury debated approximately five hours before arriving at its decision.

Although Congressman Powell had been summoned and his lawyers said he would appear before the jury to answer the charges, Mr. Powell ignored the case and stayed away. Mrs. James was suing for $1,000,000.

The suit grew out of a statement Mr. Powell made on a TV program in 1960 when he was in the midst of a bitter battle with numbers people — which fell apart at the seams with the numbers people still operating right under the shadow of Pastor Powell's big church.

According to Justice Aurelio, before whom the case was heard, the TV Station Channel 13, settled its case out of court, paying Mrs. James $1,500.

• • •

DURING THE trial, the defense put several witnesses

(Continued on page 11)

MRS. ESTHER T. JAMES
"I had the last laugh"

Dodgers, Yanks-Lacy

By SAM LACY
AFRO SPORTS EDITOR

WASHINGTON — The New York Yankees in the American League. The Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League.

That is the substance that makes up the limb on which the AFRO will venture its April climb this year.

Although I am picking the Yankees and Dodgers to win their respective pennants in the big league baseball season that opened on Monday, I figure to gain in popularity in Baltimore and St. Louis as this prognosticating bit proceeds.

For it will dawn on Oriole and Cardinal fans that I honestly think their teams, with a few breaks, might well make it an all-bird World Series come October.

COLD LACY logic, however, leads me to anticipate an American League finish of Yankees first, Orioles second, Minnesota Twins third, and Detroit Tigers fourth.

It also commands me to select the Dodgers to top the National League, followed by the Cincinnati Reds, San Francisco Giants and St. Louis Cardinals, second, third and fourth in that order.

Inasmuch as these are the

(Continued on Page 9)

Ray Charles, Al Hibbler to aid fight against B'ham jimcrow

(SPECIAL TO THE AFRO)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Two internationally - famous blind singers, Ray Charles and Al Hibbler, are expected here this week to assist in the protest campaign which was renewed here last week.

Also expected to return this week for the campaign are Dr. Martin Luther King and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy. They will join the Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth in the sitdowns being staged at downtown lunch counters. Dr. King has vowed to go to jail if arrested in the protest.

• • •

THE NEW protest wave shows several novel turns. For one thing, there are more employed adults engaging in the sitdowns than there are local (Miles) college students.

For another, store managers are not "cooperating" in getting the protesters arrested. Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor complained that they were not reporting sit-ins to the police so the protestors could be arrested.

For still another, Bull Connor, perennial foe of civil rights, does not know where he stands. He blusters that he will arrest protesting colored citizens but his status is very shaky.

In last Tuesday's election, former Lt. Gov. Albert Boutwell Connor soundly (29,630 to 21,648) trounced Connor in the mayoralty

(Continued on page 11)

Took 17 stitches

DUBLIN, Ga. — Doctors testified it took 17 stitches to close the holes in Johnny Lee Mitchell's head after he was beaten to the floor of the city jail and kicked in the face.

The police beating has set off a full scale investigation of police brutality by Joe Jamieson, Savannah FBI agent. Ten other prisoners are involved, it was reported.

Probe of job discrimination at Chemstrand plant begun

WASHINGTON

The Atomic Energy Commission has set an investigation of job discrimination charges made last week against a Florida firm with which it contracts. A nine-year employe of the firm, Chemstrand Corporation, lodged the complaint exposed in the AFRO last week.

Hobart Taylor Jr., executive vice chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Job Opportunity, said Friday he had been told an AEC representative would undertake a compliance review of the Pensacola corporation's race policy this week.

The employe at Chemstrand, a subsidiary of the Monsanto Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mo., accused the plant of practicing wholesale discrimination in hiring, promotion, pay, and use of eating, rest, and recreation facilities.

• • •

THE MONSANTO CO. pro-

(Continued on page 11)

Gene 'Bossa Nova' Ammons gets life term on dope rap

CHICAGO (ANP) — To use the terminology of the hepsters of show business, ace tenor saxophonist Gene 'Bossa Nova' Ammons will be "long gone" from jazz scene.

Ammons was sentenced to life in prison following his conviction on a charge of selling narcotics at a bench trial in Criminal Court here last week. The sentence, handed down by Judge George Fiedler, was automatic under the new narcotics code.

It provides that an offender convicted a second time, whether for sale or possession, draws a life sentence.

• • •

THREE YEARS AGO, Ammons was released from a two-year sentence for possession of narcotics. Friends and close associates believed then that Gene had succeeded in "kicking" the dope habit.

At the time of his arrest on the current charge, his wife, Mrs. Lavenia Ammons, said "Gene had just about finished kicking the habit, and he had nothing but a tranquilizer when they picked him up."

Ammons was trapped by so-called friends who lulled him into selling them heroin on Dec. 15 and 18 of 1961. According to the prosecution, the men called Ammons and told him that they had just arrived in Chicago from Kansas City and needed a "fix."

• • •

AMMONS REPORTEDLY told them to meet him at a southside tavern he was running at the time. When Ammons tried to conclude the

(Continued on page 2)

Dr. King named

NEW YORK (NNPA. — Dr. John B. King, formerly associate superintendent in charge of the elementary school division, has been given the full - time job of Deputy Superintendent of New York schools in charge of all instruction.

WHEN YOU FINISH READING YOUR AFRO PASS IT ALONG TO A FRIEND

Newsmakers

(Continued from page 1)

owner occupies one apartment.

• • •

LIONEL HAMPTON and his band left this week for Japan to begin a tour of the Far East. He's scheduled to open at the Metropole in May.

• • •

GILBERT M. CANTOR, attorney for the Rev. Virgil Wood and O. C. Thaxton, a merchant, pleaded with the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals to order an immediate end to segregation in the Lynchburg (Va.) armory and public nursing home. U. S. District Judge Thomas J. Michie last Oct. 10 had refused to issue such an order.

• • •

CARL J. RISKOWSKI, city corporate counsel, describes the anti - discrimination housing ordinance passed by the Schenectady (N. Y.) City Council Monday night as the strongest in the nation. It excludes, however, houses designed for three families or less and occupied in part by the owner.

• • •

JACQUELYNE FAYE EVANS of Little Rock, one of 70 of her race attending integrated classes here, last week was inducted into the honor society at Hall High School. The junior has an A-plus average.

• • •

BISHOP WILLIAM L. ADRAIN of Nashville, Tenn., on the recommendation of pastors, last week announced a four-year plan to desegregate Catholic elementary schools in Memphis and Shelby County, effective in September.

JAMES DAVIS, on the Morganton (N.C.) Police Force for five years, has resigned to become a deputy sheriff under Burke County Sheriff David Oaks. Davis, 33, begins his new duties in mid-April.

• • •

CAPT. JAMES E. GREGORY, an Army officer studying cancer cytology at the state laboratory of hygiene at the University of Wisconsin, has filed suit in Dane County Circuit Court against three Madison trailer parks he said denied him and his family trailer space because of their race. No specific damages were asked.

• • •

FRANKLIN H. WILLIAMS, 45, former Western Regional NAACP director and assistant attorney general of California, has resigned as assistant director of the Peace Corps to take a $20,000 job as deputy director of the New York Democratic State Committee.

• • •

DONALD FRANKS, 17, of Garner, N. C., drowned in Neuse River near Raleigh last Sunday trying to rescue Ann Prince, 12, who was with the Franks family on a fishing party. Carl Pierce, 31, fishing nearby heard screams and jumped in the river and rescued the girl.

MAYOR FOR A DAY CROSS BURNING

SAN FRANCISCO — —(NNPA) — Noah W. Griffin Jr., student president of Washington High School, was youth mayor in the "Youth in Government Day" sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was chosen on the basis of his speech, "De Facto Segregation in the San Francisco Schools," given before Jaycee executives.

DIM FUTURE

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — The future of the migratory farm worker in the United States is far from promising, the Agriculture Department reported. A continued decline in the numbers of persons involved in agricultural production was predicted in the wake of technological advances.

UNIFORMS

Usher Board, Deaconess, Mother of Church, Nurses, Missionary, Prayer Band

Nylon, Dacron, Cotton, Poplin, Sizes 5 to 52 Long, Short and ¾ Sleeves

BADGES FOR USHERS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Lowest Prices Available

WRITE FOR FREE CATALOG #7

SPRINGER FASHION UNIFORMS

701 H St., N.E. Washington 2, D.C. — 77 Alabama St., S.W. Atlanta 3, Georgia

WHEN YOUR SKIN

Relieve the Itching Misery of "Upset Skin" Attacks

GREGORY MOVES ALONG — A Greenwood police officer collared comedian Dick Gregory in Greenwood, Miss., as he left the County Court House after a group registered there, last week. As the group left they were told not to leave in large groups. Gregory, was helped across the street by a police officer when he was told he was moving too slow.

—Gesture is joke

(Continued from page 1)

the character of colored registrants.

• • •

THE CITY'S agreement to furnish the bus, however, was another in a strange series of concessions. Notable among these was the a minute!" called Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond.

The commissioner and Police Chief Curtis Lary went to extremes to avoid letting Gregory's needling get under their skin. They felt that the arrest of such a nationally prominent person might bring even greater officials. The city and county officials have until May 20 to answer the suit.

No one expects the Missisippi judge to hear the case before October.

The eight marchers freed were sentenced to four months and fined $200. They were arrested during a march in protest of the failure of police to take seriously the attempt to kill three vote-drive workers of the Student Nonviolent Coordin-

Housing Bill Up For N. Y. Passage

ALBANY, N.Y — Legislative passage appeared certain at mid - week for a Rockefeller - backed proposal to outlaw racial discrimination because of race, religion, or nationality in private housing accommodation.

The bill, which cleared its last roadblock in the N. Y. Senate Friday, already has the approval of the State Assembly. The Metcalf - Baker bill became a virtual certainty when Walter J. Mahoney, Republican, said that he would call it for a vote.

The bill, to go into effect Sept. 1. would prohibit discrimination in the sale of privately owned housing and in rentals, except for a room in a one-family house or apartment or in an owner-occupied two - family house.

• • •

THE PRESENT law, enacted in 1961, exempts sales involving individual one-family and two - family homes and rentals in one - family, two family, and three-family homes when the owner occupies part of the building.

It covers the original sale of one - family homes when the building is part of a development of ten or more homes.

The existing law, as well as the proposed new law, was introduced in the legislature, at the request of the Governor. He expressed "great pleasure" that the new measure will apparently pass its last major stumbling block.

THE ROCKEFELLER bill will affect about 95 per cent of all private housing in the state, according to the New York State Committee on Discrimination in Housing.

The committee is the coordinating group for 40 civil rights, civic, religious and labor organizations interested in legislation against discrimination in housing.

The committee estimated that the existing law affects 40 per cent of the state's private housing market and 1 per cent of private housing outside New York City. New York has had a housing bias ban for six years.

—We're in for fight

(Continued from page 1)

out a list giving home and office telephone numbers to reporters.

In addition, they offer to answer questions when called. Many reporters don't question them further when they boast about the "good racial relations here."

When the AFRO did, the mayor said the good race relations didn't include colored persons holding city jobs above the labor and broom-level category — then he ended the conversation.

Look for Greenwood and Leflore officials to make any statement or take any not-too-severe action which will make them appear to be, as they put it, "bending over backwards" to be fair.

But the key thing to look for is the number of colore d persons who are approved as registered voters. Enough of them are going down to the courthouse for the number to be impressive.

However, only a few of group gets to put in an application. Their names appear in the local paper. Then it's three weeks or more before the person finds out whether or not he passed the test.

So it really will be near the end of April before figures will show how far the officials are bending over backwards.

was postponed.

This is his explanation: "It's not a case of discrimination on the part of the county. It is the ignorance on the part of the applicants. . . ."

A few years ago in New Orleans one of the registrars was explaining before the Civil Rights Commission how colored applicants often failed the test she administered.

When she was asked to do the test herself, she flunked it right there in the federal courtroom.

• • •

A TIP off how much progress the campaign in Leflore might be making could be included in this tsatement by Atty. Lott:

"I would eliminate that only 10 colored persons out of 336 taking the tests during March, 1963, passed the tests."

Dick Gregory, to the colored citizens of this country, and many whites, is the hottest entertainer in the world today. And the most beloved.

• • •

A FEW DAYS in Greenwood and you are impressed with the young people city officials refer to as "outside agitators come to destroy an All-American city."

They operate on a shoe string in the face of all kinds of threats, intimidations and them in their personal accounts.

• • •

FIRST, THE reaction was to send in food and clothing to help victims of economic reprisals.

Now it begins to go further.

James Farmer put it this way:

"If Northern businesses come to Mississippi and you can't get jobs, we will boycott them up there.

"Loans are given in the north to feed the dogs turned loose on you down here and to build your segregated schools. We are going to fight against these things more and more. We will fight back with the mighty dollar."

Colored persons in the target areas now are being told about the profit margins of big companies. "They need you just as much as you need them," they are told.

• • •

NOW THAT the Federal Government has agreed to a compromise that freed eight movement leaders but set back the hearing date on a restraining injunction until possibly October, what will happen is anybody's guess.

Most likely the city and county officials are believing their own statements that in a short while the "the circus will close its tents and move on."

On the other hand, the combined civil rights group has said the campaign will continue until every person who wants to register does so.

the recommendation of pastors, last week announced a four-year plan to desegregate Catholic elementary schools in Memphis and Shelby County, effective in September.

UNIFORMS

Usher Board, Deaconess, Mother of Church, Nurses, Missionary, Prayer Band

Nylon, Dacron, Cotton, Poplin, Sizes 5 to 52 Long, Short and ¾ Sleeves

BADGES FOR USHERS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Lowest Prices Available

WRITE FOR FREE CATALOG #7

SPRINGER FASHION UNIFORMS

701 H St., N.E. Washington 2, D.C. — 77 Alabama St., S.W. Atlanta 3, Georgia

fin Jr., student president of Washington High School, was youth mayor in the "Youth in Government Day" sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was chosen on the basis of his speech, "De Facto Segregation in the San Francisco Schools," given before Jaycee executives.

DIM FUTURE

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — The future of the migratory farm worker in the United States is far from promising, the Agriculture Department reported. A continued decline in the numbers of persons involved in agricultural production was predicted in the wake of technological advances.

WHEN YOUR SKIN CRIES HELP

You don't have to live with the awful torment of agonizing itching. Get fast, blessed relief from the ugly, itching misery of pimples, rashes, eczema, and tetter. As the internationally-famous medication of "Skin Success" Ointment eases and tranquilizes itching, many forms of upset skin can heal faster. Palmer's "Skin Success" Ointment. Only 35c. Large economy size containing four times as much, only 75c. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

LOVELIER COMPLEXION

. . . plus head-to-toe protection with the deep-acting foamy medication of "Skin Success" Soap. It beauty-bathes while it fights germs that often aggravate ugly blemishes and perspiration odors . . . makes you sure you're nice to be near. Palmer's "Skin Success" Soap. Only 25c.

DEPENDABLE QUALITY SKIN CARE PRODUCTS SINCE 1840

GREGORY MOVES ALONG — A Greenwood police officer collared comedian Dick Gregory in Greenwood, Miss., as he left the County Court House after a group registered there, last week. As the group left they were told not to leave in large groups. Gregory, was helped across the street by a police officer when he was told he was moving too slow.

—Gesture is joke

(Continued from page 1)

the character of colored registrants.

• • •

THE CITY'S agreement to furnish the bus, however, was another in a strange series of concessions. Notable among these was the refusal to arrest comedian Dick Gregory, although he taunted police officers as they arrested protest marchers all around him.

At one point, an officer (really a civilian wearing the yellow armband of a hastily-assembled volunteer police force) started to arrest.

"Wait a minute, wait a minute, wait a minute!" called Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond.

The commissioner and Police Chief Curtis Lary went to extremes to avoid letting Gregory's needling get under their skin. They felt that the arrest of such a nationally prominent person might bring even greater unity to local colored citizens.

• • •

JUDGE ORMAN L. KIMBROUGH' in a police court hearing, found 12 of the vote marchers guilty of disorderly conduct. He levied $100 fines and 30-day jail sentences against each.

Their arrests came as they walked with Gregory and SNCC registration workers toward the courthouse. A fire department vehicle and several private cars immediately jammed the street. There was no fire.

Police ordered the marchers to break up into smaller groups and arrested them for "obstructing traffic" when they refused.

Four other persons arrested were dismissed for lack of evidence. Appeal bond for those convicted was set at $500.

• • •

IN AN AGREEMENT with the U.S. Department of Justice, the city officials released eight marchers arrested the previous week. The Justice Department agreed in return to drop a request for an immediate order banning interference with colored persons seeking to vote.

U.S. District Judge Claude Clayton has not yet scheduled a hearing for the goverment request for a permanent injunction against city officials. The city and county officials have until May 20 to answer the suit.

No one expects the Missisippi judge to hear the case before October.

The eight marchers freed were sentenced to four months and fined $200. They were arrested during a march in protest of the failure of police to take seriously the attempt to kill three vote-drive workers of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The SNCC has combined with the NAACP, CORE and the Southern Educational Conference to form the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO) which is pressing the drive in Leflore County.

• • •

IN WASHINGTON, President Kennedy told his news conference last week that denial of voting rights in Mississippi was "evident" and he hoped the court would decide the matter that way.

Asked by one reporter if the Justice Department "can do more in terms of speed and effectiveness," the President replied:

"Well, we've had a suit there since last August against the registrar on the ground of discrimination in voting. We have now a suit which we launched the other day against the denial of the rights of voters themselves, and that's due a hearing shortly..."

• • •

IN A TELEGRAM to Attorney General Robert Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King wrote last week:

"I have asserted before that a reign of terror exists in Mississippi. It is corroborated by the bizarre events in Greenwood...

"It is apparent that law and order have broken down in Leflore County and police power is being used to intimidate and threaten rather than to protect and keep the peace."

He urged the attorney general to "take whatever steps that are necessary" and ended his message with:

"I will continue to urge our people in Leflore to remain nonviolent but it is difficult to predict how much longer the colored citizen in Mississippi can endure this repeated mayhem and attempted murder."

• • •

WALTER REUTHER, president of the United Automobile Union, wired President Kennedy to:

"Urge prompt federal protection for American citizens besieged in Greenwood, Miss. for no offense other than their efforts to register so they may discharge their citizenship responsibilities."

About 40 colored and white students of Atlanta University demonstrated in front of of the new Post Office Building protesting the Greenwood situation.

The students pushed a new coffin on to the main landing and five of them knelt in front of it carrying signs of protest. A four-man picket line also carried signs of protest.

When the AFRO did, the mayor said the good race relations didn't include colored persons holding city jobs above the labor and broom-level category — then he ended the conversation.

Look for Greenwood and Leflore officials to make any statement or take any not-too-severe action which will make them appear to be, as they put it, "bending over backwards" to be fair.

But the key thing to look for is the number of colore d persons who are approved as registered voters. Enough of them are going down to the courthouse for the number to be impressive.

However, only a few of group gets to put in an application. Their names appear in the local paper. Then it's three weeks or more before the person finds out whether or not he passed the test.

So it really will be near the end of April before figures will show how far the officials are bending over backwards.

• • •

ANOTHER ANGLE of the struggle in Leflore County is that the civil rights organizations working there expect the Federal Government to shoulder full responsibility in protection of citizens who seek only their constitutional right to vote.

Explains Wiley Branton, an attorney directing the 11-state Voter Education Project:

"Protection of an American citizens' voting right is up to the Federal Government. Civil rights organizations shouldn't have to put up f or a red cent here for lawyers or bail.

Leflore County has become a testing ground in more ways than one.

Here, the NAACP, CORE, SCLC and SNCC have combined forces to create what is known as the Council of Federated Organizations for Mississippi.

In this operation they have pooled their resources in the state under the direction of Aaron Henry of Clarksdale, Miss.

"With this degree of unity," said Mr. Henry, "this effort must succeed."

All the staff workers from all the organizations already were flung out over Mississippi, most in the Delta area, when violence started breaking out in and about Greenwood, home of the State's White Citizens Councils.

That's when the teams, all carrying out the registration program of the Voter Education Project headed by Branton, started converging on Leflore County.

• • •

POPULATION FIGURES for Leflore and Greenwood tell a significant story.

Total for Leflore, 46,700; colored, 30,307; white, 16,393.

Total for Greenwood, 26,436; colored, 10,586; white, 9,856.

Last week Greenwood City Attorney Hardy Lott disclosed some other interesting figures.

He said fewer than 400 colored persons in the county are registered to vote and most of them are Greenwood residents. From 1955 until Jan. 1, 1962 fewer than 100 qualified, he said.

The county as a whole, has about 6,400 registered voters, Atty. Lott said, with 4,008 of them being in Greenwood.

It was reported last weekend that the city, as part of its campaign to place a "good image" before the world, offered the use of a city bus to transport registrants. This development so encouraged Dick Gregory, nationally - known comic who has been lending his support on the scene, that he decided he would be able to leave finally. An earlier departure date set by Gregory failed the test she administered.

When she was asked to do the test herself, she flunked it right there in the federal courtroom.

• • •

A TIP off how much progress the campaign in Leflore might be making could be included in this tsatement by Atty. Lott:

"I would eliminate that only 10 colored persons out of 336 taking the tests during March, 1963, passed the tests."

Dick Gregory, to the colored citizens of this country, and many whites, is the hottest entertainer in the world today. And the most beloved.

• • •

A FEW DAYS in Greenwood and you are impressed with the young people city officials refer to as "outside agitators come to destroy an All-American city."

They operate on a shoe string in the face of all kinds of threats, intimidations and violence. But they keep coming back for more. In some of them you see wasted talents that America needs behind the big desks of its big industries.

Instead, they burn up energy, time and money trying to secure rights for people the 15th Amendment was supposed to bring about decades ago.

To understand how plucky they are, you have to see them move into an office without chairs and settle down to work.

Or see a girl about 5'2" pont her own box camera at the White Citizens Council member who stops outside a church to shoot pictures, and shoot her self one of him.

Or see how they brace themselves and select new leaders, and follow them, after Greenwood police arrest eight of their top leaders in one big haul.

• • •

THERE IS some thing else about the Greenwood movement that voters always bring to mind. That is politics. It's not that anyone is being partisan about it but is just that no one is satisfied any more with fine sounding words from even a president.

An some day, calls from the South for ballot box help is going to switch enough colored votes to sway an election.

Not a single night is mass meeting goes by when President Kennedy isn't called on to do something more than speak and send in a few observers. The people are being told the Federal Government is letting them down.

Charles McDew, SNCC leader, said President Kennedy has abdicated his duties and James Farmer said the government is irresponsible in calling on all to vote then failing to protect some who try.

• • •

THESE ARE the high-sounding statements that get into the press.

There are others such as when fiery Dave Dennis shouts, "James Forman with his ulterated stomach needs a special diet and baby food but he's willing to sit there in jail.

"He's sitting there because he wants them to get off their lazy behinds in Washington and do somthing."

The civil rights organizations now are taking on more and more a phase of the attack used for years by the opposition. The big money pressure.

The other side works it in many ways. For instance, in the All - America City of Greenwood, not one of the civil rights organizations can open an account in a bank.

Some individuals who cashed their checks found after they could not deposit loose on you down here and to build your segregated schools. We are going to fight against these things more and more. We will fight back with the mighty dollar."

Colored persons in the target areas now are being told about the profit margins of big companies. "They need you just as much as you need them," they are told.

• • •

NOW THAT the Federal Government has agreed to a compromise that freed eight movement leaders but set back the hearing date on a restraining injunction until possibly October, what will happen is anybody's guess.

Most likely the city and county officials are believing their own statements that in a short while the "the circus will close its tents and move on."

On the other hand, the combined civil rights group has said the campaign will continue until every person who wants t o register does so.

One guess is that if the drive loses steam it will not be because the residents decide it isn't worth the bother.

SAID ONE typical man in the street: "We've been patient since the Civil War and it hasn't got us anything. We might as well try this way."

Too many now seem to agree with the Rev. James Bevel of Cleveland, Miss., who said, "I believe in prayer but it has never put a governor in office."

Or with Chuck McDew, who declared: "We've been singing Swing Lo Sweet Chariot, Coming For To Carry M e Home. The only chariot that's going to carry you any place is that one at the end of your ankle."

The songs they're singing now still have the old tunes but the words are different, and almost everybody seems to know them.

—Ammons

(Continued from page 1)

deal, a Federal agent stepped in and arrested him. Police said he made two sales to the three buyers for $150 each.

Ammons' attorney, LaVon Pride, who said he will appeal the sentence, called the arrest "entrapment."

He charged that Ammons' Constitutional rights were violated because the three men who "framed him were not on hand to testify during the Criminal Court trial last week.

Asst. State's Atty. Joe Gill said the three were not on hand to testify against the famous saxophonist because two of them were presently serving terms in federal prison, and the third is a fugitive from justice. All w ere described as "junkies," the term used for dope users in the narcotics rackets.

AMMONS WAS brought here for the trial from the Illinois State Penitentiary where he is currently serving a 2-10 year sentence for possession of narcotics. He was convicted on that charge in Will County last fall.

Ammons will be required by law to serve at least 20 years of the life sentence.

His attorney promised to appeal the sentence, even though Gene is broke. One of the top saxophonists in jazz, Ammons has made considerable sums from public appearances and recordings. His latest album, "Big Bad Bossa Nova," is a smash hit.

Allegedly, all of Ammons' royalties from his hit albums have been turned over to a former manager, Richard Carpenter.

Ammons is the son of the late pianist Albert Simmons.

FATHER MARSHALL VIRDUE
Facing difficulty? Evil conditions? Bad luck? Seek success, blessing and peace of mind. Prayer and God's daily special blessings. Phone 262-9343. 88 West Springfield St., Boston, Mass. "I'll Keep a Light Burning For You."

PRAYER — Send request to Evangelist E. O. Kirksey, 2017 N. Minneapolis St., Wichita 14, Kansas. For reply send self-addressed envelope and stamp.

THE AFRO-AMERICAN
Published every Saturday by the AFRO-AMERICAN Company, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md., MUlberry 5-6015.

Second class mail privilege authorized at Baltimore, Md.
Carl Murphy, Chairman of the Board; John H. Murphy, 3rd, President; Elizabeth M. Phillips, Vice President and Treasurer; Mae E. Dyson, Secretary; Cliff Mackay, Editor; Art Carter, Managing Editor.
A CHAMPION OF CIVIC WELFARE AND THE SQUARE DEAL
National Advertising
Amalgamated Publishers, Inc. 310 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York
Affiliated Newspapers
Baltimore AFRO-AMERICAN 628 N. Eutaw St. MUlberry 5-6015
Washington AFRO - AMERICAN, 1800 11th St., NW — DEcatur 2-0080
Philadelphia AFRO - AMERICAN, 427 S. Broad St. — KIngsley 5-1927
Richmond AFRO-AMERICAN, 301 E. Clay St., MIlton 3-7112
New Jersey AFRO - AMERICAN, 190 Clinton Ave. — BIgelow 8-3636
$11.00; 1 year, $7.25; six months, $4.00
Foreign Rages
1 year, $11.50; Six months $6.00.

YOU CAN EARN FROM $2 TO $10 EVERY WEEK BY DELIVERING AN

AFRO ROUTE

IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

START NOW!

. . . always on the job!

Rain or shine, hot or cold, you can depend on your newspaper boy steadfastly to maintain his schedule of deliveries to your doorstep.

MRS. M. BEAMON

GOLDSBORO, N.C.

FOR COMPLETE DETAILS Write

THE AFRO-AMERICAN
Baltimore 3
P. O. Box 1857
Baltimore, Md.,

YOUR NEWSPAPER STANDS ON THE FRONTIER OF FREEDOM

Saturday, April 13, 1963

Mississippi Free Press

Greenwood Leaders Disappointed By JD

US Govt. Puts Off Request To Stop Intimidation: Peoples League Begins; 31 Pastors Add Support

The U. S. Government has backed down on its request for an immediate injunction to halt official intimidation of Negro voters in Greenwood and a dozen people are free on $500 bond following their arrest last Wednesday as they walked to the Leflore County Court House to attempt to register to vote.

A mass community meeting Tuesday April 9 met to form the Peoples League—a Greenwood political organization which will act for the interest of low-income people.

Police Threats

It was reported that Greenwood police last Thursday threatened three voter registration leaders who tried to post bond for Landy McNair, a SNCC worker arrested for speeding late Tuesday.

Over 30 Negro ministers from Greenwood and Leflore County have signed a statement giving their full support to the voter registration movement.

About 50 people walked and rode to the Court House to register Monday, April 8. That night over 800 people jammed the Turner Chapel AME Church to hear Rev. James Bevel of Cleveland, Miss.

Congressman Speaks

U. S. Congressman Charles Diggs from Michigan accepted an invitation to speak in Greenwood Thursday, April 11 and Rev. C. T. Vivian of Chattanooga, Tenn. was set for the next night.

The President of the Borough of Manhattan Edward Dudley proclaimed the week of April 7 "Food for Freedom Week" and urged all New Yorkers to contribute food and clothing for sharecroppers in Mississippi.

THE DETAILS

Vote leader Dave Dennis of Jackson declared this week, "It's getting close to election time, so they decided to take the Negro people and play politics with their freedom."

Dennis was reacting to the government's decision to withdraw its request for a temporary injunction to prevent Greenwood officials from threatening, arresting or injuring Negroes seeking to register.

Mayor Happy

The Justice Dept. said it needed time to prepare a case. Greenwood Mayor Charles Sampson said he was "completely happy" with the agreement they had reached.

Thursday, police released the eight vote workers arrested two weeks ago but said they would arrest Negroes walking to the

(Continued on Page 3)

Rev. Tucker

Rev. Tucker, Leader In Greenwood, Hits Government's Action

Rev. Donald L. Tucker, has been urging Greenwood Negroes to register since he became pastor of the Turner Chapel AME Church over two years ago.

He began with the members of his church and when SNCC staff members began working in Greenwood this summer, he joined forces with them and other members of the community.

Church Began Classes

Turner Chapel was the first church in Greenwood to set up citizenship classes to teach people how to register. Now classes are held regularly in homes and meeting places.

Rev. Tucker stated, "If we're ever going to stand up to be leaders in the community it has to be now." He was pleased that 31 ministers had declared their support for the movement.

Disappointed In J. D.

He said he was "very disappointed and let down" about the deal made between the Justice Dept. and the Greenwood city government. "We're right back where we started—we have no protection," he said. "I definitely feel that it's politics" that caused the agreement.

Greenwood Leaders . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

Court House in large groups.

The day before they had arrested 19 people walking to the Court House. They had gone a few blocks from the voter headquarters when police blocked their way and ordered them to break up. When they refused, police grabbed them pushed, and threw them into a waiting bus.

Police Violence

Rev. D. L. Tucker said, "The violence created was a pitiful and pathetic sight." Diane Nash Bevel said, "When Milton Hancock, who was being pushed around by police, lay down, three policemen came over, removed their identification badges and began picking him up and dropped him on the ground several times."

One man was spun around by a policeman and dragged into the bus by two officers, his back was bumping the ground. Another was dragged away when he urged the group to stand fast. A Negro cameraman made a hasty exit when a policeman reportedly threw his night stick at him.

Face Trial

The agreement between the Justice Dept. and the Greenwood officials does not affect the 12 still charged with breach of the peace. Members of the community put up $6,000 in property appeal bonds to free them from jail. They face 30 days in jail and $100 fines.

The people convicted were Ida Holland, Levi Hamilton, Milton Hancock, Henry Smith, John Turner, Matthew Hughes, Henry Gilmore, Willie Magee, Eric Rainey, James Sanders, Oscar Broom, and Rev. Robert Kinloch. Charges were dropped against Lucius Ledbetter, Willie Wilson, Robert Stuart, Lucius De Berry, Mary Booth, Louise Cooper and Alberta Brown.

A ministerial alliance of thirty-one ministers have signed a statement which says: "We the pastors and ministers of Leflore County do hereby endorse the Freedom Movement 100% and we urge the members of our congregations and friends of Greenwood, of Leflore County and of the State of Mississippi to register and become first class citizens."

Peoples League

Greenwood citizens have formed the Peoples League in an effort to organize the Negro community for political purposes. The League will spur voter registrations and examine the platform of candidates to decide who to support.

It will also support the election of Negro officials for city and county positions. One spokesman said, "We'd like to see Negro policemen in Greenwood."

Dave Dennis told the FREE PRESS that he, Charles McDew and Hollis Watkins were threatened by police when they attempted to put up bond for Landy McNair early Thursday morning. McNair had been arrested three times in one day: twice for leading Negroes to register and once for speeding.

Dennis said that when the three entered the police station at about 5:30 a.m. the Captain told McDew, "Take that black hat off, you black nigger, you." McDew saw other policemen standing around with hats on and said, "What about the hats on these guys?"

Captain Pulled Hat

The Captain walked over to him and said, "I told you to take that damn hat off your head," pulled it off and threw it on the floor. McDew picked up the hat and put it back on his head. He asked about the bond and Police Chief Hammond said he would have to find the judge to determine the amount.

The three vote workers left and returned 15 minutes later to pay the $50 fine. Before they got to the police station door, the Captain and a few other officers stepped out and met them. One officer said, "What

(Continued on Page 4)

Voters Can End Police Violence

There are a lot of people in Greenwood, Miss.—and in other parts of this state—who are afraid to register to vote. They fear violence; they fear losing their jobs.

But just a short look over things that have happened in Greenwood just since the summer should make it clear that Negroes will always face violence and hunger until they gain political power.

July 3 Curtis Crosby died while serving a 30 day sentence on the Leflore County Farm. He was arrested on the charge of stealing $1 from his wife.

Forced To Work

At the time of his arrest, July 1, Crosby was under doctor's orders not to do any heavy work, but he was put to work the next day cutting grass and digging ditches. He became ill that night, but was not taken to a hospital until the next night; he died on the way to the hospital.

A few weeks later, July 22, 14 year old Welton McSwine, Jr., was arrested by police after a white woman's house had been broken into.

Had Been Working

The youth said he didn't know about the incident; he had been working in the cotton fields.

The policemen took him to a cell. One beat him on the head with a blackjack; another hit him in the face with his fist; a third hit him in the stomach with a club. The police made him lie naked on the floor while they beat him with a whip.

They later released him without ever charging him with a crime.

Of course there has been violence against voter registration workers. August 14 Sam Block was beaten by three white men.

Three days later he and two other vote workers fled over the roof of their office when a band of whites armed with g ropes and pipes broke in police car had been seen e waiting parked outside the fice.

Unjust Arrests

And there have been un arrests in Greenwood before these recent mass arrests. In February, when four Negro businesses next door to the voter registration office were burned, Block said, "I believe this was at attempt to burn down our office." He was arrested for circulating statements calculated to incite a breach of the peace.

But when the judge offered to suspend the sentence if Block stopped his voter registration work, the young man refused.

He refused because as a native Mississippian he knows that the only way to end violence and intimidation permanently is to register masses of Negro people—and to get mayors and sheriffs and policemen who treat all people as human beings.

2 To 1

The people of Leflore County should remember that there are two Negroes to every white man there. If Negroes voted, they could control the entire county government. This is the way to end violence and intimidation—not by sitting back in a tumble-down shack content to be a second class citizen forever.

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE crowd the First Christian Church in Greenwood for a mass voter registration rally. Mass meetings at different churches have drawn over 2,000 people.

Injunction Delayed In Jackson School Desegregation Suit

The Mississippi state law requiring school officials to enforce segregation provides proper grounds for suing the Jackson and Leake County School Boards, argued attorneys in a hearing before U. S. District Judge Sidney Mize last Friday.

They spoke in response to a request by School Board lawyers to dismiss the cases of nine students demanding to be transferred to integrated schools.

The Boards said that since the Negro students had not previously asked the School Board for transfer to white schools they had no legal right to bring the integration suit to court.

However, as lawyer Jack Young pointed out, "The school board couldn't assign these people to another school if they wanted to," because of the state segregation laws.

Motions for preliminary injunctions were due Friday. Attorneys for the Jackson parents agreed to delay this motion until a decision is made on the School Board's motion for dismissal of the case.

However, attorney Jess Brown, made no such agreement. He stated that Leake Negroes "have waited long enough." District Judge Harold Cox, will hear both cases this week.

L. C. Carr Auto Parts and General Repair

Justice Department . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

tion, Justice Department officials are seeking a permanent injunction against Wood, Breed O. Mounger, a Tylertown attorney, and Mike Carr, a former district attorney.

A warning has also been issued to Elred Green, George County Circuit Clerk. During a conference held in Hattiesburg last Friday, it was disclosed that Green had failed to tell the federal court he had rejected the registration of a Negro, Inez Wilson.

Federal Judge Harold Cox said that he "will not hesitate" to hold Green in contempt if he refuses to report Negro voter rejections to the court. According to Judge Cox, Miss Wilson appeared to be well-qualified to vote. Green is presently under a year-old restraining order prohibiting him from discrimination in the application of voter registration laws.

—o—

Greenwood Leaders . . .

Continued from Page 3)

in the hell are you back up here for?"

The police pushed the three into the street and the Captain declared, "This black nigger is going to make me kill him yet," Dennis said.

Last Friday a group of 30 people walking to the Court House turned back after the streets became congested with cars, police and a fire truck. Voter Education Project head Wiley Branton said that a clear attempt had been made to create a traffic jam so that the people could be arrested for blocking traffic.

Cars Waiting

One vote worker told the FREE PRESS that cars driven by whites were parked and when the group began to cross the streets, the cars moved into

Mis Has For

Ros licity recto eignt
a ca Citize Willi
Erl
Scott and direc
was a hik
$9,50
Pr
resig term
and

Th
ed C
Andy
A do of th Gove
miss oppo son
An news gard tions orga non-dege lead very tens can
"I sipp
whit peop
"
harr fusi liev
the Si
son surr sure
Si
ern

file Jeffers

ork

SDAY, APRIL 17, 1963.

PRESIDENT URGED TO CUT OFF FUNDS FOR MISSISSIPPI

Action to Halt 'Breakdown of Law and Order' Asked by Civil Rights Commission

By ANTHONY LEWIS
Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 16 — The Civil Rights Commission urged President Kennedy today to consider withholding Federal funds from Mississippi until the state ends its "subversion of the Constitution."

The suggestion was made in an unusual "interim report" by the commission. It was the first time since its creation in 1957 that the commission had issued such a special report.

"Since October, 1962," the report said, "the open and flagrant violation of Constitutional guarantees in Mississippi has precipitated serious conflict. Each week brings fresh evidence of the danger of a complete breakdown of law and order.

"Citizens of the United States have been shot, set upon by vicious dogs, beaten and otherwise terrorized because they sought to vote. . . . All this affronts the conscience of the nation."

Officials could think of no occasion when Federal funds had been withheld from a state because of assertedly illegal action by the state not connected with the program for which the funds were allocated.

Carefully Worded

The commission was established by the Civil Rights Act of 1957. It has general powers to investigate, make reports to the President and Congress and to hold public hearings. It may subpoena witnesses to its hearings. It has no law enforcement or administrative authority.

The proposal for the withholding of Federal funds was carefully phrased. The commission suggested that the President "explore his legal authority" to do so and that Congress "consider seriously" the idea of legislation.

The question, the commission said, is whether "Federal funds contributed by citizens of all states" should be made available "to any state which continues to refuse to abide by the Constitution and laws of the United States."

The report said that in the fiscal year 1962, ending last June 30, the Federal Government received $270,000,000 in taxes from Mississippi and paid to the state more than $650,000,000.

"Massive assistance to the economy of Mississippi has continued past the time when the state placed itself in direct defiance of the Constitution and

Continued on Page 23, Column 1

NYT 4-17-63

CUT-OFF IS URGED IN MISSISSIPPI AID

Continued From Page 1, Col. 5

Federal Court orders," the report said.

"For example, the National Aeronautics and Space Agency is proceeding with plans to build a $400,000,000 moon rocket engine test center in Pearl River and Hancock counties."

The report noted that Federal payments in Mississippi included grant-in-aid programs, United States Corps of Engineers construction contracts, military prime contracts and direct military and civilian payrolls. Other programs benefiting the state include redevelopment loans and grants, small business loans, public works projects and Federal Aviation Agency grants.

Charges 'Lawless Conduct'

The report said both the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government should "inquire into the moral and legal considerations arising out of a situation where, in large measure, the lawless conduct and defiance of the Constitution by certain elements in one state are being subsidized by the other states.

"The commission does not want the people of Mississippi, either Negro or white, to lose benefits available to citizens of other states," the report added. "Rather, its goal is that all citizens in the United States be assured the full enjoyment of the rights guaranteed by the Constitution."

The report praised the Kennedy Administration for "strong and vigorous action in assuring that violators of Federal law are prosecuted and that court orders are enforced" in Mississippi.

It went on:

"The commission has concluded unanimously that only further steps by the Federal Government can arrest the subversion of the Constituion in Mississippi."

In addition to the fund-withholding proposal, the commission urged that the President formally direct the people of Mississippi to comply with the Constitution and that he strengthen efforts to "suppress existing lawlessness and provide Federal protection to citizens in the exercise of their basic constitutional rights."

The President, the report said, should "employ to the fullest the legal and moral powers of his office to the end that American citizenship will not continue to be degraded in Mississippi."

One noteworthy aspect of the commission's action today was its unanimity. Two of the six commissioners are Southerners —Robert G. Storey of Texas and Robert S. Rankin of North Carolina.

John A. Hannah of Michigan is chairman. The other members are the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, Spottswood W. Robinson 3d, dean of the Howard Law School in Washington, and Dean Erwin N. Griswold of the Harvard Law School.

The commission has wanted for more than six months to hold a public hearing in Mississippi. But the Justice Department has objected because of pending lawsuits, most recently the criminal contempt case against Gov. Ross R. Barnett.

#17-63 Atty Gen'l

Rights Panel Hits Aid to Mississippi

p. 1

file Segregation

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission called on President John F. Kennedy Tuesday for an all-out effort—possibly including the withholding of federal funds—to force Mississippi to protect the rights of its Negro citizens.

"There is an overriding constitutional obligation to make certain that federal funds are expended in a manner which benefit all citizens without distinction," the commission said in a special report to the President at his Palm Beach, Fla., vacation home.

The commission has been studying the Mississippi situation closely for several weeks. Staff Director Berl I. Bernahard flew to Jackson Tuesday for a special session of the Mississippi Advisory Committee.

There was no immediate reaction from the vacation White House.

Continued on Page 9, Column 3

"Since October 1962," the report said, "the open and flagrant violation of constitutional guarantees in Mississippi has precipitated serious conflict which, on several occasions, has reached the point of crisis. . . Each week brings fresh evidence of the danger of a complete breakdown of law and order."

CITES INCIDENTS

The report cited a long list of incidents and said that despite vigorous action by federal authorities, "the nation must be concerned that the pattern of unlawful activity shows no sign of abating."

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1962, the commission said, the federal government poured some $650 million in aid to various agencies of the state, including military contracts and payrolls, while it received only $270 million from all tax sources in the state.

IN DIRECT DEFIANCE

"Massive assistance to the economy of Mississippi has continued past the time when the state placed itself in direct defiance of the Constitution and federal court orders," the commission said.

"For example, the National Aeronautics and Space Agency is proceeding with plans to build a $400-million moon-rocket engine test center in Pearl River and Hancock Counties, Mississippi," it added.

The report said the Federal Aviation Agency also had just granted $2.18 million for construction of a jet airport in Jackson, "without questioning the airport's plan to build separate eating and restroom facilities."

That's A Lot Of Free Food

State Senator W. B. Alexander from over at Cleveland has sent along some pretty interesting statistics about giveaway food.

It seems from the senator's compilations, based on the monthly report of the State Welfare Department, half the people in the Delta outside of Leflore County have been getting free federal food at their counties' expense during the fall and winter.

Here are the figures for February distribution:

Bolivar doled out food to 28,561 persons. The population of that county is 52,000.

Coahoma County fed 20,441 out of some 45,000 people.

Humphreys, with 18,000 souls doled out 'moddities to 11,993.

Little Issaquena has a population of 3,500. Some 1,800 of them received the free food.

About 20,000 folks live in Quitman County and 11,247 of them received the food.

Of Shrakey's 10,000 population 6,204 drove down to the warehouse to load up the ole tote sack.

Sunflower County has 45,000 people. The board of supervisors over there footed the distribution and storage bill so that 22,652 of them could eat "free" government food.

Tunica County, with a population of 16,000, fed 8,726 people.

Washington, with 78,000 people, fed 23,107 of them on federal foood.

Other Delta counties which furnish the commodity program only for their people actually on the welfare rolls were Holmes, Leflore, Panola, and Tallahatchie.

Welfare department statistics show that one out of every six people in Mississippi are receiving free food, but that one out of every three are receiving it in the Delta area.

The Delta's ratio would be even higher were it not for the fact that some counties ,like Leflore, have refused to go into the full program this year.

Now, it would seem, any reasonable person would admit that half the populations of the above counties aren't starving.

By the same token, no reasonable man can claim that there is absolutely no sign of need in these counties.

from over at Cleveland has sent along some pretty interesting statistics about giveaway food.

It seems from the senator's compilations, based on the monthly report of the State Welfare Department, half the people in the Delta outside of Leflore County have been getting free federal food at their counties' expense during the fall and winter.

Here are the figures for February distribution:

Bolivar doled out food to 28,561 persons. The population of that county is 52,000.

Coahoma County fed 20,441 out of some 45,000 people.

Humphreys, with 18.000 souls doled out 'moddities to 11,993.

Little Issaquena has a population of 3,500. Some 1,800 of them received the free food.

About 20,000 folks live in Quitman County and 11,247 of them received the food.

Of Shrakey's 10,000 population 6,204 drove down to the warehouse to load up the ole tote sack.

Sunflower County has 45,000 people. The board of supervisors over there footed the distribution and storage bill so that 22,652 of them could eat "free" government food.

Tunica County, with a population of 16,000, fed 8,726 people.

Washington, with 78,000 people, fed 23,107 of them on federal foood.

Other Delta counties which furnish the commodity program only for their people actually on the welfare rolls were Holmes, Leflore, Panola, and Tallahatchie.

Welfare department statistics show that one out of every six people in Mississippi are receiving free food, but that one out of every three are receiving it in the Delta area.

The Delta's ratio would be even higher were it not for the fact that some counties ,like Leflore, have refused to go into the full program this year.

Now, it would seem, any reasonable person would admit that half the populations of the above counties aren't starving.

By the same token, no reasonable man can claim that there is absolutely no case of need in those counties.

The problem, then, would seem to be in the welfare cheating that has turned public opinion against the dole. We can think of nothing except flagrant abuse which would create a climate in which it is popular to turn hungry people away from available food.

The tragedy is that certain Negro groups have seized on the commodity program as a propaganda weapon. Before they did, there might have been some chance of working out a more palatable method of distributing the food to the actual needy in which machinery for weeding out the cheats could be effected.

In the atmosphere which the Negro groups have created, though, such a solution seems impossible, and the prediction of State Welfare Commissioner Ross will probably come true.

That is, the Mississippi counties which have stayed in the program up to now will find it harder and harder to do, as the publicity mills in Chicago grind out their pap about "starving" Leflore County Negroes.

The goose is still laying the golden egg in places like Coahoma, Bolivar and Sunflower, but all these starvation charges are just about to wring its neck. (T. W.)

Greenwood Commonwealth

Greenwood Commonwealth
4-23-63

W. W. "Smitty" Smith To Run For Leflore County Sheriff

W. W. (Smitty) Smith, deputy sheriff, announced today his candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Leflore County.

Smith said:

"I am announcing my candidacy for Sheriff & Tax Collector of Leflore County subject to the August Primary election.

I was born in Carroll County and moved to Greenwood to make my home in 1940 while working with the National Youth Administration. I served in the Army during World War II and spent 13 months overseas in the E. T. O. After returning to the states I served several months as an M. P. on the West Coast. After my discharge from the armed services I joined the Greenwood Police force serving there for 11 years, 4 years as captain. I am presently serving as Deputy Sheriff and have held this position during the last two administrations. (I have finished 12 courses in investigation, and a graduate of Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers Institute at Ole Miss.)

W. W. 'SMITTY" SMITH

"I am a Baptist and a member in good standing in the following organizations: Mississippi Law Enforcement Association, Tennessee, Mississippi Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association, presently serving as liason for Grenada, Carroll and Leflore Counties, Veterans of Foreign Wars, having been a Sr. Vice-Commander, past Post Commander of American Legion, past Jr. Vice-Commander of the Third District, chairman Safety Education Program for the Department of Mississippi, 40 & 8, Citizens Council, Loyal Order of the Moose, Sons of the Confederacy and Leflore County Hunting and Fishing Association.

"I realize that the citizens of Leflore County need a strong and courageous Sheriff and Deputies and if elected I promise you the best. There will be a dispatcher on duty at all times to answer the telephone and radio, as in the local police station. This employee will also have the authority to sell drivers licenses and hunting and fishing licenses during the night so that anyone wishing to get these licenses will not have to leave work to do so. There will also be Deputies on immediate call 24 hours a day. I want to give the people the service they pay for and so rightly deserve.

"I have set up and organized an identification department during service as Deputy Sheriff during the present administration that is serving as a great help to all citizens. By doing this I have made it possible to keep records on all criminals and the different organizations that are springing up in this county at the present time. This is serving to help all citizens a great deal and, if I am elected I propose to keep an experienced officer in charge of this service, keeping records and helping in all investigations.

"I plan to contact every one that it is possible to see by August first. I earnestly solicit your vote, influence and your support in helping me get elected in the interest of realizing the full potential of our great County through good law enforcement."

4-29-63 file Jefferson Clip

Greenwood Commonwealth

209 W. MARKET ST. DIAL GL3-5312 OR GL3-5313
EVENINGS EXCEPT SUNDAY

SUMTER GILLESPIE.....Publisher 1919-1958
THATCHER WALT .....Editor
WILLIAM S. RICHARDSON..General Manager

Entered as second-class matter Sept. 1, 1916, at the Postoffice, Greenwood, Miss., under the Act of March 3, 1879

NATIONAL ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
MISSISSIPPI DAILIES 60 E. 42nd St., New York 17

ADVERTISING DEADLINES
Display—Noon the day preceding publication
Classified—9:00 A. M. publication day

Law Day

A few years back thousands of folks were reading a book called "Anatomy of a Murder."

Then millions were gripped by the same tale in the form of a movie.

It was good courtroom drama, with a hint of sex and a whale of a characterization in the saga of a liquor drenched old lawyer who turned sober because he was fired up like a law student by the nuances of the case, stayed sober to win it, then left the world the impression that he would henceforth practice only at the legal bar.

The old fellow was aided (led in fact) by a young ex-district attorney who was in love with the law, which leads into what we're getting at.

One of the memorable scenes in "Anatomy" began in the jail cell occupied by the young army lieutenant, the accused killed. He rants about the vagaries, the slowness, the uncertainty of legal processes, and his defense attorney slams into him.

The only thing that stood between the young lieutenant and a lynch mob peopled by vengence-lusting relatives of the dead man was the law, his counsel told him. The law — by its very creeking slowness ,its insistence on time tested process, its argument, counter argument, rebuttal and surrebuttal — provides a cooling off period for those forces in human nature which make human beings react as primitive animals.

It was a fine treatise on the merits of due process, even though necessarily chizeled to the narrow mold of one murder case.

But the case for the law can be exinto what we're getting at.

One of the memorable scenes in "Anatomy" began in the jail cell occupied by the young army lieutenant, the accused killed. He rants about the vagaries, the slowness, the uncertainty of legal processes, and his defense attorney slams into him.

The only thing that stood between the young lieutenant and a lynch mob peopled by vengence-lusting relatives of the dead man was the law, his counsel told him. The law — by its very creeking slowness ,its insistence on time tested process, its argument, counter argument, rebuttal and surrebuttal — provides a cooling off period for those forces in human nature which make human beings react as primitive animals.

It was a fine treatise on the merits of due process, even though necessarily chizeled to the narrow mold of one murder case.

But the case for the law can be expanded from it. Civil statutes, equity matters, criminal laws are all guidances by which a civilized people can lead orderly lives in close promiximity without the threat of anarchy.

But more than that, the system of law allows citizens of a complex society to progress as free men. Most of the history of the world has been a striving toward a system of law (social order) under which all men can live and exercise their freedom unmolested by a capricious exercise of pwer.

The world remembers Hammurabi as the lawgiver. Non-Justice-Christian cultures study Moses' promulgation of the Ten Commandments.

Rome — imaged in history as the despotic conquerer of other nations — protected its citizens with a system of law, the effects of which are still felt in today.

Medieval England agitated itself from under the oppression of Divine Right of Kings through a slow process of building laws — with occasional aid from bloody fighting.

Always it has been the law — in Western Civilization — to which man has looked for his guidance toward freedom.

Another landmark: The American Constitution, around which possibly the world's best legal system has clustered.

Contrasted with Western Civilization is communism of the East — with a few red splotches in the West — where law protects the state rather than the individual, where statute makes a man unsafe in the home that is man's castle in the West.

The difference is clear, the contrast sharp.

That is why the American Bar Association has begun to promote May 1 — communism's national holiday — as Law Day, USA.

Locally, the Leflore County Bar Association is also promoting law Day with speeches and special programs.

Aubrey Bell has spoken to the Lions Club. James Millard Pierce spoke to a high school assembly today and will speak at the Exchange Club meeting tomorrow.

A tour of courthouse offices for students is in the planning stage, reports Jimmy Pittman, local Law Day chairman.

Though lawyers have a reputation for long-windedness, (sort of like some editorial writers), lets listen to them around May 1.

The law — and respect for it — separates civilization from savagery.

(T. W.)

WB
RB
JM

THE STUDENT VOICE

Vol. IV, No. 1 Issued by The Student Non-violent Coodinating Committee, 6 Raymond St., N.W., Atlanta, Ga., April, 1963

The Mississippi Story

SNCC Staff Jailed as Greenwood Negroes Register in "First Breakthrough" in Miss.

GREENWOOD, MISS.- Eleven voter registration workers from SNCC - including Executive Secretary, James Forman - were arrested here and charged with "inciting to roit" and "refusing to move on" after Greenwood police turned a dog loose in a group of 150 Negroes on their way to register to vote at the LeFlore County Courthouse.

Nine of the SNCC workers were sentences to four months in jail plus a $200.00 fine. They have all agreed to serve their sentences, rather than appeal "illegal charges for crimes we have not committed."

Forman said from the jail that "the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee workers in LeFlore County are determined to stay until every eligible Negro is registered to vote!"

In jail are: Lafayette Surney, Lawrence Guyot, Curtis Hayes, James Forman Robert Moses, Willie Peacock, Bobby Talbert, James Jones, Charles McLauren and Frank Smith.

In Atlanta, the SNCC office protested the arrests and "intimidation of prospective Negro voters" to the United State Department of Justice, the Civil Rights Commission the Federal Bureau of Investigation and with several U. S. Congressmen.

SNCC worker Don Harris who has been working in Southwest Georgia but who answered Forman's call for additional workers, was also jailed.

The 18-month old SNCC program in the state has provoked shootings, beatings, burnings and daily harassment of SNCC staff by whites, who grasp the challenge of Negro voter registration.

James Travis, a 20-year old SNCC field secretary was shot by three whites in an untagged car on February 28. A bullet grazed his shoulder, and another hit Travis in the back of the neck, where it became lodged behind his spine.

Travis, a native Mississippians and former Freedom Rider, is recovering rapidly.

Robert Moses, director of the SNCC drive, and Randolph Blackwell, field director of the Atlanta-based Voter Education Project, were also in the car but not injured. Moses said, "We were all inches away from being killed."

But there have been other shootings. On March 6, Samuel Block and Willie Peacock, two SNCC field secretaries, and two young women from Greenwood, Essie Broome and Peggy Marye, were shot at by white assailants in another untagged car. Windows were smashed, but the four were not injured.

Moses explained the sudden rash of attempted murders when he described the increased voter registration efforts in Greenwood as "the first real breakthrough in Mississippi." Just two days prior to Travis' shooting, at least 150 Negroes had attempted to register in Greenwood within two days, and are continuing to try to register at the rate of 20 a day.

Special wrath has been directed against Samuel Block, who is in charge of the Greenwood office, distributing food and clothing to the 20,000 Negroes cut off welfare and surplus government food rolls, (Leflore County officials announced the resumption of the county food program on March 20. However, SNCC field staff said that even when the program was operating, it was inadequate to take care of Negroes who need help.)

JAMES TRAVIS

(The Greenwood SNCC office was set on fire March 25; most of the registration figures and records were saved, but all office equipment completely destroyed.)

Last August, Block and three other field secretaries had to jump from a second-story window when a white mob, armed with guns, ropes and pipes, surrounded the building which housed their office.

On February 20, four Negro businesses were burned to the ground in Greenwood, just one block away from the SNCC office. Block stated publicly that he thought arsonists had meant to destroy it. Three days later Block was arrested on a charge of "circulating breach of the peace," which was later changed to "making statements calculated to breach the peace."

What differentiated this from the usual harassment against SNCC staff members was the reaction of Greenwood Negroes, who conquered generations of fear to protest. At Block's trial, on February 25, Negroes pack-

Continued on page 4

THIS IS THE CAR where death almost triumphed. Jimmy Travis, Robert Moses, and Randolph Blackwell sat in the front seat as bullets were pumped into the car. Travis, the driver, received a shoulder wound; a bullet penetrated the back of his neck and lodged behind his spine. Doctors said Travis would have died instantly if the bullet had entered his body with a little more force.

S. W. Georgia Voter Program Continues Despite Legal Losses

LEE, TERRELL AND SUMTER COUNTIES, GEORGIA -- Twelve Negro and white field secretaries, under the direction of Charles Sherrod, leader of SNCC's Southwest Georgia voter registration program, are continuing to register voters here despite harassment and loss of a suit against a county official who chased them at gunpoint.

John Churchville and Don Harris, two workers in Sumter county, were detained for an hour by Sumter County law enforcement officials, fingerprinted, and threatened with arrests for "vagrancy" March 18. The two said that "over 80" Negroes had made registration attempts in the county in the previous three week period.

In August, 1962, D. E. Short, a deputy town marshall in Sasser, shot at and chased three SNCC workers out of Terrell County. A Justice Department suit was filed against Short, who was accused of violating the workers' civil rights. Short was acquitted of the charge in 33 minutes by a 12-man, all-white jury on Janurary 25.

Sherrod and other workers cabled the President after Short's acquittal, saying that if the Justice Department did not protect voter registration workers in the Southwest Georgia counties, "our blood will be on your hands." They also protested the behavior of Justice Department lawyers, who asked them to say "colored folk" instead of "Negroes," sit segregated, and would not allow one young Negro woman field secretary, Prathia Hall, to wear a hat in the courtroom.

Despite the legal setback and the intimidation, the group continues to hold voter registration meetings in each county, and are taking groups down to register each week. Some field secretaries use a red-white-and-blue bus to carry them throughout the Negro communities, where they distribute voter registration material to citizens.

DEMONSTRATORS BEING HERDED into police van after a sit-in at Cross Keys Restaurant in downtown Nashville March 5. On left, John Lewis, chairman of the Nashville Nonviolent Movement. All 16 sit-inners, including a 61-year old minister, were charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and conspiracy to obstruct trade and commerce. Lewis had led demonstrations at the same restaurant during the SNCC Fall Leadership Training Institute in Nashville. Prior to the arrests, students had staged sit-ins and protest marches at the downtown (segregated) branch of the YMCA.

Freedom in the air says Harper's "Rich with Immediacy,"

The April issue of Harper's Magazine says of FREEDOM IN THE AIR, a SNCC - produced documentary on Albany, Georgia, "...the sound of protest can be heard alive and quick..."

The review says, "It (FREEDOM IN THE AIR) is a 'documentary,' which means there are repetitions, and voices are mixed in with the music, but its materials are rich with immediacy and danger. It is called FREEDOM IN THE AIR and you can get it by sending a minimum contribution of four dollars to the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, 6 Raymond Street, N.W., Atlanta 14, Georgia. The standards set by reality are sometimes higher than we are entitled to."

FREEDOM IN THE AIR has received excellent notices from the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "an inspiring album." The Reporter Magazine said, "powerful and exhilarating," and the New York Times, in a review by Robert Shelton, said, "the most effective documentary recording to grow out of the integration movement..."

James Forman, SNCC executive secretary, said, "FREEDOM IN THE AIR is not only a record -- it is the means by which we are able to raise funds independently to support our 50 part-and full-time staff members."

Forman commented, "In addition to raising funds to support our staff, we consider the record an excellent way of people from other areas to hear for themselves, in on-the-spot recordings, what the excitement and dignity of the Albany Movement sounded like."

SNCC field secretaries came to Albany, Georgia in October, 1961, to set up a voter registration program, and were instrumental in forming the Albany Movement.

ATLANTA'S MAYOR IVAN ALLEN (center) meets with some 400 students from the Atlanta University complex who staged a protest march from the campuses to the steps of City Hall March 14. Two students had been arrested the day before at the Henry Grady Hotel after refusing to move when they could not obtain rooms. The students opened suitcases, removed pillows and blankets, and went to sleep in the lobby.

Mayor Allen lauded the tradition of progress in Atlanta, and said he was glad to hear the desires of the students.

Picketing resumed on March 15 in front of the Henry Grady, which is on property owned by the State of Georgia.

Students said, in a letter presented to Mayor Allen, they would "use every legal and nonviolent method" at their disposal to achieve integration in the city of Atlanta, and said more demonstrations were be forthcoming.

NEWS IN BRIEF

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS -- Clyde Kennard, subject of a SNCC petition drive, is in Billings Hospital here after cancer surgery. Kennard was released from Parchman Penitentiary at the request of Chicago medical authorities who said they had doubts for his life if he remained in prison.

Students at Tougaloo Southern Christian College in Jackson, who had first spearheaded the petition campaign, had collected names from every state in the union. The SNCC drive netted several thousand names.

****

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA -- SNCC field secretary Robert Zellne's trial on "false pretenses" ended here February 28 with a hung jury. Judge Eugene Carter declared a mistrial. State attorneys have notified Zellner they will retry the case in late May, when the Montgomery Grand Jury will be in session.

Zellner has sued in Federal Court to restrain the prosecution and end harassment of himself and his family. Five state investigators followed him from Montgomery to Mobile where his grandmother lay dying and harassed his family through the wake and funeral.

Zellner's Federal petition charges that George C. Wallace, now Governor of Alabama, instigated his arrest on January 8 for vagrancy one week before he took office, against the instructions of then-Governor John Patterson.

****

KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE -- Students for Equal Treatment, a student protest group at the University of Tennessee, was enjoined in late February from picketing a cafeteria here in groups of more than two because of the danger of passerbys receiving possible "bodily harm." Marion Barry, Jr., former SNCC Chairman and now head of SET, said, "We are in no way guilty of the charges in the injunction. In my opinion Judge Dawson was in error in issuing it."

The Knoxville Civic Improvement Committee, led by Avon Rollins, a SNCC coordinating committee, led ber, has sent down several thousand tons of food to dispossessed Negro families in the Mississippi Delta.

****

CAMBRIDGE, MARYLAND -- The Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee is continuing a drive for fair employment practices in Cambridge's retail stores. This group, under the leadership of SNCC coordinating committee member Gloria Richardson, has also been engaged in the following: a voter registration and voter education program, a drive to increase employment for Negroes in city, county and state agencies (specifically in the Sheriff's office), a selective buying campaign aimed at Cambridge's stores. an attempt to integrate the Eastern Shore Mental Hospital, filing complaints against local industries with Federal contracts and other activities.

SNCC Confab Set Easter Weekend in Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA -- The Annual Spring Conference of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee will be held here April 12-14. At least "300 students", SNCC spokesman said, would attend workshops and strategy discussions on the theme, "Emancipation Then -- Freedom Now."

Students will be housed at the Gammon Theological Seminary here for the Easter Weekend. While there is still time, representatives are urged to write to the SNCC office, 6 Raymond Street, N.W., Atlanta 14, Georgia, for applications to attend the conference.

Workshops are scheduled on "Southern Influence on National Politics," "The Hidden Structure and Social Action," "Negro Protest: A History," "Nonviolence: Past and Present," "Community Involvement," and "Problems of the Movement."

Support SNCC

48 Jailed In Pine Bluff sits-in

PINE BLUFF AND LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS -- SNCC field workers, in Arkansas since last October, have helped to integrate most public facilities in Little Rock, and are now in Pine Bluff where continuous sit-ins at Woolworth's and Walgreen's are underway.

Most Little Rock lunch counters, some hotels, some restaurants, and a bowling alley desegregated their facilities on January 2, 1963. No incidents occured and the desegregation was announced publicly two weeks later.

Bill Hansen, and Ben Grinnage, and interracial SNCC team, moved from Little Rock to Pine Bluff and were arrested there for vagrancy just after they arrived. About a week later, the two succeeded in organizing the first sit-ins in the history of Pine Bluff.

On February 11, fifteen Arkansas AM & N students were suspended by college President Lawrence A. Davis for their participation in the sit-ins.

Hansen reported that over 48 persons - including SNCC staffer Ben Grinnage - were arrested March 25, 27 and 28 during anti-segregation demonstrations.

White mobs have thrown bricks at demonstrators and participants in mass meetings here. Hansen has been attacked several times, and the windows of the car he and Grinnage were using were smashed one night during a mass meeting.

MISS. STORY TOLD

A chronological listing of 64 acts of violence and intimidation aimed at SNCC workers and Mississippi Negroes is available for 7¢ in pamphlet form from:
The Committee for the Distribution of the Mississippi Story, Box 564, Atlanta, Georgia.

Project Underway in Dallas County ; 20 Register

SELMA, ALABAMA -- Three field secretaries, two of whom are a newly-married couple, are completing four weeks here since they came to begin a voter registration project.

Bernard and Colia Lafayette and Frank Holloway have set up bi-weekly voter registration classes in Selma, and have taken trips to outlying districts in Dallas and Wilcox Counties. The three are teaching registration procedures to those who wish to register, and are instructing those already registered so that they will be able to teach others.

Frank Holloway described, in a field report, one of the communities they had found in Wilcox County, called Gee's Bend: "This area, up until about 13 years ago, was the most backward area in Alabama and probably the United States. The Negroes in Gee's Bend were living in the most primitive style. They knew nothing of running water, gas or electricity or automation in any form. They were not allowed to come out of Gee's Bend.

"They were born, they lived and they died in Gee's Bend. Because of this they had to intermarry among themselves... During this time the Negroes did not live in houses but they actually lived in little primitive huts. The Federal Government became aware of this situation and built a few houses, barns, etc. ...The situation in Gee's Bend today isn't much better. It still is a very backward place. Very few of the Negroes come out. Most of the children do not attend school, because they have to work in the field. There is still this marrying within their own family. Most of the people know very little about what's going on outside of Gee's Bend."

CROWDED, ISN'T IT? In a jail meant for 140 women, 208 Negro and white demonstrators line up after 413 students were arrested in late February for stand-in demonstrations and picketing at a segregated movie theatre in Baltimore. Students, primarily from Morgan State College, but also from Goucher College and Johns Hopkins, demonstrated at the Northwood theatre under the leadership of the Baltimore Civic Interest Group, a branch of the Maryland CIG. The theatre integrated voluntarily on March 6, and Negro students and members of the community saw films there the next day. On March 12, the Maryland State Legislature passed a state-wide public accommodations law. The campaign against the Northwood Theatre caused one of the highest numbers of arrests in one spot since the sit-in movement began February 1, 1960 in Greensboro, North Carolina.

SNCC Staff sits-in at Howard J.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA -- Staff members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee have attempted several times to obtain service at a Howard Johnson's restaurant here, but have been refused.

The attempts came after an initial try of staff members en route to Nashville for the SNCC Leadership Training Institute Thanksgiving.

All Howard Johnsons' restaurants in the state of Georgia are segregated, despite a statement by the firm's president that all restaurants and hotels would have to integrate in Atlanta if businessmen wished to hold a World's Fair here.

MISS.

Continued from page 1

ed the courtroom to hear Block refuse to accept a suspended sentence if he agreed to stop his work. About 200 Negroes stood outside, unable to get in. And then they began to go down to register.

Field reports on the scene indicate that Negro sharecropping families are barely existing.

Food drives conducted by Friends of SNCC in Chicago, the Southern Conference Educational Fund and CORE in Louisville, students in Ann Arbor, Detroit, Los Angeles, and several other cities will continue until cotton-picking begins again for the thousands of seasonal sharecroppers.

Bulk Rate
U. S. Postage PAID
Atlanta, Georgia
Permit No. 784

Mr. Wiley Branton, V.R.P.
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

6 Raymond St., N. W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia

file Jeffries Greenwood

Police Officers Receive Checks As Appreciation Fund Dispensed

5-3-63 p.1.

Each of 30 Greenwood police officers was presented a check for $240 this afternoon at city hall ceremonies climaxing the "Police Appreciation Fund."

Also receiving checks, for $50 each were the city's two policewomen The police department secretary was presented a $100 check.

The officers got their checks at the 3 p.m. change of shifts today and watched the presentation of a plaque commemorating the cooperation of all law enforcement agencies in the racial crisis here last month.

The distribution of the money was decided by a committee composed of Chief of Police Curtis Lary, Mayor C. E. Sampson and Commissioners B. A. "Buff" Hammond and W. G. Mize, and Frank Miller of Delta Jewelers, spokesman for the group which first started the fund.

Miller reported the fund to the Commonwealth a month ago and after a story from this newspaper had been picked up by both major wire services, contributions to the fund began pouring in from surrounding towns and states as well as Greenwood.

Miller said at the beginning of the fund that his group hoped to raise at least $3,000 "to give each officer a $100 check."

The final tally when the fund was cut off last Friday came to over $7,600.

Today's presentation followed a barbecue at city hall last night for police officers and members of the auxiliary force who rode and patrolled with city officers during the racial "marches" here.

The fund was begun, according to Miller, as a means of showing appreciation to the police force for its "outstanding around-the-clock alert, no days off duty during the 13-day crisis."

✣ ✣ ✣

Council Votes Extra Pay

City Council voted today to pay the 30 local police officers $75 each for extra duty pay during the city's racial crisis.

The Council also heard a report from Frank Jones, city engineer, that his crews had hauled 367 loads of trash since Monday of this week. Most of it was caused by the gale force winds that whipped through the city Sunday night.

file Siskiyou County 1963

out in terms of transfer of functions and even loppings-off are not a responsibility of mine or any other private citizen. Whether the AEC has one administrator or its present five commissioners, or whether such-and-such a division ought to be reduced from 50 desks to 1 or 2 * * * these matters are of interest to me chiefly as a taxpayer.

What does concern me is that steps are taken to get the atom fully back into the stream of American life, and in a role of proper proportions. I want my government to continue to encourage, through every means, the broad growth of scientific research and development—and that means all of science not as in the past singling out the atom for preferential treatment. I do not want atomic science, because of the euphoria of the past, or present-day lobbying power, to secure more than its justifiable share of our research resources of money and brains. If the most efficient way of ensuring a balanced scientific development means transferring from the AEC all of its grants or scholarships, and turning these over, say, to the National Science Foundation, then I would be heartily in favor of such a move. Similarly, I favor continuing technical and financial aid to underdeveloped countries and if in certain instances such aid would be wisely supplemented by an atomic power installation, well and good. But the idea of a separate atomic point 4 program, carried on almost as if the larger and more comprehensive scheme of foreign aid did not exist, makes no sense to me whatsoever.

This artificial apartness of the atom in areas where this is not justified has been and is not only wasteful but harmful. Let me cite but one example of many.

A few years ago almost by accident the public discovered that containers of low-level radioactive waste products were being dumped into the coastal waters of Massachusetts. In that area fishing is an important industry and a source of food for the whole Northeast. In the summer the beaches are used by millions of people for recreation. This dumping was done with the permission of the AEC, but apparently the marine biologists and the State and Federal agencies with responsibility for health did not supervise the dumping. The AEC suffered in prestige by this unfortunate assumption that because radiation was its field, they were also experts on public health. A more serious consequence: by this sense of atomic apartness the State and Federal public health services were deprived of the opportunity to become fully knowledgeable of the radiation hazards—or absence of hazards—in such wastes and how to protect against them. Today more and more the functions of AEC that involve existing technical agencies are being slowly transferred to those agencies. This is a move in the direction I urge: putting the atom into the mainstream of men's affairs, not artifically keeping its separate and apart.

What I have been trying to do in this discussion is:

To take a look at the peaceful atom and also at the executive establishment concerned with the atom, in the light of the facts of 1963. This has been an effort to see the peaceful atom not as it once was viewed, but as it really is today. On the basis of that examination I have suggested some changes are due, perhaps overdue. What I have said of the peaceful atom is based on the theme of these lectures; namely, that the atom is not something magic and separate and apart, but is an integral part of the whole fabric of life of which change is the basic imperative.

FEDERAL WATER POLLUTION CONTROL ACT

Mr. MORSE. Mr. President, the Honorable Howell Appling, Jr., secretary of state of the State of Oregon, has called to the attention of my colleague, Senator NEUBERGER, and myself the enrolled senate joint memorial 4 which was adopted recently by the 52d Legislative Assembly of Oregon.

I ask unanimous consent, on behalf of my colleague and myself, that this memorial, dealing with the importance of obtaining adequate funds for the water pollution control program at Oregon State University, be set forth at this point in my remarks.

There being no objection, the joint memorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL 4

To His Excellency, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, and to the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress Assembled:

We, your memorialists, the 52d Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, in legislative session assembled, most respectfully represent as follows:

Whereas under the 1961 amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, Oregon State University at Corvallis has been selected as the site for the Pacific Northwest regional laboratory for the conduct of research, investigation, experiments, field demonstrations, and studies and training relating to the prevention and control of water pollution; and

Whereas the site has been etsablished on the campus and funds have been appropriated for the construction of this facility; and

Whereas there is need for programing and establishing research at an early date prior to the completion of the actual laboratory building scheduled for early 1965, staff must be recruited and research in its initial phases must be undertaken in order that the laboratory can be used to its utmost effectiveness as soon as it is available: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon:

1. The Congress of the United States is memorialized to provide support for initiating and carrying out research relating to water pollution problems by introducing in the fiscal year 1964 budget necessary funds for hiring staff and initiating research for the water pollution control program at Oregon State University.

2. The secretary of state shall send a copy of this memorial to the President of the United States, to each Member of the Oregon congressional delegation, and to each Member of the Washington, Idaho, and Montana delegations.

Adopted by senate March 5, 1963.

DALE A. HENDERSON,
Secretary of Senate.

BEN MUSA,
President of Senate.

Adopted by house April 20, 1963.

CLARENCE BARTON,
Speaker of House.

CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS

Mr. MORSE. Mr. President, the Nation and the world have been witness in recent days to a spectacle of racial bigotry in the United States that would disgrace a Union of South Africa or a Portuguese Angola.

It is no longer possible for decent citizens to sit in silence, whether they are public officials or not, and tolerate by that silence the massive and oppressive denial of constitutional rights that is occurring in several areas of the United States.

The conflict between peaceful Negro demonstrators and police in the cities of America brings to mind nothing so much as the assaults of the Nazi Party storm troopers against the Jews, and the unleashing of Communist soldiers against peaceful demonstrators in Eastern Europe.

Unless American citizens are willing to stand up and demand an end to these scenes of police brutality and disregard for civil rights, our constitutional guarantees will be no better than those of Hitler's Germany or Communist Russia.

Aside from the merely moral indecency of what has been transpiring, police authorities in certain southern communities are crushing the exercise of rights supposedly guaranteed to every American by nothing less basic than the Constitution.

The heroic Americans who are completing the march for equality begun by William Moore are doing no more than exercising their right to freedom of speech, and their right to petition their government for a redress of grievances. Under the Federal Constitution, they are guaranteed that right by the first article of the Bill of Rights. I would be surprised if they are not also supposed to be guaranteed that right by the constitution of the State which took it from them.

Moreover, they are exercising the right of all Americans to move freely from one State to another, a right recognized by the Supreme Court, and a right that was denied them when they were arrested not upon violation of law but merely upon their entry into one of our States. In my opinion, the local authorities responsible for the travesty should be prosecuted on both grounds.

Let us remember that we are long past the day when citizens were secure in their constitutional right only against the officers and action of the Federal Government. The executive officers of the Federal Government have the duty to protect Americans in the exercise of their constitutional rights against their infringement by State authority, as well.

I know it is said that the civil rights statutes are relatively weak. But some do exist. I know it is said that in the past the courts have limited their application. But even within those limitations, there is room for the Justice Department to make clear that the Federal Government is not entirely powerless to intervene.

Section 242 of title 18 of the United States Code makes it a punishable offense for anyone "under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, (to) willfully subject any inhabitant of any State, territory, or district to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution or laws of the United States."

I can think of the Bill of Rights, with its supposed guarantee of free speech, petition, and peaceful assembly; I can think of the 14th amendment, with its supposed guarantee that no State shall make or enforce any law which abridges the privileges or immuities of American citizens and which also forbids a State to deny any person life, liberty, or equal protection of its laws.

The Supreme Court has indicated that for any local official to be brought to account under this section there must be shown an intent upon his part to deny a federal right. Surely there is evidence that there was such intent in the case of the memorial marchers.

There is also evidence that there is an intent to deny the right of peaceful assembly and freedom of speech to the demonstrators in Birmingham, Ala. The use of hoses and dogs upon peaceful demonstrators is such evidence, in my opinion.

I hope the Department of Justice will reexamine its legal weapons in these cases. I hope it will recognize that the courts will never tell it when to move in to protect American rights; it is up to the Justice Department to act within the rules already laid down by the courts and proceed to test by action whether or not the courts agree with its interpretation of its powers.

For this enforcement arm of the National Government to do nothing, except to send mediators and await reports from the combat zone, is a shameful commentary on American democracy. If indeed, the Justice Department does act in defense of American rights and is not upheld by the Federal courts, than it should seek whatever new legislation is necessary to empower it to act.

It will never be good enough for this, or any administration of the Federal Government, to wring its hands over the inadequacy of legislation in this field. The test of this administration is whether it is willing to exercise its existing authority to the full, and then seek from Congress whatever additional authority is needed to put an end to the police atrocities which have been occurring.

To the extent that these demonstrations are against segregation of public facilities in Alabama, and the denial of the right to vote in Mississippi, they are against something already known to be illegal. The demonstrators are asking that the law simply be upheld, but they are not even being accorded that right by the legal authorities of those States.

Aside from the legal side of this issue, there is the even more urgent moral side of it. I can think of no action anywhere in these United States that is a more completely un-American activity than that of the Alabama police in arresting the Moore marchers and in attacking the Birmingham demonstrators. Such spectacles must bring great joy to the hearts of Communists everywhere, as they see American law officers putting down peaceful demonstrations in the same fashion as the Communist police put them down. Arrests, imprisonment, and brutality are the methods of totalitarianism everywhere, in Cuba, East Germany, in Red China, and apparently, in certain parts of the American South.

No conscientious American can continue to remain silent. This is not a matter that can be met with passivity on the part of the majority, and left to the Negroes and whites of the South to fight it out among themselves. What is going on down there today is an infinitely greater threat to American freedom than Cuba, for indeed, if we cannot and do not protect America freedom in southern America, then where can we and where will we protect it?

I made made the foregoing remarks because I think they are a deserving and fitting tribute to a magnificent article written by Joel J. Sprayregen, general counsel, Illinois division, American Civil Liberties Union, entitled, "Of Dogs and Freedom—Under the Law." This inspiring article of Joel Sprayregen's is published in the April 26, 1963, Chicago Daily Law Bulletin. I ask unanimous consent that it be printed at this point in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Chicago Daily Law Bulletin, Apr. 26, 1963]

OF DOGS AND FREEDOM—UNDER THE LAW

(By Joel J. Sprayregen)

Law Day came a little early in front of the Leflore County Courthouse in Greenwood, Miss., last month. The principal celebrant was a giant police dog who left an enduring impression on the leg of a minister and, incidentally, on the minds of millions of people throughout the world.

It is regrettable that the pressure of his official duties will keep this dog from appearing with eminent jurists and leaders of the bar at Law Day observances throughout the Nation. The President's proclamation says that we need a Law Day for "our people to rededicate themselves to ideals of equality and justice in relations with one another." The amount of rededication necessary may be measured by the distance between the upper and lower jaws of the police dog.

As has always been customary in cases where a citizen is oppressed, the dog can plead that he was merely following orders. His master—a policeman sworn himself to follow orders and, if possible to enforce the laws of the land—ordered the dog to bite the leg of a minister who was peacefully demonstrating in the cause of securing the right to vote for his fellow citizens. In Greenwood, apparently, clergymen had better preach only where no one can hear them; as earlier authorities have noted, the Gospel can be a disturbing thing if only men will open their hearts and minds to hear it.

The President's proclamation tells us that Law Day records "man's advance from savagery to civilization (with) reason and morality displacing brutal force." We may ponder that—although it is not recorded that dogs have an official "Law Day" of their own—the attack on the minister was not something that came naturally to the animal. Only after intensive training—presumably by human beings—is a dog sufficiently "educated" to attack instantly a man who has not threatened to do him wrong. This is certainly a significant accomplishment for higher education in Mississippi. But on Law Day, can we ask for something a little higher? Can we ask for education to ensure the prevalence of reason and morality over brute force?

Greenwood's premature Law Day festivities may remind us of more than the peril of the preacher who ventures into the gray pastures of public morality. As lawyers, it should remind us that when we take the case of the afflicted and oppressed—in Greenwood or Chicago—we act in the noblest of traditions. As a leading contemporary theologian says:

"The concern for justice is delegated to the judges, as if it were a matter for professionals or specialists. But to do justice is what God demands of every man: it is the supreme commandment and one that cannot be fulfilled vicariously. The calling of the prophet may be described as that of an advocate or champion, speaking for those who are too weak to plead their own cause. Indeed, the major activity of the prophets was interference, remonstrating about wrongs inflicted on other people. * * * The prophet is a person who is not tolerant of wrongs done to others."

We are not the first generation of lawyers called on to employ our ingenuity and courage in defense of the rule of law. St. Thomas More lost first his judgeship, and then his life, because he would not swear to an act which he believed was beyond the power of Parliament and the King. Lord Coke lost his judgeship by insisting that even kings are subject to the law. Have any lawyers ever drafted a more persuasive brief in defense of political freedom than the one in which Madison and Jefferson pledged for themselves and their colleagues, "our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor"?

In Illinois, Governor Altgeld lost his office because he believed that political passion was no ground on which to keep men in prison. A downstate Illinois lawyer shepherded his countrymen through a fratricidal bloodletting so that our best traditions of self-government "shall not perish from this earth." In 1910, the justices of our State supreme court (prophesying a case that 52 years later was to bring down grossly undeserved wrath on the U.S. Supreme Court) ruled that a Catholic schoolchild could not be compelled to recite from the Protestant Bible. And in Cook County, how many times has Clarence Darrow or the public defender or a member of the Defense of Prisoners Committee stepped to the bar in defense of, among other things, the finest traditions of the profession?

Almost half the world today celebrates a May Day whose heroes are, not lawyers dedicated to a rule of reason, but rather trained assassins and embittered theorists who never knew the responsibility and art of self-government under a rule of law. But our own traditions warn us not to be complacent about our achievements because the supreme commandment of justice "cannot be fulfilled vicariously." To each generation of American lawyers—and laymen—is given the responsibility of preserving freedom under law against the faint-hearted who would trade it for the illusory "security" of increased governmental power over the conscience and conduct of the individual citizen. The responsibility must be met both inside and outside of courthouses in Mississippi, as well as in the North. It can be met not by quoting dead men, but only by taking risks to protect the liberty of living men.

Is there a despicable defendant who cannot secure a fair trial? Is there a schoolchild segregated because of his race or compelled by the State to recite a prayer in which he does not believe? Is there a policeman who tortures prisoners whom he believes guilty? Is there a judge who thinks contempt of court means any disagreement with him? Is there a mayor who thinks he can break up a peaceful demonstration for civil rights or peace or John Birch? Is there an American citizen who is not allowed to vote because his skin is black? Can a police dog's bark drown out, or his teeth crush, a plea for human dignity under law? Such cases are the crucibles in which are tested daily our faithfulness to the great tradition, and our right to have a Law Day.

Man, having subjected all the other animals on earth to his rule, now stands on the eve of conquering the infinite spaces of the universe. But can man subject himself to the rule of law? If he can, we can excuse police dogs from participation in our ceremonials, and let them have their own day. Man himself will then be worthy to proclaim Law Day throughout the universe.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM AND ORDER FOR ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 11 A.M. WEDNESDAY

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, for the information of Senators, there will be no business considered today.

It is anticipated that on Wednesday next the Senate will consider the conference report on the supplemental appropriation bill; the Treasury, Post Office, and Executive offices appropriation bill; and also the unfinished business, S. 537, to amend the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate concludes its deliberations today it stand in adjournment to meet at 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning next.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, is there further morning business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further morning business? If not, morning business is concluded.

COMMITTEE MEETING DURING SENATE SESSION ON WEDNESDAY NEXT

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Government Operations be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate on Wednesday next.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Montana? The Chair hears none. and it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT OF LEGISLATIVE REORGANIZATION ACT OF 1946

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the unfinished business be laid before the Senate.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 537) to amend the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 to provide for more effective evaluation of the fiscal requirements of the executive agencies of the Government of the United States.

ECONOMIC ASPECTS OF THE 1963 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM AND PROPOSED FEED GRAIN LEGISLATION FOR 1964–65

Mr. PROXMIRE. Mr. President, last year when the administration's proposal for a mandatory feed grain bill—a bill which would have provided for a mandatory limitation on feed grain production—came before the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, I opposed it and I offered an amendment to knock out the mandatory provision. My amendment succeeded in the committee by one vote. I opposed the mandatory provision again on the floor, but it passed the Senate by a very close vote. But it failed in the House, and was never enacted into law.

Now, the administration has had second thoughts on the kind of feed grain bill it feels would be best for the country. I commend the Secretary of Agriculture and the President of the United States for recognizing that a mandatory program would not be desirable. I feel that it would not work, that it is not a practical approach. I think it would be most unfortunate for our agricultural economy.

Preliminary reports indicate that 25.8 million feed grain base acres will be diverted under the 1963 program as compared with a diversion of 28.6 million in 1962 and 25.2 million acres in 1961. For the entire United States feed grain acres intended for diversion in 1963 are only 90 percent of those diverted in 1962.

The central Corn Belt States of Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio all reported fewer than 90 percent as many feed grain acres intended for diversion in 1963 as in 1962. Iowa, Illinois and Ohio, for example, will divert only 80 percent as many acres as in 1962. Indiana, Missouri, and Michigan will divert only 85 percent as many acres as in 1962. Other States which reported a greater than national average decline in acres intended for diversion in 1963 were Arizona, Delaware, Louisiana, Maryland, North Carolina, North Dakota, and Texas.

There were 20 States, however, mostly in the Northeast, West, and South which reported more feed-grain acres intended for diversion in 1963 than in 1962. They are: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Vermont, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Washington, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Georgia.

The number of farms participating in the 1963 program is slightly higher than in 1962 and about 10 percent higher than in 1961. Only nine States have fewer farms enrolled in the 1963 than in the 1961 program. The nine States are: Arizona, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska, and Ohio.

Small farms appear to be participating in larger numbers in 1963 and some large farms may have dropped out. In spite of the 10-percent increase in the number of farms participating in the program, the percentage of the total feed-grain acreage on farms participating in the 1963 program is lower than it was in 1961; and is only slightly higher than in 1962. In 1961, 59 percent of the base acreage of feed grains was on farms which participated in the program. In 1962 barley was also included in the program and the percentage of the total feed-grain acreage on the farms participating in the program dropped to 55.3. Preliminary estimates indicate that 56.7 of the feed grain base acreage is on the farms which are participating in the 1963 program.

The smaller acreage of corn, grain sorghum and barley intended for diversion in 1963 as compared with 1962 is the result of a higher proportion of small farms participating in 1963 and of less diversion per farm cooperating. The portion of the base diverted for payment on participating farms dropped from an average of 39.6 percent in 1961 and 42 percent in 1962 to 34.4 percent intended for 1963. In Iowa and Illinois the percentage diversion on the participating farms dropped from 34.7 percent in 1962 to 27 percent in 1963—a reduction of almost 20 percent in the proportion of the bases diverted on the participating farms. This is in line with the changed economic incentives in the 1963 program which provides less incentive for diverting more than 20 percent of the base acreage than was provided in the 1961 and 1962 programs.

One of the reasons why I opposed the program last year was that I thought the taxpayer would not get as much for his money, inasmuch as the incentive for the farmers to cut down on production was reduced, while the payments were increased.

COST COMPARISONS

Acreage diversion payments in 1961 were $782 million; in 1962, $842 million; and acreage diversion plus price support payments for the 1963 program are now estimated at $872 million, which will be the highest to date. In addition to the payments to producers in 1961 and 1962 the Government took over 500 to 600 million bushels of corn at $1.20 per bushel and substantial amounts of other feed grains at comparable loan values after selling certificated grain at $1 to $1.08 per bushel. Its losses on these feed grains probably amounted to $100 to $150 million each year. Under the 1963 program with the loan value of $1.07 per bushel for corn—and other loan values in proportion—and a prohibition against selling certificated grain at less than the loan values, little if any 1963 feed grains are expected to be delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation under the price-support program.

Taking into account both the payments for diversion and the CCC losses on the new grains acquired under the 1961 and 1962 loans, it appears that the cost per acre diverted in 1963 will be about the same as the total cost per acre diverted in 1961 but 5 to 10 percent higher than in 1962.

As compared with the 1961 and 1962 programs, in 1963 the Secretary of Agriculture reduced acreage diversion payments from 50 to 20 percent of the value of the crop grown, raised the price-support level from $1.20 to $1.25 per bushel for corn, and made similar increases in the price-support level for the other feed grains. These changes were made to keep the total cost of the 1963 program in line with the cost of the 1961 and 1962 programs in view of the change in the legislation requiring compensatory price-support payments of 18 cents per bushel for corn, and for other feed grains in proportion.

Although the Government costs per acre diverted for the 1963 program will probably be 5 to 10 percent higher than total costs per diverted acre for the 1962 program, the market price of corn

Shootings, Assaults –

May Grand Jury Convenes To Deliberate Various Cases

The May term of Circuit Court opened this morning with Judge Arthur Clark, Jr., of Indianola presiding.

A 20 member grand jury was empaneled and T. B. Browning, Jr., was named foreman.

Among the cases to be heard by the jury is the shooting of James Travis, Negro voter registration worker who was wounded west of the city. Travis was hit in the shoulder.

Two white men and a teenager were arrested in connection with the shooting and are free on bond awaiting action of the grand jury. The three are charged with felonious assault.

Two other white men are also awaiting the jury's action on a case in which they are charged with assault and battery in connection with the beating of an aged Negro man after a 100 mile per hour chase by police.

Five Negro college students from Mississippi Vocational College in Itta Bena are also awaiting the grand jury action on their case.

The five were arrested after they tried to run down with a car several white boys atempting a 50 mile hike.

The jury is expected to take two to three days before it makes known its findings. Included in its deliberations are inspections of the county jail, city jail, county farm and other departments of the county.

The members of the jury are: Brownnig, foreman; H. C. Truitt, Robert W. Taylor, J. E. Makamson, W. E. Boyles, Curtis L. Posey, L. C. Wilkinson, Karl L. Pruett, Murray Collum, Dave Brody, A. R. Mathews, Jr., D. B. Chrismond, Jr., C. E. Waldrup, C. E. Ware, Earl Geter, Ed Bledsoe, C. C. Linebarger, J. C. Meeks Mike J. Ballas and J. C. Weed.

Shoots Hubby, Goes To Work; He's Not Mad

Local police investigated a call last night to Number I Kelley Alley where they found a Negro man had been shot in the neck with a .22 caliber pistol.

Macey B. Chamerlin said her husband, L. C., came in and jumped on her so she shot him, police said. She then left the house and went to work at a local cafe.

After contacting the Negro woman at work she went with the officers to 121 Avenue F where she had hid the pistol under a house.

Chamerlin told investigating officers he did not want to press charges against his wife.

Greenwood Commonwealth 5-6-63

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library

JACKSON DAILY
NEWS (MISS.)
P. 11
Date MAY 10 1963

5 Negroes Indicted In Greenwood

GREENWOOD, Miss. (Special) —Five Negro Mississippi Vocational College Students charged with trying to run down a group of whtie boys have been indicted by the Leflore County Grand Jury.

The Negroes, charged with assault and battery, tried to run down the white boys as they were on a 50-mile hike near Itta Bena, Feb. 26.

Indicted were Murray Bacon, Lorenzo Pleasant, Swancy Brown, Otis Funches, and Charles Tuggle.

Also indicted were William H. Greenlee and Wesley Hersey, both white, in connection with the shooting of Negro voter registration worker James Travis, Feb. 28.

Travis, a 20-year old field secretary for the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee, was traveling in the car with Carl Blackwell of Atlanta and Robert Moses, voter registration workers when they were fired upon from a passing automobile. Travis was struck in the neck by a bullet.

R. B. Note!

From: H. Research

SNCC Worker Struck After Resisting Officer

5-17-63
Greenwood Commonwealth

A Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee worker was being held under technical arrest at Greenwood Leflore Hospital this afternoon on a charge of resisting arrest and driving without a license after he was struck with a nightstick by a city officer.

In the hospital is Melton Hancock who police charge refused to accompany the officer, Roy Logan, to the station last night.

He was reported in good condition at the hospital with a small cut over his left eye.

Police Commissioner B. A. "Buff" Hammond said he would have been able to leave the hospital after treatment but police asked that he held there instead of the jail to keep down visits by other SNCC workers.

SNCC has some 15 field secretaries in the county working in the Negro voter registration drive.

Hammond added this morning that more charges may be lodged against Hancock when the investigation is complete.

Hammond gave this account of what took place last night:

Patroleman Logan was alone in his squad car and fell in behind a car driven by Hancock.

The officer noted that while the Negro "wasn't driving recklessly" he was driving in a manner that "made me decide to caution him about his driving."

Logan pulled Hancock over and asked to see his drivers license. The Negro refused to show his license and Logan told him: "Alright, then, you're under arrest."

"I'm not going with you," Hammond quoted the Negro as telling the officer.

Logan then went back to his patrol car, got his nightstick and returned to the Negro's car. He grasped the Negro's arm and again ordered him to get in the squad car to go to the police station.

"The Negro took a swing at the officer," Hammond said, "and the officer hit him with his club once."

Hancock was brought to the city police station and booked, then taken to the hospital for treatment, where Hammond gave orders that he be kept temporally.

Birm. World
5-18-63

2 Indicted For Shooting SNCC Aide

GREENWOOD, Miss. — The Leflore County Grand Jury Indicted two white men in the March 5 shooting of a field secretary from the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (S..CC).

Indicted on charges of assault and battery in the near fatal shooting were William H. Greenlee, former oil bulk plant owner, and Wesley Kersey, local implement establishment services manager.

Greenlee and Kersey and a 17-year-old youth were arrested in the shooting of SNCC worker Jimmy Travis, 20, of Jackson.

Travis was wounded in the neck and shoulder when shots were fired at his car from an auto carrying three white men. SNCC worker Bob Moses, who heads the Mississippi vote drive, and Randolph Blackwell, of the Voter Education Project, were also in the Travis car, but escaped injury.

Travis' shooting triggered an increase in Negro voting attempts here. Hundreds of Negroes walked to the Leflore County courthouse during the week following the shooting, and local authorities used police dogs to deter would-be voters. Eight SNCC workers were jailed during that week

Greenwood Com 5-20-63 file (Welfare) County

Court Asked To Delay Trial In Shooting

Circuit Court Judge Arthur Clark, Jr., took under advisement today a motion to continue the case in the trial of Wesley Kersey and William H. Greenlee until the November term of court.

A similar motion was expected to be filed in court tomorrow in behelf of five Negro students from Mississippi Vocational College indicted on a charge of assault and battery with intent.

Kersey and Greenlee were indicted by the Grand Jury on a charge of assault and battery with intent to commit murder. The indictment came out of the shooting of Jimmy Travis, Negro voter registration worker on the night of February 28.

Travis was shot in the shoulder while traveling in a car west of the city with two other voter registration workers.

Attorney A. H. Bell, representing Kersey and Greenlee, read his motion to the court, citing numerous instances of racitl tension in the state and surrounding states, claiming that because of these his clients feel they can not receive a fair and impartial trial.

"Time is a great healer," the motion stated, "and by November it is felt he can receive a fair trial."

The motion cited the fact that both Kersey and Greenlee have pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery with intent to commit murder.

It stated further that, "Affiant claims he did not know Jimmy Travis, Negro voter registration worker and since the time he has learned that Jimmy Travis was a Negro voter registration worker."

Reading further, Bell cited racial demonstrations caused by outside agitators and how they have created hostility and tension between the races.

"Because of the hostility between the races the affiant feels he can not receive a fair and impartial trial," Bell said.

The motion cited plans that have been made in Jackson and other cities in the state for sit-ins and other types of racial disturbances.

It also brought to the attention of the court three suits now pending against the various branches of the city and county government The motion said most, if not all, of these cases will have been settled by the November term of Circuot Court.

"Affiant states this motion is not filed for a delay ,but that justice may be done."

After reading the motion Bell said, "I think it is for the welfare of both races that this not be tried at this time. We do not believe a change of venture would help because the tension between the races is noted in other counties throughout the state."

"We think it would be better for the city, county and state, the white race and the Negro race that this case not be tried. Time is a great healer," Bell said as he closed his argument.

District Attorney Parham H. Williams of Lexington said, "The court is aware of the circumstances cited and while the state does not agree with th emotion it will leave it up to the court to make its own decision."

When court convenes in the morning a similar motion is expected to be filed in behalf of five Negro college students who were indicted after trying to run down several white youths attempting a 50 mile hik

Judge Clark said he has given the Negroes, until Tuesday to file such a motion. He said if the motion is filed he will rule on both of them at the same time.

Greenwood Commonwealth 5-21-63

Court Finds Negro Guilty

Melton Hancock, Negro Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee worker, was convicted in City Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of resisting arrest.

A driving without a license charge was dismissed after he produced his license.

Hancock was arrested late Friday evening when officer Roy Logan stopped him to caution his driving. Logan asked the Negro for his license and Hancock refused to show them, after which he was placed under arest.

The Negro was hit once by the officer with a night stick.

Logan testified yesterday that Hancock threw his arms up when the officer placed a hand on his shoulder in a movement that made him think the Negro was going to strike him.

Hancock is free on a $200 appeal bond.

Judge Ormand Kimbrough fined him $50.

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE" 6-18-63

Laura Taylor, 110 West Taft, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Annie Hughes, 1306 Roosevelt St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Boyd Hughes, 1306 Roosevelt St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Millie Mae Coleman, 108 East Gibbs, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Martha Gordan, 110 E. Gibbs, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Sallie Sims, 616 Ave. M, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Eddie Thomas, 210 E. Percy, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Lorene Ivey Brown 507 Ave. I Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mary Lindsey, 305 Ash St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Martha Ann Meeks, 605 Miller Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Bertha Ellis, 418 W. Percy St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Martha Melton, 422 W. Percy, Greenwood. Mississippi.
Will Greer, 909 Ave. F., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Charmayne Howell ,P. O. Box 162, Swiftown, Mississippi.
Miss Joan Gibson, Sidon, Mississippi.
Freener Davis, 424 West Percy, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Hubert Loyd Hodges, P. O. Box 125 Minter City, Mississippi.
Alberta Stewart, 807 Dixie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Eathel Stanback, 823 Dixie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi
Cecil Carol Woods, 1006 Parkway, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Lula Thomas, 210 East Percy, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Fred Johnson, Route 1, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Bertha Austin, 517 Ave. I, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Clara Jones, 107 West Scott, Greenwood, Mississippi
Bob Harris, 316 W. McLaurin, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. H. B. Goss, 351 Malmaison Road, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mary Gavins, 102 Mcgee, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Richard Henry Dennis, Rt. 2, Box 93, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Reece Barbour, Rt. 2, Box 89, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Jessie Davis, 117 W. Taft, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Bobby Lance, Box 282, Sidon, Mississippi.
Annie Bell Wade, 1014 Broad Street, ,Greenwood Mississippi.
Dewey R. Greene, 619 Howard, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Alma Nichols Hardy, 606 Howard Street, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. James A. Carter ,601 Henderson ,Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Betty T. Johnson, 1202 Strong Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Shirley Minga, 610 Montjoy St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Leonia Keys, 311 McCain St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
David Stephens, P. O. Box 331, Money, Mississippi.
Ned J. Graziosi, 323 McCool, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Rev .Agee Allen, 806 Dixie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Carolyn Peeples Ellis, 1111 W. Monroe ,Greenwood ,Mississippi.
Bill Harris, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Cora Campbell, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Miss Joy Lanette Jamieson, 406 Williamson St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Rev. Albert Haney, 904 Ave. F, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. John T. Drake, 612 W. Adams, Greenwood, Mississippi.
John T. Drake, 612 W. Adams, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Jerry Carpenter, 1409 Leflore, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Annie May King, 707 Walthall, Greenwood ,Mississippi.
Mrs. Blanche Blakely, 123 Barrentine St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Bobby Burton Howell, P. O. Box 162, Swiftown, Mississippi.

LeFlore C June 18-2

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE" Freedom Commonwealth

Octavia Granderson, 601 Miller Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Maggie R. Thomas, 410 Ash, Greenwood, Mississippi
Arvella McCaskill, Rt. 1, Box 283A Greenwood, Mississippi.
Oscar Davis, Jr., 354 W. Adams, Greenwood, Mississippi.
William Lonnie Haas, Jr., 804 Martin St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
David Porter, 421 Jeff Davis, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mable L. Turner, 306 R. Palace St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Charlie Neal, 205 Vardaman St., Greenwood, Mississippi
Steve Washington, 504 State St, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Elizabeth Harris, 106 Jackson St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Eva Bryant, 104 Jackson St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Avell Wilson, P. O. Box 483, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Miss Sarah Kimbrough, General Delivery, Morgan City, Mississippi.
Maggie Mullins, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Bernice Harris, 106 Jackson, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Jessie Mae Fisher, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Mrs. Dearl Willard, 406 Kinney St. Greenwood, Mississippi.
Nellie Mae Lindsey, 315½ Oak St. in Rear, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Rosie Lee Petty, 312 Palace Street, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Rosella Larry, 317½ Rear East McLauren, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Alberta Common Ramsey, 306 Short Elm, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Dewitt Talmadge Monroe, Jr., 209 E. Monroe St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Carolyn Faye Teal, Rt. 1, Box 32, Sidon, Mississippi.
Willis Wright, 406 W. Scott, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Johnnie B. Garner, 714 Main St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Lena Mae Walker, 117 Ave. F, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Gradie Lee Sanders, 713 Walthall, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Willie Hendrix, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Nick Hampton, Jr., Rt. 1, Box 427, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Maggie Harris, P. O. Box 566, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Charity Hilliard, P. O. Box 164, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Mrs. W. A. McEachern, 926 Mclean St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Ida B. Roberts, P. O. Box 671, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Minnie Ola Wright, 301 Senica Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mary Wright, 405 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Edd Brown, Rt. 2, Box 88, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mary Ledbetter, 726 Howard, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Lou Alice Love, 513 Court St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Robert R. Stone, Rt. 1, Box 348, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Ora Lillian Trenor, 617 Cherokee, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Thurman Wilson White, Jr., Rt. 2, Box 195, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Lucy Brown, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Reed Boles, 700 East Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Annie Mae Cage, 313 West Stone, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Abelle Byrdo, 411 Ave. F, Rear, Greenwood, Mississippi.

Will Byrdo, 411 Ave. F, Rear, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mary Brown, 210 East Scott, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Clara Dorris, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Gracie Gibbs, General Delivery, Henrietta Kingston, P. O. Box 627, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Kenneth Wm. Echols, P. O. Box 646, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Felix Louis Mitchell, 705 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Miss Sara Ruth Richardson, Rt. 1, Sidon, Mississippi.
Henry Smith, 701 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Jewell J. Carpenter, 709 Avenue N, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Dora Lee Jackson, 216 Noel St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Rosie M. Freeman, RFD 1, Box 338, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Maggie Sullivan, Rt. 1, Box 44, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Emma Stile James, Box 631, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Eva Lee Johnson, 103 Rear McCain St., Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mrs. Jerry Willoughby, Box 83, Minter City, Mississippi.
Walter McCraney, Gen. Del., Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Miss Mary Ann McCuan, 211 West Adams, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Mary Strong, P. O. Box 654, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Hattie B. Long, P. O. Box 616, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Margaret Truss, P. O. Box 524, Itta Bena, Mississippi.
Daphraim Smith, 518 Ave K, Greenwood, Mississippi.
Miss Patricia Forbes, 803 W. Jefferson, Greenwood, Mississippi.

June 11-18

Jefferson County 1963

have the facts, and such confidence in the analysis of the foreign aid bill that I have been making over the past several years, that I am perfectly willing to run all the risks that may be involved in standing up and being counted in opposition to my party's proposal for a foreign aid bill as it has been submitted to this Congress in the form of the bill now being considered in hearings before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

We have a clear duty as a Congress to try to create the kind of aid program which would truly reflect American interests and benefit the international community. And I yield to no one in my continuing concern for those objectives. However, those objectives are not met by the present foreign-aid bill which is but a repetition of the traditional program tossed up to us again this year.

Mr. President, I reiterate my position to allow for no chance of misinterpretation. Like Alice, I have become disgusted with the mad tea party. No longer will I join my committee colleagues in the despairing annual effort to push the shoddy and overstuffed doormouse into the teapot.

My duty to my constituents and the dictates of my conscience will force me to register a protest vote against the foreign aid bill when it comes before this body if it resembles its present form.

I shall offer and support with evidence and argument a series of amendments which, if adopted, will reduce the foreign aid expenditures by at least 25 percent. I joined in cosponsoring one of those amendments this afternoon, when I joined in cosponsoring the amendment of the Senator from Idaho [Mr. CHURCH].

I close by saying that it is my judgment, after long and detailed study of the bill, that the bill can be reduced in total amount by 25 percent without in the slightest weakening the security of this country. To the contrary, in my judgment it would strengthen the sesecurity of this country, because it would strengthen the domestic economy, which is crying out for strengthening.

I shall not propose an across-the-board 25-percent cut. The total amount of cut which result from adoption of the amendments I shall offer or support would, at a minimum, be 25 percent. In some instances I shall propose the striking of an entire amount. That goes along with the proposal I shall make later, to supplement the proposal of the Senator from Idaho, to eliminate certain countries entirely from receiving a single dollar of grant money in fiscal year 1964.

In some instances we could safely reduce the amount involved by 50 percent; in some instances by 40 percent; and in some instances by 10 percent. In a few instances I shall support an increase in the amount, where the facts warrant an increase.

But the total amount, in my judgment, should be reduced not 1 cent less than 25 percent.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Mr. MORSE. Mr. President, the Medford Mail Tribune in my State, under date of May 16, 1963, published an editorial which was called to my attention yesterday. It is called A Reply to a Letter. It is one of the most devastating answers, in my judgment, to a non sequitur we have heard in this country on civil rights for many years. I have heard it stated in one form or another over the years on the floor of the Senate. It is a common non sequitur used by southern editors in their editorial writings. It is a non sequitur which is supposed to cause those who live in the North to surrender, to give up on the matter of civil rights.

The editor in Medford, Oreg., Eric Allen, has written a reply to this fallacious argument.

I shall read the editorial in part, and later I shall ask unanimous consent to have the editorial printed in full in the RECORD.

The editor says:

We received the following letter the other day:

"To the EDITOR:

"A correspondent of ours in Oregon tells us that you have shown an interest in the South's racial problems on your editorial page.

"We southerners are delighted to see that other parts of the Nation are becoming interested in the race problem and welcome the sincere desire to help.

"Would you on behalf of your subscribers welcome into your community several hundred Negro families from the South? If you will write such a welcome in the form of an editorial we will give it wide publicity throughout the South and will help raise the necessary transportation cost for these Negro migrants.

"Perhaps you would print this letter in your letters to the editor column.

"We believe that the most nearly Christian solution to the race problem is migration and dispersion throughout our Nation. I am mailing you under separate cover statistics on this subject which may interest you.

"Sincerely,

"ROBERT B. PATTERSON,
"Secretary, Citizens' Council.
"GREENWOOD, MISS."

I am sure no one is surprised that such a letter came out of Greenwood, Miss.; but, of course, there are many other communities south of the Mason-Dixon line in which that bigoted organization known as the White Citizens' Council reigns, along with its hooded copatriots, the Ku Klux Klan.

Mr. Patterson got his answer from this Oregon editor. Listen to a part of it:

No, Mr. Patterson. We would not welcome "several hundred Negro families from the South" here—not so long as they are shipped off like a bunch of diseased cattle just to get them out of your way.

You, Mr. Patterson, and your colleagues and your and their forebears, held Negroes as slaves until 100 years ago. Since then you have exploited them, refused them adequate education, refused them even a chance to improve themselves. You have prevented them from learning skills which would have made it possible for them to rise on the economic ladder.

You, Mr. Patterson, and your fellows, for generations have treated these fellow human beings like subhumans, subject to lynchings, beatings, intimidation, night-riding.

I digress from the editorial long enough to say that all one has to do is look at the photographic evidence in Life magazine and the newspapers of the country in recent days to see how right Mr. Allen is. What a shocking betrayal of the ideals of constitutional government—policemen in one community after another in the South, including Cambridge, Md., have been subjecting Negroes to a shameful disgrace, to the great loss of our prestige around the world.

These photographs are front page in the newspapers of the world, free and Communist.

As Senators know, for years I have stood up against police brutality within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. I have carried on the fight against the proposal to change the Mallory rule, although there are bills pending in the Congress to surrender to the police of the District of Columbia the great, precious constitutional protections of the Mallory rule. If we surrender it here, we shall have surrendered the principle nationwide.

If anyone had any doubt about any of the many speeches the senior Senator from Oregon has made on this floor over the years, calling upon the Senate always to be on guard against unchecked police power, he only has to look at the shocking pictures of cruelty and brutality practiced by various southern police departments in recent weeks against Negroes. Humane principles cry out against it.

I ask unanimous consent that the entire editorial be printed in the RECORD at this point in continuity.

There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Medford (Oreg.) Mail-Tribune, Mar. 16, 1963]

A REPLY TO A LETTER

We received the following letter the other day:

"To the EDITOR:

"A correspondent of ours in Oregon tells us that you have shown an interest in the South's racial problems on your editorial page.

"We southerners are delighted to see that other parts of the Nation are becoming interested in the race problem and welcome the sincere desire to help.

"Would you on behalf of your subscribers welcome into your community several hundred Negro families from the South? If you will write such a welcome in the form of an editorial we will give it wide publicity throughout the South and will help raise the necessary transportation cost for these Negro migrants.

"Perhaps you would print this letter in your letters-to-the-editor column.

"We believe that the most nearly Christian solution to the race problem is migration and dispersion throughout our Nation. I am mailing you under separate cover statistics on this subject which may interest you.

"Sincerely,

"ROBERT B. PATTERSON,
"Secretary, Citizens' Council.
"GREENWOOD, MISS."

No, Mr. Patterson. We would not welcome "several hundred Negro families from the South" here—not so long as they are shipped off like a bunch of diseased cattle just to get them out of your way.

You, Mr. Patterson, and your colleagues and your and their forebears, held Negroes as slaves until 100 years ago. Since then you have exploited them, refused them adequate education, refused them even a chance to improve themselves. You have prevented them from learning skills which would have made it possible for them to rise on the economic ladder.

You, Mr. Patterson, and your fellows, for generations have treated these fellow human being like subhumans, subject to lynchings, beatings, intimidation, nightriding.

You and your ilk, Mr. Patterson, under the guise of States right, have made and kept an entire group of people second-class citizens—when, indeed, you permitted them any of the dignities and privileges of citizenship at all.

You and your ilk, by collusion, subterfuge, and even more overt methods—including, most recently, dogs, hoses and bombs—have prevented them from voting, from serving on juries, from attending your schools, even from using common lunch counters or restrooms.

You say they are ignorant, irresponsible, lazy, unclean, diseased. In many cases this is true. And you are to blame; you and your determination to maintain your privileged status by holding others down, by depriving them of the dignity and opportunity to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to which each American—regardless of color—is entitled.

No, Mr. Patterson, we would not accept your offer, because it is a brutalizing, evil, hypocritical offer; nearly as evil and brutalizing and hypocritical as the slave trade itself.

We do know that, inevitably in times to come, Americans whose skins are black will come here to live and seek livelihood. And we know that it will bring problems—difficult and serious problems, just as it has in Detroit and Chicago and Los Angeles and San Francisco, and Portland, and in other smaller communities.

We will not welcome these problems, because we have so far been without them, and no one likes to borrow trouble.

Still, when the time comes, we are convinced that men of good will—and they are legion—will do their utmost to see that the problems are settled with fairness, justice and honor.

One-sixth of the nation's population has dark skin. And these people, as never before in history, are demanding the right to be treated simply as Americans, and not as inferiors, as people set aside from the stream of life.

They are demanding the right to make their own choices, and not to be shoved around, or to be shipped off like a group of slaves just to satisfy the malevolence of racist citizens' councils.

We must, if we are to live up to the ideals which made America great, learn to live side-by-side with each other, and to deny equal opportunities to none.

This will not be easy for anyone—white or Negro. There are agonizing times ahead. But the challenge is one of the greatest Americans have ever faced.

They can meet it if—and only if—they can bring themselves to do unto others, all others, as they would have others do unto them. E.A.

Mr. MORSE. Mr. President, I am proud that there is an editor in my State with the courage, foresight, and enlightenment of Mr. Allen, who called a spade as it should be called in his reply to the racist, Mr. Patterson, who wrote this letter thinking that the non sequitur of the letter would leave Mr. Allen and others without reply.

SPEECH BY

Greenwood Commonwealth

Twelve Negroes Sentenced To County Farm Yesterday

6-27-63

Leflore Cty

Twelve Negroes were sent to the Leflore County Farm yesterday making a total of 22 arrested and sentenced this week.

Forty-five from Itta Bena were arrested and sentenced last week Only one has posted bond. An elderly woman who was unable to work

Three Negroes arrested Tuesday afternoon by Chief of Police Curtis Lary, two blocks from the court house were tried before Judge O. L. Kimbrough in city court. They were charged by City Prosecuting Attorney Gray Evans with parading without a permit.

Ida Holland, 19; Ruby Wright, 18 and Milton Hancock, 33, each received a sentence of four month in jail and fined $200. A 12 year old girl arrested with the group was released to her mother

Later in the afternoon nine, arrested at noon yesterday inside the courthouse, were tried before Judge C. C. Williamson's court

Mary Lane 22, and George Green 19, were charged by County Prosecutnig Attorney John J. Fraiser, Jr., with creatnig a disturbance in a public place. The received a sentence of six months in jail and were fined $500 each.

Mrs. Martha Lamb, tCircui Clerk, testified that Mary Lane and Green brought two elderly women and a young girl into the clerks office "to take the literacy tests". She told them that she would be with them in just a moment as she was busy, and her deputy was issuing a marriage license. She said they were asked several times to wait outside the door until she could help them, but green and girl refused.

A deputy sheriff asked the two Negroes several times to leave and when they refused they were placed under arrest.

The other seven Negroes, Willie Lee Wilson, 41; Donald White, 22; Fred Harris, 17; Eliza Vassar 18: Minnie Thurman, 18; Jessie Glover, 16 and John Handy, 18, were charged with breach of the peace.

They were fined $200 each and sentenced to four months in jail.

Appeal bond was set at $500.

Greenwood Commonwealth 7-1-63

Trial Opens

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Two 18-year-old negroes, charged with breach of the peace when they refused orders to leave a city park in a white residential area, were to go on trial here today.

The two, Annie Lee Bynum and Carroll Bolton, members of the Greenville Student Movement were arrested Saturday with eight juveniles.

The juveniles face a hearing in court later this week.

Dave Green, worker for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said white persons took his pad and pencil as he took notes and "roughed him up."

Police Chief W. C. Burnley said no complaints were filed and his officers saw no incidents.

The scene marked the first multiple racial arrests in this northwest Mississippi delta town.

* * *

Crack Outfit – Greenwood Commonwealth Leflore Cty 6-29-63

Greenwood Auxiliary Police Force Being Copied Throughout State

Greenwood's Auxiliary police force has become a pattern for other cities in the state, it was learned today, and is recognized as one of the outstanding auxiliary police departments in Mississippi.

The force was formed in March, when the city was gripped in a crisis which threatened to tax the regular police beyond endurance.

The Auxiliary group is made up of business men from throughout the community, who have contributed hundreds of hours of their time in acquainting themselves with the operation, and duties of a police officer so that they may better serve he community.

The men furnish their own equipment, with their on the job training with regular police officers, supplemented with lectures and meetings they today are a crack outfit.

They maybe recognized by their white helmet liners painted with the words, Greenwood Auxiliary Police across the front. They wear white shirts with ties, and dark trousers. The helmet liners, riot sticks and badges are the only expense incurred by the city.

During the height of the crisis last March the Auxiliary policemen were found riding with the regular police on their rounds in the patrol cars. They were also used in directing traffic and in other capacities.

The force is authorized, like the regular police officers, to make arrests, control traffic and to carry out the orders of chief of police Curtis Lary.

Chief Lary has stated,"With the assistance of the Auxiliary police, we are able to double the size of the city police department in a matter of minutes. The men set up in shifts, just like the regular force, and we can have them on duty with just a couple of telephone calls."

The men in the Auxiliary police pulled 12 hour duty last March when the force first came into being. Since that time they have not been called to duty, except on one occasion. They have had regular monthly meetings and their schooling and learning is continuing, Lary said.

FBI In Miss. Shooting Case; 5 Persons Hurt

Bern. Word 6-29-63

GREENWOOD, Miss. — (UPI) — About 60 Negroes turned up at the county courthouse to register as voters Tuesday and 10 were arrested for refusing to disperse when the office closed for the lunch hour.

It marked the second consecutive day large numbers of Negroes have appeared at the court house. Monday police broke up a group of about 150 that gathered.

A voter registration drive has been underway in Greenwood since spring. Negro comedian Dick Gregory led one of the early voter registration marches.

Greenwood is about 88 miles north Jackson, where Byron De La Beckwith - the accused slayer of integration leader Medgar Evers - was given a preliminary hearing Tuesday afternoon.

PLEADED INNOCENT

Beckwith pleaded innocent to the murder charges filed against him.

In Canton, Miss., just 25 miles north of Jackson, four FBI agents showed up Tuesday to assist Canton authorities with an investigation involving five Negroes who were wounded Monday night by a shotgun blast.

The Negroes were attacked near a hall where a voter registration rally was in progress. Authorities said they did not believe the events were related.

Bernice McGruder, 23, one of those wounded, said she and her companions were walking down a street when she heard a shot and turned to see "a white man standing in the door of a filling station with a shotgun in his hand." She said the man was wearing khaki trousers and a striped shirt."

QUESTIONED EMPLOYES

Police said they had questioned several persons who worked at the station, but so far had turned up nothing. Chief Dan Thompson said he didn't know whether the FBI had been summoned by other city officials or Negro leaders, but added; "We are mightly glad to have them."

In Raleigh, N. C., Gov. Terry Sanford was rebuffed by Negro leaders in an appeal he made for a halt to demonstrations.

Police in Albany, Ga., arrested 14 Negroes late Monday night and early Tuesday. Two of those picked were charged in conection with a rock-throwing incident in which a white man suffered a fractured skull. The others were arrested during anti-segregation demonstrations on charges ranging from parading without a permit to destroying city property.

Leflore Cty. News Clips

People Jailed As Campaigns Grow In Itta Bena, Greenwood

Miss Free Press 6-29-63

14 voter registration workers in Greenwood and 47 citizens of nearby Itta Bena were jailed this week as a result of stepped up registration activities in the two Delta communities.

According to Eleanor Holmes, a registration worker in Greenwood, 10 registration organizers were arrested there Tuesday morning and four were arrested that afternoon as 70 citizens of Greenwood went to the courthouse and found themselves caught in a game of nip and tuck with the county sherriff and local police.

According to Miss Holmes, the county sheriff told the Greenwood citizens to leave the courthouse steps, where they had been waiting, when the registration office closed for lunch.

Face Police

As the 70 people surged away from the courthouse and into the street, they were met by Greenwood police, who, fearing a demonstration, told them they would have to go back inside the courthouse. When the Sheriff shooed the group away from the courthouse a second time, they were met again by the local police, who arrested the ten leaders.

Four more were arrested during activities that afternoon.

14 Held

Miss Holmes noted that the 14 were being held without bond, and that registration workers there had sent a telegram explaining the situation to the U. S. Attorney General.

The telegram, she said, pointed out that demonstrations were inevitable in Greenwood if citizens were not registered there more promptly.

Bomb Leads To Arrest

Meanwhile, in Itta Bena, 47 citizens remained on the county Penal Farm after being arrested Monday when they walked downtown to report that a bomb had been hurled into the church where a voter registration meeting was in progress.

According to Itta Bena registration worker Sam Block, at that time about 5,000 citizens had applied as voters, but only about 25 had been accepted.

Does Not Stop Action

Miss Holmes declared that registration activities in Itta Bena had not been quelled by the arrests. She stated that people in Itta Bena were "still coming in by the hundreds" to register. "The response is overwhelming," she said.

Miss Holmes held little hope for the jailed citizens, however, she said, there is little chance of raising enough money to bail them out.

Twenty-nine of the men arrested were fined $500 each and sentenced to six months on the LeFlore County Penal Farm.

Leflore City News Cerp

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 29, 1963 Greenwood Commonwealth FIVE CENTS

Leflore Co

Federal Suit Filed To Free Negroes

On Monday night, the Negroes practiced marching in their section of the city and Tuesday night they went to deputy Weber' house.

Named defendents were Leflore County; county prosecuting attorney John J. Frasier Jr.; sheriff's depuies Harlow Pittman and H. E. Weber Jr.; and John Arterbury, director of the county penal farm where the Negroes are now being held.

The Justice Department has filed two voter registration suits against the county earlier.

One in August, 1962, challenged the constitutionality of state voting laws, charging they resulted in systematic discrimination against Negroes seeking registration in Leflore and five other counties. The suit is awaiting trial.

The second suit, filed March 30, sought an injunction against Greenwood and Leflore County officials forbidding them to interfere with the rights of Negroes to register to vote.

It asked that arrest, prosecution and intimidation of Negro voter worker be stopped. Named defendants in that suits were Greenwood Mayor Charles Sampson; Fire and Police Commissioner B. A. Hammond; Police Chief Curtis Lary; City Prosecutor Gray Evans Deputy Sheriff Wilburn W. Smith; Count prosecuting Attorney John J. Frazier Jr. and the city of Greenwood and Leflore County.

This suit also sought the release of eight Negroes held at that time and convicted in city police court of a breach of peace.

The eight Negroes were released, but the suit is still pending. One of the eight Negroes arrested and convicted during March demonstrations was again arrested and convicted this past week. Laurence Guyot of Chicago was placed under arrest early this week when he refused to leave the steps of the County Courthouse when ordered by a deputy sheriff. Guyot was arrested and convicted. He was sentenced to four months and a fine of $200.

Claims 45 Negroes Didn't Break Law

The Justice Department wants a federal court to order Leflore County authorities to release 45 Negroes arrested in Itta Bena a week and a half ago and convicted of disturbing the peace.

In the suit filed Friday in U. S. District Court in Oxford, U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy charged the 45 were prosecuted for seeking police protection for their voter registration meetings.

The sheriff's department charged the Negroes with breach of the peace when they threw bottles and stones, breaking windows out of seven cars as they marched from a church to deputy sheriff Ed Weber's home.

The government suit said they were forced from the church when poisonous fumes were released inside; they were walking to the deputy's home seeking protection when attacked by other Negroes who threw bottles and bricks at them; then they were accused of tossing the debris although" no evidence was presented that any of them had done so."

Of the 57 arrested, 12 children under 15 were freed. Of the remaining 45, the women were sentenced to four months in jail and a fine of $200 while the men were sentenced to six months and $500.

Sheriff John Ed Cothran said the day following the incident that his department had investigated the charge by the Negroes that gas had been thrown into the church, but no evidence could be found to substantiate their story. "We checked this out very closely, "the sheriff stated, "but there just wasnt anything to their story."

It had also been reported by residents of the community that the Negroes had been practicing for several days for this march.

Law enforcements authorities had heard several days prior to the march that a march was to be staged in Itta Bena on the Saturday preceeding the Tuesday night arrests. However, it never came off.

Greenwood Commonwealth

Prisoners Carried To Parchman

7-2-63

Action Follows Sitdown Strike; Federal Court Hearing Slated

The county sent 23 prisoners from the County Penal Farm in the state penitentiary at Parchman today when they refused for the second day to go to work as ordered.

The prisoners were sent to the state prison under the authority of an Ex Parte Peition of Sheriff John Ed Cothran signed by Circuit Judge Arthur Clark Jr., of Indianola.

Early yesterday the Board of Supervisors passed an order declaring the necessity for additional facilities to house county convicts, and authorizing the filing of necessary petition for legal writ to tranfer convicts.

In the order the Board said the county farm is crowded to capacity, without suitable facilities for the present county prisoners, and many of the convicts have become hostile and refractory.

It stated that a survey had been made of the existing facilities and the most suitable additional jail facilities for housing the prisoners was found at the state prison.

The 23 prisoners, seven women and 16 men, all Negroes, this morning refused to go to work as ordered by penal farm superintendent, John Arterbury. Yesterday 14 prisoners refused to go to work when ordered.

This is the first time there has been a sit down by prisoners at the county penal farm, according to county authorities.

Sunday the county farm was besieged with almost 200 visitors to see the 85 prisoners being held there. At one time the city police had to send men there to help guards.

The Negroes being sent to the state prison at Parchman are part of the 67 arrested and convicted of breach of the peace last week at the county courthouse and also in Itta Bena the week before.

While the county was making preparations to move the prisoners to the state prison, they were also preparing their defense for a federal suit filed last Friday by U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy seeking the release of 45 Negroes convicted in Justice of Peace Court in Itta Bena. The Negroes were arrested when they threw bricks and stones through seven car windows after marching through the community.

The county was served with papers on the federal suit yesterday and a hearing has been scheduled for federal court in Greenville on July 11.

This was the third federal suit to be filed against the county in the past three years.

Greenwood Commonwealth

Free Ride

7-12-63

That testimony under cross examination in federal court over in Greenville yesterday was interesting, and we think Leflore Countians have a right to know that Negro vote workers here consider communists their friends.

But it would be a mistake to infer that therefore what is going on in Leflore County and all over Mississippi is a communist plot.

The Commonwealth Monday carried a story charging that Pete Seeger, folk singer who performed at one of the voter rallies here, was a communist sympathizer. We haven't heard any denials and the source from which we got the information undoubtedly knew what he was talking about.

What he said about the voter movement, then, is worth considering.

"These student non-violent boys come into your area and get something moving. The commies know that if they started the same thing you could stop them cold before they got off the ground. But they make themselves friendly to the civil rights workers. Then when the engine is stoked up and the train begins moving at a pretty good clip, they hop on for the ride."

(T. W.)

JV

Greenwood Commonwealth

Ex-FBI Agent Hits Justice Legal Staff

2-12-63

Leflore Cty

A former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent said last night that "the South has no friends in the legal staff of the Justice Department in Washington."

George Everett, retired FBI agent and candidate for district attorney in this district, spoke to the regular meeting of the Civitan Club at Lusk's Restaurant.

Everett was resident agent here until his retirement several weeks ago.

His wife is a teacher in the Greenwood schools.

Everett told of the U. S. government's role in the city's recent racial troubles.

Leflore Cty Mecus

FBI Agent Backs County Testimony

The Negro voter registration workers have contended that teargas was thrown into the church while their meeting was in progress and that they marched to downtown Itta Bena to seek Police protection.

They were arrested in the vicinity of the Itta Bena postoffice after what county officers have described as a rock and bottle throwing melee.

Throughout the hearing here, Negro witnesses produced by the Department of Justice have contended that another Negro group threw the rocks and bottles at them.

One, Charles King, 19, testified yesterday that he was arrested with a bottle in his hand after the bottle had been thrown at him and he caught it.

Under cross examination, the FBI agent refused twice to say whether he believed that teargas had or had not been thrown.

Finally Bell asked him: "Don't you think, based on your experience with this gas and your experience as an officer, that had teargas been thrown, the odor would have still been at the church by the time you got there?"

Yes, I would think so," answered the agent.

Two FBI agents investigated the incident shortly after the Negroes claimed it had occured, but the Justice Department only called Ford.

Also coming in for a share of cross examination by Leflore defense attorney was John Rosenburg a Justice Department attorney who promised the Negro group that bail would be provided for them if the federal suit fails to free them.

Bell questioned Rosenburg extensively on the report he sent of the incident on June 18 to Washington.

He asked Rosenburg whether the FBI agents had told him that they believed no teargas had been thrown and the attorney answered yes, he was familiar with the FBI report.

"Did you send the FBI information along with your report to Washington?" Bell asked.

"I don't remember, "Rsoenburg answered.

Also taking the stand yesterday was Robert Burns, Greenwood Negro who testified that he is under a suspended sentence for bigamy in Leflore County Circuit Court.

Burns subleased office space to Negro voter registration workers when they first arrived in Greenwood over a year ago.

Viola Burns took the stand and testified that Fraiser came to her and asked her to press charges against Burns for support money.

She told the court that she told

(Conetinued from Page 1)

Fraiser she didn't want Burns support. Then, she said, she was asked to sign a paper she later found out was an affidavit charging bigamy. She said when she learned about it she asked Fraiser to drop the charges.

Fraiser was put on the stand yesterday by the Justice Department as an adverse witness and asked about the prosecution of minors in the case involved in the hearing.

Fraiser said that the minors were certified to his court by the county youth court.

Didn't Smell Teargas, Says Investigator

GREENVILLE-- The testimony of a Leflore County official concerning an alleged 'teargas incident" in Itta Bena was backed up yesterday by a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent.

Robert B. Ford, a veteran of 16 years with the FBI, took the stand in U. S. District Court here following testimony by John Fraiser Jr.

Under cross examination he admitted that he "didn't think" a teargas bomb was thrown into Hopewell Church at Itta Bena on June 18 during a Negro voter registration meeting.

After yesterday afternoon's court session District Judge Claude Clayton recessed the hearing until 9 a.m. Friday. The U. S. Department of Justice has completed its case, John Doar, special assistant U. S. Attorney General for Civil Rights announced and Leflore County defense attorneys will begin presenting evidence on Friday.

Judge Clayton refused a Jusentered in the case as evidence tice Department request to have voter registration records of Leflore County.

Justice Department attorneys had asked that they be entered, but county defense attornies objected and Judge Clayton sustained the objection.

At issue is an injunction the Justice Department seeks against the county preventing interferrence with Negro vote drives. The suit also seeks to have freed from the county penal farm and Parchman State Penitentiary 45 Negroes arrested in Itta Bena on June 18 after a march in the downtown section.

The exchange on teargas came when Aubrey H. Bell, Leflore board of supervisors attorney cross examined Ford, the FBI agent.

Under direct examination by Doar, Ford had testified that he investigated the alleged incident at the church about an hour and a half after it was suoposed to have taken place. He said he didn't smell any teargas or anything else and added that he was familiar with the c' emical from "Numerous training sessions."

The Justice Department apparently called Ford to the stand only after attorneys learned that Fraiser had talked to him about his investigation.

Fraiser had testified earlier that Ford told him he could find no evidence of teargas at the church.

GREENWOOD COMMONWEALTH — JULY 16, 1963

Leflore City

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE"

Mrs. Bobby L. Chastain, 402 E. Harding, Greenwood, Mississippi

William Parks Smith, 413 W. Jefferson, Greenwood, Mississippi

Annie Mae Willis, 202 W. Henry, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. W. P. Smith, 413 W. Jefferson, Greenwood, Miss.

Mrs. Odie L. Bond, Lakeshore Drive, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Rev. James D. Amason, Rt. 1, Box 132E, Minter City, Mississippi

Abraham, Williams, 410 Bowie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

R. C. Robinson, 1213 Holloway, Greenwood, Mississippi

Chester Nichols, Gen. Del., Schlater, Mississippi

Annie Nichols, Schlater, Mississippi

Albert Whitehead, 101 McCain St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Michael K. Bransfield, Rt. 2, Box 304, Greenwood, Mississippi

Leon Wade, Rt. 2, Box 57, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Johnny Taylor, Rt. 2, Box 247, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Lester Young Holman, General Del. Morgan City, Mississippi

Arguster Brisco, 805 Dixie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Wm. E. Higginbotham, Wheeler St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Iguster Parker, 910 Burkhalter Alley, Greenwood, Mississippi.

Mary Frances Carpenter, 413½ Ave G, Greenwood, Mississippi

Zettie Lee Hill, 301 Short Ash, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Glenn Upchurch, Route 3, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. L. W. Fondren, P. O. Box 284, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Mrs. Charles Bennett, Sr., Route 1, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Mrs. Marcus F. (Jack) Meeks, 211 Virginia, Greenwood, Mississippi

Eartha Lene Gibson, Rt. 1, Box 137, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Virginia Smith, Rt. 2, Box 57, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Lena Gibson, Rt. 1, Box 137, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Robert E. Dilatush, Jr., 604 West Church, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. G. L. Cantrell, 413 Cotton St.,

G. L. Cantrell, 413 Cotton St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Miss Linda Dycus, 620 Cherokee, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Robert E. Dilatush, Jr. 604 W. Church, Greenwood, Mississippi

Lester W. Gardner, P. O. Box 145 Swiftown, Mississippi

Mrs. Lester W. Gardner, P. O. Box 145, Swiftown, Mississippi

Lemon Gulledge, 318 Stephens, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Cecil G. Ingram, Route 2, Malmaison Rd., Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. George R. Hankins, 205 Madison Place, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. James K. Gammill, 323 W. Monroe, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Marie McNeer, Rt. 2, Box 356, Greenwood, Mississippi

Minnie Mae Ray, Gen. Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Ruth Lolar Parker, Gen. Delivery, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Mrs. Herman Banks, 408 West Market, Greenwood, Mississippi

Ruth Jenelle Pollan, P. O. Box 36, Minter City, Mississippi

Mrs. Mack McGaugh, P.O. Box 126, Minter City, Mississippi

Lottie Duncan, 205 W. Taft, Greenwood, Mississippi

,Burle Franklin Peacock, 908 Dewey St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Frances Sue Bankston, RFD, Minter City, Mississippi ,

James R. Bankston, RFD, Minter City, Mississippi

Jerry T. Jordan, 510 Williamson, Greenwood, Miss.

Miss Shirley Brower, 1916 Grenada Blvd., Greenwood, Mississippi

O. D. Higginbotham, Rt. 1, Box 200, Schlater, Mississippi

Mrs. O. D. Higginbotham, Rt. 1, Box 200, Schlater, Mississippi

Mrs. Vada Duren, 1615 Carrollton Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi

Kittrell Smith, Jr., 915 McLean St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Charles Warren Makamson, P. O. Box 322, Sidon, Mississippi

James E. Landers, 1018 McLean St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Raymond E. Willhite, P.O. Box 363, Schlater, Mississippi

Mrs. Raymond E. Willhite, P. O. Box 363, Schlater, Mississippi

William F. Hankins, 702 Crockett, Greenwood, Mississippi

Willie O'Bryant, Jr., Rt. 1, Box 46, Sidon, Mississippi.

Mrs. F. W. Ray, 107 Luckett St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Clayton Minyard, 309 1st. Ave. North, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Jimmie Lee Tingle, Jr., 418 Hope St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Samuel G. Mounger, Jr., 122 Riverside Drive, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Gladys A. Nelson River Road Extended, Greenwood, Mississippi.

July 9-16.

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE"

John Wesley Porter, 914 Broad Street, Greenwood, Mississippi

Lewis Moore, 510 Avenue J, Greenwood, Mississippi

Ethel Lee Brady, 313 Young St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Miss Elizabeth Saunders, Runnymede Pltn., Itta Bena, Mississippi

Maggie R. Thomas, 410 Ash St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Sam Block, 708 Avenue N, Greenwood, Mississippi

Rebecca Edwards, 510½ E. McLauren, Greenwood, Mississippi

Willie Marie Hale, 616 St. Charles, Greenwood, Mississippi

Fannie Jones, 414½ Walker St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Nancy Williams, Rt. 2, Box 467, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Lucy T. Fultz, Rt. 2, Box 471, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Willie D. Archie, Rt. 2, Box 475, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Willis Wright, 406 West Scott, Greenwood, Mississippi

Carrie Davis, 221 E. Scott Greenwood, Mississippi

Annie Brown, 703 Rear Fulton, Greenwood, Mississippi

Lue Ginger Smith 118 West Gibbs, Greenwood, Mississippi

Allen Tarver, 807 Miller Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

Ozie L. Walker, 701 Miller Ave., Greenwood, Mississippi

Miss Rosemary Brock, 200 5th St., Apt. 3, Greenwood, Mississippi.

Marion L. Tackett, P. O. Box 45, Minter City, Mississippi

Mrs. Marion L. Tackett, P. O. Box 45, Minter City, Mississippi.

July 16-23, 2t.

VOLUME 47—NUMBER 267 Greenwood Commonwealth GREENWOOD, LEFLORE COUNTY, MISS., FRIDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 12, 1

Leflore City

Negroes Promised Aid Before Meet, Court Told

GREENVILLE— A 23-year-old Negro girl who is active in voter registeration efforts in Itta Bena testified in federal court here today that U. S. Justice Departments agents had promised her group protection and lawyers if they got into any trouble over their meetings.

Lucinda Ward, 23, told the court that she served as treasurer of a group of Negroes who met at Hope well Church to work for voter registration.

"Then you met, marched, and sang knowing that if you got into trouble the Justice Department would get you out?" Aubrey Bell attorney for the defendants asked on cross examination.

"Yes," answered the witness.

The U. S. Justice Department is seeking an injuncition against four Leflore County officials. The suit would enjoin them from interferring with voter registration activities and also asks that 45 Negroes arrested in Itta Bena on June 18 be released.

The defendants are Leflore County prosecuting attorney John Fraiser Jr., Deputy Sheriffs Harlow Pittman and H. E. Weber, and Leflore County Farm Director John Arterbury.

District Judge Claude Clayton is hearing the case.

Fraiser was called by Justice Department Attorney John Doar as an adverse witness He testified that he represented the state against the 45 persons arrested in Itta Bena.

Fraiser stated that some of those arrested were certified to his court by Youth Court as being under 15 years of age.

After Doar had questioned Frasier twice about whether he handled appeals from the Greenwood municipal court, Judge Clayton explained to Doar that Fraiser did not ordinarily handle municipal cases.

Fraiser also said that he had never threatened or intimidated any Negroes in Leflore County concerning their right to register.

He testified that he had talked with an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who investigated the Hopewell Church after the meeting June 18 when the Negroes claimed the meeting was broken up by 'teargas."

The agent told Fraiser that he found no signs of teargas at the Church when he got there.

Cora Campbell 56, of Itta Bena who was at the Hopewell meeting testified that her daughter who was also at the meeting was "knocked out" by the "teargas."

Earlier, several of the Negro witnesses arrested in downtown Itta Bena following a march from the church testified that all rock bottle throwing had been initiated by another group of Negroes, not associated with the voter registration drive.

Lucinda Ward said she saw Junior Dunlop, another Itta Bena Negro mentioned as one of the rock throwers by other witnesses put the "teargas in the church window.'

The group then marched from the church to downtown Itta Bena to seek protection from Weber, she said.

David Strong, 20-year-old Negro, testified he heard Weber tell another group of Negroes the week before the June 18 incident to "Knock the hell out of them" when they marched.

Strong also said he saw two white men in an alley before the rock throwing.

James Jones, 16, said he had seen the justice of the peace who later convicted the group on the fringes of the melee on June 18.

Under cross examination, Jones told Bell that Justice Department attorney, John Rosenburg, has told him bail would be arranged for everyone held in the Leflore penal farm if the federal suit failed.

Yesterday Rosenberg was intensively cross-examined by Bell concerning his investigation an affidavit which led to the Justice Department's suit.

Court was recessed at noon until 2 p.m. today.

Mississippi Herald 7-26-63

Officer Fires In Self Defense, Say Authorities

Lufkin Tx

TCHULA —Holmes County authorities said late yesterday that Tchula Town Marshal W. O. Moore was forced to shoot a Negro in self defense here Sunday night after the Negro had "run amok" in the Coxtown section.

The victim, Willie Joel Lovett, 20, had beaten several Negroes in the area and one of these, said Holmes Chief Deputy Sheriff Andrew Smith, called Moore to arrest Lovett.

It was reported here that Lovett had cut one Negro with a knife as well as beating others, but Smith's formal statement didn't mention the knife.

A complaint was made to the U. S. Department of Justice in Washington about Lovett's death and two Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from the Jackson office conducted a probe of the shooting.

Smith said Moore shot Lovett after the Negro had threatened to kill him and J. M. Bruce, a Tchula citizen whom Moore had deputized to go with him to arrest Lovett.

In the formal statement, Smith said:

"Late Sunday afternoon Willie Joel Lovett, Negro of Tchula, ran amok in the north end of Tchula and beat and choked sveeral Negroes.

"One of the Negroes who had been beaten by Lovett reported the matter to Marshall W. O. Moore of Tchula, who summoned J. M. Bruce to go with him to arrest Lovett.

"When the two officers approached Lovett, he cursed them, threatened to kill them and struck Mr. Bruce on his head and face and then made a felonious assault on Moore who shot Lovett in self defense."

Smith said he didn't know whether the FBI agents were satisfied with their investigation of the matter and he hadn't talked with them late yesterday.

The complaint to the Justice Department was understood to have been made by Zack Ball, a Negro heading up a voter registration drive in Holmes County.

Lovett, a hardware store employee, wasn't active in civil right efforts in the county.

Leflore Co. Greenwood Commonwealth 5-26-63

Negroes Make Appeal Bonds, Leave Prison

Five Negro women arrested for disturbances at the Leflore County courthouse last month were free from Parchman on $500 bond each today.

They were released from Parchman yesterday as Carsie Hall, Negro attorney from Jackson, began an appeal for some others arrested in Itta Bena on June 18 and at the courthouse later.

Those arrested in Itta Bena, all Negro voter registration workers, were the subject of a federal court hearing last week in which the Justice Department sought their release.

U. S. District Judge Claude Clayton denied the department's request for an order for their release.

His order has not been appealed, and Hall's appeal will apparently be through state court channels on the disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace charges of which the Negroes were convicted.

Making bond yesterday were Almeta Washington, Mary Booth, Ruby Wright, Mary Lane and Elizabeth Vassar.

Sheriff John Ed Cothron refused a bond for Lawrence Guyot. Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee leader, on grounds that the person signing it "didn't have anything to back it up.

Guyot and the five women were among 22 being held at Parchman after they went on a sit-down strike at the county penal farm.

Police Exceed Budget Because Of Race Crisis

City Council met in regular session this morning at City Hall.

The Council announced that due to the recent racial demonstrations, the Police Department spent $8,800 over their regular budget.

The money was used for overtime wages, new equipment and materials.

"This is the only time it has ever gone over the budgeted amount," said Buff Hammond, city commissioner.

Mississippi In Brief –

Greenwood Commonwealth

U. S. Judge Rejects Justice Request That Books Be Opened

Tylorville 7-27-63

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A district federal judge has rejected a request that he order the Hinds County Jackson voter registrar to reopen his books for additional registrations.

The suit was filed by Negro civil rights leaders, who have been pushing a drive to register Negro votes here.

"The court has no power to issue an injunction under these circumstances," said Judge William H. Cox. "There is no substantial evidence of any outward or subtle discrimination. A present right to vote in any immediate election is not involved."

County officials said voters registering now would not be eligible to vote in the Aug. 6 Demochatic primary anyhow and the crowds waiting outside the registrar's office were an inconvenience.

Judge Cox, in an opinion filed Friday, agreed that the registration drive, "did make for an almost impossible situation" in the courthouse corridor outside the circuit clerk's office.

The clerk doubles as voter registrar.

▲ ▲ ▲

nesday against pending civil rights legislation. McLaurin was invited by Sen. Storm Thurmond, D-S. C., who has taken the lead in questioning witnesses in an effort to defeat the proposals.

March Suit Defendant List Pruned

GREENVILLE— U. S. District Judge Claude Clayton yesterday narrowed the number of defendants in a Justice Department suit filed here during the city's racial crisis last spring.

The suit, a request for a temporary restraining order and a permanent injunction against interferrence with Negro voter marches, was delayed last spring after Greenwood officials and Justice Department attorneys came to an agreement.

The suit was reset for hearing in October.

Yesterday Judge Clayton dismissed as defendants in the suit John Fraiser Jr., county prosecuting attorney, and Leflore County. He took the action in sustaining motions brought by attorneys Bell and McBee on behalf of Leflore County and by Lott and Sanders on behalf of Fraiser.

Among other defendants in the suit were the city of Greenwood, Chief of Police Curtis Lary and other officials.

The suit was filed at the height of the so called 'voter marches' here. Shortly before the hearing was to begin, the court announced that the city and Justice Department had reached a truce in the matter until October.

The suit will apparently be heard on its merits as to the remaining defendants on a date in that month to be set later.

The "truce' last spring was credited by some observers as easing the racial crisis at that time.

Greenwood Commonwealth

Leflore Cty

7-27-63

Greenwood Commonwealth

Lawyer Slams C-R Bill In Rotary Talk

7-30-63

Leflore Cty

"If the Civils Rights Bill now before Congress is passed, it will make the gestapo under Hitler look like a mild regime."

Those were the words of attorney A. H. Bell yesterday at the Greenwood Rotary Club as he talked about Senate Bill 1731, the ominibus Civil Rights Bill presented to Congress by President Kennedy.

Bell, attorney for the Board of Supervisors, told Rotarians that the current Civil Rights Bill passed by Congress in 1955, deals with just voting.

"If it is shown that a pattern or practice exists, which attempts in any way to intimidate persons to prevent them from registering to vote, the attorney general has the right to file a suit. He can file a suit against an individual, a state, county or city.

"At the present time there are now three suits pending against Leflore County under this bill," Bell said.

He said a suit filed against the state and seven voting registrars in the state, in which Mrs. Martha Lamb of Greenwood is a defendent, will probably be tried this fall. If the suit is lost by the state and the voting registrars, it will nullify all constitutional amendments passed by the Legislature and people since 1955 in regard to voting in Mississippi.

"It will place the state back under the 1890 Constitution with laws of that time governing voting," Bell said.

Bell then went on to discuss the new Civil Rights Bill now before Congress.

"This is a package deal. It not only deals with voting, but takes in schools, employment, public accomodations and seeks to grant unlimited powers to the attorney general," he said.

Under the section on voting Bell said, "If 15 per cent of a class of people feel that they are being discriminated against and are not registered, the attorney general can file a suit. While this suit is pending a temporary referee may be appointed and anyone in that class would be permitted to register and vote while the suit is pending .

"An order would be entered authorizing those persons to be qualified voters if they had fullfilled the residency and age requirements. If the case is lost by the government, then those people qualified under this procedure would be removed from the rolls as qualified voters. Can you imagine what would happen in Greenwood if a suit was filed here near an election?" Bell asked.

He then discussed the public accomodations section of the bill which deals with hotels, motels, restuarants, cafeterias, sports arenas and recreations facilities.

"Never in the history of this nation has one man been given so much power — not even the president of the United States," Bell said. He was making reference to a section in the bill in which the attorney general would be able to file suit wherever he felt a pattern or a practice exists.

"Don't think for one minute they won't file a suit. They would fly three jet bombers from Alaska to Greenwood to bring evidence if they wanted. They will go to no end and they will spend untold amounts of money for just one case. When we were in Greenville trying the suits filed against the county I counted seven lawyers from the justice department and three of them were Negroes,' Bell said.

Bell warned the Rotarians that would affect everyone and his business. He urged each member the present bill before Congress of the club to write to friends in other sections of the country to write to their Congressmen and Senators urging the rejection of the bill.

Greenwood Commonwealth
7-30-63
Leflore Cty

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE"

Joseph Ellis Burton, Rt 1 Box 238, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Ella Mae Nelson 111 Young St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Ewell Dale Buford, 601 Bowie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Ewell Dale Buford, 601 Bowie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

Glen H. Naramore, Rt 2 Box 328A, Greenwood, Mississippi

Nora Pew, 707 Walthall, Greenwood, Mississippi

Louvie McCrainy, 618 Howard St. Greenwood, Mississippi

Annie Mae King, 707 Walthall St., Greenwood Missssippi

Mrs. Joe Dan Edwards, 620 Cypress, Greenwood, Mississippi

Hattie May Woodly, 310½ Short, Greenwood, Mississippi

Almeada Mitchell, 705 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Eva Purnell, 707 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi

James A. Grantham, 207 10th St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Felix Louis Mitchell, 705 Broad Street, Greenwood, Mississippi

Gable Taylor, 110 W. Taft, Greenwool, Mississippi

Leemy Greer, 1112 Main St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Susie Brooks, 115 E. Gibbs, Greenwood, Mississippi

Terry Lee Butler, Jr., 1006 East Lawn Drive, Greenwiod, Mississippi

July 30-Aug 6

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE"

Alice Wise, 314 Ash St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Willie Moore, 415 Ave G, Greenwood, Mississippi

Talton Woodard, 309 Ave F, Greenwood, Mississippi

Julia Flowers, 316 Ash St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Alice Lee Wright, 619 Ave K, Greenwood, Mississippi

Lula Bell Johnson, 317 Noel St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Lula Mathews, 604 Walthall, Greenwood, Mississippi

Ollie Brown Sims, 106 W. Taft, Greenwood, Mississippi

Viola Hunter, 618 Ave I, Greenwood, Mississippi

Jimmie Coleman, Rt 1 Box 52A, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mary Frances Carpenter, 413½ Ave G, Greenwood, Mississippi

Milton Duncan, 406 W Scott, Greenwood, Mississippi

Louise Robinson, 204 Noel St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Hattie Mae Lucas, 704½ Ave K, Greenwood, Mississippi

Frankie Lee Wiggins, 704 Ave K, Greenwood, Mississippi

Eddie Mae Matthews, 617 State St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Irene Mitchell, 512 Ave J, Greenwood, Mississippi

Morgree Common, 312 Palace, Greenwood, Mississippi

Pearl Lee Ross, Rt 1 Box 276, Greenwood, Mississippi

Elvira Brown, Rt 1 Box 346, Greenwood, Mississippi

Adelle Hemphill, Rt. 1 Box 346, Greenwood, Mississippi

Jessie Rogers, 701 Roosevelt, Greenwood, Mississippi

Frankie Dunlap, 616 Roosevelt, Greenwood, Mississippi

Ida Mae Gibson, 608 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Frank Washington, Box 295, Sidon, Mississippi

Mary Hattie Perry, 606 Ave L, Greenwood, Mississippi

Maggie Johnson, 915 Howard St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Isaiah Triplet, 924 St. Charles, Greenwood, Mississippi

Pearlie Reaves, 911 Cotton St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Dolly Mae Davis, 416 Ave G, Greenwood, Mississippi

August 5,12

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE"

Joseph Ellis Burton, Rt 1 Box 238, Itta Bena, Mississippi

Ella Mae Nelson 111 Young St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Ewell Dale Buford, 601 Bowie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

Mrs. Ewell Dale Buford, 601 Bowie Lane, Greenwood, Mississippi

Glen H. Naramore, Rt 2 Box 328A, Greenwood, Mississippi

Nora Pew, 707 Walthall, Greenwood, Mississippi

Louvie McCrainy, 618 Howard St. Greenwood, Mississippi

Annie Mae King, 707 Walthall St., Greenwood Missssippi

Mrs. Joe Dan Edwards, 620 Cypress, Greenwood, Mississippi

Hattie May Woodly, 310½ Short, Greenwood, Mississippi

Almeada Mitchell, 705 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Eva Purnell, 707 Broad St., Greenwood, Mississippi

James A. Grantham, 207 10th St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Felix Louis Mitchell, 705 Broad Street, Greenwood, Mississippi

Gable Taylor, 110 W. Taft, Greenwool, Mississippi

Leemy Greer, 1112 Main St., Greenwood, Mississippi

Susie Brooks, 115 E. Gibbs, Greenwood, Mississippi

Terry Lee Butler, Jr., 1006 East Lawn Drive, Greenwiod, Mississippi

July 30-Aug 6

Greenwood Commonwealth 8-6-63

Non-Registered Negroes Bring 'Ballots' To Polls

A group of 130 Negroes, none qualified voters in the city or county, came to the City Hall. in groups of five and six they went into the voting place where they presented an affidavit and a ballot, already marked, to an election manager.

The affidavit and ballot were then placed in another envelope and placed into a box.

The Negroes were not given regular ballots, election officials said because they are not qualified and are not entitled to the ballots.

A large group of people gathered at the city hall when Negroes arrived but there was no difficulty and police officers merely stood by and watched the procession.

Greenwood Commonwealth
p-6 - 63

Leflore Cty

New Face Joins Prosecuting Team

Greenwood Commonwealth 8-8-63

A new team will be prosecuting cases in Circuit Court here when it convenes here next year.

John J. Fraiser, county prosecuting attorney for the past 12 years was re-elected to that office again and George Everett a retired Federal Bureau of Investigation agent was elected to the office of District Attorney.

Fraiser, 37, a native of Sunnyside, has been practicing law in Leflore county for the past 15 years His victory over Gray Evans, city prosecuting attorney, was a one sided affair with Fraiser receiving 3.988 to Evans 1,991. The race was never in doubt once the returns started coming in Tuesday night. Fraiser carried every box in the city and county and was never in danger of losing his lead.

The campaign between Fraiser and Evans was based on the question of experience. Fraiser in all of his campaign talks and advertisements stressed his years in office and experience.

Both Fraiser and Evans are defendents in federal civil rights cases and this issue was brought into the campaign also.

Everett, making his first venture into politics, was an FBI agent for 22 years before resigning to make his campaign.

A native of Indianola, he is the son of the late Frank E. Everett who served as Chancellor and Circuit Judge. He has a brother, Frank E. Everett, Jr., in Vicksburg who is a practicing attorney. Everett is a graduate of Ole Miss, and has been living in Greenwood for about 15 years.

EVERETT (LEFT) AND FRAISER NEW TEAM

The totals in this race gave Everett 12,159 to James Bridges 11,671. The present district attorney, Parham Williams Jr. of Lexington, was not seeking re-election to this office.

Leflore Cty. News Clips

Afro World

Ballots Filed By Miss. Negroes Ruled Invalid

8-14-63

Leflore Cty

GREENWOOD, Mississippi—Field secretaries of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee reported Thursday that all ballots cast by disenfranchised Negroes here and in Itta Bena have been declared invalid.

Dick Frye, a SNCC field worker, said that according to Hugh Middleton executive secretary of the Leflore County Democratic Party Executive Board, ballots cast by Negroes here will "not be counted."

Middleton said, "Each ballot has been examined by the Board and they are all not qualified to vote in the election under the laws of Mississippi so none will be counted."

Some 400 Negroes in Greenwood and 150 Negroes in Itta Bena filed affidavits and ballots at the two respective polling places. The affidavits were to the effect they they had been denied the right to vote, which is itself contrary to Mississippi state law.

In Ruleville, Mississippi, three field secretaries for SNCC were arrested on August 6, the morning of the state primary election. Curti Hayes, Charles McLaurin and Charles Cobb had gone to ask the election manager to inquire about polling procedures and to see if they could be poll-watchers [illegible] were arrested at the request of Ruleville Mayor C. M. Dorrough. Mayor Dorrough presided at their trial which, Cobb said "took 30 seconds," and charged with "interfering with an election." The three were sentenced to 30 days in jail and 100 fine each.

John Lewis, SNCC chairman, strongly protested the arrests to Assistant Attorney General Burke Marshall.

Leflore Cty
News Clips

Greenwood Commonwealth 9-25-62

FBI Team Checks White Voters Here

A team of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were in Leflore County today interviewing white residents on their applications to vote.

The team of agents recently completed a similar survey in Clarksdale.

A woman in Itta Bena was interviewed yesterday relative to her application to vote made in 1959. She is a registered voter. The agents had a photostatic copy of her 1959 application and asked "a number of questions about it."

The agent in charge of the team couldn't be located for comment this morning, but it was believed they are gathering evidence on orders from the Justice Department to be used in a voter registration suit brought by the department seeking to wipe out Mississippi's registration provisions.

Six circuit clerks in the state, including Leflore County's Mrs. Martha Lamb, are defendants in the suit before the U. S. District Court in Jackson. The suit also names several high state officials as defendants.

Members of the Leflore County Bar Association, in view of the current investigation, today reminded citizens of their constitutional rights in case of being approached by FBI agents.

"A citizen is under no legal obligation at any time to answer any questions asked by an investigator about anything except in a court hearing or at a court connected proceeding," the bar group's statement said.

"For example, if an FBI agent or other investigator contacts a citizen at home, at work, on the street, or elsewhere, such citizen can, if he wishes, advise the investigator that he doesn't wish to answer any questions and can legally refuse to do so."

The bar group's statement points out that the FBI is an "efficient and honorable" organization and urges all citizens to cooperate with the agency in criminal and subversive investigations.

"On the other hand," the statement continues, "we do point out that when the FBI or another agency is ordered to make an investigation, not against a criminal, but under Federal Civil Rights legislation ,a citizen can legally stand silent and refuse to answer any questions, harmless as such questions may appear about voting, schools, employment, or anything whatsoever."

Leflore Cty. News Clips

Greenville Commonwealth

14 Are Jailed

6/24/63

INDIANOLA, Miss. (AP) — Police held 14 white persons and Negroes today on charges of distributing leaflets without a permit when they were found issuing copies of the Mississippi Free Press.

The 14 were handing out the weekly newspaper, published in Jackson, on behalf of Aaron Henry, of Clarksdale, state president of the NAACP. Henry is campaigning for governor as a write-in candidate. State law does not provide for write-ins.

Those arrested Tuesday included two Yale University students who were among 15 who came to the state to campaign for Henry.

Bonds were set at $50 each.

All except the Yale students were from the Greenwood area.

A spokesman said the trial was expected to be scheduled today. Maximum penalty is six months in jail and $50 fine.

✣ ✣ ✣

Negro Mock Election Rally Is Held Here

Negro Civil Rights organizations brought their "gubernatorial" campaign to Leflore County last night at a mass meeting at the Elks Rest on Scott Street.

Nearly 1,000 Negroes crowded into the Elk auditorium to hear Aaron Henry explain the purpose of mock election Civil Rights groups have called for Sunday, November 3, three days before Mississippi chooses between Democratic and Republican candidates for governor.

Henry, Clarksdale druggist, is state president of the NAACP, and is the candidate in the mock election.

Also on hand were seven students of Yale University, New Haven, Conn., who are in Mississippi "helping in the campaign."

They were recruited at Yale for one week's work in the "campaign." Others have been recruited on a week-to-week basis.

Henry told the audience that the "campaign" was planned to put pressure in Washington behind the Kennedy administration's Civil Rights package by showing that 'given the opportunity Negroes in Mississippi will vote."

He said a goal of a minimum of 100,000 mock votes have been set.

Negro churches will be used as balloting places for the voting and Henry urged Leflore County Negroes to 'do your part to see that the goal is reached."

'Congressmen from states like the Dakotas that don't have a Negro problem are being told that Negroes don't vote because they don't want to," he said. 'They believe it. This campaign was planned as something dramatic to show that they will.

Henry charged that a 'climate of racial hatred" resulted in the killing last week of a white service station attendant in Jackson by a Leflore County Negro.

"What can you expect when Lt. Gov. Johnson is elected on how he treats the Negro and Rubel Phillips campaigns on how much worse he and Barry Goldwater can treat us," he said.

Along with the "governor's election" local Negroes, most of them leaders of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, will hold a mock election for local and district offices.

Cleve Jordan for sheriff; Andrew Jordan for superintendent of education; Willie Peacock for district attorney; the Rev. R. L. Rucker for county attorney; and the Rev. D. L. Tucker for state senator.

Greenwood Commonwealth 10/23/63

pie

Greenville Delta Democrat-Times

100,000 Vote

11-5-63

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A leader in the statewide mock election to name a Negro governor of Mississippi says more than 100,000 persons voted Sunday and Monday at churches clubs.

Allard K. Lowestein, a white professor from North Carolina State who served as chairman of the election advisory committee, Monday night termed the make-believe vote 'a great success."

He said the high count of both registered and non-registered voters, mostly Negroes, showed that Negroes in the state would vote if given the chance.

Of some 435,000 Negroes of voting age, an estimated 25,000 are registered voters.

Lowestein said returns would not be made public until after the official returns of today's state general election.

Aaron Henry of Clarksdale, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, campaigned as a write-in candidate for governor in the mock election. State law makes no provision for write-in candidates except in the case of a death before an election.

Some 50 white Yale students participated actively in the campaign.

Several campaign workers were arrested during the past two weeks, mostly on charges of [illegible] distributing literature [illegible] of the [illegible] to move.

Warning To Negroes

YAZOO CITY, Miss. (AP)—Mayor Harry Applebaum warned that Yazoo City would "enforce its laws and prevent any disturbances" by Negro civil rights groups in the area.

The warning came after campaign workers for Negro gubernatorial candidate Aaron Henry were in the area distributing handbills.

Mayor Applebaum said the campaign workers were "evidently expecting to create an incident or provoke a disturbance and [illegible] publicity as possible.

"They [illegible] police department and [illegible] to create a disturbance and advised of our ordinance against circulating handbills and tracts without a permit," Applebaum said.

Henry is running as a write-in candidate for governor.

Leflore City News Clip

Greenwood Commonwealth 11-19-63

Judge Sets Trial Dates

Circuit Judge Arthur Clark, Jr., has set next Tuesday as the trial date for William H. Greenlee and Wesley Kersey, indicted during the May term of court on a charge of shooting into a car carrying three Negro voter registration workers near here.

The trial is expected to last one to two days.

On Friday of next week the case involving five students from Mississippi Vocational College will be tried. In this case five Negroes are charged with assault and battery with intent when they tried to run down with a car several white youths attempting a 50 mile hike.

Both of these cases were continued from the last term of court.

Leflore City News clips

Greenwood Commonwealth 11-26-63

Vote Worker Shooting Case Continued Here

File Defense Clips

Circuit Judge Arthur Clark Jr. granted a second delay yesterday in the trial of William H. Greenlee charged with shooting into an automobile containing three Negro voter registration workers last February.

The indictment handed down last May charged Greenlee and Wesley Kersey with shooting with intent to commit murder against Jimmy Travis.

A similar delay was granted in the case against five Negro students from Mississippi Vocational College charged with attempting to run down several white youths as they took part in a fifty mile hike.

The motion for delay of the Greenlee case was presented yesterday afternoon to Judge Clark by attorney A. H. Bell. This was the second time this year that Bell had presented a motion for a delay in the trial.

During the May term he claimed that his client could not receive a fair trial because of the strong feelings between the races. He cited then that racial demonstrations in Greenwood and the state and surrounding states had created this situation.

The motion filed yesterday pointed out in jurdical terms how the President of the United States had been assassinated in Dallas on Friday, November 22, and how the suspect Lee Oswald held for this crime was killed while being transfered under heavy police guard.

The motion stated: "As a result thereof feeling is intense against a person who is charged with a similar act, that is shooting at a person from ambush, secret or hidden places of advantage; that defendent is advised that proof in this case to be presented by the State will show that some person riding in a motor vehicle overtook and shot into a voter registration workers were riding.

"That by radio, TV and press, impressions of people all over the United States and world have been annonuced and recorded as expressing the deepest shock and indignation over the crime that took the President's life. The people of Mississippi are peculiarly affected by the act inasmuch as its citizens and its officials were well known opponents of the late President's Civil Rights Program. It is believed that any Mississippian charged with an act involving races could not at this time get a fair and impartial trial such as contemplated by the law and guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and Mississippi."

After the motion had been presented to Judge Clark, District Attorney George Everett told the court the State was ready for the trial, but would not oppose the merits of the motion.

After granting the motion the court with the agreement of the State granted a similar delay to the five Negro students from Mississippi Vocational College. Representing the Negroes was Howard Dyer, a Greenville attorney.

Greenlee was indicted last May by the Grand Jury along with Wesley Kersey also charged with shooting with intent to commit murder against Travis.

During the May term of this year Kersey was granted a severance of his case by Judge Clark and his case was to nave been tried separately from Greenlee's.

Kersey's case was not scheduled for this session of court.

Commercial Appeal
12-10-63

Vote Record Suit

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department asked U.S. District Court here Monday to order Jasper County voter registration records opened for inspection.

The suit charged the registrar, Victor H. Hosey of Bay Springs, declined on Nov. 4 to allow an inspection.

Hosey, in Bay Springs, said he had never denied a Negro the right to apply for registration and federal officials would find nothing illegal in his operations.

✦ ✦ ✦

Mississippi In Brief –

Greenwood Commonwealth 1/29/64

Dad And Little Joe Join Boycott Of State Show

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Lorne Greene and Michael Landon Tuesday joined their "Bonanza" co-star Dan Blocker in cancelling appearances here Feb. 1-2 because of segregated seating policies in the state.

Blocker pulled out the previous day.

Lew Heilbronner, manager of Broadcast Station WJQS, said he received a telegram from all three stars of the television western Tuesday.

Blocker's withdrawal had been announced earlier by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

'I probably will have a statement after we evaluate the situation," Heilbronner said.

He had previously said that Donna Douglas of televisions "Beverly Hillbillies" would substitute for Blocker.

✣ ✣ ✣

Youths Returned To Police Court

The Leflore County Youth Court this morning sent the cases of four Negro juveniles back to city police court for further action.

The youths, all 17 were arrested here last week in front of the courthouse when they refused to obey the orders of police chief Curtis Lary. They were part of a group of 14 arrested as they picketed in front of the building.

Action on the youths' cases in police court will not be taken until after U. S. District Judge Claude Clayton has ruled whether he will take jurisdiction over the cases.

The four are part of a group that filed in district court to have the federal court take jurisdiction over their cases under the U. S. Civil Rights Act.

Judge Clayton is expected to hold hearings this week and rule whether he will take jurisdiction over the case or refuse and allow the local courts to handle the cases.

The four were all charged with disorderly conduct.

Greenwood Commonwealth 4/6/62

Leflore County News Clips

"APPLICANTS FOR REGISTRATION TO VOTE"

Ethel Shaw, 101 McNeill St., Greenwood, Miss.

Mrs. Herman Banks, 408 W. Market, Greenwood, Miss.

Rev. Agee Al... V.R.D.

Greenwood, Miss.

Will Barnes, 505 Broad St., Greenwood, Miss.

Robert Webster, 410 E McLaurin, Greenwood Miss.

Henrietta Matthews, 725 Ave K, Greenwood, Miss.

Carrie Davis, 221 E Scott, Greenwood, Miss.

Eldora Freeman, 113 Longino St., Greenwood, Miss.

Letha Virden, 108 Elm St., Greenwood, Miss.

Abron Woodley, 508 E. McLaurin, Greenwood, Miss.

William Henry Jones, 404 E. McLaurin, Greenwood, Miss.

Cordie Wade, 318 Stephenson, Greenwood, Miss.

Eula Bell Fletcher, 311 Stephenson, Greenwood, Miss.

Sarah Brock, 1006 Ave F, Greenwood, Miss.

Alberta Barnett, 209 E Mclaurin, Greenwood, Miss.

Leon Lipsey, 427 W Percy, Greenwood, Miss.

Lula Bell Johnson, 317 Noel St., Greenwood, Miss.

Irene Cooley, 322 Stephenson, Greenwood, Miss.

Curley B. Edwards, 112 Young St., Greenwood, Miss.

Louvenia Walls, 206 Young St., Greenwood, Miss.

Walter McCraney, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Miss.

Zola Grant, Kelley Ave., Greenwood, Miss.

Annie White, General Del., Itta Bena, Miss.

Lue Ginger Smith, 118 West Gibbs Greenwood, Miss.

Rebecca Barcus, Gen. Delivery, Itta Bena, Miss.

Joe Golliday, 207 W. Henry, Greenwood, Miss.

May Bell Wins, 114 West Gibbs, Greenwood, Miss.

Eligha Weatherspoon, 114 West Gibbs, Greenwood, Miss.

Frank Clark, 116 West Gibbs, Greenwood, Miss.

Eugene Daniels, General Delivery, Greenwood, Miss.

Dennis Bevel, Box 675, Itta Bena, Miss.

John Williams, 215 East Percy, Greenwood, Miss.

Sol Gray, General Delivery, Greenwood, Miss.

Walter Baker, 217 West Henry, Greenwood, Miss.

Mary Diggs, Box 469, S. Sidon, Miss.

Ruby M Ware, 403 Pelican, Greenwood, Miss.

Otha Grace, 613 Ave. F, Greenwood, Miss.

Rosie Lee Loyd, Gen. Del. Itta Bena, Miss.

Theodore McGee 310 Pelican, Greenwood, Miss.

Rachel Martin, 712 East Ave., Greenwood, Miss.

Laura Tolderin, Box 552, Itta Bena, Miss.

Atlean Franklin, 1102 Broad, Greenwood, Miss.

Annie Bell Payne, P. O. Box 558, Itta Bena, Miss.

Julia Tillis, 113 East Henry, Greenwood, Miss.

Mary Ledbetter, 726 Howard St., Greenwood, Miss.

Leonia Keyes, 311 McCain, Greenwood, Miss.

Pinkie Davis, 110 Pelican, Greenwood, Miss.

Bobbie Nell Maggett, 511 Ave F., Greenwood, Miss.

Louella Loyd (Lowry), 218 W. Scott, Greenwood, Miss.

Lottie Duncan, 205 W. Taft, Greenwood, Miss.

John Henry Wright, 201 W Taft, Greenwood, Miss.

Creola Loggins, 202 Vardaman, Greenwood, Miss.

Cora Rogers, 328 Noel, Greenwood, Miss.

Homer Rogers, 328 Noel, Greenwood, Miss.

Rosie Freeman, Rt. 1 Box 338, Greenwood, Miss.

Ardellia W. Lucus, 706 Ave L, Greenwood, Miss.

Polly Barnes, 505 Broad, Greenwood, Miss.

Hemmingway, Alice P O Box 686, Itta Bena, Miss.

Ethel Lee Jones, 404 East McLaurin, Greenwood, Miss.

Lorene Ivey Brown, 507 Ave I, Greenwood, Miss.

Will Greer, 909 Ave F, Greenwood, Miss.

Hattie Barnes, 715 Fulton, Greenwood, Miss.

Eva Purnell, 707 Broad, Greenwood, Miss.

Hattie Mae Spells, 709 Broad, Greenwood, Miss.

Columbus Walker, 317 Ave G, Greenwood, Miss.

Lillie Miller, Rt 1 Box 319, Greenwood, Miss.

Rosie Triplett, Gen. Del., Itta Bena, Miss.

Johnnie Mae Shepherd, P.O. Box 569, Itta Bena, Miss.

Jessie Miller, Rt. 1, Box 319, Greenwood, Miss.

Mamie Nichols, 130 Vardaman, Greenwood, Miss.

Gus Austin, 105 Grant St., Itta Bena, Miss.

Mattie Nash, Rt 1 Box 304, Greenwood, Miss.

Clara Dorris, Gen. Del., Itta Bena, Miss.

Blanche Edwards, P O Box 889, Itta Bena, Miss.

Carrie H Outlaw, 802 Ave G, Greenwood, Miss.

Jeff Brown, 509 Ave F, Greenwood, Miss.

Mary Cathryn Strong, Box 593, Itta Bena, Miss.

Mary Ann Hendrix, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Miss.

Sam Harris, Box 685, Itta Bena, Miss.

Bessie Tate, 216 Ave G., Greenwood, Miss.

Albert Tate, 216 Ave G, Greenwood, Miss.

Fannie McClain, Box 486, Sidon, Miss.

Willie B Peacock, 708 Ave N, Greenwood, Miss.

John Spearman, 616 Ave I, Greenwood, Miss.

Annie Mae King, 707 Walthall, Greenwood, Miss.

Caroline Pitchford, 712 Broad, Greenwood, Miss.

Bertha James Griffin Harris, 211 Vardaman, Greenwood, Miss.

Octavia Granderson, 601 Miller, Greenwood, Miss.

Flieszella Strong, Box 593, Itta Bena, Miss.

Pleas Moore, General Delivery, Itta Bena, Miss.

Lizzie Henderson, 830 Dixie Lane, Greenwood, Miss.

Susie Brown, 1219 East Lawn D., Greenwood, Miss.

Rebecca Edwards, 407 Ave F Rear, Greenwood, Miss.

Emma Moy, Rt 1 Box 91, Itta Bena, Miss.

Leonia Virginia Luckett, P O Box 624, Itta Bena, Miss.

S. J. Foster, 307 Palace, Greenwood, Miss.

Willie Lee Cannon, Box 652, Itta Bena, Miss.

Mose Harper, Gen Delivery, Itta Bena, Miss.

Mary L. Mitchell, 535 Ave H, Greenwood, Miss.

Laura Mae George, 810 Broad St., Greenwood, Miss.

Dorothy Lovelace Weathers, 920 Howard St., Greenwood, Miss.

Martha Ann Saffold, Rt 2 Box 479, Itta Bena, Miss.

Mar.31-Apr. 7

Leflore Cty News Clips

Newsweek 4/8/63

Leflore County, bare-armed Negroes crisscrossed the fields on tractors, breaking the black Delta soil for still another cotton crop.

But Greenwood had become a theater of war, a likely successor to Little Rock and Albany, Ga., and Oxford, Miss., as landmarks in the Negro's long, painful revolt against discrimination. The issue was the right to vote—a right shared by 92.5 per cent of the county's 10,274 eligible whites and only 1.9 per cent of the 13,567 eligible Negroes. If they seemed to be pursuing an abstraction, the Negroes—and their allies in Washington—had come to regard the vote as the key to the bread-and-butter rewards of equality. And they had picked tough, intransigent Leflore County for the facedown—the "testing ground for democracy."

All last week, as they had for seven months, registration canvassers drove the dirt roads after dark, looking for prospects. All week, in increasing numbers, Negroes rallied in their brick and clapboard churches, fortified themselves with speeches and prayers and freedom songs, and marched downtown to register. All week, Leflore fought back, and the strands of tension drew taut.

Night Riders: First, on Sunday night, a fire broke out in the cramped campaign office on McLaurin Street. Tuesday, after dark, night riders trailed 19-year-old George Greene and two fellow canvassers to the Greene home and fired two shotgun blasts. One narrowly missed Greene; the other stitched a dozen holes over a bedroom mantel. Was Greene frightened? "You're gonna die anyway," he shrugged, "so it might as well be for the cause of freedom."

The fire was the second in a month, the shooting the third. But the next morning, 100 Negroes marching from church to city hall to protest met a new adversary: a police dog.

A policeman—one of a dozen lined up outside the buff-brick city hall—held the German shepherd on a long leather leash. Mayor Sampson, a beefy, cigar-puffing member of the segregationist Citizens Council, warned: "I'll give you two minutes to get out . . . If you don't, we are going to turn the dog loose."

The Negroes stood fast, and the police moved in, shoving them back. Lunging into the crowd, the dog knocked one Negro down and ripped open one leg of campaign director Robert Moses' trousers. Police arrested two leaders at the scene on disorderly conduct charges, tailed the others back to church, and prodded nine more into patrol cars. (By the weekend, eight were convicted and given the maximum penalties—four months in jail and $200 fines.) With knots of sullen whites clustered around the courthouse square, the street was barricaded and the registration office closed. But when it reopened that afternoon, 100 Negroes were there, filing inside to fill out registration forms.

The dog was back next morning as the Rev. D.L. Tucker led 42 Negroes double-file from the courthouse back to church. They had gone two blocks when police cars pulled up. "All right," the dog handler yelled, "break it up and go on, or I'm going to turn him loose." As the Negroes rounded the corner, the dog bounded at Tucker. The minister fell, clutching his bitten left ankle. Two marchers crossed hands to make a seat for him and carried him off. "Sic 'em, dog!" onlookers shouted. "Let him git the niggers!"

Still the ritual procession downtown went on. Leflore was tough, and the vote workers had precious little to show: two new Negro voters on the rolls. But the harder Leflore fought, the more Negroes turned out for the nightly church rallies—and joined the daily pilgrimage to the courthouse.

'I'm Not Going Home': "The days are over when they can shoot people and burn them out, and they are gonna learn it," Bob Moses told 1,000 cheering Negroes at one church meeting. And the dog? "That dog is going to have to bite every Negro in Leflore County before we quit," the Rev. James Bevel told 2,000 more. Was the road long? "Every time a Negro stands in line and says, 'I'm tired but I'm not going home,' the walls of segregation begin to tremble," Bevel cried. "Amen," the Negroes chanted back, and they sang: "Woke up this morning with my mind on freedom, hallelujah!"

But the Negroes needed more than songs and slogans, and their leaders knew it. The channels of communication were shut down; Mayor Sampson predictably blamed "outside agitators" for the trouble in Greenwood, and he had his own prescription: "We'll just have to load up the jail." So the Negroes looked for help elsewhere—in Washington. All week they chafed as a Justice Department fact-finding team of FBI men and lawyers prowled Greenwood. Finally, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy sent an aide to seek a Federal court order requiring local officials to end "intimidation" of Negroes, free the eight prisoners—and call off the dog.

Associated Press

Testing Ground: Tucker leads Negroes to voting registration

N.B. this is an official document compiled by Commission on Civil Rights — not for release

WB ✓
JMV
SP

APPENDIX

CHRONOLOGY OF RECENT EVENTS DIRECTLY AFFECTING CIVIL RIGHTS IN GREENWOOD, MISSISSIPPI

DATE	EVENT
11/6/61	Judicial decree ordering desegregation of Greyhound Bus Terminal in Greenwood.
4/1/62	Formal beginning of Voter Education Project in Atlanta, Georgia, with grant funds allocated to voter registration activities in Mississippi Delta.
6/30/62	Decision by Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to admit James Meredith to University of Mississippi.
Early July/62	Team of SNCC workers, including Samuel Block, formally organized voter registration activities in Greenwood.
7/9/62	Decision by Leflore County Board of Supervisors to omit winter surplus food program from 1962-63 budget.
7/21/62	Samuel Block reported to Mississippi Free Press that Curtis Crosby died on county work farm as result of beating.
8/11/62	Thirteen Negroes filled out voter registration forms in Greenwood.
8/13/62	Arrest on bigamy charge of Robert Burns, owner of office SNCC used in Greenwood.
8/13/62	Samuel Block beaten by three whites in Greenwood.
8/17/62	Report of near lynching of three SNCC workers, including Block, by group of whites.
8/28/62	Voting suit filed challenging constitutionality of Mississippi voting registration laws.
8/28/62	COFO organized in Clarksdale; Leflore County designated as one of target areas for voter registration. Block and six others arrested after meeting in Clarksdale for violating curfew laws and for minor traffic violations.

DATE	EVENT
8/30/62	Block and three other voter registration workers arrested in Indianola, Sunflower County, for distributing handbills without a permit; Robert Moses arrested the next morning on same charge.
10/1/62	James Meredith enrolled at University of Mississippi.
11/1962	Memorandum filed by DOJ to cite Governor Barnett and Lt. Governor Johnson for contempt.
11/9/62	White citizens voted 40 to 29 at public meeting in Greenwood to re-affirm supervisors' decision of July 9, 1962, curtailing winter surplus food program.
11/11/62	Editorial in Jackson's only Sunday paper, entitled "Leflore Drops the Moochers."
11/16/62	News item in civil rights newspapers reported charge by Greenwood resident (later discovered to be Samuel Block) that surplus food action by Leflore County was taken to restrain and discourage voter registration activities.
11/23/62	Morris Lewis of Indianola, Mississippi's largest food distributor, reportedly sent letters to 400 retail grocers urging their opposition to surplus food program in State.
12/11/62	CORE National Director, James Farmer, sent telegrams to Attorney General Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman requesting an investigation of charge that Leflore action in surplus food program was in reprisal against registration activities.
12/12/62	State Welfare Commissioner Fred A. Ross labeled Farmer's charge in "unadulterated lie."
12/17/62	Nationwide appeal by Council of Federated Organizations (COFO) for food, clothing, and medicine for needy in Delta.
12/28/62	Arrest in Clarksdale of Michigan students carrying donated food, clothing, and medicines for needy in Leflore and other Delta counties.
1/2/63	Suit filed in Washington, D.C., by Moses, Block and six others to require the Attorney General and the FBI to afford Federal protection to voter registration workers.

DATE	EVENT
1/14/63	Block wrote DOJ requesting that troops or marshals to be sent to Belzoni to protect registration workers there and that investigation be made into the denial of surplus food in Leflore County.
2/1963	Willie Peacock, COFO worker in Greenwood, complained to DOJ that Leflore County registrar and sheriff refused to register him or to take his poll taxes.
2/6/63	Mississippi SAC meeting in Jackson heard testimony from COFO representatives and residents of Leflore County on need for surplus food program there.
2/8/63	Letter to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman from David Dennis, CORE Field Secretary, transmitting survey of need for surplus food and other welfare programs in Mississippi Delta.
2/9/63	Letter to Secretary Freeman from Professor John R. Salter of Tougaloo Southern Christian College, citing need for food and welfare assistance for needy Negroes in Mississippi, together with his analysis of root causes of problem.
2/11/63	Dick Gregory arrived in Greenwood with 14,000 pounds of food as first shipment from Chicago for the needy.
2/13/63	First distribution of Chicago food to needy in Leflore County.
2/14/63	Commissioner of Public Welfare Ross charged Gregory with generating "cheap publicity" and reported that Mississippi's surplus food program could be halted or curtailed because of "racial agitation promoters."
2/20/63	An additional 9000 pounds of donated foods reportedly was distributed by COFO in Greenwood.
2/21/63	Block reported to press that a frame building which housed four Negro businesses in Greenwood was set afire as reprisal against food distribution work, apparently when the building was confused with one used by COFO.

DATE	EVENT
2/22/63	Block arrested by Greenwood police on charge of "making statements calculated to breach the peace."
2/25/63	Block convicted and sentenced to six months in jail and $500 fine.
2/26/63 & 2/27/63	A total of 125 Negroes filled out voter registration forms in Greenwood.
2/28/63	James Travis, departing Greenwood by car with Moses and Blackwell, shot by whites in passing car. FBI investigation helped produce three men charged with crime.
3/1/63	Voter Education Project announced all-out drive in Leflore County; telegrams sent by Wiley Branton of Voter Education Project to Governor Barnett and Attorney General Kennedy.
3/5/63	Mayor of Greenwood, through spot TV announcements, urged citizens of Greenwood to ignore "outside agitators" coming to Greenwood.
3/5/63	Aaron Henry, Chairman of COFO, after making speech in Greenwood, found window of his drug store in Clarksdale smashed by vandals.
3/6/63	Block and three other COFO workers shot at from passing car while parked outside of COFO office at 115 McLaurin Street in Greenwood. Moses reported incident to Grou of DOJ.
3/7/63	Aaron Henry wrote Curtiss Larry, Greenwood Chief of Police requesting police protection for COFO workers and property. (Letter never acknowledged.) Also, letter sent to President Kennedy informing him of situation and need for protection.
3/8/63	Report that shots fired from passing car over heads of Negroes gathered outside of Walthall Theater in Greenwood.
3/15/63	Chester F. Relyea, CCR Assistant General Counsel, arrested in Greenwood Greyhound terminal for entering "colored" waiting room but not formally charged.

Mayor Answers Gregory On National TV

Dick Gregory's charge that Negroes are afraid to walk Greenwood's street alone was called "Utterly ridiculous" on a national television show this morning.

Mayor C. E. Sampson spent some eight to 10 minutes on the Today Show giving Greenwood's side of the recent racial controversy here.

He was questioned by Hugh Downs in the show's New York studios.

Sampson made the "ridiculous" charge when Downs asked him about a comment Gregory had made on the show yesterday morning.

Sampson was due to appear with the mayor of Birmingham, but that official cancelled his appearance because of recent political developments there.

Sampson told the nationwide audience that "Negroes have been registering to vote for years in Greenwood."

To Gregory's contention that whites and Negroes are graded differently on voter tests, Sampson replied:

"The records of the voter registrar in Leflore County have been inspected by the Justice Department. They have been opened and will be opened again at any time to responsible members of the press. All these will bear out the fact that all applicants have been treaten alike."

Expanding on his refuting of Gregory's "fear" charges, Sampson said:

"Two Negro workers at city hall have been registered to vote for years. They aren't afraid to walk the streets.'

He stressed the fact that Greenwood police during the marches two weeks ago had informed the marchers that they were free to go to the courthouse in small groups.

He reviewed the recent history of racial 'incinents" in the county, citing the two (when a car load of Mississippi Vocational Students tried to run down a group of white youths on a 50 mile hike and the following one in which three white men fired into the car occupied by three Negro vote workers) which authorities know to have been genuine then catalogued several around which the suspicion of "manufactured incidents" clings. "City and county authorities have investigated all of them thoroughly," Sampson said. "So has the FBI. Except in the cases where arrests have been made, absolutely no evidence has been found by local police that they were genuine racial indicents. Certainly we have heard nothing from the FBI contrary to this."

The mayor also touched briefly on what he called "wonderful relations between white and colored citizens of Greenwood.

He called the city's efforts at keeping the peace during the 13-day racial strife period "a team job" in which everybody performed wonderfully, and named city commissioners Buff Hammond and W.G. Mize as round-the-clock workers during the crisis.

Downs commented that "I believe Gregory praised them too."

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
688-0331

file Leflore clips

FACT SHEET ON GREENWOOD (LEFLORE COUNTY), MISSISSIPPI

AUGUST 26, 1962: Samuel Block and three other SNCC field secretaries, shortly after moving into Greenwood to begin a voter registration program, report they had to leap from the second-story window of their office to escape a white lynch mob, armed with guns, ropes and pipes. FBI and Justice Department notified; protection asked.

OCTOBER, 1962: Leflore County Board of Supervisors vote to drop surplus food program which had helped sustain some 22,000 Negroes, the majority of whom are seasonal workers and sharecroppers.

FEBRUARY 20, 1963: Samuel Block reports that four Negro businesses, one block from the SNCC office on 115 E. McLaurin Street are burned to the ground. Block says, "I believe this was an attempt to burn down our office." Federal authorities notified; protection asked.

FEBRUARY 22, 1963: Samuel Block arrested by Greenwood police. Charge: "circulating breach of the peace" (sic). Charge later changed to: "Making statements calculated to incite the breach of the peace." Federal authorities notified.

FEBRUARY 25, 1963: 150 Negroes pack county courthouse at Block's trial to hear him refuse to accept a suspended sentence if he agrees to drop all voter registration activity. Block convicted; he appeals. 200 more Negroes try to witness trial, but cannot get in.

FEBRUARY 26 & 27, 1963: A total of 150 Negroes go to county courthouse to register and vote in an unprecedented show of determination.

FEBRUARY 28, 1963: James Travis, 20, a SNCC field secretary and native Mississippian is shot by three white assailants seven miles from Greenwood. Travis receives a shoulder wound. Another bullet becomes lodged behind his spine. Robert Moses, director of SNCC's statewide voter registration program, and Randolph Blackwell, field director of the Atlanta-based Voter Education Project, are also in the car with Travis but are unharmed despite the fact that all side windows of the car are shattered. Travis is taken by ambulance to University Hospital in Jackson where doctors operate to remove bullet and report that Travis would have died instantly had the bullet penetrated his body with more force. Federal authorities notified; protection asked.

MARCH 1, 1963: VEP announces full -scale campaign in Greenwood to register all Negroes in Leflore county. Staff members of SNCC come from other Mississippi projects to concentrate efforts in Greenwood.

MARCH 6, 1963: Samuel Block and Willie Peacock, two SNCC field secretaries, shot at by white assailants in an untagged car as they, and two Greenwood citizens, Peggy Marye and Essie Broome, are in car in front of SNCC office. All windows are shattered, but nobody is injured. Federal authorities notified; protection asked.

MARCH 21, 1963: The Leflore County Board of Supervisors votes to reinstitute the county program of surplus food distribution after representatives of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say the government will handle the program if Leflore officials won't.

MARCH 24, 1963: SNCC office set on fire. All office equipment completely demolished. Most of the records are saved. The telephone is ripped from the wall. Witnesses report that two white men are seen fleeing down an alley after smoke begins to pour from a window. Federal authorities notified; protection asked.

MARCH 26, 1963: Two shotgun blasts shatter front door and bedroom window of Dewey Greene, Sr., father of George Greene, a young high school student working with the SNCC drive. Dewey, Jr. is second Negro to apply to Ole Miss. Nobody is injured. Federal authorities notified; protection asked.

MARCH 27, 1963: Ten SNCC field staff arrested in Greenwood for "inciting to riot" after accompanying a group of 100 Negroes to county courthouse to register. Eight of ten are arrested in front of church attempting to load cars of people wanting to go to courthouse to register. In jail NOW: James Forman (executive secretary), Robert Moses (director of SNCC Mississippi program), James Jones, Curtis Hayes, Charles McLaurin, Frank Smith, Bobby Talbert, Willie Peacock, Lawrence Guyot, Lafayette Surney.

REGISTRATION IN LEFLORE COUNTY: 13,567 Negroes eligible to vote;
163 registered
(Civil Rights Commission Report, January, 1961)

CHRONOLOGY OF EVENTS FOLLOWING THE SHOOTING OF JAMES TRAVIS IN LEFLORE COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI, ON FEBRUARY 28, 1963

March 1, 1963

WAB received a phone call from Randolph T. Blackwell from Greenwood, Mississippi, at approximately 4:15 a.m. RTB related the shooting and the fact that Travis was in the hospital in Greenwood. (See separate tape of RTB describing shooting incident and subsequent transfer of Travis to hospital in Jackson.)

WAB conferred with L. Dunbar and J. Minnis throughout the day regarding LeFlore County, Mississippi and plans were formulated for a concentrated effort at registration in LeFlore Coiunty with assistance from all participating agencies. WAB conferred by telephone with Wyatt Walker, James Forman, Marvin Rich and Roy Wilkins and obtained pledges of cooperation from each of the agencies represented by the individuals phoned.* WAB was in telephone conference with RTB who was still in Jackson.

A press release was prepared (see attached copy) and telegrams were sent to Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Governor Ross Barnett informing both of them of our plans for a concerted drive in LeFlore County and requesting both state and federal protection. (Copies of the telegrams are attached to the press release.)

WAB called Burke Marshall of Justice Department prior to sending of telegram to Attorney General and told him of plans.

After press release was prepared WAB read it to James Forman, Marvin Rich and Roy Wilkins and all agreed on the wording of the press release.

VEP and SRC staff then worked double time and overtime in getting out the press release. VEP was visited by Claude Sitton of New York Times, Joe Cummings of Newsweek and other reporters.

*Roy Wilkins agreed to send such personnel and to give such financial support as was necessary to effectively carry out the campaign. Wyatt Walker stated that James Bevel could be assigned to LeFlore County immediately and that additional personnel would be furnished by SCLC for the LeFlore County project. Marvin Rich offered to shift 3 or 4 people from their Louisiana project to LeFlore County and to also make Dave Dennis, who is already in Mississippi, available on a full-time basis.

FRIDAY, MARCH 1 (cont'd)
~~MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1963~~

SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1963

RTB had returned to Atlanta the night before and came to the office early Saturday morning to get with WAB and JM. Claude Sitton arrived and questioned RTB about the shooting incident, allof which was taken down by VEP on tape.

Two agents of FBI came to the office about noon and talked privately with RTB for more than an hour.

WAB called Bob Moses in Greenville and explained decision for concerted drive in LeFlore County. Moses had just left Jackson that morning where Travis had been operated upon for removal of bullet from neck and stated that operation apparently was successful and a speedy recovery is anticipated.

WAB talked with Samuel Block in Greenwood and learned that the owner of the building where the SNCC office was located had ordered them to vacate the building by the next night (Sunday.) The owner is a colored lady and apparently she had great fear that something would happen to the building since there had been a fire nearby which destroyed three business houses some two weeks earlier, and which Sam Block of SNCC contended was an act of arson by unknown parties and was really meant for SNCC. (Note: As a result of such public utterance Sam Block was arrested and charged with statements calculated to incite or disturb the public and was fined $500 and sentence to six months in jail. The conviction was appealed.)

Sam Block stated that three or four colored people had come to the SNCC office stating that they had received anonymous threats of destruction of their home by fire or bombing. There was an air of tension and uneasiness in Greenwood on Saturday night but apparently there were no acts of violence.

SUNDAY, MARCH 3

WAB talked with Bob Moses and Aaron Henry and discussed the plans for LeFlore County. They agreed that COFO would send all available personnel into Greenwood on Monday morning (March 4). Bob explained the difficulty of getting a new place for an office and of getting a church in which to hold mass meetings. Some mass meetings had previously been held at the Christian Church where Rev. Johnson is pastor. Wesley Methodist church (Rev. Rucker, pastor) has been used as a distribution center for food and clothing but they have not been able to get it for mass meetings. Rev. Rucker appears to be very sympathetic but is a young man, and is reluctant to go too far without support from his trustees. Wesley Methodist is a rather large church for a city the size of Greenwood and has several office or class rooms which apparently are not in use. The church was built larger than the need of the congregation at the time of construction and is even larger for its needs now.

Aaron Henry stated that Bishop Golden of Nashville was the presiding bishop and WAB agreed to try to get someone to contact Bishop Golden for his support.

Bob stated that they had not been able to use any of the Baptist churches. There was a strong possibility that they could use Turner's Chapel AME church whose pastor is Rev. D.L. Tucker. Father Nathaniel of the St. Francis (Catholic) Information Center in Greenwood has been very sympathetic but there was some doubt about the use of the facilities there.

One of the most influential persons in the Negro community in Greenwood is Edward Cochran who is Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks of the state of Mississippi. He owns considerable retnal property in Greenwood. (Note: WAB knows that the Elks are very strong in Mississippi.) The local Elks have allowed SNCC to conduct meetings at theElks's Hall in the past but recently had "turned them out." We probably will not get too much open support from Edward Cochran at this stage.

Bob stated that Samuel Block who had been in charge of the Greenwood SNCC office had recruited approximately 20 LeFlore County residents who were willing to work in a door-to-door drive for $10 per week, and I readily agreed that this was reasonable and that COFO should consider the feasibility of hiring these people to supplement the regular COFO staff. Additional personnel would be furnished by other agencies

SUNDAY, MARCH 3 (cont'd)

It appears that there is not much support from the ministers in Greenwood or from the "professional" community. I asked Henry if he knew of any person who commanded respect in Greenwood whom we could get to go there and arouse community leadership and support and he stated that Rev. Merrill W. Lindsey, a methodist minister now living in West Point, Mississippi was a native of Greenwood and highly respected there. Rev. Lindsey was one of the Negro candidates for Congress last year. Henry agreed to contact Rev. Lindsey.

Diane Nash Bevel called from Cleveland, Mississippi, and stated that there was a colored lady there from Greenwood who was the mother of 9 children and that the lady had valuable information which she had given to Bob Moses and to the FBI regarding the fire which occurred in Greenwood and that she had received serious threats against her life and wanted to leave the state with her children at once, but had no money. Diante stated that Bob Moses was to have mentioned this to me when he called earlier but that he apparently forgot it. I suggested to Diane that she get in touch with Bob and have him call me. However, Bob did not call until the next day. Bob stated that there is a colored woman doctor (Dr. Garner) who has been sympathetic in Greenwood.

MONDAY, March 4

WAB conferred by telephone with Bob Moses and Aaron Henry. Travis is showing good improvement in the hospital at' Jackson. Moses states that SNCC workers are reluctant to give up their projects in the other counties of Mississippi as they feel that they are just beginning to crack the ice and to suspend the projects for 30 days or more would be detrimental. After discussing the situation WAB and Moses agreed on the following plan:

> The Hattiesburg project will continue without interruption as the registration worker there is a woman resident of Hattiesburg who could not go to Greenwood.

A decision by the Court of Appeals on the contempt citation of Lynd the registrar in Hattiesburg is pending.

COFO is in the process of fixing up a large house in Greenville which will serve as office and living quarters and it is felt that at least one person should remain there.

Frank Smith will come down from Holly Springs but will be free to make such trips back and forth from LeFlore to Holly Springs as he feels necessary to keep the Marshall County program alive.

The northern half of LeFlore County will be worked by COFO workers based in Sunflower County which is the adjoining county. The other COFO personnel will be temporarily assigned to Greenwood.

I related to Bob our decision about the lady witness who wants to leave the state and told him that we would demand federal protection if she would agree to stay.

Bob stated that he would like for NAACP to hire Amzie Moore (who lives in Cleveland) to work full time in LeFlore County during the campaign. WAB phoned Roy Wilkins who agreed to hire Amzie Moore if the request came from Aaron Henry. It is generally recognized that Amzie Moore has more influence among Negroes in the Delta than any other person.

WAB phoned Henry Cabirac of the National Catholic Conference for INter-racial Justice in New Orleans and solicited Henry's interest and support in developing support from the Catholic community in Greenwood and to stimulate Father Nathaniel

MONDAY, MARCH 4 (cont'd)

Henry agreed to this and promised to inform us in writing of his action.

WAB talked with Andy Young of SCLC and learned from him that Rev. ~~Lowrie~~ LOWERY of Nashville, Tennessee, is a key officer in SCLC, is the Administrative Assistant to Bishop Golden and Andy agreed to phone Rev. ~~Lowrie~~ LOWERY and seek his influence in contacting Rev. Rucker about the use of the facilities of Wesley Methodist church in Greenwood.

Atleast one or two people were known to have gone down to attempt to register on Monday and plans were made for a mass meeting on Monday night. At least two Justice Department lawyers were on the scene and John ~~Boer~~ DOAR was expected later in the day.

WAB received telegraphs from ~~XXX~~ Civil Rights Commission acknowledging receipt of VEP's telegram to Chairman Hannah. General Counsel Ferguson of the Commission on Civil Rights wired that a letter would follow.

L. Dunbar talked with Will Campbell regarding liberal white kpeople in Greenwood and Will suggested a Mrs. Wheatley whose husband is a cotton broker. But stated that the family had been pretty silent recently since their home had been fired upon. Her brother is President of the University of Louisville.

He also mentioned a Rev. Archie Meadows of the First Methodist Church whom he described as "all right, only..."

TUESDAY, MARCH 5

WAB put in a call to Aaron Henry in Clarksdale but line was busy. A few minutes later WAB received a call from Aaron Henry and it appears that they were trying to reach each other at the same time. Henry stated that he was the principal speaker at the mass meeting last night in Greenwood and that it was a big success with a packed house. The meeting was attended by Bob Moses, Medgar Evers, Mississippi Field Secretary for NAACP, Annelle Ponder and James Bevel of SCLC, R.L. Drew, Clarksdale fraternal leader and businessman, James Forman of SNCC and Rev. Merrill Lindsey. Rev. Lindsey had arrived at the request of Aaron Henry pursuant to our earlier telephone conversation.

The group agreed to hold weekly mass meetings every Monday night. Aaron Henry met with Bob Moses and Medgar Evers and others after the meeting to help plan joint strategy.

When Henry returned to Clarksdale he found the windows of his drug store smashed again.

About thirty minutes after talking to Henry WAB received a telephone call from Bob Moses from Greenwood. The operator s stated "will youaccept a collect call from Moses?" I immediately inquired"operator, is Mr. Moses on the line?" There was a very reluctant "yes" from the operator.

Bob's immediate concern was the plight of the lady witness (regarding the fire two weeks earlier in Greenwood) who wanted to leave the state with her nine children. Bob has a statement from her and has agreed to send it to VEP. She had talked with the FBI and with the Justice Department, including John ~~Doer~~ ROAR, who is now on the scene in Greenwood. Bob states that the woman appears to be very much in fear of her life and that she has withdrawn all of her children from school and has decided that she must leave the state at all costs. Bob states that ~~Doer~~ ROAR informed him that it would be difficult to provide protection and went into the usual explanation that it is seldome that "around-the-clock" protection can be provided and that in view of the fact that there were so many people in Greenwood at the moment that he felt that no additional protection would be provided as such. Bob and I both felt that the operator was listening to our conversation and we conducted the whole thing in rather vague terms that would be meaningful only to the two of us. By

TUESDAY, MARCH 5 (cont'd)

"people" Bob meant federal people. ~~Door~~ DOAR had suggested that it might be good for the lady to leave the area for the time being and to return at the time of any trial.

I explained again to Bob the necessity for our demanding protection from Washington prior to helping in any way for the lady to leave the state. Bob feels that he doesn't think that the lady would agree to stay there now if the Army was on duty unless sombody could talk to her and convince her.that she should stay. Amzie Moore had talked with her last night and was unable to convince her. The one way bus far for the family to Detroit is approximately $216 and she would need another $75 to "tide her over." She has relatives in Detroit but she has no money and Bob does not know what she will do if nobody comes forth with the money but he feels that she will try to manage to leave somehow.

Bob did not give the lady's name on the telephone and I think it best that he did not. I did ask if she were an eye witness and he stated that she was not but that she had overhead a damaging telephone conversation. There are several FBI or Justice men in the area.

Claude Sitton and Joe Cummings are still on the scene. SNCC is still using the office on McLaurin St,, and it appears that they can stay there a few days longer until they can find some place to move to.

Rev. Rucker, pastor of Wesley Methodist, had received a telephone call from Rev. ~~Lowrie~~ LOWERY and he is meeting with his trustees today and will ~~XXXX~~ let Bob know something definite about the full use of the church tonight. Bob seems optimistic about having full use of the church which would serve all of their needs in terms of both office, class room, and distribution center.

The meeting which they had planned last night for Locust Grove Baptist church had been shifted at the last minute to the Christian church where they have previously held mass meetings. When they arrived at the Baptist church a deacon took the key and locked the building and refused to let them enter. The Christian church is concerned about the inadquacy of its fire insurance and they are making application immediately for increased coverage.

TUESDAY, MARCH 5 (cont'd)

Bob feels that SCLC should immediately conduct a training program in Greenwood similar to the kind conducted at Dorchester and he is going to discuss this with Anelle Ponder who is currently in Greenwood. I am to call Andy Young to discuss this possibility with him.

The car oocupied by the persons who fired on Travis has been located in Carroll county which is the adjoining county. Bob learned this much from the local newspaper, but the article merely stated that the vehicle was found abandoned and there was not much other information.

Bob did not know who had found the vehicle and while the owner can easily be traced there was no mention of the ownership. (Note: It will be interesting to see if the owner will now claim that the vehicle had been stolen and also to see if the police authorities will state that the "report of stolen vehicle" had been filed with them prior to the shooting incident.)

Bob states that there is growing community support for the project from ordinary people and while they are beginning slowly to crack the leadership segment that this remains their biggest problem, in terms of support.

Some people have gone down to register this morning but Bob does not know exactly how many. The registrar is a woman and she has stopped a great deal of her harassment of applicants during the past few days.

At 4:45 p.m. James Forman phoned from Greenwood and stated that he had been informed by Claude Sitton that two of the white men responsible for the shooting had been arrested and that the officers were en route to pick up the third man. (Note: See clipping from Atlanta Constitution, March 6.) (attached)

Forman phoned to state that trustees of Wesley Methodist had voted not to permit use of church. Pastor is for it and Bishop Golden supports him.

3 Accused Of Shooting At 3 Negroes

Atlanta Constitution 3-6-65

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—Three white persons, including a teenager, were arrested Tuesday in connection with a shooting attack on three Negroes who were trying to register voters.

A 17-year-old boy, who was not identified in keeping with policy regarding young first-offenders, will be turned over to LeFlore County Juvenile Court. The boy was charged with felonious assault.

One Negro, Jimmy Travis, 20, of Jackson, Miss., was wounded in the neck and shoulder by bullets during the attack last Thursday.

Sheriff John Ed Cochran said the investigation was still under way. He identified the other prisoners as William H. Greenlee and Wesley Kersey, both of Greenwood.

Greenlee, a bulk gasoline dealer, and Kersey, service manager of a roadbuilding equipment firm, were picked up at work. They were charged with felonious assault.

The attack came last Thursday night. Robert Moses, Greenville, said a hail of bullets came from a car that passed the auto in which he and Travis were riding.

Both Travis and Moses are field secretaries for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. Moses and Randolph Blackwell, Atlanta, also in the car at the time, were not hurt.

PRESS RELEASE

VOTER EDUCATION PROJECT
5 Forsyth St., N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia
Ja5-0595

March 1, 1963
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The following statement was released today by Wiley A. Branton, Director of the Voter Education Project:

"On the night of February 28, 1963, in LeFlore County, Mississippi, white men, from their moving car, shot and seriously wounded a young Negro registration worker. The victim was James Travis of Jackson, Mississippi, a field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. This attack, with intent to kill, was made by men who had been observed throughout the evening watching a building in Greenwood where registration workers were meeting.

"After the meeting, Travis, Robert Moses, Director of the Council of Federated Organizations, and Randolph Blackwell, Field Director of our Voter Education Project, drove from Greenwood down U.S. Highway 82. Some miles outside Greenwood the attackers' car drove alongside and opened rifle or pistol fire. Fortunately, only Travis was wounded.

"Travis was returned to a hospital in Greenwood. The local police and the Department of Justice were promptly notified. On March 1, Travis was moved to a hospital in Jackson.

"This is but the latest of brutal attacks in Mississippi, southwest Georgia, and other areas of the South, against registration workers and would-be Negro voters. These registration workers are people cooperating with the Voter Education Project. This Project, which has the endorsement of the chairmen both of the Democratic and Republican National Committees, is a large scale effort to find the best ways of increasing the electorate in the South, in order to bring into participation in American democracy citizens who have not before exercised, or been allowed to exercise, their responsibilities. In most areas of the South, work carried on in cooperation with the Project has been without disturbance, and in some cases even welcomed by local authorities.

"But in certain outlaw communities registration workers have been constantly harassed and put in danger of life. Negroes seeking to register have been cruelly treated.

"These are intolerable conditions to expose people to, and they cannot be allowed to continue. Accordingly, there is a need to establish once and for all that in this land people do not have to be afraid to be free.

"The state of Mississippi has repeatedly thrown down a gauntlet at the feet of would-be Negro voters, not only by the discriminatory practices of the registrars, but also by economic pressures, threats, coercion, physical violence, and death to Negroes seeking the right to vote. The time has come for us to pick up the gauntlet. LeFlore County, Mississippi, has elected itself as the testing ground for democracy and we are accordingly meeting the challenge there.

"We are, therefore, announcing that the full resources of the agencies cooperating with us in the Voter Education Project will be immediately concentrated in LeFlore County, Mississippi. Mr. Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Mr. James Forman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and Mr. James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality, have agreed with us today to put all necessary support at once into a concerted campaign to get every qualified Negro in LeFlore County registered to vote, if he or she has any desire to do so.

"Our methods will, at all times, be peaceable and lawful and will be conducted in the best traditions of American democracy.

"The campaign will be conducted openly. Voter registration is a civic duty, and registration workers will dignifiedly and publicly carry on their activities, which will include literacy schools, meetings, and individual contacts.

"Based on the unhappy experience of recent months we must anticipate that our efforts will be met by continued harassment and violence. The state of Mississippi and the United States government each have a responsibility to protect those seeking the right to vote for all citizens. The state of Mississippi has not only failed to provide this protection in the past but, in fact, has cooperated with those who would deny basic rights to American citizens of color. The federal Congress and Executive have, in the past, failed to meet the minimum requirements for protecting the rights of Negro citizens in Mississippi.

"Recently, the Mississippi Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on Civil Rights has said: 'This Committee finds that the Federal Government has not provided the citizens of Mississippi the protection due them as American citizens.' We concur in this finding.

"Regardless of past attitudes and actions, we are advising the Governor of Mississippi of our plans for action in LeFlore County and have asked that the state of Mississippi provide protection.

"We have also notified the Attorney General of the United States that this campaign is being undertaken and we have called to his attention our past experiences regarding the failure of the state and federal governments to protect the citizens of Mississippi. We have requested that federal protection be provided immediately to assure the personal safety of those working in voter registration or who seek the right to vote. We are asking the Justice Department to take the necessary legal action to see to it that discriminatory practices by the registrar cease and desist.

"Voting is a federally guaranteed right, and when its exercise is prevented by community lawlessness, the United States government has an obligation not only to punish that lawlessness but to put it down.

"We, therefore, call upon the President of the United States to use his executive powers to help make meaningful the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment - 100 years late."

(30)

Telegram Dated March 1, 1963 to Attorney General Robert F Kennedy:

As I am sure you are aware, James Travis, a voter registration worker, was seriously wounded last night by gunfire in LeFlore County, Mississippi. Mr. Travis and two other men, one a staff member of this office, were attacked while peaceably driving in their car on a U. S. highway. This is but the latest of these vicious assaults against registration workers and applicants in Mississippi. This cannot longer be tolerated. We are accordingly today announcing a concentrated, saturation campaign to register every qualified Negro of LeFlore County. Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Martin Luther King of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality, and James Forman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, pledge their full resources. The campaign will begin immediately. You must anticipate that this campaign will be met by violence and other harassment. We are notifying you in advance so that you can provide at once the necessary federal protection to prevent violence and other forms of intimidation against registration workers and applicants. We shall keep you regularly informed.

Wiley A. Branton

Telegram Dated March 1, 1963 to Governor Ross Barnett of Mississippi:

As I am sure you aware, James Travis, a voter registration worker, was seriously wounded last night by gunfire in LeFlore County, Mississippi. Mr. Travis and two other men, one a staff member of this office, were attacked while peaceably driving in their car on a U.S. highway. This is but the latest of these vicious assaults against registration workers and applicants in Mississippi. This cannot longer be tolerated. We are accordingly today announcing a concentrated, saturation campaign to register every qualified Negro of LeFlore County. Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Martin Luther King of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality, and James Forman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, pledge their full resources. The campaign will begin immediately. You must anticipate that this campaign will be met by violence and other harassment. We are notifying you in advance so that you can provide at once the necessary state protection to prevent violence and other forms of intimidation against registration workers and applicants.

Wiley A Branton

LEFLORE COUNTY CHRONOLOGY

March 28, 1963 (As reported verbally by Wiley A. Branton)

WAB left for Mississippi and arrived about 4:30 pm. Went to Wesley church which is temporary SNCC headquarters. It was still necessary to get a full time office. Bob Moses had made arrangements for them to move into a new building which was still under construction. But Bob was in jail.

I learned about the minister's being bitten by a dog that day. He was still in a state of shock. News released out of Greenwood are sketchy. Atlanta papers have carried very little on the stories and struggle going on out there.

On this date in the afternoon they had arrested 10 SNCC kids and one Greenwood citizen on March 27. People had decided to walk to court house to register in a demonstration, in the light of burnings, shooting and harassment. They decided to stop at City Hall to ask for protection. The mayor rushed out and told them to get away from there. The police dogs were called out. The crowd was told to disperse. They told the mayor that they were going to register. En route to the court house the police cars went around to the front of the crowd and dogs were being brought around from the rear.

March 29, 1963

On this morning the Greenwood resident and a registration worker were released from jail. They arrested Guyot and Jim Forman. About a block from the city hall the rest of the people dispersed and went back to the church and decided then that they would go down in cars. They were loading people into the cars when the police arrested the other 8 SNCC kids. During the earlier fracas downtown a CBS cameraman was taken into custody and his film confiscated. Jim Forman's camera was thrown into the crowd to prevaent its being taken by the police.

(Back to Marfch 28)

On this afternoon at the trial they did not let people in but would let newsmen in. Jim Forman first. Forman said that he didn't want to go to trial until his lawyer was there. Then then put Forman in a separate cell. Guyot was brought in and tried to get a continuance but they proceeded with the trial. Guyot had a very nasty attitude in court and tried to be his own lawyer. He was cited for contempt. Theother 8 had trials and were declared guilty.

On this night we had a mass meeting. Jim Farmer of CORE came out to speak. The news media was there. I also spoke at that meeting. The mayor had issued some press statements ~~that~~ about"outside agitators." So at this meeting I told the people present that my father had come to Arkansas from Leflore county, and my grandfather had also. And that my great grandfather was Greenwood Leflore for whom the city and county were named.

Claude Sitton on the following morning repeated this story to the mayor who called in three or four other officials and told them.about who I was.

It was an enthusiastic meeting on Thursday night. The people are really sold on this thing.

March 29, 1963

The people decided on Friday morning to go again to register. (On Thursday afternoon, the people were taken down in cars but the court house closes up around 11:30 a.m. They were not going to re-open until 1:00 p.m. Because they had gone down in cars they decided to walk back to the church. They were walking two abreast on the side walk, obeying lights and signals, just walking, not demonstrating. There were a lot of volunteer police around. A carload of four cops with a dog told them to break it up and the dog knocked Rev. Tucker down and started chewing on his leg.

The people went down in the afternoon in cars. The police stopped two cars and said that Negroes could not go across railroad track even in cars. Police told them to go in smaller groups.

McNair hd a list of people names on a clipboard and a motorcycle cop took papers away. McNair told WAB about this and WAB went down to talk to Jim Forman and then met McNair and a man came up and gave him his papers back and he turned to go away. WAB asked his name and he told them. He said he was the City Prosecuting Attorney. WAB introduced himself and asked about trials scheduled for that afternoon. He got the Police Commissioner and others into a court room and them their whole attitude changed. WAB asked them how they thought people should go down to the court house. They said in small groups of not more than 5. Drummong (Police and Fire Commissioner) said it was difficult to instruct the police. Drummond had been critical of use of the dogs. Farmer said "if we sent groups of five down at intervals of 5 minutes each?" Drummond said it would stir up the while people. WAB thought there was a nucleus of understanding in that group. The telephone were being tapped throughout these days.

WAB asked for discretionary judgement of judge to practice in in this case in Mississippi, judge granted it.

WAB described the court room scene at Jim Forman's trial when he tried to pin down the police officer as to what he thought constituted a mob. This was humorous. And it wound up that the arresting officer trapped himself into stating that two people (Jim Forman and one other) were responsible for obstructing traffic.

Their sentence was $200 a piece and four months in the county jail. The judge later told WAB he would construe the sentence to mean that they need not work. Their safety should be all right at least for now. But if Federal government should order their release then at least from the time that that order comes down and until they get back to a safe area I will be concerned.

There was a mass meeting this night. That meeting was well guarded by FBI agents. LThere were two in each car. Fire trucks with sirens screaming but no fires.

WAB recounted that he had drawn up a lease for 12 months for new SNCC headquarters. People are really rallying behind this thing.

March 30, 1963

At 6:00 p.m. the Justice Department lawyer drove Tucker to Oxford and filed suit asking temporary restraining order pending hearings on injunction. This would also provide protection for voter registration workers. The motion is to be presented on noon on April 1 at Aberdeen, Mississippi.

INDEX

As of 3/13/63

	Page
Barnett, Governor Ross	1
Bevel, Diane Nash	5
Bevel, James	1
Blackwell, R.T.	1,3
Block, Samuel	4,5
Branton, Wiley A.	1,3,4,6,7
Cabirac, Henry	6
Campbell, Will	7
Christian Church	4,9
Civil Rights Commission	7
COFO	4,6
Commission on Civil Rights	7
Cochran, Edward	4
Cummings, Joe	1,9
Dennis, Dave	2
Doar, John	7,8,9
Drew, R.L.	8
Dunbar, L.W.	1,7
Elks	4
Evers, Medgar	8
FBI	3,5,8,9
Ferguson, General Counsel	7
First Methodist Church	7
Forman, James	1

Page

Garner, Dr. 5

Golden, Bishop 4,7 ,10

Hannah, Chairman 7

Henry, Aaron 4,5,6,7,8

Johnson, Rev. 4

Justice Dept. 1,7,8,9

Kennedy, Robert F. 1

Lindsey, Rev. Merrill 5,8

Locust Grove Baptist Church 9
Louisville, Univ. of 7
Lowery, Rev. 7,9

Lynd (Registrar, Hattiesburg) 6

Marshall, Burke 7

Meadows, Rev. Archie 7

Minnis, J. 1,3

Moore, Amzie 6,9

Moses, Bob 3,4,5,6,8,9,10

NAACP 6,8

Nathaniel, Father 4,6

National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice 6

Newsweek 1,9

New York Times 1,3,9,10

Ponder, Annelle 8,10

Rich, Marvin 1,2

Rucker, Rev. 4,7,9

	Page
SCLC	2,7,8
Sitton, Claude	1,3,9,10
Smith, Frank	6
SNCC	3,4,6,8,9,10
St. Francis (R.C.) Information Center	4
Travis, James	1 , 3 , 6 ,10
Tucker, Rev. D.L.	4
Turner's Chapel, AME Church	4
University of Louisville	7
Voter Education Project	1,8
Walker Wyatt Tee	1
Wesley Methodist Church	4,7 ,10
Wheatley, Mrs.	7
Wilkins, Roy	1,6
Young, Andy	7 ,10

ORGANIZATION PERSONNEL
(Represented in this Chronology)

COFO: (Council of Federated Organizations)	Henry, Aaron Moses, Robert
CORE: (Congress of Racial Equality)	Dennis, Dave Rich, Marvin
ELKS:	Cochran, Edward
JUSTICE DEPARTMENT:	Doar, John Marshall, Burke
NAACP: (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People)	Evers, Medgar Henry, Aaron Wilkins, Roy
NEWSWEEK:	Cummings, Joe
NEW YORK TIMES:	Sitton, Claude
SCLC: (Southern Christian Leadership Conference)	Bevel, James Ponder, Annelle Young, Andy Walker, Wyatt Tee
SNCC: (Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee)	Block, Samuel Bevel, Diane Nash Moses, Robert Smith, Frank Travis, James
SRC:	Dunbar, L.W.
VEP:	Blackwell, R.T. Branton, W.A. Minnis, J.

April 3, 1963

I left here on Wednesday, April 3 and flew into Jackson. Arrived there about 5:10 p.m. I rented a car at the Jackson airport. This was the first time that I had been to the Jackson airport.since the Justice Department had forced them to abandon segregation practices. I was pleased to note that there are now longer any separate rest rooms for the races. There are now two rest rooms with signs reading "men" and two for "women". Heretofore there were separate waiting areas for white and colored but there is now only one waiting area and I saw two colored people seated in the man waiting area. The restaurant has taken up all of the tables and stools at the counter and they now have a high counter with stand-up service. A sign at the door advertises the fact that they have stand-up food service. Someone opened a door and I saw at least three tables in a private room in theback which appeared to be set up for dining. I had the impression that this was used by employees and frequent visitors to the airport in an effort to get around the federal requirement.

The Hertz man wanted to know where I was going, but they frequently ask this question, and I told him Vicksburg. I drove immediately to Greenwood and arrived there around 7:00 p.m. I went immediately to the COFO office and learned that there was to be a mass meeting at 8:30 where Chuck McDew was to be the principal speaker. I spent quite some time talking with Emma Bell regarding some of the office problems there. I learned that earlier in the day she had received a registered letter from VEP containing $500 in currency and another letter containing cashiers' checks for the payment of certain bills. At that time I had reason to believe that Emma was doing a fairly effective job in keeping up with the finance but she was having some difficulty in getting cooperation from nahy of the SNCC workers and it was apparent that there was considerable discord among the SNCC workers. My subsequent observations caused me to get an opinion that because of the fact that most of the top SNCC leadership was then in jail and there was no clear cut responsibility resting in any one person that many of the SNCC workers were responding to a natural inclination to try to exert his own leadership influence. It was quite apparent that when it came to finance that EMma was doing a magnificent job in maintaining a detailed businesslike attitude.

When I was in Greenwood the week before I visited the SNCC leaders in jail and discussed with Bob Moses and Jim Forman the manner in which the Greenwood program should be conducted while they were in jail. When I arrivedon March 28 the SNCC kids told me that Jesse Harris had been selected as the acting director.

I mentioned this to Bob, Jim and the other SNCC kids who were in jail and they seemed unanimous in feeling that this was not a wise choice. They felt that a committee should be set up to run things and they recommended Hollis Watkins, Curtis Hayes and Annelle Ponder, the latter being from SCLC. I told them that I would take this information back to a staff meeting with all of the COFO people and that they certainly should add EMMA Bell to this since she would be the one to keep up with the financial records. I asked them if they wanted to include Jesse Harris since those outside seemed to have selected him. I do not recall at the moment who was opposed to the idea of having him serve on the committee, but it was either Bob Moses or Jim Forman. One was opposed to using him and the other wanted to include him, and finally the one who was opposed relented and agreed to his use. I then went back and held a staff meeting and the group readily agreed to this but suggested that Dave Dennis ought also to serve on the committee and I agreed.

April 3, 1963

I went to the mass meeting on this night and James Bevel was serving as Master of Ceremonies. The first speaker was Rev. Fairley, a Negro speaker, who claimed to be from Dallas and who had come to the meeting asking for permission to speak. Bevel whispered to me that this man was on the payroll of the Mississippi Sovereignty Commission and I knew that he had been active in the segregationist cause in other areas of the South. Bevel limited him to 5 minutes. This was a very dark man, whowas wearing some kind of a chain around his neck with a medallion bearing a cross and he had processed hair. Rev. Fairlie immediately started criticizing the practice of marching downtown in large groups and pointed out the necessity for getting along with the white people in the South who were the only ones who would do anything for Negroes. He said that he was able to talk to any white man in the South and that the people in Greenwood should remember that they are going to have to live there when the outsiders have gone. He said that Negroes never have produced anything themselves and had no businesses other than something like a little cafe or some small business. The most disturbing thing was the fact that many people cheered him but I am of the honest opinion that it was because of the fact that many were not paying too much attention to what he was saying and they felt that if he was speaking on ourprogram that he must be for us and that when one person would applaud others would simply join in without knowing why they were applauding.

Bevel then whispered to me to take care of the speech. I started off by saying how pleased I was to know that we had an emissary present who could talk to the white people because we certainly have a message that we want to get back. I then made remarks by turning to Rev. Fairlie and speaking entirely to him and said that I felt sorry that he had apparently not traveled very far and had read very little othere than what somebody wanted him to read. There were several high school students in the audience and I told them that I did not want them to feel that Negroes had no produced anything in the way of businesses. I told of how I had awakened that very morning and turned on the radio to WERD, the Negro owned radio station in Atlanta, that I then went out in the yard to pick up my morning newspaper, the Atlanta Daily World, a Negro owned daily newspaper with a circulation certainly bigger than the Greenwood Commonwealth. I pulled a blank check from my pocket and said that if I wanted to write a check that I would write it on the Citizens Trust Company, a Negro owned bank. That when I first moved to Atlanta and needed a $20,000 loan to buy a home, the first place that I went was the Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Assocation, with admitted assets of over 11 million dollars. I then asked Rev. Fairlie if he new of a Negro chemist who needed a job because the Cannolene Manufacturing Company in Atlanta had just built a new industrial plant in Atlanta and would like another chemist and that this was a Negro owned company. I gave other examples. I then told the story of the election of Leroy Johnson to the Georgia senate and pointed out how the same thing might be possible some day in the Delta and asked Rev. Fairlie to please tell the white people that we were going to keep on walking until we get everybody registered.

Dick Gregory and Chuck McDew also spoke to the meeting.

April 4, 1963

Early this morning I received a telephone call from John Doar of the Justice Department stating that we wanted to talk to me and I agreed for him to come right over to Rev. Tucker's (where I was staying) and he arrived about 6:30 a.m. and told me that the hearing in Greenville would not take place at 10:00 a.m. as the city had agreed to release the eight people in jail on their own recognisance and would stay the executiion of their sentences until after the Court could hear the matter on its merits at the last term of court and that the Justice Dept. had agreed to withdraw its application for a preliminary injunction. I asked Doar if the agreement included the release of 19 people who were then in jail or if it said anything about the right of people to walk down the street in large numbers or mentioned the other acts of harassment by the Police Dept.

Doar said that the agreement included only the release of the 8 people who were in jail and he stated that the Justice Dept. was afraid that they could not get a preliminary injunction to protect the right of people to walk to the court house in large numbers and we discussed the right of a city to control the size of crowds gathering in the city. Doar said that there were some disturbing reports regarding the actions of some of the people among the 19 arrested on April 3 and that the FBI had made moving pictures which they would get to look at before taking any action on that group.
The 8 who were arrested on March 27 had been taken the day before by U.S. Marshalls from Greenwood to Greenville and the agreement was that they would be released in Greenville at 10:00 a.m. I arranged to have two cars sent over to pick the fellows up when they were released and then I went immediately to a staff conference with the COFO workers to discuss strategy. Rev. Tucker, the young AME minister who was bitten the week before the police dog has become a very respected leader in the Greenwood movement and he and Dick Gregory sat in on our conference. We were all disappointed in the fact that the Justice Dept. had withdrawn its application for a preliminary injunction but we did not know the whole story at that time and therefore could not intelligently discuss many of the problems. We agreed that if the city of Greenwood permitted large groups to walk to the court house unmolested that the marchers probably would not walk more than two or three times, and tha the idea of walking every day in the first place stemmed from the arrest of the group on March 27 when they stopped at the police station to protest the violence going on in Greenwood. We also felt that if the Justice Dept. had abandoned its request for a preliminary injunction to protect the right of people to go down in large numbers that some effort should be made to get additional concessions out of the city. The group suggested that I talk with the City Prosecuting Attorney, the Police Commissioner and any other city officials to see what concessions could be made if the group agreed to limit the number of people walking in groups. For the time being, these discussions were taking place while the eight leaders were still being held in Greenville and I made in plain that while I had no objection to some preliminary discussion with city officials that I would not want to see the group agree to anything until it had been discussed in full with the 8 SNCC leaders and that even if the 8 agreed that I would not want to go into any full discussion regarding concessions unless SNCC or COFO was represented in such a conference. With this understanding I then went to city hall were I had a conference w with the mayor, police Commissions Hammond, County Attorney Lott and other commissions whose name I do not recall. I presented to them the deamands of the COFO group (which COFO had agreed to earlier) as follows:

1. That Greenwood would terminate the useof auxiliary police who were riding around in Negro neighborhoods wearing yellow Civilian Defense helmets.

2. That individuals going back and forth in automobiles would not be stopped

3. That groups of people of less than 6 who were going to the court house or anywhere else would not be stopped or harassed.

4. That police officials would be given special instructions not to harass or interfere with people active in voter registration.

5. That the 19 people who where then in jail would be released on their own recognizance and that no effort would be made to prosecute them until after the Justice Dept. suit had been heard. We had learned that this suit would not be heard until October, 1963. The city was asked its attitude regarding these demans if the COFO group agreed to halt its "marches." The city officials present stated that they would have to discuss it with the city prosecuting attorney and some other officoals who had gone to Greenville that morning and not yet returned. Most of the talking was done by B.A. Hammond, the Police Commissioner. I had the impression from a conference the week before in which Jim Forman participated that Hammond was basically a decent fellow and one with whom some agreement could be made. Jim Forman had told me in jail that he, too, felt that Hammond was a decent fellow and that he knows that Hammond was instrumental in holding back the use of the police dog to a rather large extent and he attributed the fairly nice treatment which they had received in the hail to Hammond's influence. The SNCC kids were given everyting that was brought to them as long as they were in the city jail. The mayor stated that there were no acts of harassment other than that they didn't want people marching down in large groups and he denied that people had been stopped in private automobiles from going to the court house and disclaimed any knowledge of a police officer taking papers from Landy McNair even after the group dispersed. Commissioner Hammond interupted to state quite positively that the incidents did happen and that it was all a mistake and was not likely to happen again. They did agree that the trials of the 19 would not be held on Thursday but would be put off until Friday.

I then went out into the hall where several auxiliary policement were standing around. The "volunteers" were very much in evidence and the local citizens had set up a refreshment center to help feed the gallant men who were doing so much to save the city from disaster and they were bringing in home made pies, cakes, sandwiches, bananas and some of every kind of food imaginable. I knew that it was about time for the group to start walking from the COFO office to the court house and I heard remarks in the city hall which disturbed me. One man said"they ought to be able to get some good pictures." Another said "I have three men who have agreed to be done there in their cars," And still another said" they know to wait until they are crossing the street." I then left city hall in my car and drove back to the area of the COFO office and I noticed an unusal amount of automobile traffic. I drove around some of the side streets and noticed several cars occupied by white people on side streets intersecting Broad Street with the traffic always headed toward Broad Street. I then saw a group of 30 to 40 people led by Rev. Tucker walking west on the south side of Broad Street going in columns of two. As the group would reach an intersection cards on either side on the side streets would push out into the intersection and stop and a police car following the walking group would get out with a camera and take two or three pictures. I witness this same thing taking place at a second intersection and then a fire truck came screaming down Broad Street going east and the group walking stepped over to the side and let it go through. At this time I was a block or so behind the group which was walking and the fire truck went about a block past me and stopped in the middle of the street and the firemen got off the truck and just stood and looked back down the street toward the group that was walking.

I then drove back toward the walking group and Dave Dennis flagged me down and got in my car and told me that it appeared to him that some people were in the line who were not supposed to be there and Dave was concered about all of the heavy traffic and the somewhat boisterous conduct of some of the people who had "joined" the line. There were any number of newsmen and photographers following the group and Dave and I hurriedly agreed that we should not go down under the circumstances then existing. I walked over to Rev. Tucker and whispered to him what was happening and we agreed that we would simply do an about face and go back to the COFO office. We did this to the surprise of all of the newsmen and the police and then we issued a statement to the press explaining the attempt to manufacture evidence and the fact that there was no fire and that we did not want to be party to any manufactured artificial situation. The Police Commissioner drove up and when the press asked him why the group turned back he replied "I don't know, ~~thexxx~~ they're calling all the shots." Claude Sitton then read my statement and it took the Commissioner so by surprise that he spit a fresh cigarette out of his mouth and tried to explain that they get a lot of false fire alarms. He was obviously embarrassed.

The 8 who had been released from jail arrived shortly afterward and we went into a disucssion of what had taken place that morning. One or two people were very insistent that the group should continue to march down ~~ifxthexx~~ each day but others pointed out that they could overplay this particular strategy because it would be difficult to get people to join the march and keep it up very long. I sat in on all of the discussion and we were joined by Leroy Clark, a lawyer from the staff of NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund who had been sent out by Jack Greenberg. Clark explained to the group the dacree by the U.S. Supreme court a couple of weeks ago in setting aside hundreds of convictions of students in Columbia S.C. who had marched on the state Capitol.in protest against segregation. Clark explained that in going to the state capitol the students had gone in several small groups spaced several feet aprt and that they had not ganged up at intersections or anywhere else and that the only time that the whol group got together was when they reached the capitol grounds. Clark expressed some serious doubt about the ~~xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx~~ability of the Justice Dept. to get an injunction which would permit the people to march to the court house in large numbers. He felt that if the court grantaed an injunction it would probably be a conditional thing which would limit the size and manner in which people could "march" to the court house.

I sat in on a discussion by COFO workers as they discussed strategy in bringing pressure against the Justice Dept. I must admit that I was very much impressed with their discussion.

August 14th, 1962

Samuel Block, SNCC worker in Greenwood, Mississippi, called this evening about 7:00 pm. He reported the following incidents:

Block and Bob Moses had, some days ago, rented a"U-Haul" trailer in which to transport the luggage of a group of people to the SNCC school operation in Dorchester. As it turned out they were able to get the luggage into the trunk of the car they were using, so they did not need the trailer. Apparently through dilatoriness, and because of some shortage of a car with which to tow it, Block was later than had been anticipated in returning the trailer to the service station on Claiborne street in Greenwood from which it had been rented. On August 13th the white woman whose husband operates the service station came to the office-residence of Block at 661 Ave. I, Greenwood and demanded that the trailer be returned and, says Block, made some undefined threats. Moses came to town later that day and the two of them returned the trailer to the station with Moses' car. The white woman and a white man at the service station heaped opprobrium upon their heads when they were at the service station. Moses was leaving town after their visit to the service station, so he dropped Block off several blocks from Block's residence. Block says that he noticed a red and white 1949 Ford that appeared to be following the car. The Ford made a U-turn and came back and pulled up to the curb alongside Block. Three white men jumped out of the car, dragged Block up onto a vacant lot that is used for selling cars and proceeded to beat him rather thoroughly. Block managed, after the beating to make his way to his home. There he was told by a co-worker and friend that the Greenwood police chief, a police captain, the Sheriff and a Sheffff's deputy had been there earlier, (at about 6:10 pm) looking for him. He was told that when the police did not find him at home, they arrested his landlord, on an unknown charge. The landlord had been helping to recruit prospective registration applicants and to raise funds for the SNCC voter registration work in Greenwood. At the time he talked to me he assumed that the police were still looking for him and was anticipating arrest at any time.

Later in the evening I received a call from Dave Dennis in Jackson, Miss. He said that Block had just called him and told him that the landlord had been charged with "local cohabitation" (I suspect this means illegal cohabitation) and had asked him to call and report this to me.

(over)

Minnis, August 15, 1962

Landlord's name was Robert C. Burns. He is presently (Aug. 15, 1962) in the Coahoma County jail chargdd with bigamy. It is alleged that he has one wife in Tallahatchie, one in Coahoma and two in LeFlore. Moses could, this afternoon, not evaluate the justification for the charges. He expected to talk with Mrs. Burns (Coahoma) tonite and learn more about the substance of the charge. Burns is being held in jail awaiting arraignmnet. Block was unable today to say whether or not a date had been set for the arraignment. Bond has not been set, and Burns cannot at this time be bailed out.

August 17, 1962

Bob Moses called Wiley this morning to report an invasion of the VEP SNCC premises last night by local whites. VEP-Sncc personnell were forced to flee from upstairs windows from the intrusion, to avoid what they thought was the imminent bodily harm. Shortly after the call from Moses WB got a call from John Doar in Washington. The substance of Doar's message was that two or three weeks are needed by his department to complete an investigation of the Greenwood situation (he said he got a call from Moses at 2:30 this morning reporting last nite's incident) and to prepare the necessary papers for presentation of his department's case, and that his department's activities would be much aided if the VEP-SNCC people would desist in their voter registration activity in Greenwood for approximately that length of time. Furthermore, Doar appeared to be concerned that SNCC personnel might be in serious danger in Greenwood at this time because of their voter registration activity. VEP staff discussed the matter with WB and it was agreed that Doar and his department would be more or less on the spot about doing something definitive in Greenwood if the VEP program there cooperated in some way with Doar's request. It was also decided that this might provide a very healty precedent for other such situations elsewhere. It was agreed that the possibility exists that Doar and his department actually want a "cooling off" period in Greenwood and that they have not, at this stage, actually planned any specific action. However, this will remain to be seen. John Walker suggested that maybe a rotation of SNCC personnel would serve the same purpose as a complete pullout, since it may be that the extremem visibility of present SNCC personnell, expecially Block, is resppnsible for the agitated condition of the police and some of the whites in Greenwood.

We called Moses and he was extremely reluctant to discontinue all activities in Greenwood because of the effect this would have on the Negro community there. He said that frequently the Negro communities wait to see if SNCC personnel will withstand the pressure and the resistance of the white community. If they see that personnel will not be frightened away, this frequently results in an increase of confidence on the part of the local Negroes. WB suggested that rotation of personnel and, perhaps, a muting of some of the more visible aspects of the SNCC operation might suffice. Moses agreed to the rotation plan, and to the muting. (He said they had planned to distribute a thousand pictures of a Negro who had been beaten recently, supposing that tieing in police brutality with the voter registration drive would give the local Negroes a good solid, visible reason for being determined to increase their policitical patticipation. WB suggested that this perhaps, that is for the next two or three weeks, was not an appropriate time for such visible activities.) At the time of the second conversation with Moses, he said that two FBI men from other Mississippi communities were then interviewing Block, Guyot and Brown, the SNCC people who were the subjects of last nite's attack.

On Tuesday, August 28 at about 9:30 pm WB and I arrived in Clarksdale Mississippi for a meeting with state-wide leaders called to discuss a voter registration project for Mississippi. AAron Henry chaired the meeting. After a talk by WB about the purposes and aims of VEP, Henry asked for discussion of appropriate modes of organization. Several persons expressed opinions as to the proper distribution of the funds which VEP would supply. Someone called attention to the fact that the funds were not the primary concern; he stAted that the principal concern was in registering more Negro voters. Everyone concurred. It was decided that the existing Council of Federated Organizations would serve as the organizational structure of the VEP-supported program. A steering committee for the VEP project was appointed by Chairman Henry. The steering committee, chaired by Carstairs Hall, Jackson Attorney, then proceeded to appoint Bob Moses as director of the project. Moses and the committee worked out a tentative budeget (attached).

WB had asked that the SNCC workers be present for the meeting so that he could discuss with them any problems that may have been troubling them, or any questions as to voter registration activity that may have arisen. Most of the SNCC workers seemed concerned primarily about the future availability of funds. They appeared to be in considerable financial difficulty for the essentials of their work,--food, lodging, shoes, etc. They spoke of a mounting indebtedness resulting from their continuance of the voter registration program beyond the period of the original 90-day grant. This indebtedness now amounts to about $2,000. The question whether VEP would find $2,000 over and above the Mississippi allocation for paying off this indebtedness, or whether it would make a grant retroactive to August 1st in order to take care of the debt, was left open.

Moses intends to operate with teams of SNCC workers comprising mobile units which could move from place to place in the delta area and attempt to secure the interest and cooperation of local leadership. His headquarters will be in Cleveland Mississippi. Present plans call for setting up office and residence space for the workers in a house owned by James Bevel.

We left the church where the meeting had taken place about 12:30 Wednesday morning. We noticed two police cars parked at each end of the block as we left the building. While we were standing in frontof the church a car drove by with one occupant and Aaron Henry identified him as Clarksdale police chief Ben C. Collins. WB, myself and Henry went, in our rental car, to Henry's house where we were to spend the night. We had barely retired when, about 2:30 am, we received a call from Bob Moses inCleveland. He told WB that Dave Dennis had been arrested in Clarksdale and was at that time in the city jail. WB called the city jail and was told that Dennis was being held on a charge of failure to yield the right of way, and that bail was set at $25.00. WB and I went to the jail immediately and WB told the desk sergeant that he wanted to make bail for Dennis. The sergeant then said that bail had not been set for Dennis, asserting that Dennis had been arrested on a "county charge", that he had no authority to set bail on such a charge, and that Dennis was being held in the city jail as a courtesy to the county necessitated by the fact that the County jail did not remain open around the clock. WB enquired if there was not a set scheudle of bail for traffic offenses which could be applied in a case such as this and the sergeant (who later identified himself as one Tutt) replied in the negative. The sergeant during the ten minutes or so that we engaged him in conversation about making bail for Dennis seemed extremely nervous and lacking in the confidence generally displayed by such persons when dealing with the public. Seeing that we were not going to be able to bail Dennis out, WB asked the officer for his name. The officer said his name was Tutt and we walked out of the building. We had not gone but a few paces when the door to the building opened and Tutt called after us "I gave you my name—now what is yours". WB gave him his name and we returned to Henry's house.

About 5:30 the following morning WB received another call from Bob Moses telling him that six other persons had been arrested leaving the meeting and that they were also in the Clarksdale jail (WB had asked the desk sergeant if any of Moses "companions" had been arrested, and the sergeant replied that they had not). WB again called the jail enquiring about the arrest of the six. After some hesitation and run-around, the person then on duty at the jail told WB that the six (John Hodges, Samuel Block, J.L. Harris, Richard T. Gray, Albert Garner, Dewey R. Green, J .) had been arrested and charged with loitering and that one, Dewey Green, was in addition charged with operating a motor vehicle without the required inspection sticker. The person told WB that Bail had been set at $51 on the loitering charges and $26.00on the inspection sticker charge. WB called BM and suggested the advisability of filing motions for enjoining prosecution of the loitering charges. BM indicated that investigators would appear that night in Clarksdale to look into the matter. WB called SRC and instructed that $300 in bail money be sent to him at 4th St. Drug Store, Clarksdale. From 4th St. Drug Store Aaron Henry asked Western Union tonotify him by phone when the money arrived. About 10:30 am, WB called Western Union and was told that the money had arrived. He, Aaron Henry and myself went to Western Union office and picked up the money order. Then we went to a bank to cash it. As we pulled up in front of the bank Henry remarked that the president of that bank was a vice-president of the local Citizens Council group. We suggested that we should perhaps not patronize the enemy. He remarked that there were only two banks in Clarksdale and that the president of the other one was the president of the citizens council. We went into the bank and a teller cashed the money order for WB without any identification of any kind--without even asking him if he were the individual to whom the money order was made payable. The money order was for $500.

We went to the city jail and WB told the desk sergeant that he wanted to make bail for the six. She told WB that he would have to see the chief of police. We waited for about 20 minutes and when the chief arrived we were ushered into his office. WB explained who he was and what he wanted. The cheif agreed to accept bail. WB asked him if it would be possible to continue the trial of the six for about a week so that counsel could be secrued. The cheif said that he had nothing to do with that--it was up to the municipal judge, one Connell. We took delivery of the six and proceeded with two of them to the Weiss Auto Service, where their car had been towed after they had been arrested. WB told the man behind the counter at Weiss what he wanted. The man went into an office and came back and said that the charge would be $31.26 for towing and .50 for one day's storage. WB asked what basis the towing charge was figured on and suggested that this was a bit steep for a tow of some six blocks. The man indicated that he was going to lunch, walked out the door, got into a car and drove away. WB then asked another individual behind the counter for some kind of explanation of what seemed an excessive towing charge. The individual identified himself as Weiss the owner of the place. He said that the charge was set by the person who actually made the tow. He said this was so because each job offered peculiarities of its own and the charge was based upon the kind and amount of service required. He said that once the tow charge was set by the person making the tow it was not subject to alteration by anyone else. WB suggested to the representatives of the six that they leave the car there for the time being, because he feared they would be arrested again if they drove it off the lot without an inspection stikker. We left the yard and went back to the 4th St. Drug Store. The six had had nothing much to eat recently so WB invited them to a cafe about a block from the store for lunch. Henry warned that I might be arrested for consorting with Negroes if I went with them. WB asked if I would be served. Henry said yes. WB told me it was up to me whether or not I went. I went.

Minnie W. Lindsey
Methodist
West Point, Miss.

Methodist
Sunflower
Sunflower
Miss Eva
N. Lyons

Rev. D. A. Tucker
Turner Chapel AME
Bailey

Rev. John
The Christian Church

Rev. Rudolph Boddie
Wesley
Methodist Church

Mrs.
Pryor

Edw. Cochran

Falls Williams
St. Francis Episcopal
Franklin Curtis
Episcopal

D. N. Jones

10 weeks
for 20 people
30 = people

Did not go
Locust Grove
Baptist Church

took keys - Deacon
Commonwealth

Grand
Delta Democrat Times

15 people

August 9, 1962

Mr. Samuel Block
616 Avenue I
Greenwood, Mississippi

Dear Samuel:

We are enclosing a description of recent events in Greenwood based upon the notes I took during our telephone conversation of August 8. I would appreciate it if you would read it over carefully and note on it any changes you think should be made and any additions you think should be made.

We wish that you would find out whether the individuals who were involved with you in these incidents would be willing to write out an account of them and send the accounts to us. This would include, of course, Miss McNease, as well as the registration applicants.

It is vitally important to us to have such statements anytime this kind of incident occurs, and we will greatly appreciate anything you can do to get such statements for us. If you think it advisable I will write to each of these individuals asking them for a statement.

Please let us know how you think this can best be handled. Best regards and good luck.

Cordially,

Jack Minnis
Director of Research

JM:jl
enc.

August 8, 1962
5:30 p.m.

About the attached I called Samuel Block in Greenwood. He said that a week ago last Monday, two Greenwood City policemen, one of whom he thinks was either chief of police or a captain, and the other of whom was Greenwood City policeman, Ben Branch, came to 616 Avenue I, in Greenwood. This address serves as Block's residence and as the Voter Education Program office.

Block met the police at the foot of the stairway leading up to the office and was told by them that they were investigating an automobile theft. The policeman whom Block identifies as either the chief or a captain voiced his opinion that Block was a "smart nigger from up North." At this time the police mentioned nothing about Block's voter registration activities. Nevertheless, he felt that this police attention was prompted by those activities.

Last Friday, Block took four Negroes to the county court house in Greenwood so that they could register to vote. They were:

Nettie Bradfield, 210 Vardaman St., Greenwood,
Barbara House, 210 Vardaman St., Greenwood,
Patricia Elliott Pillow, Route 1, Box 2443, Ita Dena, Miss.,
and a Reverend Ledbetter, 702 Howard St., in Greenwood.

Block had given the Negroes instruction in how to register before they went to the court house. They arrived at the court house about 2:30 p.m. and found a female deputy registrar, whose name Block does not know, on duty in the registrar's office. This deputy registrar acknowledged the presence of the Negroes in the office by addressing to Block the question, "What's for you, boy?" The four Negro applicants were frightened by the deputy registrar's general attitude.

The deputy registrar told the Negroes that they would have to see Miss Lamb, the registrar. Block asked the deputy registrar what her job was and why she could not register the Negroes. After some further conversation the deputy registrar agreed to accept the applications of the Negroes. Block asked the deputy registrar how many Negroes were registered to vote in her office. She told him it was none of his business. She gave the Negroes a literacy test composed of interpreting sections of the Mississippi constitution and questions concerning the duties of a citizen in Mississippi. The deputy registrar could not tell the Negroes whether they had passed the test and qualified as registered voters.

When Block arrived home he received a call from an individual who identified himself as speaking for the White Citizens Council. Block is not sure of his name but thinks it was Patton. This individual told Block "if you take anybody else up to register you'll never leave Greenwood alive." Block gets such calls with some frequency.

About a week and a half ago, Miss E.H. McNease of 210 E. Taft St., Greenwood, a school principal, from whom Block rented a room for some time,told Block that she received one of these White Citizens Council calls because of her association with Block. Miss McNease was very frightened and asked Block if anything could be done to prevent their carrying out of threats to herself, and to her property.

Today Block took two Negroes to the registrar's office in Greenwood. The registrar, Miss Lamb, was on duty at this visit. The two Negroes were filling out the application form when Miss Lamb left the office for about ten minutes. About five minutes after she returned to the office two Greenwood City policemen came in. They spoke to Miss Lamb but Block did nothear what they said. He got the impression that Miss Lamb had called them during her absence from the office. The police and Miss Lamb then went out of the office and Block noticed an apparent increase in activity in the hall outside the office with people looking in the door and policemen walking by from time to time.

The Negroes finished filling out the application forms and the literacy and citizenship tests, turned their papers in to Miss Lamb, and left the office. Two policemen were waiting just outside the county court house. The police said something to Block but he ignored them, got into a taxi and took the registrants home. The police car followed the taxi, stopping in front of the homes of the registrants as they alighted from the cab and apparently taking notes of the addresses. Block, after dropping off the registrants, proceeded to 616 Avenue I, in the taxi. He got out of the taxi and went into a drug store across the street from his residence. While standing in the drug store he saw the police car go by slowly. As soon as it was out of sight he hurried across the street and up the stairs.

At the time of our telephone conversation, which was several hours after the events described above, the police car had just left its position in front of Block's residence. Block gets the impression that all of this attention directed towards him by the police is the direct result of his voter registration activities and that it is designed to intimidate both himself and the individuals who want to register to vote in Greenwood.

cc: Samuel Block

Mississippi Voter Resistance

Wednesday, August 8
5:10 p.m.

We received a call from Jim Monsonis in SNCC's Atlanta office. Monsonis said that SNCC's worker, Samuel Block, had been the subject of considerable police harassment because of his voter registration efforts in Greenwood, Mississipp. According to Monsonis, last Thursday Block was told by Greenwood police that they would "bash his teeth in" or words to that effect, if he continued his voter registration activities. Then, according to Monsonis, on Friday, police came into a meeting which Block was conducting for the purpose of instructing and encouraging voter registration. Monsonis did not specify what the police did, but he understands that their demeanor was threating.

Monsonis says that today Block took 3 Negroes to the registrar's office and was followed home by police. At the time Monsonis received the call from Block the police had been waiting outside Block's home for a couple of hours and Block told him that he felt he was in immediate danger of continued harrassment and possible bodily harm.

Jack Minnis
jl

Miss. Rosist.

SEP 10 1962

Memo from Bob Moses:
Re: Pressure on the Negro citizens of Ruleville Miss.

Sunday, Sept. 2, 1962, a mass meeting of white citizens was held in Ruleville. The following morning, a Negro citizen was laid off from his job with the city, two Negro cleaners were closed, allegedly for violating city ordinances, and a group of Negro people were reportedly turned away from the fields because they were from Ruleville.

The previous Friday, August 31, 1962, Mr. Edward Taylor, who is 71 years old, born in Georgia and raised in Kruger Mississippi below Greenwood, a farmer all his life and part time worker in the cotton fields around Ruleville for the past 22 years, had the following conversation with Mayor C.M.Dorrough while at City Hall paying his water bill:

> The mayor said, according to Mr. Taylor, "You all pulling tight with us and we gonna tighten down on you all". Mr. Taylor says he replied, "Well, O.K.". Then the mayor asked him if he had a garbage can, and when he said no, told him he would have to get one. Then the mayor said, "Louise, I see where she done registered. You registered?" (Louise,is Mr. Taylor's wife). And then said, "I'm getting tired of them shooting this bull shit around through town and you just as well to register, cause you got to go through this suffering like the rest of them". Mr. Taylor says he answered, "O.K." The mayor went on, "I'm gonna shut this damn town down, I'm gonna close it down, especially on a Sunday". Mr. Taylor said two white fellows came up and "commenced to side talking", so he left.

Sunday, Sept. 2, all the Negro business establishments in Ruleville were forced to close down for the day.

Monday morning Mr. Lenard Davis, who is 49 years old, born in 1913, in Copiah County, Hazlehurst and went throught the fifth grade in school, who moved to Ruleville in 1953, worked briefly for a tractor company in town and briefly for Delta Gin company, then worked two years for United Gas Company, and in 1956 worked on the construction of the Negro school and after that on the sewer system, and who has been working for the past two years on the City Sanitation department, had the following conversation with Mayor C.M. Dorrough:

> Mr. Davis says Mr. Charles told him, "we gonna make some changes heah" Mr. Davis says he then asked him, "What was that". He says the Mayor replied, "We gonna let you go, your wife been attending that school". Mr. Davis says he answered, "I haven't been to the school". He says the Mayor then said, "That doesn't make any difference". Mr. Davis says he replied, "Well if that's the way it's got to be I guess I'll have to take off - find me a job somewhere else". He says the Mayor then said, "Well its gonna be a little difficult for you to get a job heah in Ruleville". Mr. Davis says he replied, "Well I guess I'll have to take off", told the Mr. Charles, "Thank you" and left for City hall where the Mayor had told him his check would be waiting. The clerk's office was closed, but the Mayor offered to loan Mr. Davis some money until he could get his check. Mr. Davis says he refused.

We got a report, ~~ealry~~ monday ~~morning~~, that Mr. Miles Applewhite had taken a group of Negroes to the field that morning, Sept. 3, and the people from Ruleville had been told to return. We talked with Mr. Applewhite that evening, but he said it wasn't true. We hear now that it was Mr. Fred Hicks who was the driver of the truck. We haven't had a chance to talk with him yet.

The two Negro cleaners in town have been closed down for minor violations of city ordinances, supposedly. We have not had a chance to talk with the owners yet about this.

Monday afternoon, between, 2:00 and 2:10, Amzie Moore and myself were walking North on Division st. in Ruleville, and a Red and White pickup truck with a white middle aged male driving, and riding alone, headed South on Division towards us, passing closed than was necessary on the road. Amzie and I commented to each other that the truck sure had pa ssed close enough and the driver sure had looked hardenough, and then turned East onto Baron st. where we approached Mr. and Mrs. Sisson, who were sitting in their car about 100 feet from The intersection of Division and Baron.

Amzie was talking to them and I was approaching them when I heard somebody call, "Come heah". I turned around and the Red and White pickup truck was parked in the intersection of Division and Baron, heading North, and the driver was leaning across the cab beckoning to Amzie and myself to come the the truck. I got Amzie's attention and we walked together to the truck. We stood on the off side window and the man inside said, "My name is Ben Weed, are you the folks getting the people here to register". We both said yes, we were. The man continued, "Well, I've got a plantation out there, (and he pointed in a North-East direction), I want you to come out and register the people. We both said, O.K., we would come on out. Then the said, "I've got a shot gun waiting for you, double barrel". He began shaking his fist at us. I dropped back to the rear of the car in time to jot down part of his license number F 57297 as he drove off North on Division st.

D.R. Burks, a white man who owns the lumber co. in Ruleville, is reported to have told Walter Brooks a Negro worker at the Company that Mr. and Mrs. Sisson were at the bottom of all this trouble and damn all the Sissons and Youngs.

A lady just knocked on the window and reports that the brother in law of Irene Johnson was just taken off of his bus as he wa s on the way to the fields and taken to jail. It's now 6:50 A.M. Tuesday morning, Sept. 4.

I checked with Mrs. Irene Johnson and she said she had seen her brother, Mr. Slyvester Gray, about 30 minutes ago on the highway in a police car with the Mayor and another policeman, heading West on number 8 towards City Hall. "Ves", (Mr. Gray) waved at her and said, "Hey there gal", she said she waved back and said, "Hey". Mrs. Johnson was on the street to go to the store, about 6:30, and several people told her they had seen the law following "Ves" around all morning. Mr. Jack Ship, who lives on Harrison st., Mr. Fred Hicks, who was picking up people in his car himself, Mrs. Annie Mae Sills, who stays out in the suberbs, across the railroad tracks.

Mrs. Johnson called down to City Hall but nobody answered the phone. Later she reported that when she called Mr. Charles, the Mayor, and asked him what the charges were he replied several things". When she asked him if she could arrange bond for him he said it hadn't been set as yet. When she asked him when it would be arranged he replied, "I'm waiting to set the trial and I have authority to set the trial whenever I gets ready". The Mayor then asked who was speaking on the phone and when she told him, "Irene Johnson", he banged the receiver down. Mr. George Jordan has reportedly gone down to see about Mr. Gray.

While I was at Mrs. Johnson's home, Landy McNair, Charles Beazley, and Lafayette Surney, camein and said they had been stopped by Givins, a local police, who was riding in a plain car. Charles Beazley gave this account of the story:

> Mr. Givins, in a plain car followed us as we were walking North on Division st., South of the Highway. He stopped and asked us, "Why you all isn't working", you better get a cotton sack". He told them that if they were caught in the streets during the day without a dime in their pockets they would be picked up and sent down.
>
> He pulled up and then stopped and called Landy to the car and asked for his name. Landy refused to give him his name and he pulled up to the highway and turned East and turned around on the highway and stopped on the corner of the highway and this street (The one running N. and S. in front of Mr. MacDonald's.)

In the meantime Mrs. Johnson told me about two incidents at her home:

> Two or three days after the first group went down, Aug. 14, the Mayor and Mr. Givins drove up to her home. The Mayor got out and asked her if she had any boys, she said she had. He asked her how old they were. She said one, Tommy Hohn was 19 years old, and Eddie was 13. The Mayor then said, "Don't you have a boy 21". She said, "no", whereupon the mayor said, "Oh, yes you got a boy 21". Mrs. Johnson said she then called Tommy to come to the door and the mayor asked, "This your boy, 19?". She said yes and called Eddie to the door. Themayor asked if Tommy had registered with the draft board and then left.

Then on Wednesday, Aug. 22nd. The Mayor came by the house, Tommy came out to meet him, but he went by without saying a word and cut the water off. When Mrs. Johnson came in out of the fields, she went down to the City Hall and talked to Mrs. Carrothers, the clerk. The clerk told her that a ten day waiting period from the time of the issuance of the bill had expired, therefore her water had been cut off. Mrs. Johnson says she asked many people who live near her if they had paid their water bill and was told theat they had not. Also she says that her bill was pulled out from a stack of bills, which she believes fall in the same category.

The following letter was sent to: Williams Missionary Baptist Church
Byron st.
Ruleville, Miss.

from: Town of Ruleville
Ruleville, Mississippi

It was not sent through the mail, but put in Mr. Miles Foster's car ~~and as of now we do not know who delivered it or to whom it was delivered~~. I first saw it at Mr. Joe MacDonald's home.

Town of Ruleville
Ruleville, Miss.
September 3, 1962

Chas. M. Dorrough, Mayor
Mrs. Wm. S. Carrothers, Clerk
Geo. W. Wachter, Marshall

Aldermen:
Walter Crook Jr.
Gus Morgan
Hymann Turner
W. G. Flowers
J. M. Robertson

Williams Chapel Missionary Baptist Church
Ruleville, Mississippi

It has been brought to out attention that you are using the building located on the North Half of Lot 8 Block 6 of Finley's addition to the Town of Ruleville, Ruleville, Mississippi for purposes other than worship services.

This property has herefofore been exempt from taxes and we have furnished you free water. You are hereby notified that you are no longer furnished free water and your exemption as religious property will be cancelled.

Yours very truly,

C.M. Dorrough

Mayor

Last night, ~~Sunday*August*Sept.2~~ Monday, Sept. 3, we went out to see Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer, who had been told not to stay on the plantation after going down to register on Friday, August 31st., She said her husband, Mr. Hamer, "Pap", came to Ruleville about 1:30 to where she was staying and told her that it was not safe for her to stay in Ruleville, that somebody might wind up getting killed. He then arranged to come back that evening and pick up Mrs. Hamer and take her and their two girls to another town to stay with relatives.

Mr. Marlow told Mr. Hamer that he could stay on the plantation and run the combine all the fall but he had better not see any parts of Mrs. Hamer.

Mrs. Hamer says that Mr. Marlow was only paying them $1.00 for each hundred pounds of cotton and refused to pay Mrs. Hamer and her two girls for the cotton they had picked this past week. Mrs. Hamer had picked 312 pounds, her oldest girl 448 pounds and her youngest girl 140 pounds.

Mrs. Hamer reports that the Mayor has told her brother, Joe Townsend not to move his trailor until he gets a permit. It is unclear whether Mr. Townsend has all the necessary papers to drive the trailor. She also reports his phone was cut off without cause.

Mr. George Jordan says that on Friday, August 31,Mr. Jessie Willingham, a deputy from Ruleville, drove out to Mr. Kelly's (He didn't know the last name accurately enough for me to identify it.) place where he and ten or eleven other Negroes from Ruleville were picking cotton. Mr. Kelly was not there when the deputy drove out the first time, about 7 or 8 o'clock. But was on hand at 12:00 when the deputy returned with two other unidentified men. They talked with Mr. Kelly. At the end of the day Mr. Kelly told the group that he couldn't use any of them until this thing cleared up. He said something about the NAACP and said that Mr. Jordan was the one causing all the trouble.

Mr. Jordan also said Miles Foster had some trouble yesterday, but we haven't had a chance to talk to Miles yet.

Mr. Fred Hicks, 47, who has lived in Ruleville since he was a small child and has been hauling labor for himself about eight or ten years, was told by the owner of the bus he has been driving all year, that he could no longer use the bus. After returning from the fields yesterday, Mr. Hicks went by the shop in Ruleville. On his way there the law stopped him and told him he would have to have a commercial liscense. He went on to see Mr. Jones, who owns the bus and Mr. Jones said he "couldn't drive it no more around" that "they was gonna have it fixed so he couldn't drive nary no where else". Mr. Hicks says he said, "We gonna see how tight we can make it - gonna make it just as tight as we can - gonna be rougher and rougher than you think it is". Hicks says that Mr. Jones told him that what put the weight on him was his mother going down and the "Only'st way to get the weight off was to get her to withdraw her name - any relative at all, any kin, any relation to those who have registered, gonna put the weight on them unless they withdraw their names "

Mr. Hicks said he told Mr. Jones that he hadn't been down, but he said that didn't make any difference.

Mrs. Surney, Lafayette Surney's mother, reports that the lady she works for, Mrs. R.E. Conell, approadhed her at 12 noon Monday and said that "she needed me and she thought I needed her, she didn't take no side with it, said my boy was wrapped and tied up in it and I was with him 100%".

Mrs. Surney said she asked her, "What was it about", and she said she didn't know and hadn't been at a meeting. Mrs. Surney asked her was there any harm in it, and she said, "No, there wasn't any harm, just something to make me hate you and you hate me - get me right now, I don't mean pick up a stick and hit you or anything like that, but if you was to lose your job ain't no sense in going over to Miss Ann or somebody else for a job".

Mrs. Conell said she had got several calls concerning Lafayette, said She hadn't taken no sides with it, hadn't asked anybody, but ~~I'm told~~ said that the town is really in an upstir.

On Wednesday, August 29th., Mr. H. R. Smith, the principal of the High School Negroes attend, reportedly told the students that the Lions club in Ruleville had some garbage cans and if the students would sell them from the school the atheletic club would get some of the money. Smith and the coach reportedly then carried 20 students all over the area with a form to see who would buy garbage cans at $4.00 apiece. The following morning, August 30th., some students were excused from classes for about two hours to sell more garbage cans.

Willie Campbell, a Negro, said that Bob Edwards, a white man, told him that the Negroes are making it hard for themselves, trying to rush things, "it will be", he said. He asked Willie what he was doing about what was going on, and asked was he going to the meetings. Mrs. Bob Edwards told Willie he better be careful if he let his name be known he will be fixed. She also asked what was going on at the church. Willie said they was just having meetings. She told him he was a liar and she knew what they were doing.

Mr. B. T. Wall went to Indianola on Friday, August 31, to register. The following Monday, Mr. Lake Lindsey, son of the owner (Mr. O.B. Lindsey) of the plantation he sharecrops on, met him on the road. They were both driving. Mr. Lindsey held his hand out for Mr. Wall to stop. When they had stopped Mr. Lindsey said, "I want you to to to Indianola to get your name off the book". Mr. Wall asked him, "What have I did wrong". Mr. Lindsey repeated, "Get your name off the book". Mr. Wall says he told him he wanted to satisfy him and do what he say. Mr. Walls says he went down that same day, Monday, September 3, and told the registrar, Mr. Campbell, "I come to withdraw my application". Mr. Campbell said O.K. and gave him his form. Mr. Wall says he wrote on it: I, B.T. Wall, withdraw.

Friday morning, September 7, Charles McLaurin and myself drove down to Indianola for our trial on illegal leafletering, we were late in arriving, there were several groups of men standing around the court house. As we approached onto the grounds one of themen broke away from one group and approached us calling my name. We stopped and waited for him. He told us what had happened in court that morning, that Atty. Hall had entered a plea of guilty and that the court had levied a fine of $50.00 and we had appealed the case to the county court. We talked a few minutes more with another man who had come up, he was apparently a lawyer and then left.

When we drove up a car with four men in it had driven in to the parking lot. They had left their car and joined one of the groups. When we left, these same four men, two or three of them were wearing large cowboy type hats, got back into their car. As we drove out of town they followed close behind us.

The car tailed us back to Ruleville and parked off of highway 8 on the gravel road leading to William's Chapel, heading East. It was about 9:00 A.M. when we arrived at the church. The students identified the car as a white '60 ford. After waiting there for 15 or twenty minutes it followed our car when some of the students went to pick up other participants. We took the license number as it passed, 5739, Sunflower county. When our car returned the white ford drove back to its post, this time parked heading North on highway 8. A station wagon, identified as a tan, chevrolet, 1960, pulled up behind the ford with six men in it. Men got out from both cars and talked, then the ford turned around and headed South down highway 8, the station wagon turned around and parked, heading South on highway 8. It remained there until we left, about 10:30. The number of the station wagon was, C 5200 .
67

A group of citizens from Ruleville went down to Indianola to register after we left the church. They used a different car and were not followed down. They reported that all was calm in Indianola, but the circuit clerk was not in his office and his assistant told them that he would be out for a month, in court and they would not be able to register any more people during that period.

SEP 10 1962

Ruleville, Miss.

August 14,16 On tuesday August 14, five people went down and were allowed to fill out the forms together. On Thursday August 16, four people went down and had to fill out the forms separately. They don't know whether they passed the test or not, The Justice Department is investigating.

Sun. August 19, Three SNCC (Student Nonviolent Coordenting Committee) reprecentatives arrivedin Rulevelle to help organize a voter registration campaign. We met that evening with local students, and we discussed possible approaches to getting people to register and vote; and we spoke of getting a group of local youths to work on the project.

Monday August 20, We spent most of the day getting to know the community Each of us had talks with various professional people. That evening we met with a number of local youths; and each pledged to support a voter re registration project.

Tuesday August 21, Two SNCC representatives were picked uo by the honorable mayor. As he had no right to pick them up in the first place, he let them go soon. That evening, helped out by local youths, we divided into three groups, and went from door to door, asking people to register and vote.

Wed. August 22, We took a group of people to Indianola to register. The registrar was out.

Thursday August 23, We took another group of people to register. The office was closed.

Friday August 24, We took more people to register. The office was closed.

Strange that the registrar's office has been closed every time we bring a group of people to register. We'll keep bringing them though!

You people of Ruleville have been quite helpful, but we want more of you to register.

BE A FIRST CLASS CITIZEN, REGISTER AND VOTE!

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a fast message unless its deferred character is indicated by the proper symbol.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

SF-1201 (4-60)

SYMBOLS

DL = Day Letter

NL = Night Letter

LT = International Letter Telegram

The filing time shown in the date line on domestic telegrams is LOCAL TIME at point of origin. Time of receipt is LOCAL TIME at point of destination

1106A EST MAR 4 63 AF106 PD090

A WF060 W TXA009 GOVT PD

TX WASHINGTON DC 4 1036A EST

WILEY A BRANTON, VOTER EDUCATION PROJ SOU REGIONAL COUN

FIVE FORSYTH ST NORTHWEST ATLA

HEREBY ACKNOWLEDGE RECEIPT OF YOUR TELEGRAM IN REGARD TO THE TRAVIS SHOOTING. CLYDE FERGUSON, GERNERAL COUNSEL, WILL BE IN TOUCH WITH YOU IMMEDIATELY REGARDING COMMISSION PLANS IN LINE WITH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUGGESTION

BERL I BERNHARD STAFF DIR US COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS (43).

MAR 4 1963

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a fast message unless its deferred character is indicated by the proper symbol.

WESTERN UNION

TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

SF-1201 (R-60)

SYMBOLS

DL = Day Letter

NL = Night Letter

LT = International Letter Telegram

The filing time shown in the date line on domestic telegrams is LOCAL TIME at point of origin. Time of receipt is LOCAL TIME at point of destination

1104A EST MAR 4 63 AF103 PA160

A WG020 W TXA010 GOVT PD

TX WASHINGTON DC 4 1036A EST

MAR 4 1963

WILEY A BRANTON, VOCTER EDUCATION PROJ SOU REGIONAL COUN

5 FORSYTH ST NORTHWEST ATLA

DR HANNAH, CHAIRMAN, REQUESTS THAT I ACKNOWLEDGE RECEIPT OF YOUR TELEGRAM IN REFERENCE TO TRAVIS SHOOTING. REFER TO MY TELEGRAM DISPATCHED TODAY

BERL I BERNHARD STAFF DIR US COMM ON CIVIL RIGHTS

(44).

Return to — W.A. J.M. RB LWD

Southern Field Service

National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice

1046 Baronne Street • New Orleans 13, Louisiana • 523-2901

March 5, 1963

MAR 7 1963

Mr. Wiley A. Branton
Voter Education Project
Southern Regional Council
Room 206, 5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Wiley:

Father Nathaniel wasn't in Greenwood when I telephoned yesterday but called me from Hot Springs, Arkansas today. I asked him to do whatever he could to help the situation and he assured me that he would. He said that much tension existed in the area right now; in fact, the Catholic Church was shot up last week.

He says that in his opinion the Justice Department is proceeding in the correct manner and so is the Department of Agriculture who will set up a unit there to furnish aid to the people but that the CORE and SNIC effort wasn't organized properly and they used the wrong kind of publicity. Whether or not he is correct I don't know.

When I asked him what we could do and whether or not I could write to all of our southern Councils to send in food and clothing, he urged me by all means not to do this saying that this is one of the things that helped touch off the explosive incidents or at least the manner in which it was done. He did say that his information center was working in a quiet manner to do what they could about the situation and that he wanted to meet me when he came to New Orleans in April.

Wiley, I feel frustrated because I haven't been able to actually do anything except get a report from Father Nathaniel. If you can think of something that I or anyone else in the Catholic community can do to aid in this situation, please let me know.

Yours sincerely,

Henry

Henry Cabirac, Jr.

HC:kv

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
CHAIRMAN
Raymond M. Hilliard, Chicago
VICE CHAIRMEN
Dr. John J. O'Connor Washington, D.C.
John P. Nelson, Jr. New Orleans
Robert Sargent Shriver, Jr. Washington, D.C.
SECRETARY
Mrs. Anna M. McGarry Philadelphia
TREASURER
Charles W. Wexler, Detroit
Dennis Clark, New York
George K. Hunton, New York
Thomas A. Luken, Cincinnati
John A. McDermott, Chicago
James P. Mitchell, San Francisco
Very Rev. Harold R. Perry, S.V.D., Bay St. Louis
John Edward White, Pittsburgh

BOARD MEMBERS
George Barrett, Nashville
Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Brady, Syracuse
Elmer Paul Brock, Washington, D.C.
Mrs. James E. Brophy, Detroit
Very Rev. Msgr. Daniel M. Cantwell, Chicago
James T. Carey, San Francisco
Daniel Cassey, Detroit
William M. Chiles, Syracuse
Rev. Joseph Connolly, Baltimore
Lloyd Davis, New Haven
Ellsworth Evans, St. Louis
John J. Farrell, Chicago
Ralph Fenton, Boston
Dr. Eugene Fontinell, New Rochelle
Norman Francis, New Orleans
Terry A. Francois, San Francisco
Harold T. Hunton, Brooklyn
Rev. Philip S. Hurley, S.J., New York
John T. Kenna, Washington, D.C.
Rt. Rev. Msgr. Franklyn J. Kennedy, Milwaukee
Clarence A. Laws, Dallas
James A. Leadon, St. Paul
George S. Lima, Providence
James K. Luger, Minneapolis
William McCoy, Portland
Albert Miller, Winona
Joseph Newman, Cleveland
Dr. C. Joseph Nuesse, Washington, D.C.
Very Rev. George F. O'Dea, S.S.J., Baltimore
Guichard Parris, New York
Michael F. Quinn, Indianapolis
Dr. Ferdinand L. Rousseve, Boston
Rt. Rev. Msgr. Alexander Sigur, Lafayette
Miss Theresa Staudt, San Antonio
Percy H. Steele, Jr., San Diego
William H. Thompson, Little Rock
Charles F. Vatterott, Jr., St. Louis
Rawson L. Wood, New York
HONORARY CHAPLAIN
Rev. John LaFarge, S.J., New York
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Mathew Ahmann
DIRECTOR, SOUTHERN FIELD SERVICE
Henry A. Cabirac, Jr.

file before clips

CBS NEWS

A Division of Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc.

485 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, NEW YORK · PLAZA 1-2345

March 14, 1963

Mr. Jack Minnis
Voter Education Project
Southern Regional Council
Room 206
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Minnis:

Your letter of March 8 to Mr. Cronkite has been forwarded to me for reply.

Enclosed is a copy of the transcript you requested. I am sorry to say that we cannot supply you with a print of the footage as Nelson Benton appears throughout the story, and it is a CBS policy not to release film on a CBS correspondent.

Sincerely yours,

Virginia Dillard

Virginia Dillard
Manager, News Film Library

VD:JS
Enclosure

VOTER REGISTRATION DRIVE, GREENWOOD, MISSISSIPPI

REPORTER: "This is the headquarters in Greenwood, Miss. for an intensified voter registration campaign for Negroes....a campaign that has picked up as a result of a Negro vote worker being shot last week by white men....men who have since been arrested and released on bond. Vote workers--such as this one--have doubled in number."

"Once prospective voters are briefed, they are taken to the courthouse where the registration process is started. Some white residents of Greenwood say things are normal here."

MAYOR CHARLES SAMPSON INTERVIEW

REPORTER: "The civil rights workers---"Outsiders" as the mayor calls them---say they are here to stay. How effective they will be remains to be seen."

This is Nelson Benton in Greenwood, Mississippi.

B4
3-15-63

March 8, 1963

Mr. Walter Cronkite
CBS News
485 Madison Avenue
New York, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Cronkite:

Your news program on the evening of March 7, included some comments upon the situation in LeFlore County, Mississippi, and some film taken by your reporter out there. The LeFlore county registration work is a part of our research program and we are gathering as much information as we can about for use in a future publication.

Would it be possible for us to obtain a print of the footage your cameraman shot in LeFlore County, and a transcript of your comments during the March 7 newscast?

Very truly yours,

Jack Minnis
Director of Research

JM:jl

2

March 14, 1963

The Honorable C. E. Sampson
Mayor
Greenwood, Mississippi

My dear Mr. Sampson:

As you are no doubt aware, there are several people in your town and county at the moment, working actively in the area of voter registration. The current effort at voter registration among Negroes in LeFlore County has the full support of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council.

We believe firmly that the right to vote is basic in our American democracy and that a free and informed electorate is one of the greatest safeguards against dictatorships and Communism.

The only thing that we, and those working with us, are seeking to do is to assist people in being able to register and in helping to educate people in the affairs of government so that they will be able to vote freely and intelligently, on all issues.

This is a non-partisan effort and when the project was first announced in the spring of 1962, it had the endorsement of the national chairmen of both the Republican and Democration parties. Photocopies of the endorsements of these political leaders are enclosed.

Prior to February 28, 1963, there were only two people assisting in our project in LeFlore County and they were both field secretaries of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, part of a team working with the Council of Federated Organizations in selected Mississippi Delta counties. As a result of the tragic shooting of young Jimmy Travis, who was traveling with Mr. Randolph Blackwell, the Field Director for the Voter Education Project, we announced a stepped up campaign toward voter registration in LeFlore County and received the immediate cooperation of several agencies working with us, including the Council of Federated Organizations, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Congress of Racial Equality, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

It seems hard to believe that there are people in this country who are so violently opposed to the right of certain Americans to register and vote that they would seek to injure or kill those active in registration and voting. It would seem to us that the local, county, and state governments should be the first to insist not only that such lawlessness would not go unpunished but that it could not be in truth said that any citizen is denied the right to register and vote, on account of race or color.

Our efforts at voter registration will, at all times, be conducted in a peaceable and dignified manner. We have nothing to hide from any one. We recognize the fact that there are many people in LeFlore County who are illiterate and in need of special training and we intend to arrange for literacy schools to be established to train people to read and write.

If at any time you have any questions regarding any of our activities in Greenwood or LeFlore County we will be pleased to explain them to you and we would hope that a climate of understanding and of mutual respect could be created between your administration and those active in voter registration. I would appreciate hearing from you regarding the matters raised in this letter.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl
cc: Sheriff John Ed Cothron

Staff - Miss.

Voter Registration Goes on 'Carefully'

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 14 (AP)—Despite bullets and shotgun blasts, Negro voter registration leaders Thursday pushed ahead in their drive.

"But we are being very, very careful," said Samuel Block, 23, of Cleveland, Miss., a field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

Twice in the span of a week SNCC workers reported being fired upon from a passing behicle. Block said one of the weapons must have been a submachine gun.

No one has been killed, but James Travis, 20, of Jackson, Miss., was wounded. Two others said they were cut by flying glass from a car window shattered by buckshot.

In addition to promoting caution among members of the Atlanta-headquartered SNCC (they pronounce it "snick"), gunfire moved what had been a relatively minor racial conflict into the major leagues.

INTEGRATION organizations, including the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, rallied around with expressions of outrage and demands for federal action.

Residents—both white and Negro—were jolted into giving full attention. They wondered uneasily what was coming next.

"They're pretty shook," said W. S. Richardson, general manager of The Greenwood Daily Commonwealth. "Most of them don't think all this (violence) was necessary."

Indeed, by almost any standard of logic, it is difficult to conceive of such uproar purely as the result of the SNCC operation.

SNCC has not been notably successful in this Delta area.

Block said SNCC workers, during eight months had talked about 35 Negroes into trying to register as voters.

Key to the puzzle is that Leflore County's white residents, outnumbered nearly 2-1, are firmly convinced the fewer Negro voters there are, the better.

THIS IS ONE of the areas Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., had in mind when he said recently that some sections of Mississippi and Louisiana are "just scared to death of political domination by Negroes."

Leflore County has a population of 47,000. The Justice Department said about 475 of the 30,000 Negroes were listed as voters.

Mrs. Martha Lamb, voter registrar, said she had no idea how many Negroes are registered now because forms no longer designate the applicants' race.

In addition to the registration drive, the SNCC is involved in another touchy issue in Leflore County.

In response to merchant complaints, the county board of supervisors lopped about 22,000 persons off the list of 28,000 who were getting free federal surplus foods.

Ninety per cent of the 22,000 were Negroes.

The SNCC charged the action was retaliation for its registration work. County officials denied it. A state advisory committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission also denied it.

The free food program, with the county footing distribution costs, was unpopular with many merchants—particularly grocers—long before the SNCC drive was born.

BUT MANY Negroes felt the timing of the cut-off was too opportune to be coincidence. And the action won the SNCC backing in efforts to bring in food from sympathizers.

The first load came from Chicago. Negro comedian Dick Gregory of Chicago paid to have seven tons of it flown to Memphis, Tenn., where it made the remaining 128 miles by truck.

"A cheap publicity stunt," said State Welfare Commissioner Fred Ross of Jackson.

Free food continues to be distributed, through the efforts of SNCC.

Block said about 2,000 pounds from Louisville, Ky., was given out a week ago and another load from Chicago is expected Friday.

In the midst of it all, The Commonwealth pleaded with both sides for law and order in a page one editorial which said:

"Those who think guns will bring any kind of solution, temporary or lasting, to the fight this county is waging now can't think past the end of their noses."

4- Leflore Publicity

JM ✓
RTB
WD
file Leflore County

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 1963

Dear Mr. Branton:

The President has directed me to reply to your telegram of March 1, concerning the deplorable shooting of James Travis, a voter registration worker, in LeFlore Country, Mississippi, on February 28, 1963. A full investigation was begun immediately by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and is still continuing. Two white men have already been charged with felonious assault on James Travis by the State of Mississippi and an investigation by the Sheriff's office of LeFlore County is also continuing.

As you must know, since your telegram another such incident occurred on the night of March 6, when Samuel Block, Essie Lee Broome, Peggy Wayne, and Willie Peacock, all voter registration workers, were shot at while sitting in a car in front of their voter registration office in Greenwood, Mississippi. A full investigation of this incident was also begun immediately by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The Chief of Police of Greenwood is also making an investigation.

Possible federal criminal action is being studied by attorneys from the Department of Justice, some of whom are presently in LeFlore County. You may feel certain that any possible appropriate action will be taken. The President has strongly stated his view that incidents of this nature cannot be tolerated.

We appreciate your concern for the safety of these Negro voter registration workers and assure you that we will do what we can to secure that Negro citizens of LeFlore County are permitted to register to vote free from intimidation and harassment.

Sincerely yours,

Lee C. White

Lee C. White
Assistant Special Counsel
to the President

Mr. Wiley A. Branton, Director
Voter Education Project
Five Forsyth Street, NW
Atlanta, Georgia

March 22, 1963

Mr. Lee C. White
Assistant Special Counsel
to the President
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. White:

Thank you for your letter of March 20 in reply to our telegraph of March 1 to the President concerning the shooting of our registration worker in LeFlore County, Mississippi.

We are pleased to note that you seem fully aware of all of the incidents which have taken place in LeFlore County subsequent to the first shooting. If this office can assist in any manner in furnishing information, or cooperating in any way with any program which the President or any agency of the federal government undertakes toward the end that all citizens are permitted to register and vote without discrimination, then you have but to let us know.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

3-27-63

March 20, 1963

Mr. Clarence Clyde Ferguson, Jr.
General Counsel
U.S. Commission on Civil Rights
Washington, D.C.

Dear Clyde:

In your telegram of March 4, you mentioned that you were writing a letter regarding the shooting incident in Greenwood, Mississippi, but as of this date we have heard nothing further from you.

I was just curious.

Kind personal regards.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

CLASS OF SERVICE
This is a fast message unless its deferred character is indicated by the proper symbol.

WESTERN UNION
TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

SF-1201 (3-60)

SYMBOLS
DL = Day Letter
NL = Night Letter
LT = International Letter Telegram

The filing time shown in the date line on domestic telegrams is LOCAL TIME at point of origin. Time of receipt is LOCAL TIME at point of destination

MAR 4 1963

1109A EST MAR 4 63 AF110 PD096
A WG021 W TXA011 GOVT PD
TX WASHINGTON DC 4 1036A EST
WILEY A BRANTON, VOTER EDUCATION PROJ SOU REGIONAL COUN
5 FORSYTH ST NORTHWEST ATLA
LETTER FOLLOWS IN REGARD TO TRAVIS INCIDENT. WE ARE FOLLOWING CLOSELY THE FBI INVESTIGATION CLARENCE CLYDE FERGUSON JR GENL COUN US COMM ON CIVIL RIGHTS (45).

DOMESTIC SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise this message will be sent as a fast telegram

TELEGRAM
DAY LETTER
NIGHT LETTER

$
S
E

WESTERN UNION
TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

1207 (4-55)

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise the message will be sent at the full rate

FULL RATE
LETTER TELEGRAM
SHORE SHIP

NO. WDS.-CL. OF SVC.	PD. OR COLL	CASH NO.	CHARGE TO THE ACCOUNT OF	TIME FILED
			Southern Regional Council 522-0764

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

To President John F. Kennedy 3-28-63 19
Street and No. Washington, D.C.
Care of or Apt. No. Destination

Despite the denials of Greenwood police, a minister was actually bitten by a dog being used by police yesterday in unlawfully interfering with a group of Negro citizens who were walking back to their church from the court house where they had gone to register. Rev. D. L. Tucker suffered severe shock and injuries to his leg when bitten by the police dog. He was given emergency treatment by a private physician and then treated at Greenwood hospital. Local police have not only failed to protect people seeking to register but now use violence and intimidation themselves against Negro citizenw active in voter registration. I urge you to act at once to restore law and order to Leflore County, Mississippi and protect the lives and property of Negro citizens. Will you please inform me as to what stapp will be taken to aid these citizens.

Wiley A. Branton
Voter Education Project
Atlanta, Georgia

Senders's name and address (For reference)
5 Forsyth St., N.W., Room 206

Sender's telephone number 525-0595

DOMESTIC SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise this message will be sent as a fast telegram
TELEGRAM
DAY LETTER
NIGHT LETTER

$ S E

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

1207 (4-55)

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise the message will be sent at the full rate
FULL RATE
LETTER TELEGRAM
SHORE SHIP

SBV
PAV
JL

NO. WDS.-CL. OF SVC.	PD. OR COLL	CASH NO.	CHARGE TO THE ACCOUNT OF	TIME FILED
			Southern Regional Council 522-8764

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

To Governor Ross Barnett 3-29-63 19

Street and No. Jackson, Mississippi

Care of or Apt. No. Destination

Despite the denials of Greenwood police, a minister was actually bitten by a dog being used by police yesterday in unlawfully interfering with a group of Negro citizens who were walking back to their church from the court house where they had gone to register. Rev. D. L. Tucker suffered severe shock and injuries to his leg when bitten by the police dog. He was given emergency treatment by a private physician and then treated at Greenwood hospital. Local police have not only failed to protect people seeking to register by now use violence and intimidation themselves against ~~XXXXXX~~ Negro citizens active in voter registration. I urge you to act at once to restore law and order to Leflore County, Mississippi and protect the lives and property of Negro citizens. Will you please inform me as to what steps will be taken to aid these citizens.

Wiley A. Branton
Voter Education Project

Senders's name and address (For reference) Sender's telephone number

5 Forsyth St., N.W.Room 206 Atlanta, Georgia 525-0595

DOMESTIC SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise this message will be sent as a fast telegram
TELEGRAM
DAY LETTER
NIGHT LETTER

$ S E

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

1207 (4-55)

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise the message will be sent at the full rate
FULL RATE
LETTER TELEGRAM
SHORE SHIP

NO. WDS.-CL. OF SVC.	PD. OR COLL	CASH NO.	CHARGE TO THE ACCOUNT OF	TIME FILED
			Southern Regional Council Inc

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

To Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy 3-29- 1963

Street and No. Washington, D. C.

Care of or Apt. No. Destination

Despite the denials of Greenwood police, a minister was actually bitten by a dog being used by police yesterday in unlawfully interfering with a group of Negro citizens who were walking back to their church from the courthouse where they had gone to register. Rev. D. L. Tucker suffered severe shock and injuries to his leg when bitten by the police dog. He was given emergency treatment by a private physician and then treated at Greenwood hospital. Local police have not only failed to protect people seeking to register but now use violence and intimidation themselves against Negro citizens active in voter registration. I urge you to act at once to restore law and order to Leflore County, Mississippi and protect the lives and property of Negro citizens. Will you please inform me as to what steps will be taken to aid these citizens.

Wiley A. Branton
Voter Education Project

Sender's name and address (For reference) Sender's telephone number

5 Forsyth St., NW Room 206 Atlanta, Georgia 525-0595

NEWS RELEASE

Voter Education Project
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia
Ja. 5-0595 or Ja. 2-8764

FOR RELEASE: All Papers
Sunday
March 31, 1963

The Voter Education Project released today a chronological listing of 64 acts of violence and intimidation against Negroes in Mississippi since January 1961. Almost all of the incidents are directly related to efforts by Negroes to register to vote.

The last item on the list is the March 27 dispersal by Greenwood policemen and their dogs of Negro registration applicants, and the jailing of registration workers.

"We are sure this is not a complete list," said Wiley A. Branton, Director of the Voter Education Project. "It does demonstrate conclusively, however, the pattern of discrimination and violence which exists in Mississippi, and makes Constitutional rights virtually inoperative in that state."

The listing, he pointed out, does not include the riot at the University of Mississippi last fall, nor subsequent harassment of James Meredith. "All the world knows that story, as it does the earlier stories of Emmett Till and Mack Parker. This listing, nearly all of which has been compiled from the daily press, shows that what happened at the University should have been expected by anyone familiar with the Mississippi record."

Because of the near-fatal gun attack of February 28, 1963 against three voter registration workers, a concerted, saturation registration campaign was announced on March 1, 1963 in LeFlore County, Mississippi, of which Greenwood is the county seat.

The LeFlore campaign represents the combined efforts of the Mississippi Council of Federated Organizations, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Congress of Racial Equality, and the local NAACP Youth Council.

The announced objective of the campaign is to get every qualified Negro in LeFlore County registered to vote, if he or she has any desire to do so.

This unprecedented concentration of resources in LeFlore County has led, said Branton, to unprecedented results. "For the first time in a Mississippi county, there has been a breakthrough of the fear which has held Negroes back. Since March 1, over 500 have waited determinedly at the Greenwood court house, trying to register. Because of the long drawn-out process in Mississippi, how many will be passed by the registrars is not yet known. Weekly mass meetings are thronged, and LeFlore Negroes are saying emphatically and courageously that they will not wait any longer to be treated as American citizens. And police suppression will not stop them."

Branton also noted that the U. S. Department of Agriculture had made a welcome contribution to Negro morale by successfully pressuring the county to resume, on April 1, distribution of federal surplus food, which had been cut off by the county last fall.

"This was interpreted by the local people," he said, "as an act of support and encouragement by the federal government."

"However," he continued, "the federal government has done little to protect the peace in LeFlore, or elsewhere in Mississippi. Sixty-eight years ago, in the case of In re Debs, the Supreme Court said that the 'entire strength of the nation may be used to enforce in any part of the land the full and free exercise of all national powers and the security of all rights entrusted by the Constitution to its care.' The peace of the United States is broken and shattered by the lawlessness in Mississippi. The federal government has an obligation, which it is not fulfilling, to restore it."

The Voter Education Project is a program of the Southern Regional Council, with offices in Atlanta.

-END-

CHRONOLOGY OF VIOLENCE AND INTIMIDATION IN MISSISSIPPI SINCE 1961

1961

January 1, Greenville, Washington County: Two young white men rode a motorbike through a residential area and, according to the local police chief, fired a volley of shots into a group of Negroes. George Mayfield, 18, was seriously wounded in both legs; Percy Lee Simmons, 19, was shot in the right leg.

March 30, Jackson, Hinds County: Club-swinging police and two police dogs chased more than 100 Negroes from a courthouse where nine Negro students were convicted for staging a sit-in demonstration. Several were struck by the clubs and at least one person was bitten by the dogs.

May 7, Jackson, Hinds County: Several white youths, riding in an open convertible, lassoed nine-year-old Negro Gloria Laverne Floyd with a wire and dragged her along the street. The girl suffered a deep gash in her head that required three stitches, cheek bruises, a laceration of her right shoulder, and burn marks on her neck. Police made arrests.

August 15, Amite County: Robert Moses, Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) registration worker, and three Negroes who had tried unsuccessfully to register in Liberty, were driving toward McComb when a county officer stopped them. He asked if Moses was the man "...who's been tring to register our niggers." All were taken to court and Moses was arrested for "impeding an officer in the discharge of his duties," fined $50 and spent two days in jail.

August 22, Amite County: Robert Moses went to Liberty with three Negroes, who made an unsuccessful attempt to register. A block from the courthouse, Moses was attacked and beaten by Billy Jack Caston, the sheriff's first cousin. Eight stitches were required to close a wound in Moses' head. Caston was acquitted of assault charges by an all-white jury before a justice of the peace.

August 26, McComb, Pike County: Hollis Watkins, 20, and Elmer Hayes, 20, SNCC workers, were arrested while staging a sit-in at the F. W. Woolworth store and charged with breach of the peace. They spent 36 days in jail.

August 27 and 29, McComb, Pike County: Five Negro students from a local high school were convicted of breach of the peace following a sit-in at a variety store and bus terminal. They were sentenced to a $400 fine each and eight months in jail. One of these students, a girl of 15, was turned over to juvenile authorities, released, subsequently rearrested, and sentenced to 12 months in a state school for delinquents.

August 29, McComb, Pike County: Two Negro leaders were arrested in McComb as an aftermath of the sit-in protest march on city hall, charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors. They were Curtis C. Bryant of McComb, an official of the NAACP, and Cordelle Reagan, of SNCC. Each arrest was made on an affidavit signed by Police Chief George Guy, who said he had information that the two "...were behind some of this racial trouble."

August 30, McComb, Pike County: SNCC workers Brenda Travis, 16, Robert Talbert, 19, and Isaac Lewis, 20, staged a sit-in in the McComb terminal of the Greyhound bus lines. They were arrested on charges of breach of the peace and failure to obey a policeman's order to move on. They spent 30 days in jail.

September 5, Liberty, Amite County: Travis Britt, SNCC registration worker, was attacked and beaten by whites on the courthouse lawn. Britt was accompanied at the time by Robert Moses. Britt said one man hit him more than 20 times. The attackers drove away in a truck.

September 7, Tylertown, Walthall County: John Hardy, SNCC registration worker, took two Negroes to the county courthouse to register. The registrar told them he "...wasn't registering voters" that day. When the three turned to leave, Registrar John Q. Wood took a pistol from his desk and struck Hardy over the head from behind. Hardy was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace.

September 13, Jackson, Hinds County: Fifteen Episcopal ministers (among them three Negroes) were arrested for asking to be served at the lunch counter of the Greyhound bus terminal. They were charged with inviting a breach of the peace. They were found not guilty of the charge on May 21, 1962, by County Judge Russell Moore.

September 25, Liberty, Amite County: Herbert Lee, a Negro who had been active in voter registration, was shot and killed by white state representative E. H. Hurst in downtown Liberty. No prosecution was undertaken, the authorities explaining that the representative had shot in self-defense.

October 4, McComb, Pike County: The five students who were arrested as a result of the August 29 sit-in in McComb returned to school, but were refused admittance. At that, 116 students walked out and paraded downtown to the city hall in protest. Police arrested the entire crowd, but later released all but 19, all of whom were 18 years old or older. They were charged with breach of the peace and contributing to the delinquency of minors and allowed to go free on bail totalling $3,700. At the trial on October 31, Judge Brumfield, finding the students guilty, and sentencing each to a $500 fine and six months in jail, said: "Some of you are local residents, some of you are outsiders. Those of you who are local residents are like sheep being led to the slaughter. If you continue to follow the advice of outside agitators, you will be like sheep and be slaughtered."

October 5, McComb, Pike County: Charles Sherrod was arrested on the street, thrown into a police car, and charged with resisting arrest. Cordelle Reagan was also arrested and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Both were field workers for SNCC.

October 11, McComb, Pike County: Paul Potter of Philadelphia, a vice president of the National Student Association and Tom Hayden of Atlanta, both white, were dragged from their car and beaten as they drove alongside a group of Negroes making an anti-segregation march. When the two slowed their car for a traffic light, a heavy-set white man opened the door and dragged the driver out and hit him several times. He then walked around to the other side of the car, opened the door and knocked the second man to the street. The incident occurred in the business section of the city.

October 13, McComb, Pike County: Police Officer B. F. Elmore shot and killed a Negro motorist. Police Chief George Guy said that Elmore said he had stopped Eli Brumfield at 4 a.m. for speeding. Brumfield allegedly jumped from his car with a pocket knife in his hand and attacked Elmore. A coroner's jury ruled Elmore fired in self-defense.

October 22, Jackson, Hinds County: Dion Diamond, a SNCC worker, was arrested for "running a stop sign" after being followed all day. In court the next day, the arresting officer told the judge, "He is a Freedom Rider. Throw the book at him." Diamond was refused legal counsel and fined $168.

November 9, McComb, Pike County: Jerome Smith, 22, Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) field man, and four companions, Dorothy Smith, 18, Alice Thompson, 22, Thomas Valentine, 23, and George Raymond, 18, were attacked by a mob of 30 to 40 whites when they sought service at the lunch counter of the Greyhound bus terminal in McComb. Smith, who suffered head injuries when he was slugged with brass knuckles during the attack, said FBI agents were present at the time of the attack, but did "nothing but take notes" while the mob kicked and beat his companions. The victims were rescued from the mob by a Negro truck driver and Negro cab drivers.

November 10, Jackson, Hinds County: Jessie Divens, twelve-year-old, was arrested for refusing to move to the rear of a city bus. Judge Carl Guernsey released the girl to the custody of the Rev. G. R. Horton, chaplain at Campbell College where she attended classes. Judge Guernsey continued the case until November 17, "with the understanding that the Rev. Mr. Horton and the child come back with a workable plan which would cause the child's mind to be concerned with education rather than social reformation."

November 18, McComb, Pike County: Persons unknown fired a shotgun blast into the bedroom of Dion Diamond and John Hardy at 702 Wall Street. Investigating officer Frank Williams found shotgun pellets embedded in the window frame.

December 1, McComb, Pike County: Four white men attacked three newsmen on the street, sending one crashing into a plate glass window of a store. The newsmen were Tom Uhrborck and Don Underwood, Life Magazine, and Simmons Fentress, Time Magazine.

December 2, McComb, Pike County: Police broke up an attempt by white attackers to drag three Freedom Riders from an automobile at the Greyhound bus terminal. Four men kicked at the locked car and beat upon the windows in an attempt to reach the young Negroes and their driver, Thomas Gaither, field secretary of CORE. The police, who were standing by when the riders arrived aboard a bus from Jackson, pulled the men away from the car, but made no arrests.

December 26, Jackson, Hinds County: Rafford Johnson, Negro, was severely beaten by two law officers after being involved in a minor collision with a car driven by a white woman. Johnson underwent surgery for skull injuries.

1962

February 6, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Miss Bessie Turner, 19, a Negro, was walking with a young man down a Clarksdale street when Clarksdale police officers stopped them and accused Miss Turner of having been involved in a theft. Miss Turner said the officers took her to the jail, forced her to unclothe and to lie on her back. She said one of the policemen then beat her between the legs with his belt. A few minutes later, Miss Turner said, the other officer beat her across her naked breasts. Miss Turner filed federal charges against the officers.

March 15, 1962, Shelby, Bolivar County: Aaron Henry, state president of the NAACP, was convicted in Justice of Peace Court on charges of making perverse advances on a white teen-age hitchhiker. Henry stated that the charges were a complete fabrication, and presented an alibi supported by sworn witnesses. The conviction has been appealed. When he later stated in a press conference that the prosecutor and the police chief, who figured in the trial, had conspired to frame him, Henry was sued by the two for defamation. A Mississippi white jury awarded the prosecutor $25,000 and the police chief, $15,000.

April 12, 1962, Taylorsville, Smith County: Corporal Roman Ducksworth, Jr., U. S. Army, a Negro, was shot and killed by policeman Bill Kelly when, according to an NAACP news release, Duckworth "insisted on his right to sit where he chose on an interstate bus." Policeman Kelly claimed that Ducksworth was drunk and started fighting. No charges were brought against Kelly. Ducksworth was enroute from Camp Ritchie, Maryland, to see his wife who was ill in a Laurel, Mississippi, hospital.

April, 1962, Lucedale, George County: Mrs. Ernestine Denham Talbert, who lives in George County but teaches in Green County, was notified by the Green County School Board that her teaching contract would not be renewed. Mrs. Talbert had tried in January to register to vote but had been refused.

May 17, 1962, Rankin County: The Negro editor of the Mississippi Free Press said he and a companion were beaten by Rankin County officers and a highway patrolman. Lawrence Hudson, Jr., of Jackson, said the beating occurred after he was stopped enroute from Jackson to Forest to check on a rumor that a Negro man had been killed by a white man. He was jailed, refused permission to phone a lawyer, tried the next day on several charges and fined $151.

June 21, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: A white lawyer from Jackson and four college students were jailed in Clarksdale for 20 hours without outside communication. One of the students was a Negro. William Higgs, the lawyer, and the students were jailed on a Sunday night by county officers and were released the following day, without charges being filed against them.

July 5, 1962, Jackson, Hinds County: Jesse Harris, 20, and Luvaghn Brown, 17, SNCC workers, charged that they were beaten and threatened with death while serving a 30-day sentence in the county jail for contempt of court. The young Negroes had refused to move from a court bench customarily occupied by whites while they were attending the trial of Mrs. Diane Nash Bevel. The young men said that, in the courthouse elevator, a deputy sheriff called Harris "a damned nigger" and beat him about the head with his fist. At the county farm, they were singled out as Freedom Riders and wore striped uniforms. Both were beaten by guards. Harris was beaten by a guard named "Keith" while other prisoners held him. "Keith" beat him across the back with a length of hose threatening, "Nigger, I'll kill you!"

August 16, 1962, Greenwood, Leflore County: Samuel Block, 23, SNCC field secretary, said three white men accosted him in a parking lot and "started beating me with their fists." He said they threatened him and then beat him for about five minutes. "There is no use reporting it to local authorities," he said.

August 17, 1962, Greenwood, Leflore County: SNCC workers Samuel Block, Luvaghn Brown, and Lawrence Guyot were forced to flee from the second story window of their voter registration office. They said armed white men invaded the premises intent upon doing them harm.

August 17, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Mayor Charles Durrough asked Mr. Lenard Davis, a Negro employed by the city, what he knew about the registration school being conducted at a Negro church. Mr. Davis replied that he didn't know anything at all about the school, and did not attend any of the classes. The mayor then told him that he, the mayor, knew what kind of school they were having.

The mayor said he knew it [presumably civil rights for the Negro] was coming, but he wasn't going to allow it to be forced on them. The mayor said that anyone attending the school would be given a one-way ticket out of town, and if that wouldn't do it, they would use whatever they had available. (See entry below for September 3, 1962.)

August, 1962, Greenwood, Leflore County: Welton McSwine, Jr., 14-year-old Negro, was arrested by police after a white woman's house had been broken into. When police got the youth to the station, an officer said: "All right, nigger, you know why you are here, and we want to know who broke into that white woman's house." McSwine told them he knew nothing of the incident, saying that he spent all his time in the cotton field, and suggesting that his mother could corroborate this. McSwine said officers then took him to a cell and beat him, first hitting him in the head with a blackjack; then one of the policemen beat him in the face with his fist while another hit him in the stomach with his club; then the officers made him lie naked on the floor on his side while they beat him with a whip. McSwine was released after intercession of his father's white employer.

August 21, 1962, Liberty, Amite County: Sam Wells and Tommy Weathersby went to the courthouse to register. While they were waiting to get into the registrar's office, they stood on the front porch of the courthouse. Deputy Sheriff Daniel Jones told them, "Get your - - - - off the front porch, and don't come back on." Weathersby and Wells got off the porch. A few moments later, rain began, and the two wanted to take shelter in the courthouse, but Deputy Sheriff Jones would not permit it.

August 21, Liberty, Amite County: Dewey Greene, Jr., Mississippi Free Press reporter, was taking pictures of Negroes waiting to register at the courthouse. An unidentified young man working in the office down the hall from the registrar's office snatched Greene's camera away, and refused to return it. Greene was told to leave town by three white men, one of whom was flourishing a length of lead pipe. He left.

August 29, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Seven Negroes were arrested after attending a voter registration meeting. David Dennis, CORE field secretary, was charged with "failure to yield right-of-way" after a police officer had forced him to submit to a long harangue of threats and abuse. Samuel Block, John Hodges, J. L. Harris, Richard T. Gray, and Albert Garrer, SNCC field workers, and Dewey Greene, Jr., reporter for the Mississippi Free Press, were forced by Clarksdale police to alight from their car, and were charged with loitering in violation of the city curfew.

August 30, 1962, Indianola, Sunflower County: SNCC workers C. R. McLauren, Albert Garner, J. O. Hodges, Samuel Block, and Robert Moses were arrested by Indianola police on a charge of distributing literature without a permit. The registration workers had been taking leaflets announcing a registration mass meeting door-to-door in the Negro community. Lafayette Surney, 17, another SNCC worker, was arrested and then released to Rev. James Bevel, of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

August 31, Indianola, Sunflower County: During the trial of Samuel Block on charges of distributing literature without a permit, the Municipal Judge informed Block that he could cross-examine the arresting officer. Block asked the officer, "Did you actually see me hand out a leaflet?" The judge turned to the officer and said, "He can ask you anything he wants to, but you don't have to answer." The judge told Lafayette Surney if he was caught in Indianola "agitating" again, he would be sent to the penal farm.

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Because of registration activity, two Negro-owned dry cleaning establishments were closed (allegedly for violating city ordinances).

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Lenard Davis, 49, sanitation department worker, was told by Mayor Charles M. Durrough, "We're going to let you go. Your wife's been attending that school." (He referred to a registration school conducted by SNCC workers in Ruleville.)

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Fred Hicks, 40, who drove field workers to the plantations, was told he could no longer use a bus without a commercial license. Hicks said the bus owner told him that, because Hicks' mother had registered to vote: "We gonna see how tight we can make it - gonna make it just as tight as we can. Gonna be rougher and rougher than you think it is."

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Moses and Amzie Moore, a local Negro leader, were walking down the street. A white man in a pickup truck drew up alongside and asked if they were the

"folks getting the people to register." Moses and Moore answered, yes, they were. The man asked if they could come out to his plantation to register people. The two answered, yes, they could come. The man said then, "I've got a shotgun waiting for you, double barrel."

September 3, Ruleville, Sunflower County: A letter from Mayor Durrough notified the Williams Chapel Missionary Baptist Church that tax exemption and free water were being cut off because the property was being used for "purposes other than worship services." The church was a meeting place for voter registration workers.

September 10, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Marylene Burkes,20, and Vivian Hillet, 19, were severely wounded when an unidentified assailant fired through the window of Miss Hillet's grandparents' home. The grandparents had been active in voter registration work.

October 3, Biloxi, Harrison County: A Negro frame residence and a gasoline station were targets for two "Molotov cocktails" which caused more than $4,000 damage. One of the bombs struck the home of Dr. Gilbert Mason, a Negro physician, who is active in integration efforts. The other crashed through the window of a service station operated by Emmett Clark, a Negro.

October 5, Harmony, Leake County: Night riders fired shotguns into eight Negro homes and a Negro store. An elderly Negro said he was struck in the knee by a squirrel shot while he and his 9-year-old grandson were sleeping. He said he was not seriously hurt. Harmony Negroes had recently petitioned authorities for school desegregation.

October 10, Columbus, Lowndes County: A"Molotov cocktail" was tossed from a speeding car into the home of Dr. James L. Allen of Columbus, vice chairman of the Mississippi Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

October 29, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Charles McLaurin, SNCC registration worker, was stopped by police as he was taking a group home from the courthouse. The group had tried to register to vote. The officer asked to see McLaurin's driver's license. McLaurin showed it. The officer asked McLaurin what he was doing there. McLaurin told him he worked in voter registration. Then, accompanied by obscene remarks, the officer said, "Nigger, do you know the way out of town? McLaurin replied, "Yes." The officer said, with more obscenity, "Nigger! Can't you say 'yes, sir?'" The officer's partner asked the officer what charge should be put on the tickets. The officer said, "Charge the - - - - $26 on both charges." "Nigger, you got $52?" McLaurin replied, "No." The officer said, "Then you're going to jail." At the jail, McLaurin learned that the officer was Clarksdale Police Chief Ben Collins. McLaurin was in jail a few minutes when his companions posted bond for him in the amount of $103. They decided to forfeit bond rather than run the risk of a higher fine or incur the legal expense of an appeal.

October 31, Jackson, Hinds County: Thomas E. Johnson, a white minister, and a member of the Mississippi Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, saw a group of neighbors dumping garbage on his lawn. Johnson had just returned from taking his car to a safe place because of threats by neighbors to damage it. Johnson sought a peace bond against the man whom he had observed leading the garbage-dumping operations of his neighbors. The man presented eleven witnesses who swore that he had been in their presence at all times on the evening in question. The Justice of the Peace accepted their testimony and refused the bond. Then the Hinds County Grand Jury indicted Johnson and his wife on perjury charges, because of their testimony at the peace bond hearing.

November 6, 1962, Greenville, Washington County: Two WAF's and two airmen (all white) from the Greenville Air Force Base were fined $55 and given 30-day suspended sentences on charges of creating a disturbance by entering a restaurant and seeking service with two Negro voter registration workers.

December 26, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Ivanhoe Donaldson and Benjamin Taylor, students from Detroit, brought a truckload of food, clothing and medicines for distribution to the Delta's needy families who had been cut off from federal surplus commodities. (The medicines had been donated by a physician in Louisville, and were consigned to Aaron Henry, a licensed pharmacist.) They were arrested by Clarksdale police and held for "investigation." After police searched the truck on December 27, and found what they described as "a drug used to ease the pain of middle-aged women," Donaldson and Taylor were charged with possession of narcotics and bond was set at $15,000. Bond was later reduced to $1,500.

1963

January 17, Canton, Madison County: The castrated and mutilated body of Sylvester Maxwell, 24-year-old Negro, was found by his brother-in-law less than 500 yards from the home of a white family. Mississippi NAACP Field Secretary Medger Evers termed the slaying a "probable lynching."

February 2, Greenwood, Leflore County: Willie Peacock, SNCC registration worker, complained to the Justice Department that officials had refused to register him on two occasions, and had rejected his poll tax payment for this year.

February 20, Greenwood, Leflore County: Four Negro businesses on the same street as the SNCC voter registration office were burned to the ground. Mrs. Nancy Brand, a worker in the SNCC office, reported an anonymous telephone call in which a man's voice asked her if she ever came to the office. When she said yes, the voice said, "You won't be going down there anymore, that's been taken care of." The burned businesses were Jackson's Garage, George's Cafe, Porter's Pressing Shop, and the Esquire Club. The pressing shop is next door to the SNCC office, and SNCC workers believed the businesses were burned by mistake. Sam Block, SNCC Field Secretary, was arrested two days later for suggesting there was some connection between the burnings and the registration efforts of SNCC. He was charged with circulating statements calculated to create a breach of the peace.

February 28, Greenwood, Leflore County: Three registration workers were attacked with gunfire on U.S. Highway 82 just outside Greenwood. The shots were fired from a 1962 white Buick. The car in which the workers were riding was punctured by eleven bullets. One worker, James Travis of SNCC, was wounded in the neck and shoulder.

March 4, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: The show windows in the Fourth Street Drug Store were smashed, as they have been several times in the past. The proprietor of the store, Aaron Henry, found the damage when he returned from speaking at a mass meeting in Leflore County in connection with the voter registration drive there.

March 6, Greenwood, Leflore County: Samuel Block and three others were fired on from a station wagon which pulled up beside their car as they were parked in front of the SNCC voter registration office. Both front windows were shattered. Police later found the wadding from a shotgun shell buried in the head-liner of Block's car, and several pellets in the wall of the building in front of which the car had been parked.

March 12, Greenwood, Leflore County: A twelve-year-old Negro girl was attacked by an egg-throwing truckload of white teenaged boys. The girl suffered facial bruises.

March 20, 1963, Jackson, Hinds County: Three shots were fired through the windshield of a car belonging to Mrs. Mattie Dennis while it was parked in front of the home of Mrs. Dennis' cousin, whom she was visiting. Mrs. Dennis is the wife of David Dennis, CORE Field Secretary for Mississippi. Both have been active in voter registration.

March 24, 1963, Greenwood, Leflore County: Fire destroyed partially the interior of the voter registration office at 115 E. McLaurin St., making the office unusable and necessitating a search for new headquarters. Witnesses said they saw two white men fleeing the scene shortly before the fire was discovered.

March 26, 1963, Greenwood, Leflore County: A shotgun blast ripped into the home of Dewey Greene, Sr., father of the latest Negro applicant to the University of Mississippi. Another of Mr. Greene's sons and a daughter have been active in the Leflore County registration project. Greenwood police said they were investigating.

March 27, 1963, Greenwood, Leflore County: James Forman, Executive Secretary of SNCC, Bob Moses, and about ten other registration workers were arrested and taken from a group en route to the courthouse to register after the police dispersed a group of more than 100 Negroes with the use of police dogs.

(30)

Proposal made by J. Ellenna — March 1963

File - Leflore County

We send letter # 1 to the officers of both Mississippi State Executive Committees, to the Mississippi National Committeemen and women and to the Leflore County Executive Committees. We send letter #1A to all Leflore County officials. We send letter #2 to executive and ~~leg~~ Congressional leaders of the democrats, to gubernatorial and Congressional leaders of the Republicans and to the National Chairman of both parties.

We get a Congressman, preferably a Senator, to make a brief speech on the floor and introduce the whole correspondence into the Congressional Record. Then, if we get unsatisfactory public response from the above persons, we reprint large numbers of the Record insertion and disseminate them along with an explanatory memorandum through the facilities of NAACP, SCLC, SRC and any other mailing list we can get hold of. We simply explain the inutility, based upon our experience, of seeking registration assistance from the national leadership of either party.

#1

Dear Sir:

We are writing you this letter in order to inform you of the plans for conducting a voter registration drive in Leflore County. The drive will be under the auspices of the Council of Federated Organizations, 115 McLaurin St, Greenwood Since non-registration in Leflore County largely affects Negroes, the registration drive will be focused on the Negro community. The drive will be conducted through methods that are as old, and as respectable as politics itself. The drive will set about to contact, in person, every Negro of voting age in Leflore County. Each person contacted will be encouraged to assume the responsibility of citizenship by registering so that he may take part in the government of his community. Mass meetings will be held, featuring speakers who will urge the meaning and the value of full political participation and the necessity for registering in order to live up to the highest citizenship ideals. Facilities will be provided for tutoring those persons who have not previously acquired the skills of literacy.

Every phase of the registration program will be conducted in a completely open and above-board manner. We shall be pleased to answer any questions you may care to direct to us about any phase of the program. If you should at any time care to see for yourself any aspect of the registration program, COFO will be pleased to accomodate you. (If you should be interested in an impartial evaluation of the Voter Education Project, its purposes and objectives, we suggest you get in touch with the Honorable William E. Miller, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, whose letter endorsing VEP is in our files.)

leave this out of IA

We hereby solicit your wholehearted support for the voter registration drive in Leflore County and we urge you to make a public announcment of that support.

Very truly yours

WAB

#2

Miller	Jackson
Rockefeller	Kennedy
Goldwater	Mansfield
Romney	Albert
Scranton	Humphrey
Dirksen	Boggs
Halleck

Dear Sir:

I am enclosing a copy of a letter mailed this date to officials of the Republican Party in Mississippi. I know of your oft-spoken interest in the Civil Rights of the Southern Negro, and consequently I thought you would be interested in the response of your fellow Republicans to the enclosed letter.

I need do no more than mention, I am sure, the predicament of the Southern leaders of your party, who, however much they might want to publicly to avow their subscription to the civil rights posture of the National Party, invariably approach such a public avowal with great trepidation because of their fear of local political reprisals. I cannot but think that a public statement by you, endorsing the Lefore County program and calling upon your fellow-Republicans in Mississippi to do likewise, would serve a great public good. It would, first of all, make perfectly clear that the non-Southern leadership of the Party does not and cannot condone the disfranchisement of Southern Negroes. Thus it would help to provide a climate in which Southern Republicans might find it more comfortable publicly to espouse the principles of the National Party. Further, it would serve to communicate to the Negroes of the South the determination of their fellow-Americans that constitutional rights can no longer be violated with impunity in Mississippi.

WB

April 2, 1963

The attached is a copy of the reply to the telegram that we sent Congressman Weltner on March 28.

Eliza Paschall

jgb

COPY

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

March 29, 1963

Mrs. Clifton Hoffman, Chairman
Greater Atlanta Council on Human Relations
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Hoffman:

I have your telegram of March 28th urging action on the situation in Greenwood, Mississippi.

Most recent reports are that voting is proceeding there, although not without difficulty.

As you doubtless know, the Federal Bureau of Investivations has an interest in this matter.

As I visualize it, it is the function of each state to set its own standards for voting eligibility. But once standards are set, they must be administered in a fair and impartial manner.

With kindest regards, I am

Very truly yours,

Charles Longstreet Weltner
Member of Congress

rlc

3 - Leflore County Public Relations

Tel: GArfield 1-4960

LOOK

COWLES MAGAZINES AND BROADCASTING, INC. 625 MARKET STREET SAN FRANCISCO 5 CALIF.

April 3, 1963

Mr. Wiley Branton
Voter Education Project
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Branton:

I would very much appreciate having two copies of the recent VEP release detailing 64 acts of violence against Negroes in Mississippi during the past year. Could you have them airmailed to me in San Francisco? Thank you.

Sincerely,

John Poppy

John Poppy
Senior Editor

JP:mk

Sent
4-4-63

~~2-DC~~
4-Leflore County
Public Relations

WAB

Seigenthaler letter

Microfilm Code No.

SERS Library E

NASHVILLE
TENNESSEAN
p 8
Date: APR 3 1963

Silly Dispute Is The Disruption

SOMETIMES the comments of people caught up in the fight for civil rights get a little silly.

Friday there was a case in point in Greenwood, Miss. Wiley Branton, an able lawyer who is involved in the drive to register Negroes, expressed some disappointment that President Kennedy hadn't come down to Greenwood to march with the Negroes.

At almost the same moment the mayor of Greenwood, Mr. C. E. Sampson was expressing disappointment that the Kennedy administration was encouraging the voter registration movement to "disrupt this peaceful community."

Mr. Branton knows Mr. Kennedy isn't coming to Mississippi just as Mr. Sampson knows that the President is committed to the proposition that every citizen should be entitled to vote, regardless of his race.

It would be far more useful to the cause of getting the right to vote for all of the citizens of Greenwood and to the cause of peace in the community if these two leaders would sit down together and talk about the real issues and how to resolve them, rather than making stupid remarks that only drive them farther apart—and block a significant settlement of their problem.

4- Leflore County Public Relations

The Washington Post

Times Herald

86th Year ··· No. 121 · Phone RE. 7-1234 · Copyright © 1963 The Washington Post · FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1963 · WTOP-TV (9) Radio (1500) · TEN CENTS

The Weather

Today—Sunny, high in upper 50s. Tonight—Low near 40. Saturday—Cloudy, chance of showers in afternoon and at night. Thursday's temps. high, 75 at noon; low, 47 at 11 p. m.

Weather Map and Details on Page B9

Memo to Mao

What's between the lines in Khrushchev's recent letter to China's Mao? See Page A15 for key excerpts that emphasize the differences in ideology between Russia and China.

High Winds Whip Area Brush Fires

Power Lines, Trees Toppled; Boater Drowned

By Harry Gabbett
Staff Reporter

High winds, whipping daylong throughout the area yesterday, swept more than a dozen fires out of control, toppled trees and power lines by the score and drowned a Potomac boatman.

Two of the worst area fires burned over several hundred acres near Lorton, Va., and near Leonardtown, Md.

Key Maryland National Guard personnel were placed on stand-by alert throughout the State as nearly every county checked in with several wind-whipped fires. The wind caught both Virginia and Maryland with their fire danger indexes at high points of the season.

Missing and believed drowned in the Potomac south of National Airport, was Alvin Myers, 28, of Bryans rd., Charles County, Md.

Harbor police said dozens of small boats were blown from their moorings in

Pictures on Page A3.
Wind raises havoc with some cherry blossoms. Page B2.

Unemployed Rate Drops To 5.6 Pct.

Biggest Monthly Decline Since '58, Labor Dept. Says

By Frank C. Porter
Staff Reporter

Unemployment fell by 400,000 last month, reducing the seasonally adjusted rate from 6.1 per cent of the labor force in February to 5.6 per cent—the biggest monthly drop in more than four years, the Labor Department reported yesterday.

Normally there is little change in the jobless level between the two months.

Almost all the drop came among adult men and women seeking full-time work. The seasonally adjusted rate for men 20 and over fell from 5.1 to 4.6 per cent; that for adult women, from 5.5 to 5.1 per cent. In the prime breadwinner group—married men with "wife present"—the drop was from 4.1 to 3.5 per cent.

Equally impressive was a jump of 800,000 in employment to a total of 67.1 million, a record for March. Normally the rise is only 200,000 for the month. The employment level is roughly 800,000 above a year ago, absorbing an equivalent increase in the labor force during the period.

Less Than Jubilant

The March job picture, however, left Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz something less than jubilant. "My feeling

Immediate Action Asked

JFK Sends Congress D. C. Home Rule Bill

By Elsie Carper
Staff Reporter

President Kennedy sent a District home rule charter to Congress yesterday and urged immediate action.

"We should no longer delay in restoring to people of the District a fundamental right enjoyed as a matter of course by all other Americans—the right to self government by the elective process," his statement said.

The charter bill basically was the same as one that he recommended to the last Congress. Hearings were held before the Senate District Committee but the House District Committee, which long has blocked District home rule legislation, did not consider it.

The bill provides for an elected mayor, a seven-member Legislative Council and a non-voting delegate in the House.

It incorporates formulas already recommended by the President to authorize an equitable Federal payment

Republicans on House District Committee urged to action by Shipley. Page B2.

See RULE, A7, Col. 1

Oppenheimer Selected To Get Fermi Award

By Howard Simons
Staff Reporter

J. Robert Oppenheimer, controversial atomic scientist, has been selected to receive the $50,000 Fermi Award—the Atomic Energy Commission's highest honor, it was learned last night.

Oppenheimer, who lost the right to do secret work for the Government in a celebrated security case in 1954, was picked unanimously for the award by the AEC's 9-member General Advisory Committee, a group of eminent American scientists.

The award was endorsed, again unanimously, by the present Atomic Energy Commission and was approved by President Kennedy.

The Fermi award, which is given for "especially meritorious contribution to the development, use or control of atomic energy," goes to Oppenheimer for his contributions, to theoretical nuclear Chevalier, a Communist. But questions also were raised about his opposition to the development of the hydrogen bomb and about his loyalty.

The general debate resulting from these questions split the scientific community and the wounds still have not been totally healed.

The AEC denied security clearance to Oppenheimer by a 4 to 1 vote in 1954. Three of the four AEC commissioners — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, Eugene M. Zuckert and Joseph Campbell—based their decision on the con-

Transit Bill Is Passed By Senate

Scaled-Down Measure Wins By 52-41 Vote

By Robert C. Albright
Staff Reporter

The Senate yesterday voted President Kennedy his first major legislative victory of the 88th Congress—a worked-over version of his urban mass transit bill designed to bring Federal help to traffic-strangled cities.

Passage came by a comfortable 52-to-41 margin after days of doubt and revision. The considerably scaled down bill now goes to the House, where leaders predict passage of a companion measure shortly after Easter.

How Senators voted on mass transit bill. Page A6.
Economy drive makes progress in both House and Senate. Page A5.

The Administration's expected cliff-hanger turned into what its chief sponsor, Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.), described as a "strikingly significant victory" after eleventh-hour settlement of differences with transit labor groups and some urban areas directly affected by the bill.

GOP Musters 24 Votes

In the end, 46 Democrats and six Republicans joined in support of the bill. The GOP high command, which had declared war on this and other "new" Kennedy programs, succeeded in mustering only 24 votes. Seventeen Democrats

Almost all the drop came among adult men and women seeking full-time work. The seasonally adjusted rate for men 20 and over fell from 5.1 to 4.6 per cent; that for adult women, from 5.5 to 5.1 per cent. In the prime breadwinner group — married men with "wife present"—the drop was from 4.1 to 3.5 per cent.

Equally impressive was a jump of 800,000 in employment to a total of 67.1 million, a record for March. Normally the rise is only 200,000 for the month. The employment level is roughly 800,000 above a year ago, absorbing an equivalent increase in the labor force during the period.

Less Than Jubilant

The March job picture, however, left Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz something less than jubilant. "My feeling is about what it would be if somebody's temperature dropped back from 104 to 103 degrees," he said. "We still have to get at the cause of the trouble."

Against the Administration's interim goal of 4 per cent, the jobless rate has dipped below the 5 per cent mark in only one month in more than five years. The situation has shown no over-all improvement in the past year despite a slowly expanding economy. Last month's rate of 5.6 per cent compares with 5.5 per cent in March, 1962.

The big drop in unemployment last month comes after a sharp spurt from 5.8 to 6.1 per cent in February. Harold Goldstein, assistant labor statistics commissioner, confirmed yesterday that unusually bad weather was a big factor in the adverse February performance.

Little Improvement

There was little improvement in one sector of the unemployment picture in March —that of teen-agers. The seasonally adjusted rate for boys and girls 14 through 19 declined only slightly from 15.1 to 14.7 per cent.

Last month's improvement in the unemployment rate was the largest since the recovery year 1958, when the rate fell from 6.8 to 6.1 per cent.

Goldstein noted that after remaining on a plateau during most of 1962, total employment has headed upward again. But as the Labor Department has repeatedly warned, one month or even several, doesn't necessarily indicate a trend.

To Get Fermi Award

By Howard Simons
Staff Reporter

J. Robert Oppenheimer, controversial atomic scientist, has been selected to receive the $50,000 Fermi Award—the Atomic Energy Commission's highest honor, it was learned last night.

Oppenheimer, who lost the right to do secret work for the Government in a celebrated security case in 1954, was picked unanimously for the award by the AEC's 9-member General Advisory Committee, a group of eminent American scientists.

The award was endorsed, again unanimously, by the present Atomic Energy Commission and was approved by President Kennedy.

The Fermi award, which is given for "especially meritorious contribution to the development, use or control of atomic energy," goes to Oppenheimer for his contributions, to theoretical nuclear physics and for his leadership in developing both the atomic bomb and peaceful applications of atomic energy.

Oppenheimer's selection will be viewed by many as representing a desire by the present Administration to redress what some consider a previous wrong.

It also has led to speculation that Oppenheimer might be requested to do secret work for the Government, which would automatically make him a candidate for new security clearance. The award itself does not reinstate Oppenheimer's security clearance.

The wartime scientific director of the Nation's Manhattan Project for building the first atomic bomb lost his clearance after a lengthy and acrimonious hearing to determine whether he was a security risk.

Essentially Oppenheimer's judgment as regards security was called into question because of his association with French scientist Haakon Chevalier, a Communist. But questions also were raised about his opposition to the development of the hydrogen bomb and about his loyalty.

The general debate resulting from these questions split the scientific community and the wounds still have not been totally healed.

The AEC denied security clearance to Oppenheimer by a 4 to 1 vote in 1954. Three of the four AEC commissioners — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, Eugene M. Zuckert and Joseph Campbell—based their decision on the conclusion that Oppenheimer had shown "fundamental defects" of character, and "wilful disregard" of security obligations. The fourth majority member was Commissioner Thomas E. Murray.

Commissioner Henry D. Smyth voted for Oppenheimer, declaring that "he is completely loyal."

The Oppenheimer decision landed in the AEC's lap in 1954 after President Eisenhower had suspended Oppenheimer's clearance pending review of charges against the scientist. A special three-member board concluded unanimously in May, 1954, that Oppenheimer was a loyal citizen but it voted 2 to 1 against restoring his security clearance. The AEC's decision followed in June.

Informed sources yesterday said that Strauss, along with other former AEC chairmen and members of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, had been informed of the decision to give "Oppie," as he is known in the scientific community, the award.

The first hint that the Administration might approve honoring Oppenheimer came last year when he was invited to a dinner at the White House for Nobel Prize winners.

Oppenheimer is not a Nobel Prize winner.

Since 1947 he has been director of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University.

Previous winners of the award, named for the late Enrico Fermi, pioneer atomic scientist, include John von Neuman, E. O. Lawrence, Eugene Wigner, Glenn T. Seaborg (present chairman of the AEC), Hans Bethe and Edward Teller.

Nike Intercepts Its 4th ICBM

Associated Press

The Army's Nike-Zeus missile has scored its fourth intercept of an ICBM target warhead fired over the Pacific some 5000 miles from California, it was announced yesterday.

It was the first intercept of a target warhead propelled by a Titan I, a more powerful rocket lofting a bigger payload than the Atlas ICBM which figured in the first three Nike-Zeus intercepts last year.

The Army said the Titan intercept occurred recently, but did not say exactly when.

How Senators voted on mass transit bill. Page A6.

Economy drive makes progress in both House and Senate. Page A5.

now goes to the House, where leaders predict passage of a companion measure shortly after Easter.

The Administration's expected cliff-hanger turned into what its chief sponsor, Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.), described as a "strikingly significant victory" after eleventh-hour settlement of differences with transit labor groups and some urban areas directly affected by the bill.

GOP Musters 24 Votes

In the end, 46 Democrats and six Republicans joined in support of the bill. The GOP high command, which had declared war on this and other "new" Kennedy programs, succeeded in mustering only 24 votes. Seventeen Democrats, mostly from the South, also voted "No."

In a development of more than ordinary political interest, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate's Southern caucus, and Sen. Herman Talmadge, his Georgia colleague, voted for the legislation. The city of Atlanta favored the bill. The Russell-Talmadge votes appeared to reflect the Georgia capital's growing influence in state politics since the Supreme Court outlawed the rural-weighted Georgia unit rule.

Helping to pave the way to passage was a compromise worked out with old-line transit labor unions by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and other bill managers to protect transit workers whose jobs might be threatened by mass transit developments. A Morse amendment embodying the labor compromise and some concessions to affected communities was approved 52 to 40 just before the passage vote.

The Morse compromise provided that no Federal funds could be used to enable communities to take over private transit systems except under conditions spelled out in the bill. An exception was made in the case of bankrupt transit systems, such as

See SENATE, A6, Col. 5

Doctors Install New President

DENVER, April 4 (UPI) Dr. Wesley W. Spink, one of the world's leading authorities on infectious diseases, was installed today as president of the American College of Physicians.

Spink, professor of medicine at the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, succeeds Dr. Franklin M. Hanger of Staunton, Va.

By Joe Heiberger, Staff Photographer

It's Blossomtime in Washington

Joyce Kroom, an Interior Department secretary, relishes one of the many delicacies of nature that abound in the area just now. She's shown among the saucer —or tulip—magnolia blooms in Rawlins Park, just outside her office. A mile or so away the Capital's famed Japanese cherry blossoms are attracting crowds to the Tidal Basin and in parks throughout the city and suburbs forsythia, hyacinths, tulips, and japonica are in bloom. Nature lovers can also find the blossoms of cornelian, weeping and double-flowering cherry trees and the redbud, although the latter normally blooms later with the dogwood.

N. Y. Jury Awards Negro Domestic $211,500 for Libel by Rep. Powell

By Arthur Everett

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) A Negro domestic today won a $211,500 libel verdict against Harlem's most influential citizen, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.).

Esther James, a widow, who had sued the Negro Congressman for $1 million, said:

"This is the happiest day of my life. I have my reputation again and that is more important than money."

Powell was not available for comment. His office in Washington said he plans to appeal the verdict.

Mrs. James said she would contribute part of the State Supreme Court jury award to charity.

The 66-year-old woman accused Powell of libeling her two years ago by calling her "a bag woman (graft collector) for the police department."

At the time, Powell ostensibly was engaged in a campaign against gambling and police corruption in Harlem.

The all-white jury of seven men and five women deliberated about five hours in reaching its decision. Powell failed to put in an appearance at the 4-day trial, although he had been scheduled to testify.

The jury accepted Mrs. James's claim that she never had collected graft for policemen from Harlem gamblers, after Justice Thomas A. Aurelio told the jurors in his charge to them:

"You must not be awed by the fact that the defendant has been a member of the House of Representatives for many years, or influenced in any way by his station in life."

Picture on Page A6.

Mrs. James sued Powell after he made his charge in a television interview March 6, 1960. The jury awarded her $11,500 for loss of income and damage to her reputation, and assessed Powell an added $200,000 in punitive damages for disregarding her rights.

The defense contended that Powell's television remarks were substantially true and, moreover, that they were "an extension of statements he made on the floor of Congress and therefore privileged or exempt."

Congressmen are not liable for the accuracy of statements made on the floor of the House or Senate.

Powell, 54, has represented Harlem in Congress since 1944. He also is pastor of Harlem's biggest church, the Abyssinian Baptist.

City Outlaws Nazi Swastika

MIAMI BEACH, April 4 (AP)—The City Council has passed a resolution prohibiting the display of the Nazi swastika or the Soviet hammer and sickle.

The ordinance, passed yesterday, was submitted following a disturbance at a Miami Beach hotel last month. Police took into custody two men identified as members of the American Nazi Party.

and drowned a Potomac boatman.

Two of the worst area fires burned over several hundred acres near Lorton, Va., and near Leonardtown, Md.

Key Maryland National Guard personnel were placed on stand-by alert throughout the State as nearly every county checked in with several wind-whipped fires. The wind caught both Virginia and Maryland with their fire danger indexes at high points of the season.

Pictures on Page A3.
Wind raises havoc with some cherry blossoms. Page B2.

Missing and believed drowned in the Potomac south of National Airport, was Alvin Myers, 28, of Bryans rd., Charles County, Md.

Harbor police said dozens of small boats were blown from their moorings in several river marinas and along the entire waterfront.

The Weather Bureau said the high winds were general in the Eastern coastal area from South Carolina northward, with most major cities recording them in the 30-to-40-mile-an-hour bracket throughout the day.

Winds at 53 mph

Peak gust of the day here was a 53-mile-an-hour blow registered shortly after 2 p. m. at National Airport. At the same time the anemometer at Dulles International Airport recorded a 58-mile-an-hour gust.

In Washington itself, the principal plagues were downed trees, several of which smashed parked cars. Rush hour traffic had to be re-

See WIND, A3, Col. 1

Today's Index

72 PAGES—4 SECTIONS

A—20 Pages—General News, Editorials
B—16 Pages—City Life, Financial, Amusements
C—20 Pages—Sports, Classified
D—16 Pages—Women's, Comics

	Page		Page
Alsop	A19	Herblock	A18
Amus'ts	B13-15	Keep Well	D12
Childs	A18	Livingston	B12
City Life	B1-8	Movie Guide	B15
Classified	C8-19	Night Clubs	B13
Comics	D11-15	Music	B14
Crossword	D15	Obituaries	B9
District Line	D14	Outdoors	C7
Dixon	A19	Pearson	D15
Editorials	A18	Sports	C1-7
Events T'day	D13	TV-Radio	C8
Fed. Diary	B1	Weather	B9
Fin'cial	B10-12	Women's	D1-6
Goren	D11

Of Special Interest

Social Credit Party expected to gain ground in Quebec. Page D8.

Second class postage paid at Washington, D. C. Printed at 1515 L St. NW., Washington 5, D. C.

Given an Uproarious Welcome

Cardinal Bea Defines Goal of Unity As He Receives Catholic U. Degree

By Kenneth Dole
Staff Reporter

Augustin Cardinal Bea, the "Cardinal of Unity," came to Catholic University yesterday to receive an honorary degree from the University administration and, from the students, an uproarious welcome.

As the stooped and aged churchman entered the University Gymnasium, accompanied by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, the students massed in the rear burst into a spontaneous cheer, the loudest heard since football rallies of a bygone era.

For the students and most of the faculty the occasion was the culmination of the most campus-shaking development in years, symbolical of historical ferment and change in the Catholic Church.

The Cardinal represents the new Catholic liberal movement, which looks to eventual unity with non-Catholic Christians, one giving more responsibility to the local bishops and the laity, revolutionizing the liturgy and bringing the church closer to the people. In the first session of the Vatican Council, the power of Catholic reform emerged clearly.

Picture on Page A7
Cardinal Bea denies report he came on "private mission" for Pope. Page A7.

The German Jesuit heads the new Vatican Secretariat for Promoting the Unity of Christians.

Following acceptance of his honorary degree, Cardinal Bea gave an address of perhaps landmark importance on the task Pope John entrusted to him nearly three years ago, that of seeking Christian unity.

He defined the Catholic view of the goal of unity. He described the proper Catholic attitude toward non-Catholics, as both work for unity. Making it plain that fundamental Catholic doctrine cannot be compromised, he said it can be made more appealing

See BEA, A7, Col. 2

TODAY'S THE DAY

to place your weekend want ads for the big Saturday and Sunday Classified Sections

TODAY'S DEADLINES:
Saturday Section 3 P.M.
Sunday Section 10 P.M.

Phone RE. 7-1234
The Washington Post

If you're listed in the phone book, just say "charge it"

Report Indicates No Landing Plan

Lunik IV Near Destination, Tass Says; Due to Pass Close to Moon's Surface

MOSCOW, April 4 (AP) Tass reported tonight that Lunik IV is on its last lap to the moon and will pass close to the surface, indicating no landing is planned.

The announcement of position and the last reported speed of the 3130-pound flying laboratory would put it at its destination some time early Friday, Moscow time.

"Experiments and observations that are being carried out aboard the Lunik IV Station are necessary for the realization of further flights under the program worked out for the exploration of the moon," Tass said.

Tass said that with all instruments functioning normally, the Lunik by 8 p. m. Moscow time (noon EST) was 194,494 miles from the earth. That would be about 44,000 miles, a little more than 6½ hours flying time, from the moon.

Earlier Pravda reported the speed of the Lunik, launched Tuesday at more than 18,000 miles an hour, had slowed to about 6700 miles an hour. This is due to the earth's gravitational pull.

Soviet press reports said Lunik IV was being controlled by a scientific center in the Crimea.

The purpose of the fourth Soviet moon probe has never been disclosed.

Even if Lunik did not land on the moon, it was still thought possible that in passing it would drop instruments onto the lunar surface or send back pictures, Reuters reported. Soviet science articles since the launching have spoken of the possibility of putting a probe in orbit around the moon as a preliminary to a "soft landing" by a probe or an instrument package released from it.

RULE—From Page A1

Kennedy Asks for Hill D. C. Home Rule Action

based on Federal ownership of property and to increase borrowing authority to a percentage of assessed value of property.

In his letter transmitting the bill to Congress, Mr. Kennedy tried to meet some of the objections that have been raised against giving the District its own elected Government.

The President said his proposal gives full recognition and protection to the "substantial interest that the National Government has, and must continue to have, in its Capital City."

The President would be authorized to review and disapprove any District legislative action that would adversely affect the Federal interest. Congress would retain full authority to enact legislation overriding action taken by the District Government.

Mr. Kennedy said he strongly believed that enactment of the bill not only would eliminate a constitutional anomaly which already has persisted much too long but also would give Washington more effective Governmental organization and management.

He said the legislation would "place the responsibility for solving local problems where it belongs in the American scheme of Government—in the people of the District of Columbia and their elected representatives."

The legislation, submitted by the President, was drawn up by the three Presidentially apointed District Commissioners.

It gives the District Council local legislative power, including the right to tax and to borrow within specified limits and subject to the power of Congress to repeal, amend or initiate local legislation and modify or revoke the charter.

Essentially it would relieve Congress of legislating the day-to-day operation of the District Govrnment.

The Council would become the legislative body for purely local matters, including operating the schools. The Council would have power to provide for an elective or appointive school board or to set up a Department of Education with a single administrator.

The mayor would be elected for a four-year term and would be paid $20,000 a year. To qualify he would have to show residency in the District for three years and could be neither an employe of the Federal or the District Governments or hold any other elective office. The legislation provides for a District Civil Service System.

A board of elections would divide the city into seven wards "as nearly equal as possible in population and in geographic proportions as nearly regular, contiguous and compact as posible."

The seven members of the Council would be elected at large, but one member would be drawn from each of the wards. Council members would serve two-year terms and would receive $9000 a year. A chairman would receive $10,000.

The non-voting delegate to the House would be elected every two years. His compensation would be fixed by Congress in the same manner as members of the House.

The charter would abolish a number of independent agencies and transfer their functions to the Council, among them the Board of Education, the Zoning Commission, the Redevelopment Land Agency, the Armory Board, which operates D. C. Stadium, and the National Capital Housing Authority.

Election provisions set forth in the charter permit voting at the age of 18. A six-month residency is required. The Hatch Act is modified to permit Government employes to take part in purely local partisan political campaigns.

The Federal payment would represent taxes lost to the District because of Federal ownership of property or Congressional action in removing property from tax rolls.

Under the formula, it is estimated the Federal payment now authorized at $32 million would be increased to $53 million.

The District would be authorized to borrow by issuance of bonds up to 12 per cent of a ten-year average of assessed value of real and tangible personal property, including Federally owned property.

Borrowing for general construction projects such as schools would be limited to half of the 12 per cent. The remaining six per cent would be for revenue producing projects such as highways, water and sanitary sewage works.

WASHINGTON AFRO-AMERICAN

4 APRIL 6, 1963

JOHN H. MURPHY SR., Publisher 1896-1922
PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY IN THE YEAR BY THE AFRO-AMERICAN COMPANY OF BALTIMORE, MARYLAND
DR. CARL MURPHY, Chairman of the Board
JOHN H. MURPHY III, President
ELIZABETH M. PHILLIPS, Vice President and Treasurer
MAE E. DYSON, Secretary
C. SUMNER STONE JR., Editor

Do We Need Berl Bernhard?

Berl Bernhard, executive director of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, last week demonstrated, perhaps, unintentionally where his true sentiments on this matter of racial equality lay.

Posturing himself as the objective white oracle who includes colored people among his best friends yet walks a path with the uncommitted whites, Bernhard indicted both the colored and white communities for their "mutual vituperation."

What Bernhard was saying in effect was that the whites accuse colored people and colored people accuse whites when discussions on matters such as colored crime arise.

By delineating the concept, "mutual vituperation", Bernhard was simply stating that both groups are wrong, that both groups have uselessly spent their energies in accusations when they should be sitting down together trying to work out a solution to this serious problem.

We agree cordially with the need of the two communities — the white community and the colored community — to sit down and attempt to come up with some fairly necessary answers.

However, we disagree strongly and bitterly with Mr. Bernhard's equation of "mutual vituperation."

When colored people, leaders, and yes, virtualy the entire colored community that the reason we have "colored crime", "colored welfare cheats", and "colored family disorganization" because of white-constructed segregation, they are wrong in "accusing" the white community of this sin, according Mr. Bernhard.

Even the organization he works for, the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, tacitly condemned the white community of America in a series of Commission reports on racial segregation in the administration of justice, housing, employment, education, and voting.

Now if Mr. Bernhard's own organization prepares a series of reports which offer a de facto indictment of the white community and the colored community uses these same reports to blame the white community for its racial abuses, does Mr. Bernhard mean to tell us that we are merely subscribing to "mutual vituperation."

Undoubtedly he does and it seems fairly obvious to us that Mr. Bernhard has not begun to outlive his usefulness with the U.S. Civil rights Commission.

In fact, we think it's time for him to resign.

And we are prepared to join Mr. Bernhard in a major confrontation wit between him and the colored community to see just how sincere the Kennedy Administration is on civil rights in retaining him.

Next year is an election year. We're curious to see whether Mr. Bernhard can survive 1964 as executive director of the Civil Rights Commission.

Republicans And Civil Rights

Eight Republican Senators performed an extraordinarily valuable service both to America and to the Kennedy Administration in coming up last week with one of the most comprehensive civil rights packages ever offered in the Congress of the United States.

* * *

BY SEEKING to erase existing racial barriers in voting, housing, employment, the administration of jus-several battles with the House and Senate on certain pieces of legislation where the outcome was by no means certain — reorganization of the House Rules Committee and the medicare bill in the Senate — it has consistently failed to place its prestige on the line in the Senate's Rule 22 battle.

This newspaper is not so naive as to believe that there is not an element

'Spring is here'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mr. Edward Peeks is currently on a well-deserved two weeks' vacation. His column will be resumed upon his return on the week ending April 20.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Your Rights Been Violated By U.S. Loyalty Program? Call ACLU

Dear AFRO:

The Loyalty - Security Committee of the National Capital Area Civil Liberties Union is undertaking an investigation of the Federal loyalty-security program.

It would be of great assistance to the Committee if any person who be-

Our hope is that the information supplied will assist the development of recommendations designed to harmonize the program with constitutional standards.

Letters should be sent to the NCACLU Loyalty - Security Committee, 1101 Vermont Ave., NW, Wash-a stone's throw

By Chuck Stone

How To Make Rep. McMillan Bite The Political Dust

"In life, we all get 'had.' The important thing is to be 'had' well."

I wish I could lay claim to that philosophical erudition, but it exuded from the fertile mind of a former University of Chicago roommate, Hugh Lane.

And my unshakable confidence in the merits of Hugh's observation impels me to believe that Democratic Rep. John L. McMillan of South Carolina can be "had."

In short, he can — and must be gotten rid of.

Why?

Does anybody of any political persuasion — other than the political neanderthals who have just risen out of the Southern muck to come to Congress — deny that Rep. McMillan is one of the worst Congressmen in the United States Congress?

And who can deny that his chairmanship of the House District Committee has singlehandedly constructed the graveyard for Home Rule legislation for the District of Columbia?

Rep. McMillan, curiously enough, is not one of the South's noisier racists.

He permitted the defeated Georgian, James Davis, to run the District Committee as he saw fit and it was the then Rep. Davis who created a public posture of the House District Committee as anti-colored.

This year, Rep. McMillan has remained quietly in the background while allowing Rep. Whitener of North Carolina, Rep. Dowdy of Texas, and Rep. Broyhill of Virginia —three gentlemen not likely to be guest speakers at an NAACP convention — to run the House District Committee.

Not only has Rep. McMillan's committee blocked Home Rule legislation, it has also contemptuously ignored President Kennedy's request to increase the Federal subsidy for the District of Columbia.

* * *

IN GENERAL, Rep. McMillan has been one of the major stumbling blocks to the implementation of democracy in the District of Columbia, racial composition — 47 per cent colored.

* * *

OF HIS District's 394,302 persons, 184,344 are colored (342 "other races").

What's more, there is no available information for the number of voters — white or colored — on the voting records.

Information is also scarce on the number and quality of educated folks in Mr. McMillan's District.

* * *

BUT WHATEVER their educational accomplishments, whatever their political sympathies, I just cannot believe that the 394,302 people living in the South Carolina 6th Congressional District have any idea of what they have palmed off on the American people by sending John L. McMillan to the Congress.

* * *

I JUST cannot believe they are proud of him — particularly if they realized how viciously he has fought the flowering of democracy, racial progress in America and in the nation's capital, and progressive legislation in general.

Once a constituency is cognizant that such a Congressman holds them up to ridicule, usually a grass roots movement develops to retire him.

* * *

IT IS TIME to retire Rep. McMillan.

* * *

IT IS TIME to inform the 394,302 people living in the South Carolina 6th Congressional District that they have been sending to the Congress a man who does them neither highest honor nor greatest tribute.

* * *

IT IS TIME for all Americans — both black and white — to inform the people of Mr. McMillan's district that they, too are a part of the United States of America, that they, too have an obligation to make democracy work — better than it does now —and that the continuing re-election of Rep. McMillan runs counter to these expressed aims.

nity — to sit down and attempt to come up with some fairly necessary answers.

However, we disagree strongly and bitterly with Mr. Bernhard's equation of "mutual vituperation."

When colored people, leaders, and yes, virtualy the entire colored community that the reason we have "colored crime", "colored welfare cheats", and "colored family disorganization" because of white-con-to resign.

And we are prepared to join Mr. Bernhard in a major confrontation wit between him and the colored community to see just how sincere the Kennedy Administration is on civil rights in retaining him.

Next year is an election year. We're curious to see whether Mr. Bernhard can survive 1964 as executive director of the Civil Rights Commission.

Republicans And Civil Rights

Eight Republican Senators performed an extraordinarily valuable service both to America and to the Kennedy Administration in coming up last week with one of the most comprehensive civil rights packages ever offered in the Congress of the United States.

* * *

BY SEEKING to erase existing racial barriers in voting, housing, employment, the administration of justice, education, and public accommodations, these distinguished gentlemen unmercifully spotlighted the hypocrisy of the Kennedy Administration in failing to push harder for these same goals.

* * *

TO DATE, the Kennedy Administration has refused to place the full weight of its power behind any concerted drive for full racial equality in the above six areas through congressional legislation.

While it has involved itself in several battles with the House and Senate on certain pieces of legislation where the outcome was by no means certain — reorganization of the House Rules Committee and the medicare bill in the Senate — it has consistently failed to place its prestige on the line in the Senate's Rule 22 battle.

This newspaper is not so naive as to believe that there is not an element of politics in the move by the Republican Senators to "embarrass" the Democratic Administration, but as far as this newspaper is concerned, that's the way the newspaper print crumbles.

President Kennedy is unquestionably committed to uncompromising racial equality for colored Americans.

All we ask is that he pause for a moment in his appointive process and get down to the nitty-gritty of civil rights — the right to enjoy the full benefits of this democracy.

Tribute To A Colleague

When Moses J. Newson, assistant city editor of the Baltimore AFRO - AMERICAN returned from Greenwood, Mississippi, many of the staff both in Washington and Baltimore kidded him about his latest sortie into "foreign territory."

Newson takes this kidding gracefully, but behind it all is the grim — very grim reminder — that this courageous reporter has covered the Emmett Till case, Little Rock, Clinton, Tenn., Anniston, Ala. (remember that burning bus? Newson was on it!), Monroe, N.C., Oxford, Miss., and now Greenwood, Miss.

Newson doesn't regard himself as any kind of a hero. He is given an assignment and he goes just as most of his white colleagues go peacefully on their appointed rounds to the comfortable sanctuaries of government buildings in Washington, D.C., attending press conferences and arguing about who's managing the news.

We're proud of our colleague. We're humbled by the fact that we can work on the same staff with him as part of the largest colored newspaper syndicate in the world.

And if anybody ever needs an eloquent testimony to the need for the colored press and its tremendous contributions to the fight for human dignity, all they need do is look no further than Moses Newson, a guy who makes us all proud we're part of an important American institution.

When the next civil rights explosion comes in America — and we think there will be a few more yet — wait for about 24 hours. You'll be reading Moses J. Newson's byline in this newspaper. Keep up the good work, buddy.

Policy-Making And Money In The Kennedy Administration

Atty. Belford V. Lawson Jr. uttered some needed-to-be-said words last week when he pointed out last week that colored Americans still have not been able to eat at the "golden trough in the Kennedy Administration."

Hailing the President for his many fine appointments of colored Americans, Mr. Lawson went on to outline the many areas where there are no colored Americans in any significant policy making positions in the economic, business, and financial departments of government.

Specifically he indicted the Commerce and Treasury Departments as not having at least an Assistant Secretary.

He also pointed out the absence of colored executives in the Small Business Administration.

There are some unusually successful and outstanding businessmen in the colored community. This newspaper would not insult its readers' intelligence by listing them.

The Kennedy Administration knows who they are.

And the Kennedy Administration knows it has capable men already working for it who should be at the assistant secretary level. Why the President or Secretary of the Treasury Dillion have not appointed for example, the universally respected Dr. Samuel Z. Westerfield as an assistant secretary is beyond the comprehension of the entire colored community of America.

We want to dine at that "golden trough."

We want to be a part of the economic and financial determinations in the U.S. Government.

And we certainly are not there now.

Mr. Lawson is to be commended for focusing on these inadequacies in an administration which all of us are convinced really means business — but just hasn't gotten around to letting us have a part of that business.

currently on a well-deserved two weeks' vacation. His column will be resumed upon his return on the week ending April 20.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Your Rights Been Violated By U.S. Loyalty Program? Call ACLU

Dear AFRO:

The Loyalty - Security Committee of the National Capital Area Civil Liberties Union is undertaking an investigation of the Federal loyalty-security program.

It would be of great assistance to the Committee if any person who believes that his constitutional rights have been violated by the program will furnish the Committee with a brief resume of his case.

Our hope is that the information supplied will assist the development of recommendations designed to harmonize the program with constitutional standards.

Letters should be sent to the NCACLU Loyalty - Security Committee, 1101 Vermont Ave., NW, Washington 5, D.C.

DANIEL M. BERMAN
Chairman

Who Are The 'Irresponsibles' And 'Responsibles' In D.C. Schools?

Dear AFRO:

Dr. Hansen exposed his attitude and the attitude of his colleagues recently toward the 84 percent colored pupil population of Washington with his vehement outburst on the Floor of the House District Committee during the hearing on corporal punishment, when he shouted that I was "irresponsible."

As Chairman of the National Capital Voters Association, I was selected by parents dissatisfied with public school education to present to the Congress of the U.S. certain facts (in the school crisis) which others had neglected to disclose.

Since desegregation colored parents have become progressively alarmed over the actions of the "irresponsibles" of the public school system—the responsibles who have tactfully collaborated in a subtle resegregation scheme.

Following the desegregation decision, Dr. Hansen, assisted by cohorts, immediately established a system of "railroading" tracks; a plan where the majority of white pupils were placed on the "high road" to travel toward success and leadership.

But, the program's policy was so designed that the vast majority of colored pupils were assigned to the "low road" which is crowded now and becoming more so daily with our helpless children trudging downward toward mental health clinics, well staffed juvenile courts, conservation camps and modern penal institutions.

The justice of this action was substantiated by a "crew" of testers and counselors. They convinced the parents that "little black Jimmy" was born slow.

And, since Jimmy is slow by nature plus being born of a people having no background, there developed, a new theory of the "culturally deprived" which has destroyed the faith of our children in education's worth and demoralized their parents.

The theory of the so-called "culturally deprived" popularized again a concept of colored inferiority, of the colored people's inability to learn to read, write and spell which had been largely discredited since the days of slavery.

For a definition of "irresponsible" and "responsible" we turned to the dictionary. It says there that the "irresponsible" is not liable to be called to account for or made to answer for actions. While "responsible" applies to one who has been delegated some duty or responsibility by one in authority and who is subject to penalty in case of default.

It means a legal or moral obligation for which one must answer to someone sitting in judgment, or called to account for.

It flows thus from the above that if I am "irresponsible" (and the parents I represent), as Dr. Hansen charged on the Floor of the Congressional Committee, then we hold him "responsible" for the following:

1.) He is RESPONSIBLE for poor school discipline.

2.) He is RESPONSIBLE for the poor quality of education in the school and its steady deterioration since desegregation.

3.) He is RESPONSIBLE for the "railroading" tracks leading our pupils downward to nowhere or to institutions.

4.) He is RESPONSIBLE for the morals of teachers their cursing of children, their drinking on the premises and the sexual deviates.

5.) He is RESPONSIBLE for the pornographic and sex literature freely distributed in some schools.

6.) He is RESPONSIBLE for more than 1700 unprepared teachers floating through the classrooms.

7.) He is RESPONSIBLE for the more than 50 empty classrooms and seven buildings being used for non-teaching purposes while in some schools pupils are crowed or assigned to double shifts.

8.) He is RESPONSIBLE for priate interests which have invaded the public schools dictating policies.

9.) He is RESPONSIBLE for the frustration of the youths and the drop-outs and juvenile delinquency.

10.) He is RESPONSIBLE for turning the community toward crime.

11.) And because he is RESPONSIBLE to the people and the officials who delegated him this RESPONSIBILITY, we,—the so-called "irresponsibles," are angry and determined that the Superintendent shall carry out that RESPONSIBILITY to the people and the Capital city of this great nation.

JOHN M. THORNTON, president
National Capital Voters Association

Rep. McMillan, curiously enough, is not one of the South's noisier racists.

He permitted the defeated Georgian, James Davis, to run the District Committee as he saw fit and it was the then Rep. Davis who created a public posture of the House District Committee as anti-colored.

This year, Rep. McMillan has remained quietly in the background while allowing Rep. Whitener of North Carolina, Rep. Dowdy of Texas, and Rep. Broyhill of Virginia —three gentlemen not likely to be guest speakers at an NAACP convention — to run the House District Committee.

Not only has Rep. McMillan's committee blocked Home Rule legislation, it has also contemptuously ignored President Kennedy's request to increase the Federal subsidy for the District of Columbia.

* * *

IN GENERAL, Rep. McMillan has been one of the major stumbling blocks to the implementation of democracy in the District of Columbia.

* * *

And he has been one of the most dangerous enemies of all colored Americans in his segregationist opposition to all civil rights legislation.

* * *

IN 1948, 1950, 1952, 1954, 1956, 1958, and 1960, Rep. McMillan was elected from his political fieldom more commonly known as the 6th Congressional District of South Carolina —without opposition.

* * *

IN 1962, he did encounter a mild challenge from G. Stanley Bryant, another Democrat, who was defeated by 48,000 votes to 10,000 — a margin of 38,000 votes.

Mr. McMillan's 6th District borders upon the Atlantic Ocean. It is just south of the North Carolina border and includes the nine counties of Darlington, Dillon, Florence (his home), Georgetown, Horry, Lee, Marion, Marlboro, and Williamsburg.

* * *

THE MOST interesting fact about Mr. McMillan's 6th District is its the flowering of democracy, racial progress in America and in the nation's capital, and progressive legislation in general.

Once a constituency is cognizant that such a Congressman holds them up to ridicule, usually a grass roots movement develops to retire him.

* * *

IT IS TIME to retire Rep. McMillan.

* * *

IT IS TIME to inform the 394.302 people living in the South Carolina 6th Congressional District that they have been sending to the Congress a man who does them neither highest honor nor greatest tribute.

* * *

IT IS TIME for all Americans — both black and white — to inform the people of Mr. McMillan's district that they, too are a part of the United States of America, that they, too have an obligation to make democracy work — better than it does now —and that the continuing re-election of Rep. McMillan runs counter to these expressed aims.

What is needed now is a shift of the voting registration program to Florence, South Carolina — to register the more than 80,000 colored people of voting age in that District.

A national effort must be made by all Americans to defeat Rep. McMillan.

Let him yell, "carpetbagger" and "invaders from the North" and "damnyankees" if he pleases. But let's provide him with a grand confrontation of power. Let's meet him on his own home grounds and rub his nose in the humiliating mud of defeat just as we did to Rep. Davis in Georgia.

Let's make Rep. McMillan bite the political dust.

And I think there are just enough decent - thinking Americans in the South Carolina 6th Congressional District who will agree he should be defeated.

At least, it's worth a try, so let's get those voting registrations going in Florence, South Carolina, and help the Democratic Party clean house.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Raps the News for its editorial

Dear AFRO:

Your stand and publications on racial "hatred" and police gunplay in Washington, D.C. is highly respected by me and my friends.

Your editorial had only one flaw—it was too kind to the Daily News.

It is my opinion that the Daily News in refering to "hopelessly civilized brutes" was talking about itself and the author of its editorial, for he was advocating the breakdown of constitutional rights and substituting the law of the jungle — the gun and death without constitutional protection.

Where is it in the law that it says a man who does not halt when told to do so by the law can be shot?

Only condemned criminals can be shot at and with wounding in mind, not killing. Someone in the News needs help.

Police are employed to apprehend criminals. For this, I will pay taxes for their support and with gratitude. When they make it their business to condemn and execute, they are out of bounds. Better to let them all get away.

One point in your editorial did not please me. You used the term racial "hatred."

This term says nothing for it is really racial "fear" and my less courageous white brothers, less blessed with healthy grey matter, are so fearful that they attempt with guns and laws to provide themselves with a girdle for their sagging guts.

This "white problem" must be born by many non-colored Americans, all waiting for the public to understand that training makes it impossible for the less fortunate white to escape the fear forced upon him since childhood in the guise of bravado and superiority.

Keep up the good work. All airing is good.

COMMUNITY CITIZEN,
SILVIO FILARDO

Says Post worse than the News

Dear AFRO:

I would like to take issue with a statement you made in the editorial commenting on the Washington Daily News attack on CORE.

In it you said, "If any one newspaper in the nation's capital is guilty of degrading a group of people, it's the Daily News which is the only paper in this city which identifies arrested people by race."

Evidently you don't read the Washington Post. In my opinion it is worse than the Daily News.

The Post labels and identifies race only in crime articles whereas the Daily News will identify race in all news articles.

I am not defending the News. I am against race labeling in any articles and in any newspaper. But when a "Liberal" newspaper such as the Post which is always championing colored rights, day after day plants in people's minds that colored are criminals, then they are doing the race a lot of harm.

As a matter of fact, the Post has helped the word "Negro" to become synonymous with crime in the minds of many white people.

In the Daily News, if a colored per-

(Continued on Page 21)

April 9, 1963

The Honorable N. C. Nix
House of Representatives
House Office Building
Washington, D.C.

My dear Mr. Nix:

We are pleased to note your extension of remarks in the April 4 issue of the Congressional Record in which you also inserted the chronology of events of violence in the state of Mississippi since January, 1961. This was the release issued earlier by our office.

We appreciate the support and interest which you have shown in the problems confronting us and if at any time we can furnish you with any information regarding conditions in the South then please feel free to call on us.

Sincerely yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

Of

HON. ROBERT N. C. NIX

Of Pennsylvania

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

APR 6 1963

ACTION NOW!

Mr. Nix. Mr. Speaker, the time is now for immediate and drastic executive action, for accelerated legal procedures by the Attorney General, for positive congressional action to strengthen and extend the law by giving to the Attorney General the legal authority to protect the rights of the Negroes of Mississippi, as well as the rights of minorities everywhere in the United States, to the limit.

Mr. Speaker, I take this opportunity to solicit the aid of every member of the Congress of the United States to join me now in protesting and denouncing the illegal actions on the part of the authorities of Mississippi and elsewhere insofar as the actions of those authorities in anyway hamper the constitutional rights of Negro citizens.

I call the attention of my colleagues to a long series of outrages suffered by Negroes of Mississippi and I emphatically state that these crimes cry out for positive and courageous action not tomorrow but now.

CHRONOLOGY OF VIOLENCE AND INTIMIDATION IN MISSISSIPPI SINCE 1961

1961

January 1, Greenville, Washington County: Two young white men rode a motorbike through a residential area and, according to the local police chief, fired a volley of shots into a group of Negroes. George Mayfield, 18, was seriously wounded in both legs; Percy Lee Simmons, 19, was shot in the right leg.

March 30, Jackson, Hinds County: Club-swinging police and two police dogs chased more than 100 Negroes from a courthouse where nine Negro students were convicted for staging a sit-in demonstration. Several were struck by the clubs and at least one person was bitten by the dogs.

May 7, Jackson, Hinds County: Several white youths, riding in an open convertible, lassoed nine-year-old Negro Gloria Laverne Floyd with a wire and dragged her along the street. The girl suffered a deep gash in her head that required three stitches, cheek bruises, a laceration of her right shoulder, and burn marks on her neck. Police made arrests.

August 15, Amite County: Robert Moses, Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) registration worker, and three Negroes who had tried unsuccessfully to register in Liberty, were driving toward McComb when a county officer stopped them. He asked if Moses was the man "...who's been tring to register our niggers." All were taken to court and Moses was arrested for "impeding an officer in the discharge of his duties," fined $50 and spent two days in jail.

August 22, Amite County: Robert Moses went to Liberty with three Negroes, who made an unsuccessful attempt to register. A block from the courthouse, Moses was attacked and beaten by Billy Jack Caston, the sheriff's first cousin. Eight stitches were required to close a wound in Moses' head. Caston was acquitted of assault charges by an all-white jury before a justice of the peace.

August 26, McComb, Pike County: Hollis Watkins, 20, and Elmer Hayes, 20, SNCC workers, were arrested while staging a sit-in at the F. W. Woolworth store and charged with breach of the peace. They spent 36 days in jail.

August 27 and 29, McComb, Pike County: Five Negro students from a local high school were convicted of breach of the peace following a sit-in at a variety store and bus terminal. They were sentenced to a $400 fine each and eight months in jail. One of these students, a girl of 15, was turned over to juvenile authorities, released, subsequently rearrested, and sentenced to 12 months in a state school for delinquents.

August 29, McComb, Pike County: Two Negro leaders were arrested in McComb as an aftermath of the sit-in protest march on city hall, charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors. They were Curtis C. Bryant of McComb, an official of the NAACP, and Cordelle Reagan, of SNCC. Each arrest was made on an affidavit signed by Police Chief George Guy, who said he had information that the two "...were behind some of this racial trouble."

August 30, McComb, Pike County: SNCC workers Brenda Travis, 16, Robert Talbert, 19, and Isaac Lewis, 20, staged a sit-in in the McComb terminal of the Greyhound bus lines. They were arrested on charges of breach of the peace and failure to obey a policeman's order to move on. They spent 30 days in jail.

September 5, Liberty, Amite County: Travis Britt, SNCC registration worker, was attacked and beaten by whites on the courthouse lawn. Britt was accompanied at the time by Robert Moses. Britt said one man hit him more than 20 times. The attackers drove away in a truck.

September 7, Tylertown, Walthall County: John Hardy, SNCC registration worker, took two Negroes to the county courthouse to register. The registrar told them he "...wasn't registering voters" that day. When the three turned to leave, Registrar John Q. Wood took a pistol from his desk and struck Hardy over the head from behind. Hardy was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace.

September 13, Jackson, Hinds County: Fifteen Episcopal ministers (among them three Negroes) were arrested for asking to be served at the lunch counter of the Greyhound bus terminal. They were charged with inviting a breach of the peace. They were found not guilty of the charge on May 21, 1962, by County Judge Russell Moore.

September 25, Liberty, Amite County: Herbert Lee, a Negro who had been active in voter registration, was shot and killed by white state representative E. H. Hurst in downtown Liberty. No prosecution was undertaken, the authorities explaining that the representative had shot in self-defense.

October 4, McComb, Pike County: The five students who were arrested as a result of the August 29 sit-in in McComb returned to school, but were refused admittance. At that, 116 students walked out and paraded downtown to the city hall in protest. Police arrested the entire crowd, but later released all but 19, all of whom were 18 years old or older. They were charged with breach of the peace and contributing to the delinquency of minors and allowed to go free on bail totalling $3,700. At the trial on October 31, Judge Brumfield, finding the students guilty, and sentencing each to a $500 fine and six months in jail, said: "Some of you are local residents, some of you are outsiders. Those of you who are local residents are like sheep being led to the slaughter. If you continue to follow the advice of outside agitators, you will be like sheep and be slaughtered."

October 5, McComb, Pike County: Charles Sherrod was arrested on the street, thrown into a police car, and charged with resisting arrest. Cordelle Reagan was also arrested and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Both were field workers for SNCC.

October 11, McComb, Pike County: Paul Potter of Philadelphia, a vice president of the National Student Association and Tom Hayden of Atlanta, both white, were dragged from their car and beaten as they drove alongside a group of Negroes making an anti-segregation march. When the two slowed their car for a traffic light, a heavy-set white man opened the door and dragged the driver out and hit him several times. He then walked around to the other side of the car, opened the door and knocked the second man to the street. The incident occurred in the business section of the city.

October 13, McComb, Pike County: Police Officer B. F. Elmore shot and killed a Negro motorist. Police Chief George Guy said that Elmore said he had stopped Eli Brumfield at 4 a.m. for speeding. Brumfield allegedly jumped from his car with a pocket knife in his hand and attacked Elmore. A coroner's jury ruled Elmore fired in self-defense.

October 22, Jackson, Hinds County: Dion Diamond, a SNCC worker, was arrested for "running a stop sign" after being followed all day. In court the next day, the arresting officer told the judge, "He is a Freedom Rider. Throw the book at him." Diamond was refused legal counsel and fined $168.

November 9, McComb, Pike County: Jerome Smith, 22, Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) field man, and four companions, Dorothy Smith, 18, Alice Thompson, 22, Thomas Valentine, 23, and George Raymond, 18, were attacked by a mob of 30 to 40 whites when they sought service at the lunch counter of the Greyhound bus terminal in McComb. Smith, who suffered head injuries when he was slugged with brass knuckles during the attack, said FBI agents were present at the time of the attack, but did "nothing but take notes" while the mob kicked and beat his companions. The victims were rescued from the mob by a Negro truck driver and Negro cab drivers.

November 10, Jackson, Hinds County: Jessie Divens, twelve-year-old, was arrested for refusing to move to the rear of a city bus. Judge Carl Guernsey released the girl to the custody of the Rev. G. R. Horton, chaplain at Campbell College where she attended classes. Judge Guernsey continued the case until November 17, "with the understanding that the Rev. Mr. Horton and the child come back with a workable plan which would cause the child's mind to be concerned with education rather than social reformation."

November 18, McComb, Pike County: Persons unknown fired a shotgun blast into the bedroom of Dion Diamond and John Hardy at 702 Wall Street. Investigating officer Frank Williams found shotgun pellets embedded in the window frame.

December 1, McComb, Pike County: Four white men attacked three newsmen on the street, sending one crashing into a plate glass window of a store. The newsmen were Tom Uhrborck and Don Underwood, Life Magazine, and Simmons Fentress, Time Magazine.

December 2, McComb, Pike County: Police broke up an attempt by white attackers to drag three Freedom Riders from an automobile at the Greyhound bus terminal. Four men kicked at the locked car and beat upon the windows in an attempt to reach the young Negroes and their driver, Thomas Gaither, field secretary of CORE. The police, who were standing by when the riders arrived aboard a bus from Jackson, pulled the men away from the car, but made no arrests.

December 26, Jackson, Hinds County: Rafford Johnson, Negro, was severely beaten by two law officers after being involved in a minor collision with a car driven by a white woman. Johnson underwent surgery for skull injuries.

1962

February 6, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Miss Bessie Turner, 19, a Negro, was walking with a young man down a Clarksdale street when Clarksdale police officers stopped them and accused Miss Turner of having been involved in a theft. Miss Turner said the officers took her to the jail, forced her to unclothe and to lie on her back. She said one of the policemen then beat her between the legs with his belt. A few minutes later, Miss Turner said, the other officer beat her across her naked breasts. Miss Turner filed federal charges against the officers.

March 15, 1962, Shelby, Bolivar County: Aaron Henry, state president of the NAACP, was convicted in Justice of Peace Court on charges of making perverse advances on a white teen-age hitchhiker. Henry stated that the charges were a complete fabrication, and presented an alibi supported by sworn witnesses. The conviction has been appealed. When he later stated in a press conference that the prosecutor and the police chief, who figured in the trial, had conspired to frame him, Henry was sued by the two for defamation. A Mississippi white jury awarded the prosecutor $25,000 and the police chief, $15,000.

April 12, 1962, Taylorsville, Smith County: Corporal Roman Ducksworth, Jr., U. S. Army, a Negro, was shot and killed by policeman Bill Kelly when, according to an NAACP news release, Duckworth "insisted on his right to sit where he chose on an interstate bus." Policeman Kelly claimed that Ducksworth was drunk and started fighting. No charges were brought against Kelly. Ducksworth was enroute from Camp Ritchie, Maryland, to see his wife who was ill in a Laurel, Mississippi, hospital.

April, 1962, Lucedale, George County: Mrs. Ernestine Denham Talbert, who lives in George County but teaches in Green County, was notified by the Green County School Board that her teaching contract would not be renewed. Mrs. Talbert had tried in January to register to vote but had been refused.

May 17, 1962, Rankin County: The Negro editor of the Mississippi Free Press said he and a companion were beaten by Rankin County officers and a highway patrolman. Lawrence Hudson, Jr., of Jackson, said the beating occurred after he was stopped enroute from Jackson to Forest to check on a rumor that a Negro man had been killed by a white man. He was jailed, refused permission to phone a lawyer, tried the next day on several charges and fined $151.

June 21, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: A white lawyer from Jackson and four college students were jailed in Clarksdale for 20 hours without outside communication. One of the students was a Negro. William Higgs, the lawyer, and the students were jailed on a Sunday night by county officers and were released the following day, without charges being filed against them.

July 5, 1962, Jackson, Hinds County: Jesse Harris, 20, and Luvaghn Brown, 17, SNCC workers, charged that they were beaten and threatened with death while serving a 30-day sentence in the county jail for contempt of court. The young Negroes had refused to move from a court bench customarily occupied by whites while they were attending the trial of Mrs. Diane Nash Bevel. The young men said that, in the courthouse elevator, a deputy sheriff called Harris "a damned nigger" and beat him about the head with his fist. At the county farm, they were singled out as Freedom Riders and wore striped uniforms. Both were beaten by guards. Harris was beaten by a guard named "Keith" while other prisoners held him. "Keith" beat him across the back with a length of hose threatening, "Nigger, I'll kill you!"

August 16, 1962, Greenwood, Leflore County: Samuel Block, 23, SNCC field secretary, said three white men accosted him in a parking lot and "started beating me with their fists." He said they threatened him and then beat him for about five minutes. "There is no use reporting it to local authorities," he said.

August 17, 1962, Greenwood, Leflore County: SNCC workers Samuel Block, Luvaghn Brown, and Lawrence Guyot were forced to flee from the second story window of their voter registration office. They said armed white men invaded the premises intent upon doing them harm.

August 17, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Mayor Charles Durrough asked Mr. Lenard Davis, a Negro employed by the city, what he knew about the registration school being conducted at a Negro church. Mr. Davis replied that he didn't know anything at all about the school, and did not attend any of the classes. The mayor then told him that he, the mayor, knew what kind of school they were having.

The mayor said he knew it [presumably civil rights for the Negro] was coming, but he wasn't going to allow it to be forced on them. The mayor said that anyone attending the school would be given a one-way ticket out of town, and if that wouldn't do it, they would use whatever they had available. (See entry below for September 3, 1962.)

August, 1962, Greenwood, Leflore County: Welton McSwine, Jr., 14-year-old Negro, was arrested by police after a white woman's house had been broken into. When police got the youth to the station, an officer said: "All right, nigger, you know why you are here, and we want to know who broke into that white woman's house." McSwine told them he knew nothing of the incident, saying that he spent all his time in the cotton field, and suggesting that his mother could corroborate this. McSwine said officers then took him to a cell and beat him, first hitting him in the head with a blackjack; then one of the policemen beat him in the face with his fist while another hit him in the stomach with his club; then the officers made him lie naked on the floor on his side while they beat him with a whip. McSwine was released after intercession of his father's white employer.

August 21, 1962, Liberty, Amite County: Sam Wells and Tommy Weathersby went to the courthouse to register. While they were waiting to get into the registrar's office, they stood on the front porch of the courthouse. Deputy Sheriff Daniel Jones told them, "Get your - - - - off the front porch, and don't come back on." Weathersby and Wells got off the porch. A few moments later, rain began, and the two wanted to take shelter in the courthouse, but Deputy Sheriff Jones would not permit it.

August 21, Liberty, Amite County: Dewey Greene, Jr., Mississippi Free Press reporter, was taking pictures of Negroes waiting to register at the courthouse. An unidentified young man working in the office down the hall from the registrar's office snatched Greene's camera away, and refused to return it. Greene was told to leave town by three white men, one of whom was flourishing a length of lead pipe. He left.

August 29, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Seven Negroes were arrested after attending a voter registration meeting. David Dennis, CORE field secretary, was charged with "failure to yield right-of-way" after a police officer had forced him to submit to a long harangue of threats and abuse. Samuel Block, John Hodges, J. L. Harris, Richard T. Gray, and Albert Garrer, SNCC field workers, and Dewey Greene, Jr., reporter for the Mississippi Free Press, were forced by Clarksdale police to alight from their car, and were charged with loitering in violation of the city curfew.

August 30, 1962, Indianola, Sunflower County: SNCC workers C. R. McLauren, Albert Garner, J. O. Hodges, Samuel Block, and Robert Moses were arrested by Indianola police on a charge of distributing literature without a permit. The registration workers had been taking leaflets announcing a registration mass meeting door-to-door in the Negro community. Lafayette Surney, 17, another SNCC worker, was arrested and then released to Rev. James Bevel, of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

August 31, Indianola, Sunflower County: During the trial of Samuel Block on charges of distributing literature without a permit, the Municipal Judge informed Block that he could cross-examine the arresting officer. Block asked the officer, "Did you actually see me hand out a leaflet?" The judge turned to the officer and said, "He can ask you anything he wants to, but you don't have to answer." The judge told Lafayette Surney if he was caught in Indianola "agitating" again, he would be sent to the penal farm.

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Because of registration activity, two Negro-owned dry cleaning establishments were closed (allegedly for violating city ordinances).

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Lenard Davis, 49, sanitation department worker, was told by Mayor Charles M. Durrough, "We're going to let you go. Your wife's been attending that school." (He referred to a registration school conducted by SNCC workers in Ruleville.)

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Fred Hicks, 40, who drove field workers to the plantations, was told he could no longer use a bus without a commercial license. Hicks said the bus owner told him that, because Hicks' mother had registered to vote: "We gonna see how tight we can make it - gonna make it just as tight as we can. Gonna be rougher and rougher than you think it is."

September 3, 1962, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Moses and Amzie Moore, a local Negro leader, were walking down the street. A white man in a pickup truck drew up alongside and asked if they were the

"folks getting the people to register." Moses and Moore answered, yes, they were. The man asked if they could come out to his plantation to register people. The two answered, yes, they could come. The man said then, "I've got a shotgun waiting for you, double barrel."

September 3, Ruleville, Sunflower County: A letter from Mayor Durrough notified the Williams Chapel Missionary Baptist Church that tax exemption and free water were being cut off because the property was being used for "purposes other than worship services." The church was a meeting place for voter registration workers.

September 10, Ruleville, Sunflower County: Marylene Burkes, 20, and Vivian Hillet, 19, were severely wounded when an unidentified assailant fired through the window of Miss Hillet's grandparents' home. The grandparents had been active in voter registration work.

October 3, Biloxi, Harrison County: A Negro frame residence and a gasoline station were targets for two "Molotov cocktails" which caused more than $4,000 damage. One of the bombs struck the home of Dr. Gilbert Mason, a Negro physician, who is active in integration efforts. The other crashed through the window of a service station operated by Emmett Clark, a Negro.

October 5, Harmony, Leake County: Night riders fired shotguns into eight Negro homes and a Negro store. An elderly Negro said he was struck in the knee by a squirrel shot while he and his 9-year-old grandson were sleeping. He said he was not seriously hurt. Harmony Negroes had recently petitioned authorities for school desegregation.

October 10, Columbus, Lowndes County: A "Molotov cocktail" was tossed from a speeding car into the home of Dr. James L. Allen of Columbus, vice chairman of the Mississippi Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

October 29, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Charles McLaurin, SNCC registration worker, was stopped by police as he was taking a group home from the courthouse. The group had tried to register to vote. The officer asked to see McLaurin's driver's license. McLaurin showed it. The officer asked McLaurin what he was doing there. McLaurin told him he worked in voter registration. Then, accompanied by obscene remarks, the officer said, "Nigger, do you know the way out of town? McLaurin replied, "Yes." The officer said, with more obscenity, "Nigger! Can't you say 'yes, sir?'" The officer's partner asked the officer what charge should be put on the tickets. The officer said, "Charge the - - - - $26 on both charges." "Nigger, you got $52?" McLaurin replied, "No." The officer said, "Then you're going to jail." At the jail, McLaurin learned that the officer was Clarksdale Police Chief Ben Collins. McLaurin was in jail a few minutes when his companions posted bond for him in the amount of $103. They decided to forfeit bond rather than run the risk of a higher fine or incur the legal expense of an appeal.

October 31, Jackson, Hinds County: Thomas E. Johnson, a white minister, and a member of the Mississippi Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, saw a group of neighbors dumping garbage on his lawn. Johnson had just returned from taking his car to a safe place because of threats by neighbors to damage it. Johnson sought a peace bond against the man whom he had observed leading the garbage-dumping operations of his neighbors. The man presented eleven witnesses who swore that he had been in their presence at all times on the evening in question. The Justice of the Peace accepted their testimony and refused the bond. Then the Hinds County Grand Jury indicted Johnson and his wife on perjury charges, because of their testimony at the peace bond hearing.

November 6, 1962, Greenville, Washington County: Two WAF's and two airmen (all white) from the Greenville Air Force Base were fined $55 and given 30-day suspended sentences on charges of creating a disturbance by entering a restaurant and seeking service with two Negro voter registration workers.

December 26, 1962, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: Ivanhoe Donaldson and Benjamin Taylor, students from Detroit, brought a truckload of food, clothing and medicines for distribution to the Delta's needy families who had been cut off from federal surplus commodities. (The medicines had been donated by a physician in Louisville, and were consigned to Aaron Henry, a licensed pharmacist.) They were arrested by Clarksdale police and held for "investigation." After police searched the truck on December 27, and found what they described as "a drug used to ease the pain of middle-aged women," Donaldson and Taylor were charged with possession of narcotics and bond was set at $15,000. Bond was later reduced to $1,500.

1963

January 17, Canton, Madison County: The castrated and mutilated body of Sylvester Maxwell, 24-year-old Negro, was found by his brother-in-law less than 500 yards from the home of a white family. Mississippi NAACP Field Secretary Medgar Evers termed the slaying a "probable lynching."

February 2, Greenwood, Leflore County: Willie Peacock, SNCC registration worker, complained to the Justice Department that officials had refused to register him on two occasions, and had rejected his poll tax payment for this year.

February 20, Greenwood, Leflore County: Four Negro businesses on the same street as the SNCC voter registration office were burned to the ground. Mrs. Nancy Brand, a worker in the SNCC office, reported an anonymous telephone call in which a man's voice asked her if she ever came to the office. When she said yes, the voice said, "You won't be going down there anymore, that's been taken care of." The burned businesses were Jackson's Garage, George's Cafe, Porter's Pressing Shop, and the Esquire Club. The pressing shop is next door to the SNCC office, and SNCC workers believed the businesses were burned by mistake. Sam Block, SNCC Field Secretary, was arrested two days later for suggesting there was some connection between the burnings and the registration efforts of SNCC. He was charged with circulating statements calculated to create a breach of the peace.

February 26, Greenwood, Leflore County: Three registration workers were attacked with gunfire on U.S. Highway 82 just outside Greenwood. The shots were fired from a 1962 white Buick. The car in which the workers were riding was punctured by eleven bullets. One worker, James Travis of SNCC, was wounded in the neck and shoulder.

March 4, Clarksdale, Coahoma County: The show windows in the Fourth Street Drug Store were smashed, as they have been several times in the past. The proprietor of the store, Aaron Henry, found the damage when he returned from speaking at a mass meeting in Leflore County in connection with the voter registration drive there.

March 6, Greenwood, Leflore County: Samuel Block and three others were fired on from a station wagon which pulled up beside their car as they were parked in front of the SNCC voter registration office. Both front windows were shattered. Police later found the wadding from a shotgun shell buried in the head-liner of Block's car, and several pellets in the wall of the building in front of which the car had been parked.

March 12, Greenwood, Leflore County: A twelve-year-old Negro girl was attacked by an egg-throwing truckload of white teenaged boys. The girl suffered facial bruises.

March 20, 1963, Jackson, Hinds County: Three shots were fired through the windshield of a car belonging to Mrs. Mattie Dennis while it was parked in front of the home of Mrs. Dennis' cousin, whom she was visiting. Mrs. Dennis is the wife of David Dennis, CORE Field Secretary for Mississippi. Both have been active in voter registration.

March 24, 1963, Greenwood, Leflore County: Fire destroyed partially the interior of the voter registration office at 115 E. McLaurin St., making the office unusable and necessitating a search for new headquarters. Witnesses said they saw two white men fleeing the scene shortly before the fire was discovered.

March 26, 1963, Greenwood, Leflore County: A shotgun blast ripped into the home of Dewey Greene, Sr., father of the latest Negro applicant to the University of Mississippi. Another of Mr. Greene's sons and a daughter have been active in the Leflore County registration project. Greenwood police said they were investigating.

March 27, 1963, Greenwood, Leflore County: James Forman, Executive Secretary of SNCC, Bob Moses, and about ten other registration workers were arrested and taken from a group en route to the courthouse to register after the police dispersed a group of more than 100 Negroes with the use of police dogs.

(30)

April 10, 1963

M E M O R A N D U M

To: Wiley A. Branton

From: R. T. Blackwell

RE: The Tidewater Voter Registration Project
Norfolk, Virginia

I have examined, on the scene, the registration project now being undertaken in Norfolk, Virginia, under the support of the Tidewater Voter Registration Committee. This particular project comes closer to being the ideal registration project than any I have had the privilege of examining. The cross-section leadership in this project, which will be described below, is the thing that most communities s strive for, and in most instances, fall short of accomplishing.

I flew to Norfolk, Virginia, Friday evening, February 5th, at 8:10 p. m., to fill a speaking engagement for Sen. Leroy Johnson. This afforded me an excellent opportunity to observe the registration committee in operation, and making use of the resources available to it.

The mass meeting was scheduled at tne New Calvary Baptist Church, pastored by Rev. Samuel A. Wilson. When I arrived at the auditorium, there was an audience of about 800 people waiting. The press and television media was already on hand. One can observe the cross-section leadership, when its noted that the program consisted of a series of two-minute statements from various segments of the community. Dr. W. H. Walker spoke for the Baptist Ministerial Conference; Mr. Eugene West, Grandmaster of the Odd Fellows, spoke for organizations; Mr. David D. Alston, Vice-President of the International I.L.A., spoke for labor; Miss Buelah V. Kelley, Grand Secretary of the I.B.P.O.E. of Women spoke for women's organizations; Mr. Milton Gay, President of the Youth Council of the NAACP, spoke for the youth; Dr. Lyman B. Brooks, President of Virginia State College, Norfolk branch, spoke for education; Atty. Victor J. Ashe spoke for the professions; Dr. J. J. Quarrels, President of the Berkeley Mutual Savings and Loan Association, spoke for business. All of these speakers made enthusiastic pledges of support for the drive, and in several instances, made on-the-spot contributions to support the program. In addition to these speakers, several music groups participated, which to me, evidenced the awareness by the leadership of the desirability of involving as many groups as possible.

It appears that Norfolk has several civic associations. These associations had been corralled for the mass meeting by a lady associated with the local radio station, who spoke from the floor, pledging the support of these organizations.

My speech was well received, punctuated at some several points with spontaneous applause, despite the disappointement of not having Sen. Johnson present. Most of my remarks were built around the urgency that flavors the entire southwide registration campaign. Special emphasis was given to the Mississippi project. Appropriate apologies and regrets were included for the inability of Sen. Johnson and Atty. Branton to be present.

The Norfolk committee is quite adequately staffed by Rev. C. E. Griffin acting as president; Mr. Arthur T. Freeman acting as director; and Dr. W. P. Robinson acting as coordinator.

The Finance Committee is composed of Dr. S. F. Coppage, Atty. Hugo Madison, and Mr. Robert Hagars. A collection of $2,026 was taken up, along with promises and pledges of additional sums. A committee has set as a goal, 25,000 new voters within the next two years, and there is good reason to believe that this is a realistic figure. While the plans have not been finalized, it appears that in the early stages of the campaign, the technique will be to call on organizations to do what they can to register their members. A more systematic approach will follow this method. I see in this campaign, the possibility of profecting that which was attempted in Madison County, Alabama. I tentatively promised to go back to Norfolk and sit down and work with the people there on the methods of approach, making available to them some of the techniques that I have observed working effectively in other communities.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. It is recommended that VEP make available, as quickly as possible, such financial assistance as can be afforded. Feel absolutely confident that we will get dollar results for each dollar invested.

2. While it was once thought that a program coordinating Norfolk, Portsmith, and Newport News would be desirable, it is now felt that because of the very excellent way that the people in Norfolk have organized the program, it would be a mistake to try to include this community in a coordinated project.

R. T. Blackwell

RTB:JS

The Washington Post
City Life in Greater Washington

SECTION B ... B1
THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1963
AREA NEWS OBITUARIES
CLASSIFIED

Congressmen Make Plea for D.C. Home Rule

By Elsie Carper
Staff Reporter

A bipartisan group of Congressmen yesterday began circulating copies of a letter sent to House District Committee Chairman John L. McMillan (D-S. C.) urging him to hold hearings on District home rule legislation.

The letter points out that 16 bills have been introduced in the House and Senate this session to give District residents various forms and degrees of self-government.

"We believe this general subject is one of considerable importance and is worthy of consideration by the members of the District Committee," the letter said.

The signers included Reps. Morris K. Udall (D-Ariz.), Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.), Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa), Julia B. Hansen (D-Wash.), Edith Green (D-Oreg.), John V. Lindsay (R-N. Y.), William B. Widnall (R-N. J.), Jeffrey Cohelan (D-Calif.) and Charles McC. Mathias (R-Md.).

Three on Committee

Three signers, Schwengel, Cohelan and Mathias, are members of the committee.

Congressmen Make Plea for D.C. Home Rule

By Elsie Carper
Staff Reporter

A bipartisan group of Congressmen yesterday began circulating copies of a letter sent to House District Committee Chairman John L. McMillan (D-S. C.) urging him to hold hearings on District home rule legislation.

The letter points out that 16 bills have been introduced in the House and Senate this session to give District residents various forms and degrees of self-government.

"We believe this general subject is one of considerable importance and is worthy of consideration by the members of the District Committee," the letter said.

The signers included Reps. Morris K. Udall (D-Ariz.), Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.), Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa), Julia B. Hansen (D-Wash.), Edith Green (D-Oreg.), John V. Lindsay (R-N. Y.), William B. Widnall (R-N. J.), Jeffrey Cohelan (D-Calif.) and Charles McC. Mathias (R-Md.).

Three on Committee

Three signers, Schwengel, Cohelan and Mathias, are members of the committee.

The bills now before the committee range from one giving the District a charter form of government with an elected mayor and general assembly to legislation limited to giving the District a delegate in the House. The delegate would have all the privileges of a Congressman except that of voting.

Home rule hearings have not been held by the House District Committee since 1959 when a subcommittee headed by former Georgia Congressman James C. Davis heard witnesses but did not report out a bill.

The difficulties of getting a bill on the floor of the House were outlined by Udall in a speech given Tuesday before a group of Howard University Law School graduates.

Udall said that if a bill would ever reach the floor of the House, it would pass by a margin of some 20 to 60 votes but that it has two hurdles. The first is the House District Committee and the second the Rules Committee.

Last Year's Failure

Udall and other Congressmen tried last year to pry home rule legislation out of the District Committee by a discharge petition. The effort fell short of the required signatures of a majority of members of the House.

Udall said that while a majority of members would support home rule, too many "don't care" Congressmen are allowing a powerful group of Southern Congressmen to keep the issue from a full vote in the House. Even if the discharge petition were successful, the House Rules Committee could prevent it from reaching the floor.

Udall said if both political parties, though, would make good on their campaign platforms, home rule could be enacted during the present Congress.

Udall called the present method of obtaining legislation for the District "an incredible waste of time" by members of Congress. Washington, the Nation's ninth largest city, should have its own mayor and city council and "not 535 Congressional mayors who are not directly responsible to the non-voting citizens of Washington," he said.

April 11, 1963

Mr. C. O. Pearson
Attorney at Law
P.O. Box 1428
Durham, North Carolina

Dear Conrad:

Your letter of April 3 to the Southern Regional Council has been brought to my attention. We appreciate your interest manifested in the news release concerning the chronology of violence and intimidation in Mississippi.

We are quite familiar with Mr. Claude Sitton of the New York Times staff and we regard him as one of our supporters. The news release was delayed by our office until the New York Times strike was settled in an effort to get maximum coverage.

I am sure you will be interested in knowing that Congressman Nix of Pennsylvania inserted the entire press release into the Congressional Record of April 4, 1963.

We appreciate the suggestions which you have passed on to us and we ask for your continued support and interest in the causes we represent.

Kind personal regards.

Sincerely yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

4- Leflore County Public Relations

WB ✓ would you please reply

LWD ✓

C. O. PEARSON
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW
POST OFFICE BOX 1428
DURHAM, N. C.

TELEPHONE: 681-7993

April 3, 1963

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 301
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of your news release concerning the Voter Education Project in Mississippi, for release as of March 31, 1963.

After reading it, it makes my blood boil, to know that the present Federal Administration seems helpless to do anything in this area. Mississippi has now become a concentration camp, like the fore-runner in Europe.

I have some suggestions to make, as I feel that this release should be given world-wide circulation. The New York Times representative has an office in Atlanta; you probably know him, his name is Mr. Sutton. I would suggest that copies of this release be sent to each Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. I believe that if copies are sent to newspapers in Europe, it will have a great deal of influence in causing the Federal Government to take a firmer stand.

not a good idea, I think

I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the great work you are doing.

Sincerely yours,

C. O. Pearson

C. O. Pearson

COP-em

April 11, 1963

Mr. George McMillan
P. O. Box 299
Aiken, South Carolina

Dear Mr. McMillan:

Mr. Dunbar asked me to send you the enclosed copies of an editorial in the April 8th edition of the Washington Evening Star, and Mr. Branton's letter to the editor resulting from it.

Sincerely yours,

Jean Levine
Administrative Secretary

JL:js

Encls.

APR 17 1963

WASHINGTON AFRO-AMERICAN

1800 ELEVENTH ST. N. W. * WASHINGTON, 1, D. C.

WB

April 15, 1963

Mr. Wiley A. Branton
Voter Education Project
Room #206
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Wiley:

I appreciated your sending me a copy of the letter to the Evening Star concerning their editorial, "On Living Together." We were so appalled at its neanderthal reasoning that most of us ignored it. If they do not print your letter, however, we shall print it as an "open letter to the Star."

Enclosed is a column I wrote last week that VEP might well give some serious consideration to. As you know, Home Rule is only being blocked for the District of Columbia because of the Negro majority. There is little question that once a bill came to the floor, the majority of the Congressmen would vote in favor of it. But, getting it to the floor is the problem because of South Carolina's McMillan.

Why couldn't a voter registration program be launched in McMillan's Congressional District, starting in Florence County, S.C.? That would certainly give a pragmatic emphasis (immediate goal-directed) to VEP's efforts (and ah ain't suggesting y'all ain't about the most pragmatic folks going either!)

Dick Gregory came by the office Monday just before his meeting with the Justice Department. He gave me a copy of the Mississippi application for voters registration. It's unbelievable! As grim as the experiences were, he kept us in stitches for a half hour recounting some of the tales.

4- Leflore Public Relations

Through it all, he was able to still laugh and keep us laughing and maybe this is the ultimate salvation of us downtrodden colored folks -- to laugh at these bastards.

It was good to hear from you. Let's keep in touch and should you guys decide to start a voter registration program in Florence, S.C., I think there is a little money -- nay, quite a bit -- we could scare up from District residents. They would really dig this!

Take care. Next time you hit D.C., let's get together for dinner or a drink at our house.

Cordially,

Chuck

C. Sumner Stone, Jr.
Editor

CSSJr/jt encl.

LWD ✓
WB ✓

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

April 16, 1963

APR 18 1963

Dear Mr. Branton:

I appreciated your thoughtfulness in sending me a copy of your letter of April 9 to the editor of the Washington Star. The chronology of events does indeed suggest a rather continuing series of incidents aimed at a single objective.

Sincerely,

Lee C. White

Lee C. White
Assistant Special Counsel
to the President

Mr. Wiley A. Branton
Project Director
Voter Education Project
Room 206
5 Forsyth Street, Northwest
Atlanta 3, Georgia

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

April 17, 1963

The Honorable Robert N. C. Nix
104 Old House Office Building
Washington 25, D.C.

My dear Mr. Nix:

This will acknowledge receipt of your Special Delivery letter of April 11, which arrived while this office was closed for the Easter holiday.

As you requested, we are pleased to enclose glossy photos of some of the incidents of violence in Mississippi. We are also enclosing a supplementary chronology of acts of violence which have occurred since the preparation of the earlier press release.

We are deeply appreciative of the interest which you are showing in our voter registration problems.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl
enc.

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

On February 20, 1963, four Negro business establishments near the student voter registration office were destroyed by fire. When Samuel Block, a field secretary with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, made statements to the effect that the SNCC office had received anonymous threats that something would happen to their office, and suggested that the fire was intended for the SNCC office, he was arrested and charged with circulating statements calculated to create a breach of the peace and was given a fine and jail sentence.

On February 28, three registration workers were attacked by gunfire just outside of the city of Greenwood, and James Travis, a SNCC worker, was seriously wounded in the neck and shoulder.

On March 6, Samuel Block and three other registration workers were fired upon from a moving station wagon which pulled up beside their car as they were parked in front of the SNCC office. Both front windows in the car were shattered, and the occupants received minor injuries from shattered glass.

On March 24, the student voter registration office was partially destroyed by fire which, evidence supports, was set by arsonists.

On March 26, in Greenwood, a shotgun blast ripped the home of Dewey Greene, Sr., the father of two students active in the voter registration project.

On March 27, the leaders of the student registration project, and a group of more than 100 Negroes went to the city hall to protest to the mayor and chief of police about the acts of violence. The officials refused to talk to the group, and the registration workers announced that they would then proceed to the courthouse to apply for registration. It was after they had left the city hall and were en route to the courthouse that they were arrested and others dispersed by the use of a police dog. There had never been any so-called "march" or protest demonstration by the registratin workers prior to this date.

On March 27, after the arrest of the registration leaders, other citizens of Greenwood decided that they would walk to the courthouse every day as long as the leaders were in jail.

On March 28, a group of Negroes left the Leflore County courthouse walking in a large group, when the registration office closed down for lunch, and a police dog was turned loose to attack Rev. D. L. Tucker, who was leading the group, without any request or demand that the group disperse. The young minister was bitten by the dog. That afternoon, several Negroes decided to go to the registrat's office in cars and two separate vehicles were stopped by Greenwood police and the drivers were told that they could not drive downtown to the courthouse.

On March 29, a large group was walking to the courthouse, and they were stopped by Greenwood police and ordered to dispers, and the group immediately complied by breaking up into small groups. Nevertheless, a motorcycle police officer rode up to a student worker, and demanded a clipboard on which there were several papers containing the names of people being approached in door-to-door canvassing. The officer took the papers and gave the clipboard back to the student worker and rode off.

April 2, Landy McNair, SNCC registration worker, was arrested by Greenwood police at the Leflore County courthouse where he had gone to take registration applicants. He was charged with disorderly conduct, taken to the city police station, and then released.

April 3, Nineteen persons were arrested as they walked to the Leflore County courthouse to register. They had refused to disperse on orders of the Greenwood city police. They were taken to the county jail in a schoolbus.

April 4, Forty Negroes walking to the Leflore County courthouse, to register, turned around about five blocks from their starting point and walked back. Leaders said they did not want to become part of a situation manufactured by local authorities to make it look as if the marchers were interfering with traffic.

April 12, Two white men threw a fire-bomb into the home of Aaron Henry in Clarksdale, Miss. Henry is state president of the NAACP and has been active in voter registration in Clarksdale as well as Greenwood, Mississippi. Congressman Charles Diggs (D., Mich.) was a guest in Henry's home at the time of the bombing.

PICTURE CAPTIONS

Picture identification - refer to the number in the lower right corner of the back of the picture.

1. SNCC registration workers, Frank Smith, (L), Robert Moses (on top bunk) and Lawrence Guyot (center) in Leflore County jail, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 31, 1963. They were arrested March 27, 1963.
2. SNCC registration workers, James Forman (L) Frank Smith, Robert Moses, Lawrence Guyot and Willie Peacock (R) in Leflore County jail, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 31, 1963.

3. Greenwood police dog and its trainer, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 27, 1963.

4. Police, city officials and dog, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 27, 1963. Greenwood police commissioner "Buff" Hammond at upper right in hat.

5. Registration worker Mathew Hughes either just before or just after he was bitten by police dog in Greenwood, Mississippi, March 27, 1963, Greenwood police commissioner "Buff" Hammond at upper right in hat.

6. Greenwood police dog and its trainer, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 27, 1963.

7. Greenwood police dog and its trainer running after another victim, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 27, 1963.

8. James Travis (L) and his father in the Travis home in Jackson, Mississippi, a few days after the Feb. 28th shooting.

9. Car in which Blackwell, Moses and Travis were traveling at the time of the Feb. 28th shooting. The car had 11 bullet holes in its side. Both front and rear windows were shattered by bullets.

10. Bobbie Tabbott, Frank Smith, Hollis Watkins and the sister of Dewey Greene in the Greene home, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 26, 1963, after a shotgun blast shattered front door' glass and tore up the wall of a bedroon in which children were asleep.

11. Annelle Ponder and the SNCC landlord survey the damage to the SNCC office at 115 E. McLaurin, Greenwood, Mississippi after the March 24th fire.

12. Exterior of SNCC registration office at 115 E. McLaurin, Greenwood, Mississippi, after the March 24th fire.

Robert N. C. Nix
FOURTH DISTRICT, PENNSYLVANIA

OFFICES:
104 OLD HOUSE OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON 25, D.C.

2139 NORTH 22D STREET
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

COMMITTEES:
FOREIGN AFFAIRS
POST OFFICE AND CIVIL SERVICE

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Country Jail pictures
3-31-63

APR 12 1963

April 11, 1963

SPECIAL DELIVERY

Mr. Wiley A. Banton
Voter Education Project
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Banton:

Is it possible to forward to me some black and white glossy photos of some of the incidents of violence in Mississippi, indicating what photos relate to the incident in your chronology.

This is of the utmost importance and in the interest of your work.

I thank you very much.

Respectfully yours,

Robert N.C. Nix

ROBERT N. C. NIX
Member of Congress

Memo from JACK MINNIS

Picture identification--refer to the number in the lower right hand corner of the back of the picture.

SNCC Registration workers

1 Frank Smith, (L), Robert Moses (on top bunk) and Lawrence Guyot (center) in Leflore County jail, Greenwood Mississippi, March 31, 1963.
They were arrested March 27, 1963.

SNCC Registration workers

2 James Forman (L) Frank Smith, Robert Moses, Lawrence Guyot and Willie Peacock (R) in Leflore County jail, Greenwood Mississippi, ~~xxGreenwoodx~~ March ~~2~~ 31, 1963.

3 Greenwood police dog and its trainer, Greenwood Mississippi, March 27, 1963.

4 Police, city officials and dog, Greenwood Mississippi, March 27, 1963. Greenwood police commissioner"Buff" Hammond in hat.

5 Registration worker Mathew Hughes either just before or just after he was bitten by police dog in Greenwood Mississippi, March 27, 1963 Greenwood police commissioner "Buff" Hammond at upper right in hat.

6 Greenwood police dog and its trainer, Greenwood Mississippi, March 27, 1963

7 Greenwood police dog and its trainer running after another victim, Greenwood Mississippi, March 27, 1963.

8 James Travis (L) and his father in the Travis home in Jackson Mississippi a few days after the Feb. 28th shooting.

9 Car in which Blackwell, Moses add Travis were traveling at the time of the Feb. 28th shooting.
The car had 11 bullet holes in its side. Both front and rear windows were shattered by bullets.

Memo from JACK MINNIS

10 Bobbie Talbott, Frank Smith, Hollis Watkins and the sister of Dewey Greene in the Greene home, Greenwood, Mississippi, March 26, 1963 ~~the day~~ after a shotgun blast ~~wrecked the front door of the house~~ shattered front door glass and tore up the wall of a bedroom in which children were asleep.

11 Annelle Ponder and SNCC landlordsurvey the damage to the SNCC office at 115 E. McLaurin ~~aft~~ Greenwood, Mississippi after the March 24th fire.

12 Exterior of SNCC registration office at 115 E. McLaurin, Greenwood, Mississippi after the March 24th fire.

Memo from JACK MINNIS

April 2 Landy McNair, SNCC registration worker, was arrested by Greenwood police at the ~~courthouxxxxchargedxwith~~ Leflore County courthouse where he had gone to take registration applicants. He was charged with disorderly conduct, taken to the city police station, ~~questioned as to his name, age and address~~, and then released.

Pick up

April 3 Nineteen persons were arrested as they walked to the Leflore County courthouse to register. They had refused to disperse on orders of the Greenwood city police. They were taken to the county jail in a schoolbus.

April 4 Forty Negroes walking to the Leflore county courthouse to register, turned around about five blocks from their starting point and wlked back. Leaders said they did not want to become part of a manufacturedxsituation manufactired by local authorities to make it look as if the marchers were interfering with traffic.

April 12 Two white men threw a fire-bomb into the home of Aaron Henry in Clarksdale, Miss. Henry is state president of the NAACP and has been active in voter registration in Clarksdale as well as Greenwood, Miss.. Congressman Charles Diggs (D., Mich.) was a guest in Henry's home at the time of the gun bombing.

April 18, 1963

Mr. Paul D. Borman
Administration of Justice Section
United States Commission on Civil Rights
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Mr. Borman:

Your letter of April 10 contained a request for a copy of our recent Voter Education Project report.

We have not yet prepared our annual report of the Voter Education Project for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1963, and I, therefore, assume that you are referring to the press release with the chronology of acts of violence and intimidation in Mississippi, a copy of which we are enclosing.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl
enc.

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

UNITED STATES COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS
WASHINGTON 25, D.C.

April 10, 1963

APR 12 1963

Mr. Wiley Branton
Director, Voter Education Project
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Branton:

I would appreciate very much if you could send me a copy of your recent Voter Education Project Report.

Sincerely yours,

Paul D Borman

Paul D. Borman
Staff Attorney
Administration of Justice Section

April 19, 1963

Mr. Oswald Sykes
Howard News Syndicate, Inc.
P. O. Box 2613 Grand Central Station
New York 17, New York

Dear Mr. Sykes:

Thank you for your letter of April 19th. We are sending under separate cover, the fifteen copies of our March 31st news release you requested.

If we can be of any other assistance, please do not hesitate to let us know.

Very truly yours,

Jean Levine
Administrative Secretary

JL:js

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

Howard News Syndicate, Inc.
(HNS)

P. O. Box 2613 Grand Central Station, New York 17, N. Y.

Charles P. Howard, Sr.
Editor

C. Gerald Fraser, Jr.
Managing Editor

UNITED NATIONS BUREAU
Press Section — Room 306
United Nations, New York
PLaza 4-1234 - Ext. 2381

Serving All News Media Newspapers Magazines
Radio Television

APR 22 1963

4/19/'63

The Director
Voter Education Project
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

The Howard News Syndicate is very much impressed with your news release to all newspapers of Sunday March 31, 1963, which delt with 64 acts of violence, and intimidation against Negroes in Mississippi since January 1961.

We were wondering if you would be kind enough to send us fifteen (15) copies of this above report, so that we can circulate it among key delegates assigned to the United Nations.

Please accept our sincere appreciation for your cooperation in this matter.

Sincerely,

Oswald Sykes

Oswald Sykes
Business Manager

Specializing in coverage of United Nations and African affairs

Rep-Gen

April 23, 1963

Mr. John Seigenthaler
Editor
The Nashville Tennessean
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear John:

You were embarrassed by your spelling, and I am embarrassed after looking back at my letter of April 15 seeing in the second paragraph what may be a double negative. I say "may be" because "cannot ... but" is one that always confuses me. So let's give it up in mutual embarrassment. Keep drawing your own targets.

All the best.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/nmj

4- Leflore County
Public Relations

WB - file
MI

THE NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
AMON CARTER EVANS, PUBLISHER
MORNING AND SUNDAY
NASHVILLE 1, TENNESSEE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR

April 17, 1963

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Leslie:

I have re-read the editorial, Wiley Branton's letter to me and my reply to him (the misspelling of demagoguery is very embarrassing to the editor). I don't feel his suggestion that the President should come to Greenwood makes the slightest bit of sense. I am at a loss to put any intelligent interpretation on such remarks.

It seems to me that the leaders of this very important movement have a responsibility not to mislead or give false hopes to people who are having a very difficult time and whose courage needs to be based on reality---not emotionalism. You know that and Mr. Branton knows it, and it makes about as much sense for me to say it to you as it does for him to write me "these might look like 'stupid remarks' to you but thousands of Negroes in the Delta would think otherwise."

Of course they would. So do thousands of Cuban refugees agree with Miro Cardona that we should invade Cuba tomorrow. But the Cuban exiles don't need demagoguery, and neither do the thousands of Negroes in the Delta.

You know I don't have to be told the situation in Greenwood is serious---and because it is serious those who are leading the voting drive should not be given to irresponsible statements.

As ever,

John

WB file

April 15, 1963

Mr. John Seigenthaler
Editor
The Nashville Tennessean
Nashville 1, Tennessee

Dear John:

Wiley Branton has shown me his correspondence with you.

I cannot help but believe that were you to re-read his letter you would want to withdraw your reply.

Moreover, I am amazed that editorial emphasis, in a newspaper which people have come to depend on for intelligent interpretation, was given to Wiley's remark. The issues in Greenwood are pretty serious, and deserve serious not backbiting, attention.

Nor do I want to be insulting; just honest with you.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj

April 11, 1963

Mr. John Seigenthaler, Editor
The Nashville Tennessean
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Seigenthaler:

I have just read the editorial, "Silly Dispute Is The Disruption", which appeared in the April 3, 1963 issue of the TENNESSEAN. The editorial states that I "expressed some disappointment that President Kennedy hadn't come down to Greenwood to march with the Negroes". I expressed no such disappointment.

The plain truth about the "marching" in Greenwood is that the Negro people there never had any intentions of "marching" down to the Court House prior to March 27, 1963. On that date, a group of more than 100 colored people walked to City Hall to protest to the Mayor and Chief of Police about the shootings and burnings and other acts of violence which had been inflicted upon those active in voter registration, the latest shooting incident having taken place only the night before. When they reached City Hall they were ordered to disperse and the public officials refused to talk to them. They stated that they would proceed to the Court House to see about registration and left City Hall only to be attacked by a police dog and two of their leaders were arrested. The group returned to a Church which they were using as a headquarters since their office had been burned out and police went there and arrested eight other leaders in the registration program. The next day, police stopped drivers of automobiles taking Negroes down to register and would not let them proceed to the Court House. Another group was walking down to the Court House and when told by police to disperse they did so, but not without one registration leader having his papers containing the names of people seeking registration taken from him by police.

In the light of these facts, I told a mass meeting that one of the finest demonstrations which President Kennedy could make to show the world what Democracy stands for, would be for him to come to Greenwood and walk to the Court House with the people who were trying to register. These might look like "stupid remarks" to you but thousands of Negroes in the Delta would think otherwise. I do agree, however, that the leaders on both sides should sit down together and "talk about the real issues and how to resolve them ...".

Very truly yours,

WAB/p

Wiley A. Branton

WBC

THE NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
AMON CARTER EVANS, PUBLISHER
MORNING AND SUNDAY
NASHVILLE 1, TENNESSEE

APR 15 1963

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR

April 12, 1963

Mr. Wiley A. Branton, Project Director
Voter Education Project
Room 206
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Branton:

I have your letter of the 11th.

I have a good deal of respect for your ability and great sympathy for the difficult work you're undertaking. I know it is not easy. In my opinion, your statement to the mass meeting that it would be a fine demonstration for President Kennedy to come to Greenwood is a sort of demodoguery and your statement to me that "these might look like "stupid remarks" to you but thousands of Negroes in the Delta would think otherwise," is, too.

I do not want to be insulting to you. I think you have a good deal of courage and I know you took this task on at a sacrifice. However, I do want to be honest with you.

Sincerely,

John

LWD
WB

UNITED STATES COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS
WASHINGTON 25, D.C.

STAFF DIRECTOR

APR 25 1963

April 22, 1963

Mr. Wiley A. Branton
Project Director, Voter Education Project
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear ~~Mr. Branton:~~ Wiley

Thanks for sending me a copy of your letter to the Evening Star. I am very glad you took the time to set the record straight and I hope the Star will see fit to print your reply.

The Star is now under new editorial management which I am told may be more sympathetic to civil rights causes. We shall see.

Sincerely yours,

Berl I. Bernhard

4. Leflore County
Public Relations

This same note sent to:
Mr. Harold Fleming
Mr. John Silard
Mr. Clarence Mitchell
Mr. Carl Holman
Mr. Berl Bernhard
Senator Jacob Javits - Senate Office Building
Representative N.C. Nix - House Office Building
Mr. Lee White
Dr. James Nabrit, Jr.
Mr. Chuck Stone
Mr. Simeon Booker

April 10, 1963

The Honorable Burke Marshall
Assistant Attorney General
Civil Rights Division
Department of Justice
Washington, D.C.

Dear Burke:

We were very much disturbed by the enclosed editorial which appeared in the Evening Star on April 8, and thought you would be interested in our reply to the editor.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

Voter Education Project

A PROGRAM OF THE SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL

ROOM 206 / 5 FORSYTH STREET, N. W. / ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA / TELEPHONE 525-0595

Wiley A. Branton, Project Director

April 9, 1963

C
O
P
Y

The Editor
Washington Evening Star
Washington, D.C.

Dear Sir:

Your editorial of April 8, 1963, entitled "On Living Together," completely ignores the information available in press reports regarding the harassment and intimidation by local citizens and police against Negro voter registration workers in Greenwood, Mississippi. There were no mass walks or demonstrations prior to March 27, 1963, and the undisputed facts are contained in a separate memorandum attached hereto.

Without even leaving your office in Washington you should be able to confirm all of these incidents by telephone. Why not assign a responsible reporter to telephone Mr. B. A. Hammond, the Police Commissioner in Greenwood at 453-3312?

On page 5094 of the Congressional Record of April 2, 1963, Senator Stennis of Mississippi is quoted as follows: "Last week, during one day alone, I am advised that 50 Negro applicants were actually registered to vote." Why not have your reporter phone Mrs. Martha T. Lamb, the Leflore County registrar and ask her if this statement is true, and if not, what are the facts regarding the total number of Negroes who have applied for registration this year and how many of that number have actually been registered?

I cannot believe that the Washington Star would want to print misleading news and I, therefore, invite you to investigate the facts and circumstances to see if your editorial can be supported by your own honest, objective findings.

Very truly yours,

WAB:jl

Wiley A. Branton

The Washington Evening Star (April 8) editorial would lead one to believe that the only thing which had occurred in Greenwood involving harassment of registration workers was the arrest of people who refused to disperse on orders from police when they proceeded to the courthouse in large numbers.

On February 20, 1963, four Negro business establishments near the student voter registration office were destroyed by fire. When Samuel Block, a field secretary with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, made statements to the effect that the SNCC office had received anonymous threats that something would happen to their office, and suggested that the fire was intended for the SNCC office, he was arrested and charged with circulating statements calculated to create a breach of the peace and was given a fine and jail sentence.

On February 28, three registration workers were attacked by gunfire just outside of the city of Greenwood, and James Travis, a SNCC workers was seriously wounded in the neck and shoulder.

On March 6, Samuel Block and three other registration workers were fired upon from a moving station wagon which pulled up beside their car as they were parked in front of the SNCC office. Both front windows in the car were shattered, and the occupants received minor injuries from shattered glass.

On March 24, the student voter registration office was partially destroyed by fire which, evidence supports, was set by arsonists.

On March 26, in Greenwood, a shotgun blast ripped the home of Dewey Greene, Sr., the father of two students active in the voter registration project.

On March 27, the leaders of the student registration project, and a group of more than 100 Negroes went to the city hall to protest to the mayor and chief of police about the acts of violence. The officials refused to talk to the group, and the registration workers announced that they would then proceed to the courthouse to apply for registration. It was after they had left the city hall and were en route to the courthouse that they were arrested and others dispersed by the use of a police dog. There had never been any so-called "march" or protest demonstration by the registration workers prior tothis date.

On March 27, after the arrest of the registration leaders, other citizens of Greenwood decided that they would walk to the courthouse every day as long as the leaders were in jail.

On March 28, a group of Negroes left the Leflore County courthouse walking in a large group, when the registration office closed down for lunch, and a police dog was turned loose to attack Rev. D.L.

Tucker, who was leading the group, without any request or demand that the group disperse. The young minister was bitten by the dog. That afternoon, several Negroes decided to go to the registrar's office in cars and two separate vehicles were stopped by Greenwood police and the drivers told that they could not drive downtown to the courthouse.

On March 29, a large group was walking to the courthouse, and they were stopped by Greenwood police and ordered to dispers, and the group immediately complied by breaking up into small groups. Nevertheless, a motorcycle police officer rode up to a student workers, and demanded a clipboard on which there were several papers containing the names of people being approached in door-to-door canvassing. The officer took the papers and gave the clipboard back to the student worker and rode off.

DO THE INDICATIONS ABOVE "SUGGEST THAT THERE HAVE BEEN ANY CONCERTED PLAN OR EFFORT TO PREVENT NEGROES FROM REGISTERING AS VOTERS IN GREENWOOD OR LEFLORE COUNTY"?

The Evening Star
With Sunday Morning Edition
Published by THE EVENING STAR NEWSPAPER CO., Washington 3, D. C.
SAMUEL H. KAUFFMANN, Chairman of the Board
CROSBY N. BOYD, President NEWBOLD NOYES, Editor
BENJAMIN M. McKELWAY, Editorial Chairman

On Living Together

The legal "truce" which has been arranged in the clash over registering Negro voters in two Mississippi counties strikes us as being a rational settlement of what looks very much like a phony issue.

Several days ago the Justice Department asked a Federal judge in Greenwood, Mississippi, to issue a temporary restraining order barring any interference with registration of Negro voters. The judge declined to issue such an emergency order, and set Thursday of last week as the day for a hearing in which the Mississippi officials could be heard. Somewhere along the line a closer look apparently was taken, the so-called truce was arranged, and the court hearing was put off until October.

We doubt that it will ever be held. For the indications, or at least those available in press reports, do not suggest that there has been any concerted plan or effort to prevent Negroes from registering as voters in Greenwood or Leflore Counties.

Not having been born yesterday, we do not think that the white people in those counties, heavily outnumbered by Negroes, would like to encourage Negro voting. The fact is, however, that the Associated Press has reported day after day that the local authorities in the two counties were permitting Negro registration by individuals and in small groups. What the police were breaking up were "marches" on the registration places by large groups of Negroes—some of whom possibly were eligible voters and many of whom certainly were not. After all, the risk of incitement to race riot in Mississippi is something that cannot be ignored.

Why the Department of Justice at first jumped eagerly into this situation, and then backed off, we do not know. If the real purpose was to help insure the right of qualified Negroes to register as voters, that was both necessary and proper. If, on the other hand, the purpose was to grab some of the headlines from such as Negro comedian Dick Gregory, the action of the Justice Department was wrong and unworthy.

At one meeting in Greenwood, a Negro preacher from Texas said that mass demonstrations were unwise. "We've got to live together," he stated, "and all the fault is not in the white man." An audience of some 350 Negroes called him an "Uncle Tom" and shouted him down.

In modern vocabulary, "Uncle Tom" has become a term of opprobrium. It suggests that any Negro who is not actively fighting the white man is betraying his own race. We suspect, however, that in time it will be shown that the preacher in this instance, the Rev. W. R. Fairley, was right. For when the last demonstration is over, when the Justice Department has made its last gesture, when all Negroes who want to register and who are qualified have been registered, the truth of the Rev. Mr. Fairley's statement will remain: "We've got to live together."

JACOB K. JAVITS
NEW YORK

COMMITTEES:
LABOR AND PUBLIC WELFARE
BANKING AND CURRENCY
GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS
JOINT ECONOMIC SMALL BUSINESS

United States Senate

WASHINGTON, D.C.

WBB

April 22, 1963

MAY 2 1963

Mr. Wiley A. Branton
Project Director
Voter Education Project
Room 206
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Branton:

Thank you for your letter of April 10, 1963, enclosing a copy of the editorial which appeared in the Evening Star on April 8 and a copy of your reply to the Editor.

I very much appreciate your bringing these both to my attention and ask that you please send me any additional material which you think might be helpful.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Jacob K. Javits, U.S.S.

JKJ:skb

4 — Leflore County
Public Relations

May 9, 1963

Mr. John Poppy
Senior Editor
Look
625 Market Street
San Francisco 5, California

Dear John:

Thank you for sending me a copy of your voter registration story which appeared in LOOK on May 7. I think that you have done an excellent job in portsaying the day-to-day problems incurred by persons active in voter registration in the Delaa of Mississippi

I do feel that you should have pkced greater emphasis on the February 28th shooting of James Travis as this was the incident which triggered the concentrated drive in Leflore county. Your article states "When a young Negro passing through town was shot, however, more workers moved in." This was not just a person "passing through" town but was a SNCC Field Secretary who was accompanying the Field Director of the Voter Education Project, Randolph T. Blackwell, and Bob Moses, the director of the whole Delta registration program and the shooting was related soley to registration activities.

We appreciate your interest in our registration program and if, at any time, we can supply you with any information then please feel free to call on us.

Sincerely yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

4- Leflore Public Relations

Tel: GArfield 1-4960

LOOK

COWLES MAGAZINES AND BROADCASTING, INC. 625 MARKET STREET SAN FRANCISCO 5 CALIF.

MAY 3 1963

MAY 3 1963

May 2, 1963

Mr. Wiley Branton
Voter Education Project
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Branton:

Here is a copy of the voter-registration story I was working on the last time we met. It tells a part of the problem that not many people outside the South seem to be aware of, and I hope it can do some good. The issue goes on sale Tuesday, May 7.

I would very much appreciate any comments you'd care to make.

Sincerely,

John Poppy

John Poppy
Senior Editor

JP:mk
Enc.

May 28, 1963

The Honorable Charles C. Diggs, Jr.
1015 New House Office Building
Washington, D.C.

My dear Mr. Diggs:

In reply to your letter of May 24 regarding the press release issued by the Voter Education Project on March 31, 1963, I think you should know that the information was inserted in the Congressional Record on April 4 by Congressman Nix. The release was up-to-date as of the time of issuance but other events have occurred since that time, some of which involved you personally.

We appreciate your interest and support shown to the voter registration efforts and the civil rights problems in general. If you desire any further information then please let us know.

Very truly yours,

Wiley A. Branton

WAB:jl

4 - Leflore County
Public Relations

Mémo from JEAN T. LEVINE

Isn't this already in the Cong. Record?

Jack:
Didn't Mr. Nix insert this info in the record? —
WB.

It was inserted april 4th and we received notice from him of the insertion on april 16. You wrote on april 9 complimenting him on the insertion, could he be thinking of the additional info you included in your letter to Wash. Star?

CHARLES C. DIGGS, JR.
13TH DISTRICT, MICHIGAN

DETROIT OFFICE:
8401 WOODWARD AVENUE
875-4430

MISS DOROTHY QUARKER
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

COMMITTEE:
FOREIGN AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON OFFICE:
1015 NEW HOUSE OFFICE BUILDING

CAPITOL 4-3121
EXTENSION 2261

WBV

MAY 24 1963

May 22, 1963

Mr. Wiley Branton
Director
Voter Education Project
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Branton:

I have a copy of the March 31, 1963, press release which you issued. I would like to put this information in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, but I wanted to check with you as to whether this release is up-to-date.

I shall be looking forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Charles C. Diggs, Jr.

CHARLES C. DIGGS, JR.
Member of Congress
United States of America

and then select a minimum of fifty-nine candidates of the other party, or else pick and choose 177 candidates from among all the names on the ballot.

Under the circumstances, the voters may or may not be aided by a proposal advanced by the Better Government Association and the Independent Voters of Illinois. These Chicago-based organizations are considering joint sponsorship of an independent slate of candidates for the house on the November ballot. What they propose is to form a state-wide nonpartisan committee to select enough candidates to make up the difference between 177 and the number nominated by the two parties. Thus, by voting for either party ticket and the independent slate, the voter could use all of his choices and, conceivably, elect "the balance of power" in the next legislature.

George E. Mahin, the executive director of the Better Government Association, insists that this is not an attempt to create a permanent third party in Illinois. Instead, he argues that "an honest vocal minority" is needed in the house because "the incumbent Republicans and Democrats got together in a nice cozy deal to re-elect each other . . . Once this election is over, the third party will go out of existence."

REGARDLESS of what goes out of existence after the chaos next November, there may be one consolation for the citizens of Illinois. As other states proceed to implement the Supreme Court's Baker v. Carr decision, Illinois has at least provided a horrible example of how not to reapportion a state legislature.

{WB, LWD, VJ, PA, BP
{RB

File
Miss.

The 'Under Standing Neorger' And His Right to Vote

JOHN and E. W. KENWORTHY

ON APRIL 23, 1962, the Reverend James C. Chandler appeared before voting registrar Theron C. Lynd in Hattiesburg, Forrest County, Mississippi. Six months earlier the Negro minister had failed the state constitution interpretation test, though Lynd refused to tell him why. Now he was meticulous in filling out the application form and in interpreting the rather complicated Sec. 206 of the constitution that Lynd assigned him.

When the minister had finished, Lynd accepted the interpretation and said he thought the application form was perfect. He wrote the minister's name in the voter registry. Then he said no, there was just one little error. So the minister took the form back and changed his signature from "James C. Chandler" to "James Cleveland Chandler." But Lynd said that was not it, and he refused to give the form back again or say what the error was. He crossed the minister's name from the book. Later the minister found out that he had been rejected because he had given the year of his birth but not his age.

On July 12, 1961, John Cecil McMillan, white, of George County, Mississippi, went to register. He was given Sec. 30 of the state constitution—an almost standard section for white applicants—to interpret: "There shall be no imprisonment for debt." This was his interpretation:

"I thank that a Neorger should have 2 years in collage before voting because he don't under stand."

Having completed Question 19, interpretation of a section of the constitution, McMillan then addressed himself to Question 20—"What are the duties and obligations of citizenship?" He wrote: "under Standing of pepper & Government ship Bessing" McMillan passed and was registered.

The Latest Effort

The disparate treatment of the Reverend Mr. Chandler and Mr. McMillan is what Title I of the civil-rights bill now before the Senate is all about. It reduces the Constitutional debate on that title to pragmatic example. And it explains why the Southern senators are making a determined last-ditch stand against the voting title that would repair weaknesses and inadequacies in the 1957 and 1960 civil-rights acts. Those acts sought to nail down the Negro's Constitutional right to vote by authorizing the Attorney General to initiate voting suits and by allowing the Federal district court to appoint voting referees where it found a "pattern" of discrimination. Where a referee's report substantiated an applicant's complaint of discrimination, either he or the court could issue the Negro a certificate declaring him qualified to vote.

The two acts have become fouled in the law's delays—delays often facilitated by district court judges. Of fifty-eight cases filed, of which forty-five involve discrimination and thirteen intimidation, some are still pending after two years. In suits against twelve counties in Mississippi, only one injunction has been handed down which the Justice Department regards as satisfactory.

Uniformity in the administration of voting tests is implicit in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, and in the 1957 and 1960 acts. But where literacy tests have been conducted orally, as in Louisiana until three months ago, it has been difficult to prove discrimination. In Mississippi, where the applicant must interpret in writing a section of the state constitution assigned by the registrar, the Justice Department, by photographing records such as the Chandler and McMillan applications, has amassed what would seem to be incontrovertible evidence of discrimination. But the Department has never yet been able to convince a district judge in Mississippi that different treatment accorded whites and Negroes amounts to a "pattern or practice." As recently as March 6, a special three-judge Federal court in Jackson upheld, two to one, the constitutionality of Mississippi's voting laws, thereby dismissing a Justice Department suit challenging them. Consequently, the provision for court-appointed referees in the 1960 act has been a dead letter in Mississippi. In Bolivar County the Department has vainly been trying to get hold of the records since August, 1960.

What, then, would Title I of the 1963 act do? First, it would require registrars to apply the same test standards to whites and Negroes, both in the kinds of questions asked and in judging the answers.

Second, where literacy tests are used, they must be in writing, except where the individual requests an oral test and state law allows it. But whether it be oral or written, the applicant can demand a copy of the questions and answers.

Third, registrars may not disqualify applicants for "immaterial" errors or omissions on application forms. That is, the purpose of the form, like the application for a marriage license, is not to test but to get information.

Fourth, in voting suits where literacy is a question of fact, the state would have to prove that an applicant with a sixth-grade or higher education is indeed illiterate.

Fifth, in discrimination suits brought by the United States, either the Attorney General or the defendant state official may ask the chief judge of the circuit court of appeals to appoint a special three-judge court. One of the judges must be a circuit judge of that circuit and another a district judge of the district in which suit was brought. The court must hear the case "at the earliest practicable date" and expedite it "in every way."

Yankee Nullification?

Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution gives the states the right to set voter qualifications. The Fourteenth Amendment forbids the states to abridge the privileges of any citizen. The Fifteenth Amendment gives Negroes the right to vote if, like other citizens, they meet state qualifications. On this apparently conflicting ground the Southerners and the bipartisan civil-rights forces did battle in committee hearings last summer and on the House floor last month, and are now fighting in the Senate.

In Judiciary Committee hearings, Senator Sam J. Ervin, who describes himself as "the North Carolina solon," accused Attorney General Kennedy of "trying to nullify the power of the States to prescribe the qualifications of voters." In effect, Mr. Ervin argued that Mississippi had a right to find Mr. McMillan qualified and the Reverend Chandler unqualified. He contended that if the Federal government believed there had been discrimination, it could file suit under laws based on the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

To this, Mr. Kennedy replied: "We are not establishing qualifications for voting, we are protecting the right to vote." The states, he insisted, had the right to give a literacy test or constitutional interpretation test, but Congress had the right to insist that it be administered without discrimination. In practice, the Attorney General argued, many of the Southern states have been hiding behind the Constitutional façade of states' rights in order to deny the Negro his Constitutional right of suffrage.

The Constitutional argument apart, what strikes a disinterested reader of the committee testimony or follower of floor debate is the refusal of the Southern leaders to concede that there has been a pattern of discrimination against Negro applicants in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, and parts of Georgia.

When Mr. Kennedy said to Senator Ervin, "Could you agree that there has been this pattern of discrimination?," the senator replied: "I only know I have not conducted any investigation in that field."

In House debate on the bill, Representative Edwin E. Willis of Louisiana said that no one wants an applicant turned away for immaterial error on an application form. But, he went on, "There is no precise way of measuring how grave an error or omission must be before it is 'material' to the qualifications of a voter. . . . Mere nonuniformity among registrars is made the legal equivalent of deliberate discrimination."

The Disqualified

Senator Ervin's professed ignorance could be easily dispelled, and Mr. Willis's argument fully tested, by the voluminous evidence gathered by the Justice Department through thousands of interviews of rejected Negro applicants in Mississippi and through the photographing of application forms in sixty of that state's eighty-two counties.

Leaving aside the numerous cases of intimidation—the beatings, the threats of physical violence, damage to property, and loss of jobs—the files of the Justice Department disclose that Mississippi registrars have used three devices, under the state's power to set voter qualifications to keep Negroes off the rolls.

First there is the "fob-off." A Negro appears at the registrar's office and is told that "The blanks have not arrived," "No forms are available," "The clerk is out," or "is working on the farm," or "is just too busy."

For example, the Justice Department examiner reported that Soloman Payne of De Soto County "has gone at least six times since 1955 and has never been allowed to fill out a form. Was told such things as the books are in Jackson, the clerk is unavailable, the test is difficult for Negroes, that he would have to know the [state] Constitution 'by heart.'" Many times Negroes were permitted to fill out the forms and then were rejected, but were unable to find out why, except that "You have not done well enough," "You did not pass," or "Your interpretation was incorrect."

Second, there is the nit-picking of errors or omissions in the application form—misspellings, leaving out place of birth because of ignorance, failing to note a line for signature. In Forrest County, Willie Curtis Simpson was disqualified because he left the election district blank; Theodore Franklin Williams because he used a pocket dictionary to look up words in the constitution interpretation test; Clarence Magee because the registrar discovered his house was not in the Walthall District but just across the line in the Baton District. Yet whites are almost never disqualified for such reasons. Eva Sullivan was registered in Panola County although she said in 1961 that she was born in 1905 and gave her age as fifty-three.

The most common reason for disqualification of Negroes on application forms is failure to note a final line for signature. In De Soto County Emma Williams was told "You filled it out all right but you didn't sign your name to it." Yet in Noxubee County, seventy-five per cent of the 276 whites who were registered between January 14, 1961, and July 20, 1963, did not sign their names.

Between February 26, 1959, and April 10, 1962 (just after the Federal suit was filed), Registrar Lynd of Forrest County allowed 1,836 whites to register without filling out the application form, interpreting a section of the constitution, or stating the duties and obligations of citizenship. During that period not one Negro was registered, and no Negro was even permitted to fill out a form until January 30, 1961.

The most common method of disqualification, however—because it is the most plausible to defend—is the assignment and judging of the constitutional interpretation (Question 19) and the duties and obligations of citizenship (Question 20).

Whites are customarily asked to interpret very straightforward sections of the constitution, and even then are often helped in their replies or given standard answers to memorize beforehand. Negroes are often assigned long, abstrusely legal sections, and given no help.

A favorite section for Negroes was given Elizabeth A. Brown of Warren County:

"All lands comprising a single tract sold in pursuance of decree of court, or execution, shall be first offered in subdivisions not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, or one quarter section, and then offered as an entirety, and the price bid for the latter shall control only when it shall exceed the aggregate of the bids for the same in subdivisions as aforesaid; but the chancery court, in cases before it, may decree otherwise if deemed advisable to do so."

Progress Report

Will Title I of the 1963 bill be any more effective than the 1957 and 1960 acts in giving the Mississippi Negro the suffrage he was guaranteed ninety-four years ago by the Fifteenth Amendment? Claude Sitton, who has covered racial conflicts in the South for many years for the New York Times, has recently expressed doubts that it will. The basic difficulty, Sitton wrote, is that the new legislation, like the former, leaves the task of eliminating the discrimination to the Federal courts. Not only is this a battle that will take years to wage county by county, Mr. Sitton said, but the Negro himself is reluctant to become an ally of the Federal government in his own cause. Sitton quoted Leslie W. Dunbar, executive director of the Southern Regional Council, who shares his doubts: "The reality is that, to the Negro in Mississippi, the law is still the law as enforced by the sheriff, not the law that comes out of Washington."

The lawyers in the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department in Washington, despite the frustrating results of the last seven years, are more optimistic. They are sure that the new voting section will ease their task in several ways. First, they say, it makes explicit that double standards in qualifications tests are proscribed as discriminatory. Second, district court judges will be unable to countenance, as a justifiable discretionary power of the state, the disqualification of a Negro for immaterial errors and omissions on an application. Third, a sixth-grade education as a presumption of literacy will greatly facilitate proof of discrimination. Fourth, the precedence given to voting cases by a special three-judge court should help to cut through the legal labyrinth erected by state attorney generals with the help of some district judges. Finally, the Justice Department believes that the hope of effective intervention by Washington will give many Negroes the courage to try to register.

The Justice Department's lawyers are convinced that the 1957 act, especially when reinforced by the new voting section of the 1963 bill, is a "workable statute." They cite two examples as basis for their optimism. First, they note that in the Middle District of Alabama, where Judge Frank Johnson has been persuaded of the pattern of discrimination, the injunctions have been strong and specific and have been upheld by the Court of Appeals. As a result, in Macon County, where only about a thousand Negroes were registered when suit was filed, there are now about 3,500 registered. And in Bullock County, where only four were registered, 1,600 are now on the rolls. Second, even in Forrest County, Mississippi, where Registrar Lynd disqualified the Reverend Mr. Chandler in 1962, a successful civil-contempt proceeding has resulted in Mr. Lynd's registering about a hundred Negroes. And since January of this year, four hundred more have applied to register. With the Justice Department making periodic inspections of Lynd's records, the prospect is that they will be registered, too.

JUL 10 1962

SCHEDULE

ADULT EDUCATION WORKSHOP

MOUNT BEULAH CHRISTIAN CENTER

SUNDAY	6:00 p.m.	Supper
	7:00 p.m.	Group singing, introductions, movie, orientation
	9:00 p.m.	Social Hour

MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY

7:00 a.m.	Rising Bell
7:30 a.m.	Breakfast
8:15 a.m.	Workshop session
9:45 a.m.	Thirty minute break
10:15 a.m.	Workshop session
11:45 a.m.	Break for Lunch
12 noon	Lunch
1:30 p.m.	Laboratory Workshop
3:00 p.m.	Recreation
6:00 p.m.	Supper
7:00 p.m.	Evening program
9:00 p.m.	Social Hour

Friday sessions will close at lunch.

CLASS SCHEDULE AND READING
ASSIGNMENTS

MONDAY: CLASSES	READING TO BE DONE SUNDAY
1. State Government (Mr. Kemper)	1. Handbook (HB) pp. 15-21
2. Local Government (Mr. Kemper)	2. HB. pp. 21-24
3. Registration #1	3. HB. pp. 1-5

TUESDAY: CLASSES	READING TO BE DONE MONDAY
1. Registration #2 (Mr. Gilbert)	1. HB. pp 1-5
2. Poll Tax #1 (Mr. Johnson)	2. "
3. Poll Tax #2 (Mr. Johnson)	3. "

WEDNESDAY: CLASSES	READING TO BE DONE TUESDAY
1. Voting (Mr. Gilbert)	1. HB. pp. 6-14
2. Election Techniques (Mr. Johnson)

THURSDAY: CLASSES	READING TO BE DONE WEDNESDAY
1. International Gov. (Mr. Kemper)
2. Governmental Protection (Mr. Gilbert)	2. HB. pp. 24-31
3. Use of Publicity (Mr. Kemper)	3. HB. pp. 31-33

FRIDAY: CLASSES

1. Summary and evaluation

Memo to: Members of the Governing Board of the Mississippi Adult Education Program and interested persons.

Re: Results of first workshops held by the Mississippi Adult Education Program at Mt. Beulah.

From: Bob Moses.

I. Purpose:

1. To impart to the participants an increased knowledge and awareness of the structures and forces that constitute official and unofficial government in Mississippi.

2. To relate this information to the voter registration programs now underway in Mississippi, so that workers in these programs may begin to see an integrated picture of the problems they face.

3. To serve as a recruiting center for additional workers in the voter registration programs in Mississippi.

II. Participants:

Eighteen students and young adults (see attached list) from Jackson, Greenwood, Greenville, Rueville (Sunflower county), Cleveland, Clarksdale, and Port Gibson Mississippi were present for the entire week. Bernice Robinson and myself were on hand as staff.

We were joined on Sunday and Thursday evenings by fifteen students from the Hinds County Voter Education project.

III. Instruction:

Pete Gilbert and Bob Johnson of Harvard Law School, and Ken Kemper of Brandeis Univ. divided the class sessions among them. (See "Class Schedule and Reading Assignments".) We are particularly fortunate in having high quality instruction and having them available throughout the week.

Two of the three instructors came every morning for breakfast and stayed until noon. The classes went very well and the sessions tended to extend themselves, so instead of three one- hour classes, we had two one and a-half hour classes.

We are working on ways of improving the flow of dialogue and discussion in the next workshop. For example, the sessions on the relationship between National, State, and Local Gov't., may be based around legal cases (ile. the John Hardy vs. the State of Miss. case) in which all these levels of govenment play an important role.

We also plan to comb the newspapers and magazines for interesting case studies which will lead naturally into discussions of the functions and interrelations of the various government agencies.

IV. Laboratory workshops:

The first three of these were devoted to role playing involving the discussions of the morning. Impromptu scenes involving people in the process of registration, canvassing, resisting "Police State Tatics", etc., were set up and carried through. These provided a chance for the participants to explain the essential facts about registration and voting in Mississippi as well as a chance to participate in small drama and have fun.

The fourth day we had maps of the home counties of the participants. We used these in conjunction with the census report for 1960 to outline the supervisors districts in these counties and the percentage of Negroes and whites in each district, and the breakdown on family income for each county.

Each person worked on their won county and it was an excellent opportunity for them to learn how to deal with statistics and research materials. Motivation was understandably very high and several poured over the statistics and the maps through the entire afternoon.

We hope to have these materials available for the entire workshop next time and work them into the classes and the evening discussions. It will also be an excellent chande to show them how to draw graphs and otherwise give pictorial representation to numerical data. We would plan to have representatives from the various counties present their data to the other workers, and/or mimeograph the various data.

Several participants learned how to run a projector, and a tape recorder and next time we hope to include a mimeograph machine.

V. Recreation:

We are fortunate here: There is a pond for swimming, an outdoor basketball court, a place for softball games, and wooded areas for hiking. Thursday was highlighted by a softball game with high school students from Edwards. Not least, there are numerous hugh shade trees.

VI. Evening programs:

The evening programs were by and large turned over to practical discussion of ways of implementing and starting voter registration programs in the home areas of the participants. We were fortunate to have Mr. Amzie Moore and Bernice Robinson on hand since they could draw on the years of experience they have had in the Mississippi Delta and South Carolina, respectively. We mapped plans for voting drives in Greenwood, Rueville, and the mid-Delta rural counties, and discussed projects already underway in Greenville, Cleveland and Clarksdale.

Thursday evening we joined fifteen students from the Hinds County Voter Education Project in a Hay ride into the back country, a picnic supper, folk songs and folk dances.

VII. Financial report:

A. Room and Board:

18 students and 2 staff @ $10 per person:	$200.00
15 guests for Sunday dinner:	$15.00
3 instructors for breakfast during wk.:	$5.00
15 guests for Thursday picnic:	$10.00
Total:	$230.00

B. Instruction and materials:

3 instructors @ $20 per wk.:	$60.00
18 maps	$18.50
35 copies of Mississippi political handbook:	$35.00
newspapers:	$.35
Total:	113.85

C. Transportation:

6 participants from Cleveland Miss.:	$40.00
two participants from Clarksdale:	$20.00
3 participants from Greenwood:	$30.00
1 participant from Greenville:	$16.00
Total:	$106.00

Total cost for workshop:	$449.85

VIII. Projections:

We are excited about the results and are planning a workshop for 60 to 75 students the week of July 22nd.- 27th.

A voting project will be starting in the Mid-Delta next week under the direction of Amzie Moore. The girls from Rueville and Cleveland will be working with him in their respective home towns. The girls from Clarksdale will be working with the Voter's League there in a projedt due to start the third week of July. The boys from Greenwood will join Sam Block who is working with SNCC on a voting project in LeFlore county. Two of the boys from Jackson will go to Greenville to work with Arthur Williams, also with SNCC, on voting in Washington county.

Missippi Adult Education Program

JUL 10 1962

Members of the Governing Board:

Dear Sirs:

The first meeting of the governing board of the Mississippi Adult Education Program was held at Mt. Beulah, at Edwards Mississippi, on Saturday, June 30th., 1962.

The following persons were invited to the meeting: Dr. A.D. Beittel, James Bevel, Dr. A.B. Britton, Charles Butts, David Dennis, Medgar Evers, Attny. W.H. Higgs, Rev. T.A. Johnson, David Lollis, Robert Moses, Rev. Ozark Range.

In attendence were Charles Butts, Attny. W.H. Higgs, David Lollis, and Robert Moses.

All the others invited have agreed to serve as members of the Governing Board, except Dr. Britton, wj o will let us know in the very near future if he is available.

These present agreed to call ourselves the "Governing Board of the Mississippi Adult Education Program". David Lollis was elected Chariman of the Governing Board.

We established a three man administrative committee with David Lollis as Chairman, Attny. W.H. Higgs, Vice-Chairman, and Robert Moses as Secretary-Treasure.

Most of the discussion centered around the details of the workshops that were held July1-5, at Mt. Beulah (See attached report).

The Southern Regional Council Voter Education Project has agreed to acminister money for our programs as tax exempt and we have received an initial grant of $1,500 from the Stern Foundation, in New Orleans (See attached letter to Mrs. Stern).

We voted to open a bank account in Jackson with two or three signatures, including that of Robert Moses.

A workshop for a top of 75 people, bottom of 60, is being planned for the week of July 22-27, at Mt. Beulah.

Mr. Amzie Moore of Cleveland Mississippi has agreed to work as a staff member of the program.

The next meeting of the Governing Board to discuss these matters and plan programs for the coming year will be held at Toogaloo College, Sunday July 15, at 10:00 A.M. in Kincheloe Hall.

(Please, due to the nature of our surroundings and the content of our program, we are trying to avoid all publicity in the press, radio, T.V. and other mass communications media. We are requesting you to abide by the spirit and the letter of this policy.)

All correspondence should be sent to: Robert Moses c/o Miss. Aduldt Ed. Program
1104 Lynch st.
Jackson, Miss.

We hope you will be able to attend the meeting Sunday,

Sincerely yours,

David Lollis
Chairman

Mr. James Forman
Mr. Harry Belafonte

C.C. Mr. Wiley Branton
Mr. Les Dunbar
Mrs. Stern
Miss Bernice Robinson

ANNOUNCEMENT

ADULT EDUCATION WORKSHOP

SPONSORED BY

MISSISSIPPI ADULT EDUCATION COMMITTEE

JULY 22nd - 27th., 1962

WHO CAN ATTEND? Students and Adults from across the state of Mississippi. Those concerned with the promotion of Adult Education in their community.

WHERE? At the 1300 acre campus of the Mount Beulah Christian Center, Edwards, Mississippi.

COST? Full scholarships and transportation will be provided. Mileage for a car with four or more occupants will be paid for at the rate of ten cents ($.10) a mile. Participants traveling by Bus are requested to come into Jackson and call FI 2- 8226. Transportation will be provided to take them to Edwards.

STAFF: Students from Harvard and Yale Law School, Brandeis University, and Oberlin College.

Bernice Robinson.

Staff members of Committee and guests.

INFORMATION: Workshop begins 6:00 p.m., Sunday July 22nd. Ends 12 noon, Friday, July 20, 1962.

For further information contact Bob Moses, 1104 Lynch st., Jackson, Mississippi.

PLEASE RETURN THE BELOW APPLICATION IMMEDIATELY, PROPERLY FILLED OUT.

____I will attend workshop

____Arriving by Bus at what time_____

____Arriving by car bringing_____participants

Name_____

Address_____

City and State_____

1962 SUPPLEMENT TO MISSISSIPPI
POLITICAL HANDBOOD

(Includes laws passed by 1962
regular session of Mississippi Legislature)

The following changes are to be made in the Handbook:

Page 2-line 1- Insert before the word "precinct" the words "a county". Insert after the word "precinct" the words "or a municipality as a whole..."

Insert (line 4) after the phrase "of a citizen", the words "be of good moral character".

Line 12- Eliminate sentence beginning "The Legislature..." Insert the words "A new law requires that each person's name and address be published twice for two weeks in a county newspaper before his application can be approved. The printing is taken cafe of by the circuit clerk."

Paragraph 2-line 3- Insert after the phrase "the first Monday in November" the words "(except in 1965 and every four (4) years there after, when no general election is held.)"

Page 3-Paragraph 2-line 4- Insert after the words "A bill" the words "has just passed". Change the word "required" to read "requiring", add the phrase "in addition" before the word "registration".

Page 4-Paragraph 2-line 1-Insert after the phrase "to another" the words "unless both precincts are in a municipality,".

Page 5-Paragraph 2-line 14-Extend statement in parentheses to read: "....their poll taxes or are exempt from payment)".
Line 15- Change the word "book" to read "books".
Omit line 25 beginning "The county Commissioners..."

Page 7-line1- Change the amount $100" to "$300".
Line 2- Change "$50" to "$200". Exclude "$7.50 for a state senator (except..." insert "excdpt $100 for a circuit judge, chancellor, or district attorney, $15 for county-wide offices and for state senator, and $10 for county district offices, and for coronor, ranger, surveyor, and county board of education."

Paragraph 2-line 4- Underline the word "can"

Page 29-Paragraph 4-line 2- Exclude the words "is now" insert the words "has been"; line 3 after the word "office" exclude the word "is" insert the word "was"; line 4 after the word "He" exclude "is" insert "was"; line 5 exclude "is" insert "was"; line 6 add "ed" to the word "head"; line 7 change "has" to "had"; line 9 change "is" to "was".

Page 30- Paragraph 2- line 14- Correct the word "fillibuster" to read "filibuster".

OCT 10 1952

MISSISSIPPI
POLITICAL HANDBOOK

By William L. Higgs

PREFACE

This handbook was completed during a residence fellowship at Brandeis University under the auspices of the Florina Lasker Program in Civil Liberties and Civil Rights.

I wish to thank the students, faculty, and administration of Brandeis for their assistance, and to acknowledge the cooperative help received from other colleges and universities.

William L. Higgs
Waltham, Massachusetts
April, 1962

Contents

		Page
I.	INTRODUCTION	1
II.	VOTING AND ELECTIONS	1
	A. Who Can Vote	1
	B. The Conducting of the General Election	5
	C. The Conducting of the Primary Election	6
	D. Becoming a Candidate	6
	E. Times of Elections and Voting Hours	8
	F. Election Costs	8
III.	PARTY ORGANIZATION AND POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS	9
	A. In General	9
	B. The Precinct Convention	9
	C. The County Convention	10
	D. The County Democratic Executive Committee	11
	E. The Congressional District Caucus	12
	F. The State Convention and the State Democratic Executive Committee	13
	G. Mississippi Political Campaigns	14
	H. Note on Municipal Elections	14
IV.	MISSISSIPPI GOVERNMENTAL STRUCTURE	15
	A. State Government	15
	1. The Executive Branch	15
	2. The Legislative Branch	17
	3. The Judicial Branch	18
	4. The Administrative Branch	20
	B. County Government	21
	C. Municipal Government	23
V.	THE ROLE OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT	24
	A. Present Law	24
	B. The Law in Action	25
	1. Executive and Administrative Action	25
	2. The Congress	30
	3. The Federal Courts	30
VI.	SOME WAYS OF HELPING ONESELF	31

Contents (cont'd)

Page

VII. APPENDIX

A. Forms

1. Complaint for Violation of Civil Rights..... A-1

2. Poll Tax Payment Form..... A-2

3. Sample Poll Tax Receipt..... A-3

4. Sample Registration Form..... A-4

B. Mississippi Political Calendar 1961-1966..... A-6

C. Some Sources of Additional Information..... A-8

D. Some Statistical Facts..... A-9

I. INTRODUCTION

This manual is written for two purposes. First, it is intended to be a brief reference book for the serious student of Mississippi politics. Second, it is hoped that the handbook will meet the purpose of informing the average Mississippi citizen of the governmental and political structure under which he lives.

The problem that colors political affairs more than any other in Mississippi is race relations. The principle of total segregation has a firm commitment by almost all of the present officers in the governmental and political organization of the state. For this reason the race relations problems will be stressed within the covers of this handbook.

This small volume is particularly designed for use as a text in Mississippi government classes and voter registration schools in Mississippi.

It is sincerely hoped that everyone who takes the time to read through the manual will benefit himself and his fellow man from an increased knowledge and awareness of the political structure and forces that constitute government in Mississippi.

II. VOTING AND ELECTIONS

A. Who Can Vote

In order for a person to vote in Mississippi in any election, local, state, or federal, he must first be a "qualified elector." A qualified elector is defined as an inhabitant of the state who, by the date of the general election (normally, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November) of the year in which he offers to vote, will be 21 years of age or older, has lived two years in Mississippi and one year in the election district (precinct) in which he offers to vote, has been duly registered as an elector by passing a test requiring him to read, write, and interpret any section of the State Constitution and to give a reasonable statement of the duties of a citizen, and has paid poll taxes on time (i.e. on or before February 1 of each year) for the two (2) preceding years unless he was excused from paying them. One should particularly note that the Mississippi State Constitution has a total of 285 sections, some of which are extremely difficult, long, and tedious. It should also be noticed that the circuit clerk, who is by virtue of his office the registrar of voters, has the power to decide whether or not one has passed the test. The test may be taken any number of times, though it is advisable for one wishing to take it again to wait a day or two. (The legislature is now considering a limit of one try every six months.) A recent federal law does require that the circuit clerk keep a permanent record of all tests given. And the federal law also provides relief through the federal courts if the circuit clerk applies the test unfairly. (See the form in the appendix for complaint to federal civil rights agencies.)

One should also observe that the crucial date is that of the general election, which is always on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. In other words, if a person is 21 on or before that date, then he may vote in that general election and in all primary elections leading up to that general election.

A primary election is an election normally held from a few days to several months prior to a general election. Its purpose is to select candidates of particular political parties to run in the general election. Of course, in practice in Mississippi there is only one political party of serious consequence, the Democratic Party. For this reason the selection of the Democratic Party candidate in the Democratic primary is actually the real election. Except in special cases the Democratic primary is held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August, followed by a second primary (run-off election) three weeks later. A run-off is always held when no one candidate gets an absolute majority of all votes cast; or, in the cases of municipal officers, justices of the peace, constables, and state representatives in some counties (e.g. Hinds County), a candidate is elected when he receives a majority of all votes cast divided by the number of positions that are to be filled. For example, if five men are running for constable and there are two constable positions to fill and if 10,000 votes are cast (each voter casting two votes, which is the number of positions to be filled), and if a candidate receives 2,501 votes, then he has an absolute majority of 10,000 votes (the total number cast) divided by two (the number of posts to be filled) which is 5,000. 2,501 is an absolute majority of 5,000. State law provides that there is no run-off in the general election. In other words, the top man wins in the general election.

A person may not vote--either in a general election or a primary election preceding a general election unless he has registered four (4) months prior to the general election, which cut-off date is the first week in July. (A bill is now pending in the legislature to also require registration at least one month before a primary election.)

A poll tax of $2 is generally required to be paid by every person in the state of Mississippi who is between the ages of 21 and 60 years, except (primarily) for persons in the armed services, who may receive an exemption certificate. (Some counties require $3.) This means that in order for a person on becoming 21 to vote and to continue to vote every year thereafter, he must pay a poll tax beginning with the one payable in the month of January immediately after he becomes 21. Note that poll taxes are paid in January through February 1.(and sometimes also in the December preceding). Poll tax receipts must be presented at the polls when voting. (See appendix for a sample poll tax receipt.)

There are some U. S. Supreme Court decisions that indicate that Mississippi's Constitution interpretation test and requirements of the payment of poll taxes by election time may be unconstitutional as in violation of the Fifteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

If the citizen moves from one precinct to another or from one county to another, then he must wait a year before he can vote again. For this reason many people continue to vote in the same precinct or town even though they live elsewhere. In this manner they continue to vote without interruption. It is suggested, however, that one should change his registration with the circuit clerk whenever he moves to a new district; and it might be advisable to wait to make this change until a year in which no important election is being held.

It is of major significance that poll taxes may be paid by anyone for any other person. The important thing is that the taxes are paid and not who pays them. In other words, one or more persons can legally collect a thousand separate $2 from a large number of people and go down to the courthouse and pay their poll taxes for them. (See the poll tax payment form in the appendix.) One should also remember that neither registration nor payment of poll taxes is a condition of doing one or the other; the two are completely independent. You may register without paying your poll tax. You may pay your poll tax without registering. But both are necessary in order for one to be a qualified elector and thereby to be able to vote.

After one becomes 60 years of age, he is no longer required to pay poll taxes. Therefore, a person who has just become 60 may vote at the next election if he has only paid the poll tax for the last year. If he is 61 or over, no poll tax is required at all and he may vote merely by registering with the circuit clerk (if he has not already done so).

To repeat: one may register at any time; however, one may pay his poll taxes only during December and the following January up through February 1.

(Theoretically it would seem that one might be able to pay any future poll taxes whenever he desires. But in practice the poll taxes are normally not received until at least December.)

B. The Conducting of the General Election

The general election is conducted on a state-wide basis by the State Board of Election Commissioners, which consists of the Governor, The Secretary of State, and the Attorney-General. Every even year in September the State Board of Election Commissioners appoints three (3) election commissioners for each county to conduct the general election in that county. These county election commissioners are important primarily because they have the power to examine the registration and poll books and to decide what persons are properly registered and are qualified voters. They also appoint the general election managers and clerks for each voting place. Three sets of books are kept for each precinct or voting district. The registration book is a permanent record of those persons who have passed the "literacy" tests and other requirements for registration. (All books are kept in the circuit clerk's office.) The names of those persons on the registration book who are qualified electors (i.e. have also paid their poll taxes) are then transferred to the general election poll book and the primary election poll books, which books are then taken to the various voting places and are used at the polls. An entry is made beside each person's name in the poll book as he votes. If his name does not appear in the poll book, he may not vote automatically but must prepare his ballot subject to further checking. If a person's name does not appear on the poll book, he should nevertheless go ahead and vote. The county commissioners of election also appoint persons to hold the election at each polling place in the county. The commissioners have the power to hear all appeals from the circuit clerk's refusing or denying a person's registration. An appeal from their decision may be taken to the circuit court and finally to the State Supreme Court.

C. The Conducting of the Primary Election

The primary election machinery is on a state-wide basis under the supervision of the state executive committee of the particular party that is holding the primary. Since in Mississippi the Democratic Party is the only significant party, the Democratic Party will be used as the example. The State Democratic Executive Committee furnishes to each county Democratic executive committee the names of all state and state district candidates who have qualified for the Democratic Primary elections and also furnishes a sample of the official ballot to be used in the election.

The county Democratic executive committees are always in charge of the actual grass-roots holding of the primary election. The county committee acts exactly as the board of county election commissioners acts, except that it has no power to revise the registration or poll books. In particular, the county committee has the power to appoint all managers and clerks of elections at the various polling places throughout the county. For obvious reasons, such as patronage (political jobs) and the influencing of elections, the control of these jobs is quite important.

D. Becoming a Candidate

There are several principal things which must be done for one to become a candidate for office in the Democratic primary. The prospective candidate must give his name, accompanied by a filing fee, to the secretary of either the State Democratic Executive Committee or the county Democratic executive committee (depending upon whether or not he is running for a state or state district office, or a county or county district office), sign an affidavit stating that he has read the State Corrupt Practices Act, and sign an affidavit that he has not been a member of certain subversive organizations. Candidates for state or state district offices file these affidavits with the Secretary of State. Candidates for county or county district offices file with the circuit clerk of the county. The fees are: $100 for a state-wide office, $50 for a state district office, $7.50 for a state senator (except where there is only one county in the district) and for state representative when there is more than one county in the district, $5 for county-wide offices, and $2.50 for county district offices. (These fees may shortly be increased under a bill pending in the State Legislature.) A candidate must qualify at least sixty (60) days prior to the primary election. A candidate for Governor or Lieutenant Governor or United States Senator must be at least 30 years of age. Other state-wide officers such as the Secretary of State must be at least 25 years of age, as must also United States Representatives and State Senators. Supreme Court judges must be at least 30 years of age; and other judges, except the justices of the peace, must be at least 26 years of age. All other officers including constables, municipal officials, state representatives, county supervisors, etc., must only be qualified electors. (The age at the time of taking office is what counts.)

A person may, however, qualify for office as an independent candidate and run in the general election by filing a petition with either the state or county board of election commissioners (depending upon which office is sought). If a state-wide office is involved, 1,000 qualified electors must sign the petition; if a Congressional district, 200 qualified electors; if a circuit or chancery court district, 100 qualified electors; if a county-wide district, a senatorial or flotorial district or a municipality of a thousand or more people, 50 qualified electors; and if a county district or a municipality of under 1,000 people, 15 qualified electors. The petition must be filed at least 40 days prior to the general election in November. The candidate can have participated as a voter or as a candidate in the prior primary election of any party immediately preceding the general election in which he desires to run. In effect, this provision gives a second chance to run candidates for a particular office.

E. Times of Elections and Voting Hours

The polls open at eight o'clock in the morning and close at six in the evening, except that in cities having 1,000 or more registered voters, they open at seven in the morning. The general election is always held each year the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. The primary election for the election of State officials, except for judges, is held every four (4) years on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August, and the second primary is held three weeks later. The next such election will be in August, 1963. The primary election for Congressmen at the present time is held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June of even numbered years, the second primary being held three weeks later if necessary. Elections for judges and United States Senator (whenever a Senator's six-year term expires) are held at the same time as the Congressional elections. Chancery, Circuit, and county judges are elected every four (4) years, the next election being in 1962. Supreme Court judges are elected as their eight-year terms expire. The election for the senate seat now held by Senator John Stennis will be in 1964, and the election for that of Senator James Eastland in 1966.

F. Election Costs

The expenses for the holding of primary elections are paid out of the county treasuries, unless the party holding the primary failed to receive one-third of the total vote cast in the entire state in the preceding Presidential election. The general election costs are paid by the counties in all cases.

III. PARTY ORGANIZATION AND POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS

A. In General

In Mississippi a candidate is nominated for the general election in November by winning the party primary election, usually held several months earlier. Since, as mentioned before, the Democratic Party is for most purposes the only significant political party in the State, the person who wins the Democratic Party primary election is normally elected automatically at the general election in November to the office to which he was nominated in the Democratic primary election. In other words, winning the Democratic nomination is the same as winning election to the office. The actual Democratic primary election process has been described in the preceding section. It is the purpose of this section to deal with the party machinery that conducts party affairs in general and the Democratic Party primary elections in particular.

B. The Precinct Convention

Normally during the month of February, March, or April of years in which the President of the United States is elected, the Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee (or the State Democratic Executive Committee as a whole) names a date at least ten days in advance setting the time for holding "precinct elections." These elections are held at the usual voting place in each precinct or voting district and are usually held on Tuesday. They must begin at ten o'clock in the morning by law. The county Democratic executive committee appoints certain persons to act as temporary chairman and temporary secretary of the precinct convention and entrusts the various delegate credentials (certificates of election to the county convention) and other papers to them. At these precinct conventions, all qualified electors in the precinct may assemble and elect delegates to the county convention, which is ordinarily held a week or more later. The precinct convention normally elects anywhere from one to six delegates, depending upon the size of the precinct. Frequently, however, these one to six votes are split into half votes with alternates for each half vote. This means that a precinct with two votes might send eight (8) people to the county convention, made up of four half votes and four alternate half votes. The precinct convention is a sovereign body and as such adopts and operates under its own rules. It is at this point that a knowledge of parliamentary procedure, quick thinking, and aggressiveness can result in the election of favorable delegates. Conversely, a lack of any of these three qualities will frequently result in defeat. Rump conventions in which a dissenting group holds its own meeting are not unknown. In this case, of course, the county convention would decide which delegation to recognize as the official one.

In the precinct convention, the temporary chairman presides over the election of a permanent chairman and a permanent secretary. The permanent chairman then presides over the election of delegates to the county convention. At times, resolutions are introduced and are acted upon by the precinct convention. They have no legal effect and only express the sentiments of the voters in that precinct.

A majority vote prevails in all cases, unless different rules of procedure have been accepted by prior majority vote.

C. The County Convention

At the county convention, which is usually held in the courthouse a week or more after the precinct convention, the delegates elected by the precincts assemble, with the chairman of the county Democratic executive committee presiding. The program of the county convention has normally been arranged by the county Democratic executive committee. At the county convention the delegates first hear a keynote address by some prominent political figure of the state. They then ordinarily proceed to elect delegates to the state convention, following the same procedure as was used in the precinct conventions, i.e. electing two delegates with one-half vote and two alternate half-vote delegates for each vote in the state convention allocated to that particular county. By law each county receives twice as many votes in the State Democratic Convention as it has seats in the State House of Representatives. (For example, Hinds County in 1960 had four seats in the State House of Representatives. It therefore had eight votes to be cast by 16 delegates with one-half vote each or by 16 alternate delegates in case of the inability of the 16 regular delegates.) The county convention then proceeds to resolve itself into five (5) caucuses consisting of the precinct delegates from each supervisor's district. These caucuses nominate three (3) candidates for the new county Democratic executive committee. The county convention then reconvenes and considers all the nominations. Nominations may also be made from the floor as in the case of nominations for delegates to the State convention. (Frequently a nominating committee reports a full slate of candidates for delegates to the State convention. Often this slate is elected without opposition. This need not be so.) Finally, the convention proceeds to elect the new county Democratic executive committee of 15 members, normally ratifying the earlier nominations from the five caucuses of the supervisor's districts. However, to repeat, everyone has the right to nominate additional candidates from the floor. The county convention will frequently adopt resolutions, which, however, have no legal effect.

D. The County Democratic Executive Committee

At this point will be considered briefly the county Democratic executive committee. This fifteen-man body meets two weeks before any Democratic primary election and appoints the managers in charge of each polling place in the county. This is a valuable patronage power. Also the manager frequently assists the electors in voting when they have any difficulty. By law the county Democratic executive committee is required to appoint managers evenly among the supporters of the candidates for those offices which are the leading contests. (This law may have been repealed by the legislature at the time of this printing.) And if there is any doubt as to which offices are most contested, then the positions are apportioned among the supporters of the candidates for the highest office. By law every candidate has the right to have at least one of his supporters observe the conduct of the election at each polling place and at the canvassing (counting) of the returns. This is an important right, since it assures a degree of fairness in the election. The CDEC (County Democratic Executive Committee) is in charge of canvassing the returns and declaring the results of all Democratic primary elections. The committee also has certain powers as to acceptance or rejection of a voter's ballot. Such a decision, however, is made in the first instance by the manager at the precinct polling place. The CDEC, as does the SDEC (State Democratic Executive Committee), serves for four years until the next convention.

E. The Congressional District Caucus

The delegates elected in the 82 county Democratic conventions throughout the state then assemble a week or more later in separate caucuses held in each of the state's five Congressional districts. These caucuses then proceed to elect, subject to the approval of the upcoming State Convention: (a) four regular delegates and four alternate delegates (representing a total of two votes) to the National Democratic Convention; (b) three members of the SDEC; and (c) one candidate for Democratic Presidential Elector.

F. The State Convention and the State Democratic Executive Committee

A week or more after the last Congressional district caucus is held (the five caucuses are normally held one after the other about a week or so apart), the State Democratic Convention is convened in Jackson, the state capital. The convention is opened by the chairman of the SDEC, who presides until a permanent chairman of the convention is chosen. This procedure may vary and is not rigidly prescribed by law. The permanent chairman then may appoint various committees to prepare different resolutions and other proposals. (In 1960, for example, the Unpledged Electors program was prepared in committee and presented to the convention which proceeded to adopt it. This, however, was done at the reconvened State Democratic Convention subsequent to the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles. The reconvened State Democratic Convention then proceeded to put up two slates of Presidential electors, one pledged to the National Democratic nominees, Kennedy and Johnson, and the other unpledged to any particular nominees.) The convention ratifies the earlier election by the Congressional district caucuses of the 40 delegates to the national convention (representing 10 votes) and ratifies the election of the 15 men to the new SDEC. The State Democratic Convention also elects delegates to the Democratic National Convention having a total of the remainder of the votes to which the State of Mississippi is entitled. The State Convention also adopts a platform, which by law states the position of the Mississippi Democratic Party. This platform is frequently in opposition to that of the National Democratic Party.

In addition to the earlier-mentioned duties of the SDEC, this body has general charge of the supervision of the Democratic primary elections on a state-wide basis. It is also technically in charge of the campaigns for election of all state-wide and state-district Democratic candidates in the November general elections. However, since in Mississippi the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election, this latter function is only performed during Presidential campaigns. A similar campaigning function is the responsibility of the CDEC, though this almost never occurs and for the same reason.

G. Mississippi Political Campaigns

In Mississippi, because of the effect of the Democratic primary, political campaigns are normally waged within the Democratic Party among factions backing particular candidates in the Democratic primary. Formal party campaigns in the general election are non-existent, and campaign machinery is formed on an ad hoc personality basis. For example, one refers to "the Coleman organization" or to "the Eastland organization." It would seem that there is a great need today in the State of Mississippi for something more than mere individualism in political organizations. This situation results in an election decided by personalities and not by issues.

The Mississippi Corrupt Practices Act of 1935, as amended, technically covers the campaign activities of all candidates. However, it is rarely observed in practice, and its violation is even less frequently punished. A brief reading of some of its unrealistic provisions readily shows the reason for its lack of enforcement. For example, a limit of $25,000 is placed upon expenditures that may be made by a candidate for Governor of the state. Seasoned political observers in Mississippi have estimated that at least as much as $250,000 is frequently spent on such a campaign.

H. Note on Municipal Elections

A rudimentary municipal Democratic executive committee is in charge of holding municipal primary elections. A municipal election commission holds the general election. Their functions generally coincide with those of their county counterparts.

IV. MISSISSIPPI GOVERNMENTAL STRUCTURE

A. State Government

1. The Executive Branch

Mississippi state government is divided into the traditional three branches, the executive, the legislative and the judicial, and is constantly increasing its other area of state and governmental activity, that of state boards and commissions. This administrative area might be called the fourth branch of state government. Each of these branches will be considered separately.

The head of the executive branch and the chief executive officer of the State is the Governor . In Mississippi the Governor does not have as firm a control over the executive establishment as he does in many other states. Here the Lieutenant Governor, the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, the State Auditor, the State Treasurer, and several other less important state-level executive officials are all elected by the people in the general election every four years, concurrently with the election of the Governor. These officials are largely independent of the Governor and on occasion openly oppose him. However, the very large number of administrative agencies and boards, such as the Highway Patrol and the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning, are wholly or largely subject to the Governor's appointive and removal powers. Therefore, he is quite powerful for this reason and frequently makes very advantageous use of this patronage. The Governor's power of pardoning convicts is not an unimportant one and has frequently been used to his substantial advantage. The Governor also has control of the National Guard, which may be used to enforce the State's law. He, as in most states, has the veto power. If he disapproves a bill passed by both houses of the Legislature, he vetoes it, and the bill may then be passed over his veto only by a two-thirds vote of both houses. He also has the power to convene the legislature in special session. This is normally done every two or three years, in addition to the regular session, which convenes in January of every even year. The Governor has many additional powers as a result of the common arrangement in Mississippi of making him chairman of several boards by virtue of his office (ex officio), such as the State Budget Commission and the Agricultural and Industrial Board.

The Lieutenant Governor succeeds the Governor upon his death or absence from the state. He presides over the State Senate and has the very important power of appointing the committees of the Senate. He is an ex officio member of several boards and commissions.

The Secretary of State supervises the corporation laws, is in charge of election returns and certification, and is responsible for the publication and storage of various types of state documents and reports. The Attorney General has a staff of approximately ten attorneys. His is one of the more important elective state offices. His duty is to enforce the laws of the state by advising local law enforcement officers, such as the sheriffs and chiefs of police of municipalities, and, when necessary, to resort to the courts for judicial enforcement of the state laws. His office also assists in drafting legislation and in advising the Governor and other state agencies. He represents the State of Mississippi in all courts and defends all agencies of the state. The State Auditor of Public Accounts and the State Treasurer, respectively, audit the accounts of the various state agencies and pay the warrants issued upon the state treasury. There are various other minor elective state-wide offices, the most important of which is the Superintendent of Education, who exercises general control over the state's segregated system of public schools.

2. The Legislative Branch

The legislative branch of the state government is composed of the two houses, the House of Representatives and the Senate. The House consists of 140 members; the Senate, 49. House members are normally elected from a particular county, though there are a few "flotorial" districts comprising more than one county. Senators are elected from senatorial districts which normally comprise two or more counties.

The House of Representatives is presided over by the Speaker of the House, who is elected by the House itself every four years in January after the general election. This official is extremely powerful, as he may (and does) succeed himself repeatedly. He appoints all committees of the House, including the all-powerful House Rules Committee (which decides what bills shall be considered by the full House); he decides to which committee a bill should be referred; and he decides whom to recognize from the floor; and he has still many other important powers. Many political observers consider this office in its present form subject to abuse.

In Mississippi there is no majority or minority party. Therefore, leaders who are considered to represent the viewpoint of the administration (the Governor) are often grouped together and those who are frequently opposed to the administration are grouped together. All present members of the legislature are Democrats. The legislature meets every two years, always convening in January of each even-numbered year. Frequently a special session is called by the Governor prior to the regular session in January. Sessions normally last from two to four months. State representatives receive $3,000 for each regular session (every even year), plus $22.50 for each day of a special session, plus $100 per month except months in session, plus liberal travel allowances.

The State Senate, as mentioned earlier, is presided over by the Lieutenant Governor. This official has powers similar to the Speaker of the House except for the very important exception that he does not have the power to appoint the Senate Rules Committee. These bodies, like their counterparts in the U. S. House of Representatives, control the flow of legislation to the floor. They may defeat a bill simply by refusing to permit its consideration, and normally a two-thirds vote is required to reverse the rules committee. The State Senate also has some confirmation power over the Governor's appointments, but these are of little consequence.

3. The Judicial Branch

The judicial system of the state is antiquated in many respects and will be considered at this point for state, county and city levels of government. The state's eighty-two counties are each divided into five supervisor's districts, each district having at least one justice of the peace and at least one constable. The justice has jurisdiction of all civil cases involving fines of up to $200 and of criminal cases that are only misdemeanors involving less than one year in jail. The justice court does not keep a word-by-word record of its proceedings, and only the final results are recorded. Ordinarily the justice court does not have a jury. The constable is the lowest law enforcement officer of the state and is responsible for enforcing the law in his supervisor's district. He attends the justice court, delivers its papers, and carries out its judgments. He is assisted by the sheriff in many cases. Many counties in the state have county courts. These courts have general jurisdiction over all cases involving up to $3,000, and all criminal and civil matters on appeal from justice courts. Cases appealed from justice courts are re-tried in the county court, where either party (or, in a criminal case, the defendant alone) may have a full twelve-man jury, if he desires.

The state's basic trial courts are the circuit court and the chancery court.

The circuit court is the court of general residual jurisdiction and corresponds to the English Common Law Courts in which the judge states the law and the jury applies it to the facts. The circuit court handles all matters in which only damages are involved and many special types of cases such as appeals from the board of supervisors of a county or the municipal board or city council of a municipality. There are nineteen (19) circuit court districts in Mississippi. The circuit court also has jurisdiction over all criminal matters (unless, of course, a misdemeanor is involved, in which case the case goes first to the justice of the peace court and may then be re-tried in its entirety in the circuit court. However, this re-trial takes place in the county court if there is one, and the circuit court hears appeals from the re-trial in the county court). A jury trial may always be had in the circuit court. A circuit court judge is elected for a four-year term and, with one exception, circuit court districts comprise two or more counties.

Of equal standing with the circuit courts are the chancery courts. However, these courts are presided over by chancellors who are elected and serve in a similar manner as circuit judges, but who sit always, except for a minor exception, without a jury and themselves decide not only the law but also the facts of a case. Their jurisdiction extends to special classes of cases, such as those involving land, domestic relations, wills and estates of deceased persons, incompetent persons, and minors, suits for injunctions to prevent people from doing certain things, and suits in general for particular types of relief such as creating a drainage district or extending the city limits. There are 17 chancery court districts in Mississippi.

The State Supreme Court consists of nine judges, who normally sit in groups of five each. Cases are heard from September through June on Monday of each week. The court hands down its opinions at the beginning of that day. The court almost always is up to date in its hearings, and not infrequently a decision is rendered two or three weeks after it is argued. The court is composed of elective judges, three from each of three Supreme Court Districts who are chosen for eight-year terms. The senior judge on the court serves as Chief Justice; his immediate junior serves as Presiding Justice. One presides over Division (group) A; the other over Division (group) B. Appeals come to the Supreme Court from the chancery courts or the circuit courts. If all five of the judges in a Division (group) do not agree upon the disposition of a case, then the case is decided by all nine judges (i.e., en banc).

The state and its many subdivisions such as the counties, the municipalities, and the various circuit court districts are represented in criminal matters in the several courts by prosecuting attorneys. There may be a city prosecuting attorney, normally appointed by the city council, who handles criminal matters before the city court. If there is a county prosecuting attorney for the county court criminal cases, he is commonly an elected official. There is always a district attorney who handles criminal matters before the circuit court and who is elected by the voters of the circuit court district. The Attorney-General handles criminal matters on the state level in the State Supreme Court.

4. The Administrative Branch

There are many state boards and agencies that perform various public services. The Agricultural and Industrial Board has the responsibility of bringing industry into the state and of helping the state's economy. The Budget Commission is responsible for preparing a state budget every two years. The Board of Institutions of Higher Learning has jurisdiction over the colleges and universities. The State Employment Security Commission administers through its system of employment offices the program of helping unemployed citizens to find jobs. It also handles unemployment compensation payments and apparently is going to have jurisdiction over the new federal manpower retraining programs designed to retrain persons now out of jobs while paying them the equivalent of unemployment compensation as they are being retrained. All of the above programs are substantially financed by federal funds.

Another sort of state agency is the State Sovereignty Commission, with the Governor as the chairman. This body has as its function the preservation of the segregated system of society that exists in the state. It employs investigators and keeps files on many citizens of the state who differ with the official state policy of segregation.

B. County Government

The governing body of each of the 82 counties is the board of supervisors. One supervisor is elected from each of the five supervisor's districts of every county. The board has such general powers as hiring a county police force, deciding upon the boundaries of the various voting districts in the county, hearing appeals from the county tax assessor, authorizing the submission of various bond issues for the approval of the electors of the county to construct various projects such as county parks and hospitals, and levying county taxes. Each supervisor has jurisdiction over the roads in his district and maintains a road shop for this purpose. This gives him extensive political power in his district, since he decides whose roads will be paved.

Another important county official is the county superintendent of education. He has jurisdiction over the county schools and over the various 16th section lands of the county, which are set aside for the benefit of the schools. He decides who rents the lands and for what price.

The sheriff is a third county official. In addition to being chief law enforcement officer of the county, he is also the tax collector.

He enforces the law in the county and executes all orders of the various courts that apply to people of property in the county. One of his deputies attends sessions of both the county and circuit courts. He has jurisdiction over the county jail. His compensation is through fees for all services that are performed by his office, varying from the collection of real estate taxes to the holding of a particular person in jail. There are several sheriffs in the state of Mississippi who make over $100,000 a year legally. In addition to his legal income, through his law enforcement powers he has the discretion of whether or not to raid illegal liquor-selling places in his county. This means that he has a lever whereby he can extort payments from the owners of these illegal businesses. This is considered to be a common practice.

The county tax assessor is another official of importance. It is up to him to assess the value of the various pieces of real estate in the county (subject to appeal to the board of supervisors) and to apply to this assessment the rate of taxation that has been fixed by the board of supervisors. This tax is then, of course, collected by the sheriff's office.

Two more very important county officials are the circuit clerk and the chancery clerk. The circuit clerk handles all papers involving the circuit court. He also has charge of issuing marriage licenses and, most important, of registering voters and keeping the election books. It is with him that all persons running for county or county-district office must qualify. To repeat: It is in his office that all persons must register to vote. And under the present state law, it is up to him to decide whether or not a person has satisfactorily completed his registration tests. The judgment roll is also kept in his office. It is in this book that all judgments of the circuit court and decrees of the chancery court may be entered so as to tie up the real estate (land) of the particular person who has lost a law suit. His office is open every day of the week except, in some counties, on Saturday; and he or one of his deputies is required by law to register any person who comes into his office during those times and who has the required qualifications. It is against state law as well as federal law for him to delay the registration process in any way.

C. Municipal Government

The governing body of a municipality in Mississippi may be either a city commission, a city council, a board of selectmen, or a city manager together with his city council. All of these forms except the city manager form generally have a mayor who is the chief executive officer of the municipality. In general, however, the governing body meets frequently enough (usually weekly) so that it can exercise general and final supervision over most activities of the municipality.

There is also the city clerk, who may be appointed or who may be elected, depending upon the municipality. This official is responsible for registration of voters in the city. In other words, a voter living in the city must not only register with the circuit clerk of the county but, after registering first with the circuit clerk, must register with the city clerk of the municipality. This official keeps the minutes and the record of the proceedings of the city governing body, and the various election books of the city.

There exists usually a city tax collector and a city tax assessor, all under the absolute jurisdiction of the governing body of the municipality.

There is generally a city police chief, who has jurisdiction over the police department and of arrests for all crimes and misdemeanors that might be committed within the city limits.

There is normally a municipal court presided over by a city judge in which misdemeanors committed inside the city are tried. This court hears not only traffic violations, but also such other matters as charges for breach of peace. This municipal court is almost exactly like the justice court mentioned earlier. It normally does not have a jury and is not a court of record. And if one is convicted here, he has a right to a complete retrial before a full twelve-man jury on appeal to the county court, if that county has one, or to the circuit court, if that county does not have a county court.

Each municipality may also have a city prosecuting attorney who represents the city in criminal cases before the municipal court and frequently before the county and circuit courts. Each municipality almost always has a city attorney who represents the municipality in general legal matters. He frequently will serve as prosecuting attorney in small municipalities.

V. THE ROLE OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

A. Present Law

The basic protection of the citizen from either the state or from private citizens stems from the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the federal Constitution. The Thirteenth Amendment abolishes slavery and involuntary servitude. (It would seem that many of Mississippi's large farmers are open to civil rights complaints based upon peonage charges founded on the Thirteenth Amendment and the federal criminal statutes enacted to enforce the Amendment.) By and large the Due Process of Law Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment requires that in state courts everyone be given a fair trial. Also the Due Process Clause protects the rights of citizens to free speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, freedom to petition the government for redress of wrongs, and other similar guarantees that are normally thought necessary to a free and democratic society. The Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment guarantees to each citizen the equal protection of the laws even to the extent of his not being required to attend any segregated facilities of a public nature, be they schools, buses, parks or libraries. The Fifteenth Amendment declares that the right of a citizen to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, creed, or color.

Aside from the Constitutional Amendments, there are many federal statutory laws both of a criminal nature and of a civil (damage suit) nature. The criminal provisions commonly provide for from one- to ten-year imprisonment penalties and substantial fines as penalties to be imposed upon either state officials or private citizens who deprive citizens of their civil rights. The civil statutes generally provide that any citizen who has been deprived of his civil rights may sue for damages the person or official who caused the deprivation. But the important thing to note, as will be explained in detail in the following paragraphs, is that these federal laws are almost totally ineffective as a result of the federal juries -- both the federal grand jury (indictment) and the federal petty jury (trial) -- and of the local federal district judges, who are almost completely in sympathy with the segregationist position.

B. The Law in Action

1. Executive and Administrative Action

Through his Constitutional duty to enforce the law the President of the United States has extremely wide powers in the area of civil rights. By means of his executive orders, President Kennedy has already taken steps to eliminate discrimination in firms that receive large government contracts (through establishing The President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity). It is expected that in the near future he will exercise his powers to prevent discrimination in federally assisted housing of whatever nature and kind. But the President's powers extend much further. He could end the still extensive segregation that exists in the State National Guard and in the Army Reserve. He could require the withholding of all federal aid to schools and colleges which are segregated. He could require the withholding of federal aid to hospitals and other such facilities assisted by federal funds. He could order local federal marshals to enforce the federal civil rights laws. His power in the fields of welfare and unemployment compensation and of employment offices are wide and varied. His powers over the Small Business Administration, which controls the granting of federal loans, could be used to aid the Negro in Mississippi. And there are many other executive powers. Also every ten years the President has the power under existing federal statutes to decrease the representation in the House of Representatives of states that deny their citizens the right to vote. This authority is given by section two of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution. However, it has never been used.

The Attorney General of the United States, through his Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department, has broad powers in the area of civil rights. The Division is charged with the responsibility for enforcing all federal civil rights laws, including the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution. This office has recently been extremely active in attempting to secure the right to vote for the Negro citizens of Mississippi. However, in large measure the efforts have only been slightly successful. There has been only a relatively small increase in Negro registration as a result of the Civil Rights Division's activities. The Division also prepares proposed legislation for consideration by Congress in the civil rights field.

Though the federal laws to prevent discrimination in all forms and to protect voting could normally be quite effective when vigorously enforced by the Civil Rights Division, such is not the case at present. This is a result of the complete inability of the Division to obtain even an indictment -- much less a conviction -- of a white person who has denied a Negro citizen his civil rights. The normally all-white jury simply will not indict or convict him. And even in cases which do not require a jury, such as school integration litigation, the federal district judges themselves use such methods as delay and outright refusal to follow the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. In short, the law of the land cannot be effectively enforced in the federal district courts in Mississippi.

Fortunately, the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, which has jurisdiction over Mississippi and five other Southern states, has taken a different view and has insisted upon compliance with the U. S. Supreme Court's decisions. But an appeal to the Court of Appeals takes time, and it is frequently impossible to appeal because of the expense and the inability to obtain legal counsel. There are at present only four Negro attorneys in the state of Mississippi; and, as a result of local pressure, almost no white attorneys will even dare consider taking a civil rights case. The lower state courts at times not only provide no remedy in fact for a denial of civil rights, but instead, as in the recent "freedom rider" cases, have actually been used to enforce the state's unconstitutional policy of segregation. An eventual appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States has thus far been effectively denied by reason of delay in the lower state courts, whether or not justified. As a matter of practice, an appeal, either by way of certiorari (review as a matter of grace), or by way of direct appeal (review as a matter of right), to the United States Supreme Court from the Mississippi State Supreme Court, has been largely illusory, since the United States Supreme Court hears only a very small percentage of appeals from state supreme courts. [For example, the United States Supreme Court did not hear the appeal by Clyde Kennard from his 1961 conviction for allegedly assisting in stealing several sacks of chicken feed. (The admitted burglar and thief went free.) Kennard had just earlier tried to enter the all-white Mississippi Southern College.] On occasion the Mississippi Supreme Court will courageously overturn a denial of civil rights by a lower state court.

Of great importance is an agency created in 1957 by Congress, the United States Commission on Civil Rights. The Civil Rights Commission was directed to investigate all denial of civil rights of citizens in the United States, in particular denials of the right to vote. The Commission was then to prepare a report and submit it to the President and to Congress, along with recommendations as to what legislation, Presidential action, Justice Department action and other things should be done to further secure the civil rights of all citizens. This the Commission has done. It prepared a small but effective report in 1959. Several of its recommendations were enacted into law in the form of the 1960 Civil Rights Act. Then in 1961 it prepared a five-volume, extremely comprehensive report dealing with the five areas of voting, education, employment, housing, and administration of justice. These volumes may be obtained from the Commission at 726 Jackson Place, Washington 25, D. C. The Commission is open at all times to receive complaints involving violations of civil rights. It frequently investigates them itself but almost always also refers them to the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division for FBI investigation. Since the Kennedy Administration came into office in January of 1961, the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department has been most active and interested in exercising its duty. In its day-to-day operations the Civil Rights Commission is under the administrative control of the Staff Director, at the present time Mr. Berle Bernhard. As a longer range matter, the Commission itself exercises full control. The Commission is composed of six members, three Democrats and three Republicans; one of the six is the chairman and one the vice-chairman. It meets approximately once a month.

A further word might be said at this point about the organization of the Civil Rights Division of the U. S. Department of Justice. It is one of five divisions within the Justice Department and has, as does the Civil Rights Commission, about 75-100 employees, approximately half of whom are attorneys. It is divided into several sections which consider specific problems. The Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the division at present is Mr. Burke Marshall. The Division receives complaints directly, and complaints may be sent to it addressed to: Civil Rights Division, United States Department of Justice, Washington 25, D. C. It has at its disposal the investigating services of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and makes free use of these services.

Therefore, in general, when one has a complaint that his civil rights have been violated, either by a state or local official or by private persons, he should send a complaint both to the Civil Rights Commission and to the Civil Rights Division. At the present time both take prompt action to assist the complainant.

Another office should be mentioned at this time, the Special Assistant to the President in Charge of Civil Rights. This position is now held by Mr. Harris Wofford, Jr., whose office is in the Executive Office Building, Washington, D. C. He is a member of the White House Staff and is, perhaps, the President's chief advisor on civil rights matters. He heads the sub-Cabinet committee on civil rights, which coordinates the Kennedy Administration's civil rights activities. He has extensive jurisdiction in the field of preparing executive orders and general civil rights pronouncements by the President. He is also extremely influential in forming the civil rights program of the Kennedy Administration presented to Congress.

2. The Congress

The second major area of civil rights power is the Congress itself. Though there has been an evident need for much more civil rights legislation in order to protect adequately the rights of all citizens of the United States, particularly the rights of the Negro in many Southern states, Congress has rarely been able to act, largely as a result of a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition. In 1957 and 1960, when some civil rights legislation was passed, it was only over the most vigorous and, to a great extent, effective opposition of the Southern Representatives and Senators. The Southern Delegation occupies the chairmanships of most of the Congressional committees, including almost all the positions of leadership in the Congress. Through these positions of power they are largely able to prevent any civil rights legislation from even coming to a vote on the floors of either house of Congress. This is particularly true in the Senate, where the fillibuster (the right to talk without limit) is used when passage of some civil rights legislation seems imminent. For example, the position occupied by Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee has effectively blocked large numbers of proposed civil rights bills from ever reaching the floor of the Senate. It is claimed that no civil rights bill has ever been reported out of the Judiciary Committee during the many years he has been chairman. The only way such legislation has been enacted is the procedure of bypassing his committee by amending a totally unrelated bill pending before the Upper House. In this manner the 1957 and 1960 Civil Rights Acts passed the Senate.

3. The Federal Courts

The Federal Courts, primarily the U. S. Supreme Court, have led the way in the governmental struggle for civil rights in this country. The landmark case of Brown v. Board of Education in 1954 established the principle that segregated public schools and other public facilities are in violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, and are, therefore, unconstitutional. Subsequent cases have applied this principle to parks, libraries, public restaurants, airports, bus and train terminals, and many other facilities. The U. S. Supreme Court has yet to decide how far the principle extends, though the recent sit-in cases now before the Court should provide some answers. But resort to the federal courts remains the most effective remedy for the citizens deprived of his civil rights.

In Mississippi the recent use of the three-judge court procedure with two out-of-state circuit judges (i.e., the bus terminal cases) has proved very effective in those cases involving the constitutionality of a state statute. In this manner the local federal district judge can be outvoted 2 to 1. However, in recent months the U. S. Supreme Court has limited the use of this procedure.

IV. SOME WAYS OF HELPING ONESELF

There are many ways in which the Negro citizen can help to alleviate his condition. First, perhaps, he should realize that he is not getting those things to which an American citizen is entitled. Certainly he does not have to be told this. However, consulting such official publications as the 1960 Federal Census will reveal such things as the fact that the average white family income is three times as much per year as that of the average Negro family. The 1960 Census shows that approximately two out of three Negro homes do not even have access to any toilet facilities or only have access to an outdoor privy. The Census further shows that approximately four out of five Negro homes have no access to facilities in which to take a shower or a bath. Such statistics as these are quite revealing. For example, they show further that in order to pay the poll taxes for the man and the wife -- a total of $4 -- a median Negro family must sacrifice a full day's income -- 1/365 of its $1440 yearly income. In short, these figures show that the poll tax is a real economic barrier to Negro voting in Mississippi. The 1960 Census publications concerning Mississippi may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

The Statistical Abstract of the United States, published in 1961, also reveals figures comparing Mississippi with other states. This book may be obtained for $3.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C.

It is also very important for the Negro citizen to speak out in protest of his condition. The First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U. S. Constitution protect his right to do this. He should write letters to the President, the Attorney-General, and to various members of Congress urging that something be done to help relieve his condition, such as the passage of legislation abolishing the poll tax and the literacy test so that he can vote.

And it is important not only to speak out against oppression and injustice, but actually to exercise peacefully those freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States such as registration to vote, paying one's poll tax, speaking freely, gathering together in free assembly to discuss political problems, carrying on political activity, and circulating petitions protesting injustice and deprivation of rights. These petitions may be presented to the President, to the Congress, and to other responsible government officials -- federal and state.

It is also important to realize that many, perhaps most, white persons in the state are almost totally unaware of the true condition of the Negro, as a result of the almost complete separation of the two groups.

This, therefore, presents an educational problem. Thus, it is very important that the Negro citizen speak to his white neighbor concerning politics and ask him for his help and his advice in these matters. The Negro citizen need only take the advice that he considers good, but free discussion is the beginning of true understanding and good will.

It is also important to contribute to and cooperate with those organizations that stand for the cause of civil rights for all citizens. Membership and active participation in the peaceful and lawful activities and programs of such organizations assist materially in promoting the elimination of the injustice, unequal opportunity, and oppression that presently exist.

It is particularly true that "Mississippi" is a magic word in the United States and throughout the world. Mississippi is the symbol of racism in the United States. It is the symbol of the absence of democracy and freedom in the very nation that presents itself as the champion of democracy and freedom. What happens in Mississippi is important everywhere. Therefore, it follows that peacful and lawful protest activity in Mississippi puts great pressure on the national government to help correct the wrongs that exist in the state and in other areas of the country. Following this reasoning, it is important that the press be kept fully informed so that free and mass coverage may be had. Perhaps the most important principle of all is that inaction leads to further suppression and that peaceful and lawful action in the form of attempts to assert one's Constitutional rights is the surest method of all to actually obtain them. In short, one has to stand up for his rights. A word of caution should be added: that one at all times be peaceful and obey the state law, except, of course, when it violates the paramount United States Constitution or federal law. And even then the action should be done in such a way as to peaceably bring the unconstitutional state law before the state or federal courts for decision.

Civil Rights Violation Complaint

(Note: Send one copy to the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights, 726 Jackson Place, Washington 25, D. C. and send one copy to Civil Rights Division, U. S. Justice Department, Washington 25, D. C.)

My name is _____ and I live
(Give full name)

in _____. I can be (Give full address)

reached at this phone number: _____. I work as a

_____.
(Give occupation)

I wish to make a formal complaint of the following occurrence: (Give exact details of what happened, giving times, places, names, and all other circumstances, using the back of this sheet and other paper if necessary.)

Signed: _____
(sign here)

[Note: If possible and safe, have complaint notarized. Send air mail as soon as possible after occurrence. If very urgent call the Civil Rights Division of the U. S. Justice Dept. at Re78200 in Washington, D. C.]

Poll Tax Payment

If you wish to pay a Poll Tax, please indicate below for whom you are paying, and attach check or money order for the amount of $2.00 each, payable to the Sheriff of _____ County, Mississippi. (The fee will be $3.00 in some counties.)

1. Name _____ Address _____
2. Name _____ Address _____
3. Name _____ Address _____
4. Name _____ Address _____
5. Name _____ Address _____
6. Name _____ Address _____
7. Name _____ Address _____
8. Name _____ Address _____
9. Name _____ Address _____
10. Name _____ Address _____
11. Name _____ Address _____
12. Name _____ Address _____
13. Name _____ Address _____
14. Name _____ Address _____
15. Name _____ Address _____
16. Name _____ Address _____
17. Name _____ Address _____
18. Name _____ Address _____
19. Name _____ Address _____
20. Name _____ Address _____
21. Name _____ Address _____
22. Name _____ Address _____
23. Name _____ Address _____
24. Name _____ Address _____
25. Name _____ Address _____
26. Name _____ Address _____
27. Name _____ Address _____
28. Name _____ Address _____
29. Name _____ Address _____
30. Name _____ Address _____

Sample Poll Tax Receipt

1961-Poll Tax Receipt-1961
Hinds County, Mississippi

Jackson, Miss. 1-5 1962

Received of Jones, John S.

Address 877 Avon St. Voting Precinct Receipt No. 12 655
Ward _____

The Sum of _____Two and No/100 Dollars_____ $2.00

Poll tax for Year 1961, As per H. B. 206,
Laws of the Regular Session 1950

J. R. Gilfoy,
Sheriff & Tax Collector
By_____

Reproduced below is a facsimile of the form currently in use for registration:

Sworn Written Application for Registration

(By reasons of the provisions of Section 244 of the Constitution of Mississippi and House Bill No.95, approved March 24, 1955, the applicant for registration, if not physically disabled, is required to fill in this form in his own handwriting in the presence of the registrar and without assistance or suggestion of any other person or memorandum.)

1. Write the date of this application: _____

2. What is your full name? _____

3. State your age and date of birth: _____

4. What is your occupation? _____

5. Where is your business carried on? _____

6. By whom are you employed? _____

7. Are you a citizen of the United States and an inhabitant of Mississippi? _____

8. For how long have you resided in Mississippi? _____

9. Where is your place of residence in the district? _____

_____

10. Specify the date when such residence began: _____

11. What is your prior place of residence if any? _____

12. Check with oath you desire to take: (1) General _____

(2) Minister's _____ (3) Minister's wife _____ (4) If under 21 years at present, but 21 years at date of general election _____

13. If there is more than one person with the same name in the precinct, by what name do you wish to be called? _____

14. Have you ever been convicted of any of the following crimes: bribery, theft, arson, obtaining money or goods under false pretenses, perjury, forgery, embezzlement or bigamy? _____

15. If your answer to question 14 is "Yes," name the crime or crimes of which you have been convicted, and the date and place of such conviction or convictions: _____

16. Are you a minister of the gospel in charge of an organized church, or the wife of such a minister? _____

17. If your answer to question 16 is "Yes," state the length of your residence in the election district: _____

18. Write and copy in the space below, Section _____ of the Constitution of Mississippi:
(Instruction to Registrar: You will designate the section of the Constitution and point out same to applicant.)

19. Write in the space below a reasonable interpretation (the meaning) of the Section of the Constitution of Mississippi which you have just copied:

20. Write in the space below a statement setting forth your understanding of the duties and obligations of citizenship under a constitutional form of government.

21. Sign and attach hereto the oath or affirmation named in Question 12.

_____
(The applicant will sign his name here.)

State of Mississippi

County of _____

Sworn to and subscribed before me by the within named _____ _____ _____ on this the _____ day of _____ 19___.

_____
(County Registrar)

Mississippi Political Calendar 1962-1966

1962:

April 6	Last day on which candidate can qualify for June 5 Democratic primary.
June 5	Democratic primary for representatives in Congress, State Supreme Court judges whose 8-year terms expire, circuit judges, chancery judges, and county judges.
June 26	Second primary (run-off) election, if necessary.
July 6	Last day on which one may register and vote in either the primary or the general election. (But see Section II-A above.)
September 27	Last day on which an independent candidate may qualify for the November 6 election by having a petition filed in his behalf.
November 6	General elections for Representatives in Congress, State Supreme Court judges whose 8-year terms expire, circuit judges, chancery judges and county judges.

1963:

January 1 through February 1	1962 Poll Tax payable.
June 7	Last day to qualify as a candidate in the August 6 Democratic primary at which candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, State Treasurer, Attorney-General, Superintendent of Education, all three public service commissioners, Land Commissioner, Supreme Court Clerk, Commissioner of Insurance, Commissioner of Agriculture, state senators and members of the state House of Representatives, district attorneys, clerks of the circuit and chancery courts, sheriffs, coroners, assessors, surveyors, members of the boards of supervisors, justices of the peace, constables, county attorneys, and all other officers to be elected at the general state election are nominated.
July 5	Last day to register to vote in primary or general election. (But see section II-A above.)
August 6	The Democratic primary.
August 27	The Democratic second primary.
September 26	Last day on which an independent candidate may qualify for the November 5th general election by a petition filed in his behalf.
November 5	The general election. (There is no second primary, the top man wins.)

1964:

January 1 through February 1	1963 Poll Tax payable.
April 4	Last day on which a candidate can qualify for June 3rd Democratic primary.
June 3	Democratic primary for Representatives in Congress, State Supreme Court judges whose 8-year terms expire, circuit judges, chancery judges, and county judges. The United States Senate seat now held by Senator John Stennis is also up at this election.
June 24	Second primary (run-off) election, if necessary.
July 4	Last day on which one may register and vote in either the primary or the general election. (But see section II-A above.)
September 25	Last day on which an independent candidate may qualify for the November 4th general election by having a petition filed in his behalf.
November 4	The general election for all officials nominated at the June 3rd primary and for Presidential electors to elect the President and Vice-President of the United States. (Note: The precinct, county, state, and national Democratic conventions will be successively held from January through July of this year.)

1965:

January 1 through February 1	1964 Poll Tax payable.
February 8	Last day to register to vote in either the May 8th primary or the June 8th general election for municipal officials. (Note: A few municipalities have different election dates.)
March 12	Last day to qualify for May 8 Democratic primary for municipal officials
April 30	Last day for independent candidate to qualify for June 8th general election.
May 11	Democratic primary elections for municipal officials.
May 18	Second primary (run-off) election for municipal officials.
June 8	General election for municipal officials.

1966:

The political calendar for 1966 is the same as that of 1962 except that the United States Senate seat of Senator James Eastland is up.

Some Sources of Additional Information

1. The 1960 census reports for Mississippi contain much material about the state that is broken down by race, such as population figures for all governmental districts down to towns and supervisor's districts. These may be obtained from the U. S. Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

2. The 1961 Civil Rights Commission's Report contains invaluable information on the areas of discrimination in voting, education, housing, employment, and justice. Write the U. S. Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

3. The Mississippi Blue Book contains much good information about the state. It is published every four years and lists, among other things, all officials elected at the 1959 state-wide general election. It may be purchased from the office of the Mississippi Secretary of State.

4. The Digest of Election Laws of Mississippi is a small, green pamphlet of 32 pages that is the most useful of all resource materials. It may be had free at the office of the Mississippi Secretary of State.

5. Volumes 1, 2, 3, and 3A of the Mississippi Code of 1942, Recompiled, are, together with the Mississippi Supreme Court Reports, the final authority as to the state law concerning Mississippi politics. Every Mississippi lawyer has sets of these volumes.

Some Statistical Facts

1. Mississippi's population of 2,178,141 is 42.3% Negro. 748,266 are white persons 21 or over; 422,256 are Negro 21 or over. Pp. 23, 29 and 30 of 1960 Census book, "General Characteristics of Population -- Mississippi."

2. Mississippi's county-by-county racial population breakdown is as follows:

Counties	Population All Persons		Counties	Population All Persons
	Number	Percent Non-White		Number	Percent Non-White
Adams	37,730	49.5	Leflore	47,142	64.6
Alcorn	25,282	13.2	Lincoln	26,759	31.2
Amite	15,573	54.2	Lowndes	46,639	38.1
Attala	21,335	44.7	Madison	32,904	71.8
Benton	7,723	46.7	Marion	23,293	33.9
Bolivar	54,464	67.8	Marshall	24,503	70.4
Calhoun	15,941	27.3	Monroe	33,953	35.4
Carroll	11,177	58.2	Montgomery	13,320	44.8
Chickasaw	16,891	38.5	Neshoba	20,927	28.2
Choctaw	8,423	29.9	Newton	19,517	33.6
Claiborne	10,845	76.0	Noxubee	16,826	71.9
Clarke	16,493	39.4	Oktibbeha	26,175	43.7
Clay	18,933	51.3	Panola	28,791	56.4
Coahoma	46,212	68.3	Pearl River	22,411	23.2
Copiah	27,051	52.0	Perry	8,745	27.6
Covington	13,637	34.8	Pike	35,063	43.9
De Soto	23,891	61.3	Pontotoc	17,939	19.1
Forrest	52,722	28.0	Prentiss	17,949	12.2
Franklin	9,286	40.9	Quitman	21,019	63.3
George	11,098	11.6	Rankin	34,322	37.3
Greene	8,366	23.0	Scott	21,187	38.3
Grenada	18,409	49.2	Sharkey	10,738	69.8
Hancock	14,039	16.1	Simpson	20,454	35.2
Harrison	119,489	16.1	Smith	14,303	22.7
Hinds	187,045	40.0	Stone	12,013	24.4
Holmes	27,096	72.0	Sunflower	45,750	67.8
Humphreys	19,093	69.8	Tallahatchie	24,081	64.4
Issaquena	3,576	67.1	Tate	18,138	57.6
Itawamba	15,080	5.8	Tippah	15,093	18.3
Jackson	55,522	19.6	Tishomingo	13,889	4.9
Jasper	16,909	50.3	Tunica	16,826	79.2
Jefferson	10,142	75.5	Union	18,904	17.5
Jefferson Davis	13,540	54.8	Walthall	13,512	45.1
Jones	59,542	25.9	Warren	42,206	46.8
Kemper	12,277	60.7	Washington	78,638	55.2
Lafayette	21,355	33.9	Wayne	16,258	35.7
Lamar	13,675	16.3	Webster	10,580	25.0
Lauderdale	67,119	35.0	Wilkinson	13,235	71.2
Lawrence	10,215	37.8	Winston	19,246	43.6
Leake	18,660	43.4	Yalobusha	12,502	44.3
Lee	40,589	25.3	Yazoo	31,653	59.4

3. Years of school completed by persons 25 years old and over, by color, for the state, 1960, in percent:

	None	1 to 4	5 and 6	7	8	9 to 11	12	13 to 15	16 or more
The state	3.8	15.0	12.1	6.9	13.7	18.7	17.3	6.9	5.6
White	1.2	5.9	7.6	5.6	14.4	23.0	24.6	9.9	7.7
Negro	8.4	31.3	20.2	9.1	12.4	11.1	4.2	1.6	1.8

Median income in 1959 of families, by color, for the state, urban and rural, 1960:

White				Negro
The State	Urban	Rural Nonfarm	Rural Farm	The State	Urban	Rural Nonfarm	Rural Farm
$4,209	5,493	3,719	2,610	1,444	2,100	1,271	974

1960 Census, "General Social and Economic Characteristics -- Mississippi," pp.118, 132.

4. Plumbing facilities of housing units with nonwhite household heads, for the state, 1960:

Subject	The State Total
All occupied units	207 611
Toilet facilities
Flush toilet, exclusive use	62 160
Flush toilet, shared	7 570
Other toilet facilities or none	137 881
Bathing facilities
Bathtub or shower, exclusive use	44 991
Bathtub or shower, shared	2 207
No bathtub or shower	160 413

1960 Census, "Housing - Mississippi," p. 13.

5. Personal Income, Per Capita, by States, 1959:

State	Per Capita (dollars) 1959
United States	2,166
New England	2,396
Maine	1,768
New Hampshire	2,010
Vermont	1,789
Massachusetts	2,444
Rhode Island	2,156
Connecticut	2,817
Middle Atlantic	2,543
New York	2,736
New Jersey	2,608
Pennsylvania	2,222
East North Central	2,337
Ohio	2,328
Indiana	2,102
Illinois	2,610
Michigan	2,253
Wisconsin	2,116
West North Central	1,978
Minnesota	1,962
Iowa	1,953
Missouri	2,145
North Dakota	1,526
South Dakota	1,476
Nebraska	1,981
Kansas	1,994
South Atlantic	1,804
Delaware	2,946
Maryland	2,343
District of Columbia	2,943
Virginia	1,816
West Virginia	1,635
North Carolina	1,485
South Carolina	1,332
Georgia	1,553
Florida	1,980
East South Central	1,424
Kentucky	1,514
Tennessee	1,521
Alabama	1,409
Mississippi	1,162
West South Central	1,764
Arkansas	1,322
Louisiana	1,575
Oklahoma	1,786
Texas	1,908

Personal Income, Per Capita, by States, 1959 (cont'd):

State	Per Capita (dollars) 1959
Mountain	1,994
Montana	1,955
Idaho	1,782
Wyoming	2,149
Colorado	2,123
New Mexico	1,833
Arizona	1,959
Utah	1,848
Nevada	2,745
Pacific	2,562
Washington	2,271
Oregon	2,171
California	2,661
Alaska	2,550
Hawaii	2,139

Statistical Abstract of the United States, 1961, p. 307.

6. The figures on pages 31 and 307 of the 1961 Statistical Abstract of the United States show that the average white citizen would still receive less yearly income per capita than the national average even if all of the state's total income were given only to its white citizens -- $2,010, as against the national average of $2,166.

PEOPLE TO CONTACT IN CASE YOU HAVE TROUBLE

YOU CAN CONTACT THESE PEOPLE IN MISSISSIPPI:

Rev. R. L. T. Smith
1072 Lynch Street
Jackson, Miss.
Phone at office, FL 5-7224
Phone at Home, FL 5-9766

Attorney William L. Higgs
951 Terrace Court
Jackson, Miss.
Phone 355-4028

Medgar Evers,
Field Sec. for NAACP
1072 Lynch Street
Jackson, Miss.
Phone at office FL 3-6906
Phone at home EM 6-9822

Attorney Jack Young
115½ N. Farish Street
Jackson, Miss.
Phone at office FL 2-7484
Phone at home FL 3-3478

Rev. Thomas Johnson
Civil Rights Advisory Comm.
Canton, Miss.
Phone at home 859-1125

Rev. Murray Cox
Chairman, Civil Rights Advisory Commission
Gulf Port, Miss.

Dr. Aaron Henry
Pres, Miss. NAACP
Clarksdale, Miss.

Mr. Samuel Bailey
Pres. Naacp Jackson, Branch
3223 Virginia Av.
Phone at home Fl 5-5233

You can contact these people out of Mississippi:

Department of Justice
Civil Rights Division
Attention: Mr. Burke Marshall
Washington, D.C.

United States Civil Rights Commission
Mr. John A. Hannah, Chairman
Washington, D.C.

American Civil Liberties Union
156 Fifth Avenue
New York, New York
Attention: Mr. Wulf

President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity
Washington 25, D.C.

Mt. Beulah Project
Miss.

WB

Highlander Center
1625 Riverside Dr.
Knoxville, Tennessee

CONFIDENTAL

MISSISSIPPI VOTER-EDUCATION REPORT BY BERNICE ROBINSON OF HIGHLANDER CENTER

The Highlander Research and Education Center conducted a Voter-Education workshop June 4-9 in Knoxville, Tennessee for staff members of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee and other student volunteers in preparation for a ninety-day voter registration campaign in the Deep South. Citizenship schools for functional illiterates, classes in registration procedures were planned, as well as a series of eight workshops for volunteers. Before leaving, each student drew up plans for action in his community.

During this workshop, a request was made by Bob Moses, Field Director of the Mississippi Voter-Registration Project, that Highlander provide my services to conduct workshops in Mississippi and to follow up on activities of the students working in that state who had attended the Highlander workshop. A similar request came from Charles Sherard and Charles Jones, Field Directors of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee Voter Registration project in Albany, Georgia.

On June 16, I went to Jackson, Mississippi and conducted a workshop similar to the one at Highlander at Tougaloo College for one week. As a result, fifteen students are now giving their free time to the Voter-Registration campaign in Jackson, which is being conducted under the Hinds Coordinated Voter's League, comprised of SNCC, CORE, NAACP, and the local Voter's Deague.

On June 24, I left Jackson and went to Cleveland Mississippi, where I recruited students from Ruleville, Bolling, and Marigold for the Adult Education workshop July 1-6 at the Mount Beulah Christian Center in Edwards, Mississippi, which was sponsored by the Mississippi Adult Education Committee comprised of representatives from SNCC, N AACP, the Director and a staff member of Mount Beulah, and local citizens. Six students from this area attended the workshop. In Cleveland and neighboring Ruleville, citizenship classes were being held to train adults in registration requirements.

On June 26 I visited Greenwood, Mississippi, where one of SNCC's students who attended Highlander's workshop is conducting a voter-registration and education project. I spoke at a meeting called by this young man, and we recruited eight students for the Mount Beulah workshop. However, fear prevented six of them from attending. I also spoke at a Masonic District meeting where two students signed applications to attend the workshop. These students were residing in Moorehead, Miss., but they had to go to Indianola to register, and Negroes are not allowed to register in that county. Therefore, they were afraid to attend the workshop and backed out at the last minute.

On June 27 I visited Clarksdale, Miss. where again, there is a coordinated group working on all fronts: conducting classes and voter-registration campaigns, organizing boycotts, and fighting court cases. Two students from this area attended the Mount Beulah workshop.

When I visited Greenville, Miss. on June 28, I found another SNCC student, a graduate of Jackson State College who plans to attend Meharry Medical School in September, doing a terrific job in voter-registration and education. He has followed through with the use of all the techniques discussed in our June 4-9 workshop at Highlander: setting up an office; holding voter-education classes; making notes of sections of the Constitution most frequently used in testing applicants and getting legal interpretation of them; keeping records of blocks canvassed, names of persons contacted, and the dates and hours that they would be ready to take registration tests; providing transportation and following through with telephone calls. As a result, he had registered six out of seven persons whom he had taken to the registration office. We recruited two students for the workshop at a meeting he held that evening.

I found another SNCC student who had attended Highlander's workshop beginning to recruit workers for door-to-door canvassing in a voter-registration campaign when I visited Vicksburg, Miss. on June 29. This young man needs a lot of help in this community, so two of the four students from Jackson who attended the workshop at Mount Beulah were assigned to work with him at Vicksburg.

The workshop at Mount Beulah was quite successful, and was significant because each student attending was already committed to work in the community from which he came. Two students from the Harvard Law School and a Political Education major from Brandeis (students brought to the South by Bill Higgs, a white Mississippi lawyer from Greenville, Miss. and a graduate of the Harvard Law School who has recently published a handbook of Mississippi politics) conducted morning classes on the relationships between National, State, and local governments. In the afternoon laboratory workshops, the participants used maps and census reports of their home counties to outline their voter-registration programs and held mock registration scenes to give each participant a chance to put his knowledge of voting and registration in Mississippi to use in practical situations. The morning classes and laboratory workshops, supplemented by evenings devoted to practical discussion of ways of starting voter-registration programs, succeeded in giving the workers an integrated picture of the problems they face.

The Miss. Adult Education Committee, realizing the need to train many more students to carry on this work, not only in the areas where work has begun, but also in other areas where no work is being done, is planning a series of similar workshops. Highlander will be rendering the service of staff members for all of them, and a CORE representative on the board of the Miss. Adult Education Committee has requested my services for a workshop in Baton Rouge, Louisiana July 22-27.

I would like to propose to Highlander Center that we give some thought to conducting a workshop in Knoxville, Tennessee on "The Techniques of Conducting a Voter-Registration Workshop" to instruct leaders from the various communities in Mississippi on how to conduct workshops of this kind.

This proposal grew out of my experiences in traveling around the Mississippi Delta. Several people with whom I talked were interested in attending the workshop at Mount Beulah, but fear of reprisals and intimidations inhibited them. This fear is real, not imaginary. In Ruleville, Negroes must be off the street by the 12 p.m. curfew, or be arrested and held in jail until a fine is paid. In Greenwood, a Negro woman went to register, but the registrar told her to leave her name and address, and she would be called and told when to come back. However, a white couple living near her came to her house the next morning and told her that they would burn her house if she went back to register.

When Bill Higgs drove three students attending a special session at Tougaloo College to nearby Clarksdale for a meeting, all four were arrested. Mr. Higgs and the three Coke College students, one of whom was a Negro girl, were held incommunicado for over twenty hours.

While we were preparing for the Mount Beulah workshop, we had several conferences, both in Edwards and Jackson. As a result, the Sherriff and members of the White Citizens Council in Edwards had the Director of Mount Beulah in a four-hour conference to tell them the names of everyone participating in the program. They showed him pictures of Myles Horton, Bill Higgs, and others, taken while these individuals drove through Edwards, telling him that Myles was Director of "That Communist Highlander Center," and that he shouldn't be connected with it.

The night we opened the workshop, I was told to "soft-pedal" my connections with Highlander, and all the white people were sent away from our first night session because threats had been made to blow up the meeting place. Rev. T. K. Smith and Bill Higgs, who had both been Senatorial candidates from the 2nd Congressional District two years previously, were accused of using these workshops to set up political machines.

With so many fear tactics being used in the state, I feel that only a handful of Negroes would risk attending workshops too far away from home. Therefore, if the militant leaders who are now working could come to Knoxville, Tennessee and be trained in the techniques of conducting workshops on voter-education, they could return to their communities and hold workshops where the people are. If more Negroes are fully informed of their rights as citizens, I believe that most of their fears would vanish.

Submitted by Bernice V. Robinson
Bernice V. Robinson
July 19, 1962

Mississippi In Brief– Welfare Commissioner 3-26-63 p-1

Welfare Commissioner Cites Report On Illegitimate Births

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Welfare Commissioner Fred Ross said records showed today 434 illegitimate children were born in home of families receiving aid to dependent children in January and February.

Of the number, Ross said, 410 were Negroes and 24 were whites.

The commissioner noted Monday 77 per cent of the total receiving aid to dependent children are Negroes and 22 per cent whites.

Ross said the incidence of illegitimacy does not occur any more often in families receiving aid than in the population generally.

Additionally, Ross said, 95 cases of unsuitable homes were reported to the courts last month, with five of the homes involving whites and 90 involving Negroes.

* * *

Crash Kills Two

Jackson Clarion-Ledger 3-27-66

Food Fraud

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP) — Three Bolivar County Negroes are under sentence today for illegally obtaining free government food.

They were identified by County Atty. Frank Wynne of Merigold as Lonnie Bolden, Cliff Gillespie, both of Guinnison, and George E. Robinson of Rosedale.

The trio received 90-day sentences.

Wynne said the three failed to report all their earnings in a statement given to Welfare Department officials.

Wynne said there may be more charges involving fraud in the commodity program.

✣ ✣ ✣

Faulkner Ill

Charges Dismissed

7-8-63

GULFPORT, Miss. AP)—Manslaughter charges have been dismissed against Elbert J. Sims, 22-year-old Negro whose car struck and fatally injured Bidwell Adam Jr., 41, son of Mississippi's State Democratic chairman.

A special hearing was conducted in the matter Saturday at the request of the Adam family, which asked that the case not be prosecuted and said evidence and testimony of witnesses indicated there was no culpable negligence on the part of Sims.

The younger Adam died last Tuesday after being struck by a car when he got off a bus in a rainstorm.

His father, a Gulfport attorney and onetime lieutenant governor, said at the hearing he could not "as either a man or a lawyer see any degree of culpable negligence." He added quietly, "I think it was an unfortunate tragedy."

He said Sims and members of his family had shown "concern and consideration' for the Adam family.

Miss Flatemide

Jackson Daily
7-9-63
UEP

Appeal Court Takes Case Of Registrar

New Orleans, July 8 (AP).—The federal Appeals Court here took under consideration today contempt action against Mississippi Voter Registrar Theron C. Lynd.

The federal government contneds that Lynd defied a Court order prohibiting racial discrimination against Negro voter applicants in Forrest County in southern Mississippi.

Lynd is accused of both civil and criminal contempt.

Lynd's attorneys asked a special three-judge panel of the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to postpone judgment until the United States Supreme Court ruled on whether a defendant in such a case is entitled to a jury trial.

The case now before the Supreme Court involves Mississippi Governor Ross R. Barnett, who was cited for civil and criminal contempt for his part in the federal-state struggle over desegregation of the University of Mississippi last fall.

If the Appeals Court decides to pass judgment without waiting for the Supreme Court decision, Lynd's attorneys asked for a heavy punishment—at least 90 days in jail and a $300 fine. Any lesser punishment could not be appealed.

Miss Statewide

Greenwood Commonwealth 7-10-63

Churches Stop Funds For Council

Martin Luther King, Church Ministers Leave Clarksdale

Miss Statewide

CLARKDALE, Miss. (AP) — This Delta city was quiet today with a court ordered lid clamped tight on planned racial demonstrations.

Dr. Martin Luther King, a Negro civil rights leader, spoke at a rally last night but left for Memphis soon afterward to catch an early morning plane.

Five white ministers, representing the National Council of Churches, also left. They were invited here by Negro leaders to help in an effort to set up a biracial committee that would try to ease racial problems.

King, in a speech at a rally last night, cautioned Negroes to keep violence out of their desegregation campaign. He said Negroes couldn't win a battle of violence. Their major weapon, he said, should be the vote.

One of the white ministers, the Rev. A. Dudley Ward of Washington, associate general secretary of the Methodist Board of Christian Social Concerns, gave newsmen a copy of a letter he said he sent to Clarksdale Mayor W. S. Kincade.

In the letter, the ministers came to Clarksdale 'to express the concern of national church leaders for all the people of this community, both Negro and white, in the present situation of racial misunderstanding."

The National Council of Churches, he said, "is committed to active identification in every possible way with those responsible elements of the Negro community who are using non-violent demonstrations and other means of protesting gross injustice."

The ministers told the mayor they believe the "white community on the whole does not appear to understand and accept the depth of Negro feelings over daily and repeated indignities."

The city of Clarksdale had a state court order for a temporary injunction against demonstrations. The chancery court order banned street parades, trespassing on private property and organized boycotts. There have been no defense motions filed and there was no indication when a hearing might be held to show cause why the temporary injunction should not be made permanent.

In Batesville, the stewardship and finance committee of the St. Andrew's Presbytery Presbyterian churches in north Mississippi cut off financial support to the National Council of Churches.

Dr. J. P. F. Stevenson, committee member, said "I am sorry that this organization the council which represents our own denomination has entered the picture on one side without consulting the other."

The council representatives came to Clarksdale at the request of the NAACP, but were rebuffed by ministers and lay representatives of Clarksdale's white churches.

Meanwhile, integration leaders said they were reluctant to stage demonstrations here because, in a case from Jackson, the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans affirmed a state court ban against parading without a permit in Jackson. The city of Jackson had argued that demonstrations could lead to violence and bloodshed.

Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said King, who heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Atlanta, "did not come here to organize demonstrations.

"We intended to have 100 demonstrators in jail by the time he got here," Henry said, "but now we reluctantly delay going to the streets, but we may wind up with 300 to 500 demonstrators in jail."

Clarksdale, population 21,000, is about equally divided among whites and Negroes.

King told the mass meeting of about 400 Negroes, in a Negro Methodist church, that the approach must be non-violent, that if the Negro resorts to weapons, he will be beaten before he starts because the opponents have the weapons. He urged his listeners to work hard at whatever they are doing, to register to vote, an to vote 'because even Senator Eastland (Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss.) respects the ballot."

The Rev. A. Dudley Ward of Washington said integration demonstrations had the support of the National Council of Churches. He headed five white ministers who came here at the invitation of local Negro leaders. The others were the Rev. A. Dale Fiers of Indianapolis, the Rev. Eugene L. Smith of New York, the Rev. Arthur E. Walmsley of New York and the Rev. Grover C. Bagby of Washington.

Negro Mock Vote Goes To Coleman

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Negroes who were not allowed to vote in the real election gave J. P. Coleman an overwhelming edge in their mock balloting on the governor's race.

Negro leaders said the mock election, staged in churches and other centers across the state, aimed at highlighting the political impotency forced on Negroes.

Charles Evers, Jackson, state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said an incomplete tabulation of the mock ballots showed:

Coleman 26,721.
Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson 949.

"We feel this election is a success due to many hardships the Negro is confronted with trying to register to vote," said Evers.

"For over 27,000 to come out to register a protest vote lets the world know the Negro in Mississippi is not satisfied and never has been," he added.

Those eligible to vote in the mock election were Negroes who were not registered or who did not have the two poll tax receipts necessary to qualify them in the real Democratic primary.

The results were not released until the primary election polls closed. "We didn't want it said we interfered with the official vote," said Evers.

Ballots were distributed last Sunday in Jackson, Clarksdale, Canton, Greenwood, Greenville, Leland, Belzoni, Ruleville, Mound Bayou, Pascagoula, Biloxi, Gulfport, Hattiesburg, Laurel, Vicksburg, Meridian, Columbus, Moss Point and Newton.

The mock election took the place of the "vote in" attempts that marked the first Democratic primary, held Aug. 6.

The "vote ins" were ruled illegal by the state attorney general.

Pittsburgh Courier 8-28 pg 3

Pick
Miss.
Voting General

Greenwood Commonwealth 10-12-63

Henry To Speak

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The "Henry for Governor" campaign headquarters said Friday that Negro druggist Aaron Henry of Clarksdale has won permission to speak from the Washington County courthouse next Thursday.

Henry said it was the first time a Negro had won such permission from the sheriff.

* * *

Yale Students To 'Campaign' For Henry

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—At least 30 Yale University students have volunteered to spend part of the next two weeks in Mississippi campaigning for a Negro candidate for governor in a mock election.

Allard K. Lowenstein, a former Yale law school student who made the announcement today, said the first group plans to arrive in Jackson Sunday.

He told the volunteers at a meeting Wednesday night their help was being sought by Aaron Henry, the Negro candidate for governor.

Lowenstein said the purpose of the mock election was to show that Negroes will vote if given an opportunity. The protest election is set for Nov. 3, two days before the official election. The ballot boxes will be distributed in churches and other places, said Lowenstein.

Tim Jenkins, a third year law school student, said that "no change can come within Mississippi from its own accord." He said a mock election has been set up to demonstrate "the fact that it is only in a mock election that the Negro in Mississippi can vote, and we are hoping to have some 200,000 Negroes throughout the state vote in the election."

Lowenstein said students will be canvassing Negro residential areas throughout the state.

Greenwood Commonwealth 10-17-63

Park

Miss. Dist. General

Afro-Amer. 2-1-64

Vote registrars swamped as 38th state knifes poll taxes

WASHINGTON

Mississippi registrars last week were swamped with colored applicants seeking the ballot as the poll tax was outlawed as a condition for voting in elections for Federal office.

The long fight against the poll tax ended last Thursday as South Dakota became the 38th state to ratify the 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The only technicality standing in the way of official recognition of the anti - poll tax amendment is formal certification by the General Services Administration.

No further legal action is required.

* * *

THE FULL impact of repealing the poll tax law, however, is yet to come as Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia are holding on to the bitter end.

Even before ratification, Virginia passed a law requiring payment of $1.50 poll tax to be eligible to vote in a state election.

In addition, Virginia threw in voter eligibility requirements calling for the filing of a "certificate of residence" six months before Federal election.

The "kicker" in the $1.50 fee is that a cumulative feature requires delinquents to pay back poll taxes and penalties covering a maximum of three years in order to register.

* * *

THE OUTLAWING of the poll tax has also caused Alabama to begin thinking of ways to thwart the law.

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers so far has come up with the possibility of holding to elections — one for state and another for Federal.

Separate election would be "terrifically confusing," he said, admitting that the best solution to Alabama's election problems would be a special session of the legislature.

A special session would be required to repeal the poll tax in the state, which yields about $300,000 a year.

Another reason Flowers favors a special session would be to give legislators a chance to deal with Congressional redistricting.

* * *

OUTLAWING of the poll tax was hailed by President Johnson as a "forward step of a modern society" and the "verification of people's rights."

W. Lester Banks, executive secretary of the Virginia State NAACP Conference, extended congratulations to "the legislature of South Dakota and the lawmakers of the other 37 states whose affirmative actions assured ratification of the 24th Amendment."

But he noted "it is perhaps too much to wish that our Virginia General Assembly, now in session, would follow the progressive pattern and also ratify the long overdue amendment."

The NAACP, he added, nevertheless "will continue to press vigorously for the abolition of the pool tax in all elections.

* * *

SECTION 1 of the 24th Amendment reads:

"The rights of citizens of the United States to vote in any primary or other election for President of Vice President, or for Senator or Representative in Congress, shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state by reason to pay any poll tax or other tax."

Section 2 states:

"The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

* * *

A MASS voter-registration drive was launched at Hattiesburg, Miss., last week as a long line of applicants stood in the rain waiting to be "tested" in the court house.

Some 48 northern ministers from eight cities are in the forefront of the campaign in the southeastern Mississippi town where only 53 of the 7,000 eligible colored residents are on the voting rolls.

Some 48 Northern minisistered by Theron Lynd, in order to purge himself of a Fifth U.S. Ciruit Court of Appeals conviction of civil and criminal contempt for violating an anti-discrimination injunction.

Lynd, the first Southern voter registrar convicted of violating the Federal Civil Rights Act, had been enjoined from barring the vote to colored applicants.

* * *

ON THE first day of the drive some 37 colored applicants had taken the literacy test. They will be notified within 30 days whether they passed or failed.

As the ministers paraded back and forth, picketing the courthouse, helmeted police from the riot squad kept them under close surveillance.

Among the ministers picketing the courthouse was the Rev. Robert L. Pierson of White Plains, N.Y., son-in - law of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

* * *

ONE OF THE most interesting developments, however, resulted from the arrest of Robert Moses of New York, SNCC field secretary.

Arrested for failure to obey a policeman, the 28 - year-old freedom fighter's trial resulted in desegregated seating at Hattiesburg courthouse despite the pleas of Judge Mildred Morris.

"This rule has been our way of life for 100 years," the judge pleaded with 50 freedom fighters. "We ask you to observe it."

When it became apparent the freedom fighters would accept nothing but desegregation, the judge decided "as a courtesy we will waive this rule."

* * *

IN ANOTHER surprise, after Moses was convicted and sentenced to 60 days in jail, Judge Morris suspended sentence upon the request of Prosecutor Francis Zachary.

James Forman, SNCC executive secretary, was threatened with arrest when he demanded that applicants be allowed to wait in the courthouse out of the rain.

In refusing the demand, Sheriff W. C. Grey said it might interfere with office routine if too many were allowed in the courthouse at the same time.

* * *

MEANWHILE, a Leflore County jury convicted 12 of 45 appealing sentences growing out of their arrests at Itta Bena last June while attempting to register to vote.

The 12 were convicted of breach of peace on charges by the sheriff's office that they threw bottles and brick as they approached the home of H. F. Weber, deputy sheriff and town marshal.

Witnesses said, however, they were fleeing to the deputy's home to seek protection after the church had been tear gassed.

Poll Tax

Greenwood Commonwealth 2/19/64

Letters To The Editor

It certainly seems ridiculous to me that a Caucasian who was born in the extreme southern part of the United States, has been educated under the southern school sysem and is within a few semester hours of having her Bachelor of Science degree should be required to degrade herself by taking an intelligence test for the privilege of voting in the "GRAND AND GLORIOUS STATE OF MISSISSIPPI".

Everyday it appears to me more and more that this "GLORIOUS STATE OF MISSISSIPPI" is the most backward state in the union. Of course, when we have simpletons and crackpots for political leaders we can't help but be classified with the neolithic culture of primative man.

There also comes to my mind the fact that it is clearly stated in the 15th and 19th Amendments to the Constitution that anyone who has been born within the boundries of the United States or its territories, has reached the legal age of 21, (18) in Georgia), and has had no imprisonment for a 12 month period or more, as a citizen of the United States, (excluding Mississippi), is entitled to the privilege of voting. But no not in Mississippi! Here we must take an intelligence test and they buy permission to vote, as if this wonderful privilege came from the "GREAT WHITE REBEL" himself.

Actually, it is my opinion that Mississippi is defeating her purpose with this law, which we all know was made to keep the Negro away from the polls, now that the NAACP, CORE and SNCC are holding information classes to familiarize the Negro with the intelligence test and are furnishing the currency for their poll tax. Isn't it logical then if we did not have these laws, there would be less occasion for the influence these organizations are exerting over the Negroes and the covetousness they are aggravating among them?

As a born white southerner, I am perfectly aversed to and humiliated by the fact that I must be lowered to the standards of a first grader after 15½ years of primary, secondary, and collegiate schooling, and compelled to prove that I can read and write in order to vote. After all if I were a male and 18 years of age, whether intelligent or ignorant, simply by living in the State of Mississippi and being without political connections, I could be selected for compulsary military service.

If it were not for the fact that a most important and critical presidential election is forthcoming in the near future, I would not submit myself to the unjust and idiotic customs of the State of Mississippi, in order to exercise my born privilege and duty to vote my convictions as a citizen of the United States of America.

E.B.C.
Greenwood, Miss.

The Constitution also empowers the states to make reasonable rules for qualifying the electrorate inside their borders. That word "reasonable" is the one which may be flug back at us by the civil Rights bill. Southern senators who will attempt to filibuster the bill to death agree that the voting provisions make their cause "vulnerable." ....

Ed.

Miss Hatcinde

Natchez Undertaker Says KKK Stripped, Beat Him

At L. World
2-22-64

NATCHEZ, Miss — An elderly Negro man who was stripped and beaten by hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan late Saturday night, February 15, has received further threats on his life, according to reports.

Archie Curtis, 60, a Natchez undertaker, said he was lured to a deserted section of the city by an unidentified caller who told him a woman was dying of a heart attack.

Curtis was given directions to a deserted road and was told a man "with a lantern" would guide him to the stricken women's home.

When the undertaker — who also operates an ambulance service — arrived at the road, he and his companion were ordered at pistol point to leave their car.

They were blindfolded and taken to Duck Pond Road where they were asked to show their NAACP membership cards and NAACP membership lists. They had neither. The Klan members told Curtis he was "a NAACP n——r."

Both men said they were forced to strip and beaten with a strap.

Robert Moses, head of Mississippi voter registration for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and Director of the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), protested the beatings in a telegram to Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Moses said Curtis' beating was the fourth in the past ten days. A Negro was forced to strip and was soaked in motor oil before being beaten in nearby Amite County, scene of the fatal shooting of Louis Allen on February 1, Moses said. Another Negro was shot and killed in Tallatchie County by policemen on February 13.

Miss. Statewide

the state ...

CORE Pledges Voting March In Mississippi

Atl. Const. 2-22-64

NEW YORK (UPI) — A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said Friday that next Friday has been set for a massive registration demonstration by Negroes in Canton, Miss.

Miss. Statewide

11 Still Held In Canton Jail

Atl. World 2-23-64

CANTON, MISSISSIPPI — Two civil rights workers who were jailed here February 7 on a charge of "conspiracy to intimidate a family" are still in jail under six months sentence and $500 fine.

Appeal bond for the two —Claude Weaver, 20, a Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) worker, and Ed Hollander, 23, of the Congress of Racial Equality — was set at $500 each, property or surety.

Miss. Statewide

Greenwood Leflore's Grave Hit By Vandals

By THATCHER WALT

Greenwood Leflore's 99- year-old grave at Malmaison has been opened.

Two boy scouts discovered this weekend that vandals or graverobbers had tampered with and probably dug up the burial place of the storied "Choctaw Chief" who gave this city and county their names.

Leflore's grave is in the family burial place at 'Malmaison" in Carroll County. It lies some 100 yards from the mansion Leflore built in the rolling Carroll hills overlooking his acreage which extended at one time from inside Carroll County to almost the city of Greenwood. The house burned to the ground in 1942 and only fireplace foundations and scattered bricks remain in the tree-grown home sight.

The two story house contained eight bedrooms in its main section, and a huge state dining room where Leflore entertained, among other features. At the time it was burned, Leflore's descendants were living in the mansion.

Boy scouts Bill Hony and Don Woods found the grave of Leflore, who reputedly owned 1,000 slaves before the Civil War, had been tampered with when they visited the cemetery on a camping trip last weekend. They notified Scoutmaster Charles "Chuck" Stern, who also inspected the grave.

The scout officials notified B. T. Terry, a great grandson of Leflore who lives at 613 River Road. Heavy rains at the first of the week prevented a family inspection, however.

Yesterday Terry, Stern, and young Hony returned to the grave. Despite the heavy rains, earth from the grave had obviously been removed and placed back in it. A five- foot area around the plot, which Leflore's body shares with that of his third wife, Priscilla, had been cleared of undergrowth so that the digging could take place. Every other plot in the cemetery was completely grown over and undisturbed.

"They definitely dug into it," Terry said, "how far I don't know, but I'd guess they went all the way."

By Contrast

Contrasting the disturbed condition of Leflore's grave is this plot which is the final resting place of James Clark Harris and his wife, Rebecca Leflore Harris, which is the newest in the cemetery at Malmaison. Mr. Harris died in 1906. Mrs. Harris, who was Leflore's daughter ,died in 1922. It, as well as all the other graves is grown over and untouched.

He said he would notify the Carroll County Sheriff's office but didn't know what could be done. A lawyer said today that officials had the authority under law to conduct an investigation of the incident, including opening the grave to see if anything was taken. The land which contains the mansion site and the cemetery is no longer in Leflore family hands. It was sold recently to a Tallahatchie County man.

Until his retirement, Terry kept the cemetery cleared off and cut over, but for the past several years it hasn't been cared for.

Leflore's grave has been the subject of stories in this area for years. There has been speculation that the grave may contain treasure of some kind.

Terry, however, said that he knew of nothing of value that might have been buried with his great grandfather, with the possible exception of some personal jewelry.

Leflore came to this area before the Civil War and first settled at Leflore Landing at the confluence of the rivers. Later he moved to Malmaison site.

He was the son of a French Canadian trader at French Camp on the Natchez Trace who married a half Choctaw woman. A traveller friend of his father's took young Greenwood to Nashville, Tenn. to educate him and the boy returned to Mississippi to become one of its leading citizens. He was once a member of the state legislature.

He died in 1865. His gravestone reads that he was the "last great chief of the Choctaw Nation east of the Mississipi."

The only reference to Leflore's burial that could be found today is contained in a book by Rlorence Rebecca Ray, a great granddaughter. She wrote that his body was wrapped in the American flag "he revered" at the time of his burial in the year the Civil War ended.

where the casket was originally lowered is depressed about six inches indicating that it has been dug out and refilled. From the condition of the earth, the digging took place within the last few weeks.

Press Scimitar

Greenwood Commonwealth 3/4/4 HS

Newly Dug Grave

This picture, taken after two days of rain, shows the cleanliness and depression of Greenwood Leflore's grave at Malmaison. The earth outlining where the casket was originally lowered is depressed about six inches indicating that it has been dug out and refilled. From the condition of the earth, the digging took place within the last few weeks.

Ithaca Statesman

Greenwood Commonwealth

State Vote Laws Upheld By Court

3/13/65

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's controversial voting laws have been found constitutional in a 2-1 decision by a three-judge federal court panel.

The ruling came in a suit by the Justice Department which said the laws were shaped with the intent of barring Negroes from voting. The suit was dismissed.

The laws specify a voter must be of good moral character and able to read, write and interpret the state constitution to the satisfaction of the registrar.

"No provisions of the (state) constitution or a statute of Mississippi . . . deprives any citizen of the right to vote because of race or color," the majority opinion said Friday.

The majority was comprised of District Judge Harold Cox of Jackson, Miss., and Judge Ben Cameron of Meridian, Miss., a member of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Cameron recently accused the 5th Circuit's chief judge of packing three-judge panels with judges who favor civil rights.

Judge John R. Brown of Houston, Tex., a member of the 5th Circuit, was the dissenter. No dissenting written opinion was issued.

The majority ruling said it was not saying that bad administration of the laws could not give rise to suits to prevent bad administration.

However, the opinion added, "Administration cannot change the constitutional status of the law on its face."

The Mississippi voter registration laws do discriminate, the majority said, "but in a way that is nowise unconstitutional."

"The law bars those of bad moral character of every race from becoming voters," the opinion said.

The suit was called "a massive scatter-gun attack against the many important provisions of Mississippi's constitution and statutes.'

Among other things, the suit noted that in six counties specified the number of white voters far outstripped the Negroes on a percentage basis.

Using that logic, said the majority, "race discrimination must be most flagrant in the states of the northern and midwestern portion of the nation because few, if any, Negroes can be found there.'

Among the six counties named in the suit was Leflore, with Mrs. Martha Lamb, circuit clerk, named as a defendant.

Greenwood attorney Hardy Lott was one of the lawyers engaged in defending the state laws as Mrs. Lamb's attorney.

✣ ✣ ✣

Deposition Date May Be Cancelled

A number of Leflore County residents had been summoned to the courthouse Wednesday, March 11, in order for Justice Department attorneys to take depositions to be used in the vote-law case, which was decided by a three-judge panel yesterday.

Since the decision has been handed down, local sources said today ,it won't be necessary for them to appear.

This was confirmed by sources in Jackson this morning

✣ ✣ ✣

Mississippi In Brief —

Arguments Begin In Canton Vote Suit In U. S. Court

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Federal court arguments begin today on a Justice Department suit to speed up the handling of Negro applicants for voter registration.

The department wants the Madison County registrar to let Negroes take the registration tests six at a time instead of one at a time.

The suit also asks that Registrar Foote Campbell be required to show cause why the registrar should not be restrained from applying tougher requirements for Negro applicants than for whites.

A Negro registration drive in nearby Canton, which had police standing guard around the courthouse in full riot regalia, sparked the suit.

The government said more than 5,000 of Madison County's 5,662 eligible white residents are registered as voters while 152 of the 10,366 Negroes are registered.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ministers Appeal

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)— Nine ministers convicted of disorderly conduct for taking part in a civil rights demonstration [illegible] up for their county court [illegible]al next week.

[illegible]mes Dukes, Forrest County [illegible]osecutor, said he had been informed that all none of the clergymen will be on hand Monday. Each man has been free under a $750 bond.

They were arrested by police who accused them of "refusing to obey lawful orders' while taking part in picketing at the county courthouse in connection with a Negro voter registration campaign.

Appealing their cases were: Emil H. Hattoon, Decatur, Ill.; Ralh John, Garfield, N.J.; Donald Register, St. Louis, the only Negro defendant; Ronald S. James, Otisville, N.Y.; K. Stephen Parmelee, Roosevelt, N.Y.; Charles Yerkes and Robert F. Nicol, both of New York City; Donald P. Scott and Charles Nelson, both of Hollis, N.Y.

✣ ✣ ✣

Miss Statesville

Judges Uphold Mississippi's Voting Laws

Atl. Const 3-8-64

JACKSON, Miss., March 7 (AP). Mississippi's controversial voting laws have been found constitutional in a 2-1 decision by a three-judge federal court panel.

The ruling came in a suit by the Justice Department which said the laws were shaped with the intent of barring Negroes from voting. The suit was dismissed.

The laws specify a voter must be of good moral character and able to read, write and interpret the state constitution to the satisfaction of the registrar.

"No provisions of the (state) constitution or a statute of Mississippi . . . deprives any citizen of the right to vote because of race or color," the majority opinion said.

THE MAJORITY was comprised of District Judge Harold Cox of Jackson, and Judge Ben Cameron of Meridian, Miss., member of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Cameron recently accused the 5th Circuit's chief judge of packing three - judge panels with judges who favor civil rights.

Judge John R. Brown of Houston, Tex., a member of the 5th Circuit, was the dissenter. No dissenting written opinion was issued.

The majority ruling said it was not saying that bad administration of the laws could not give rise to suits to prevent bad administration.

However, the opinion added, "Administration cannot change the constitutional status of the law on its face."

The Mississippi voter registration laws do discriminate, the majority said, "but in a way that is nowise unconstitutional."

THE SUIT was called "a massive scatter-gun attack against the many important provisions of Mississippi's constitution and statutes."

Among other things, the suit noted that in six counties specified the number of white voters far outstripped the Negroes on a percentage basis.

Using that logic, said the majority, "race discrimination must be most flagrant in the states of the northern and midwestern portion of the nation because few, if any, Negroes can be found there."

Miss. Statewide

Suit Filed Against Mississippi Vote Bias

A+1 World 3-13-64

WASHINGTON — Negroes seeking to register to vote in Madison County, Mississippi, have been discriminatorily delayed, discouraged and denied, the Department of Justice said Thursday in a civil voting suit filed in United States District Court in Jackson, Mississippi.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy said the complaint asked the court to forbid the continuation of discriminatory registration and voting practices.

Mr. Kennedy said the complaint was filed only after the Department was unable to resolve the problems of delay and discrimination in consultations with local officials.

The complaint, filed under the Civil Rights Acts of 1957 and 1960, named L. F. Campbell, county registrar and circuit court clerk, and the State of Mississippi as defendants.

152 NEGROES REGISTERED

There are approximately 10,366 adult Negroes in Madison County, of whom about 152 are registered, according to the complaint. Meanwhile, more than 5,000 of the 5,622 adult whites are registered.

Negroes in the county, the complaint asserted ,have been subjected to unreasonable delay in the recepit and processing of their registration applications.

Affidavits of a Department attorney and Negro applicants, filed with the complaint, said Campbell has processed Negroes only on a one-at-a time basis. As a result, the affidavits said, several hundred Negroes stood in line to apply last Friday and Saturday, but only seven were processed.

In the past, Campbell has not applied the same one-at-a time requirement to white applicants and has registered as many as 49 whites per day, the affidavit said.

The complaint also asserted that Negro applicants have been forced to meet more stringent standards than white applicants and have been discouraged from attempting to register, denied registration, and rejected though qualified, the complaint said.

The complaint asked for court orders enjoining the registrar from continuing any of the assertedly discriminatory practices.

Miss Statewide

Ark Gaz.
3/16/64

Extensive Push For Rights Set In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. — The most extensive program of Negro education and political action seen in the South was outlined Sunday for Mississippi by civil rights organizations.

Plans for the "Mississippi Freedom Summer" call for a saturation effort by 2,000 full-time workers, including 1,000 white and Negro college students from the North and South.

Detailed proposals for the campaign were approved at a one-day conference of the Council of Federated Organizations in the Masonic building.

The Council has been pressing a voter registration drive in Mississippi since 1962. It is made up of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee, the Congress of Racial Equality and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The Freedom Summer program will be headed by Robert P. Moses, a SNCC field secretary who will be the project director, and David Dennis, a CORE field representative, who will be assistant project director. It provides for the following:

★ Freedom schools that will offer intensive instruction in a broad curriculum ranging from remedial reading to political science.

★ Community centers that will provide job retraining, instruction in prenatal care, nutrition and other health problems, recreation facilities, art and craft classes and drama groups, organized sports and folk festivals.

★ A "freedom registration" designed to place 400,000 Negroes on mock voter lists and thus demonstrate their desire to obtain the franchise.

★ A "freedom election" to be held during the regular Mississippi Democratic primary June 2.

★ Campaigns supporting two Negro "freedom party" congressional candidates.

★ Challenges on the floor of the House of Representatives to the right of Mississippi's white congressmen to hold their seats on the ground that many Negroes are denied the franchise.

Miss. Statewide

Justice Department Suit Hits Miss. Prosecutions

Miss - Legal (File

State prosecution of two Negroes from Clarke County, Mississippi should be forbidden as both unconstitutional and unlawful, the Department of Justice said Friday in a civil suit filed in United States District Court in Jackson, Miss.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy said the complaint asserted that both the prosecution and the state false statement statues under which it was brought are designed to illegally intimidate and discourage Negroes in Clarke County from seeking to vote.

Named as a defendant was George D. Warner, Jr., district attorney of Mississippi's tenth judicial district, which includes Clarke County.

The complaint filed Friday stems from a voting suit involving Clarke County filed by the Department in July, 1961. The case was tried before United States District Judge Harold Cox in December, 1962.

DISCRIMINATION RULED

Judge Cox ruled that the county registrar had discriminated against Negro applicants but asked the Department to look into possible perjury by two Negro witnesses, Andrew Kendrick, Jr., and William Goff.

The complaint said the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice then investigated the matter and concluded that the facts did not establish a violation of federal law .

On October 13, 1963, however, the attorney who represented the registrar in the voting suit filed affidavits charging Kendrick and Goff with perjury. They were arrested and subsequently indicted for violating Mississippi state statutes which forbid making false statements to federal civil rights authorities. The two men are now free on bond.

The statutes, sections 2155.4, 2155.5 and 2155.6 of the Mississippi code, were passed in May, 1960, at the time of the enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1960. Mr. Kennedy said the complaint filed asked that a three-judge court be convened to declare these statutes unconstitutional.

The statutes make it unlawful in Mississippi to make false statements to any representatives of any branch of the federal government and specifically any representative of the FBI or the Civil Rights Commission. "It shal lnot be necessary to prove .... under this act that the oath or matter sworn to was material," one of the statutes says.

U. S. PERSONALITY

Dealing with offenses related to the administration of justice in federal courts, however, is a federal responsibility, the complaint said. By prosecuting the two Negroes on the false statement charges, Warner is attempting to exercise authority which can be exercised solely by the United States, the complaint said.

The state statutes also are unlawful, the complaint asserted, because their purpose and effect is to intimidate, threaten and coerce potential Negro voters, in violation of the Civil Rights Acts of 1957 and 1960.

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)

Mr. Kennedy said the complaint also asked the federal court to forbid further prosecution of Kendrick and Goff or any Negro citizen of Clarke County for the purpose of interfering with his right to register and vote.

Atl. Jrnl, 3/22/64, p. 1.

RALPH McGILL

Atl. Const.

3/25/64

A Student Asks Of Mississippi

In any country with a representative form of government the right to vote is fundamental. Without it, all other rights are eroded and, finally, lost. With it, the demagogue and tyrant alike are confounded. The ballot brings all other rights within reach.

This is the prelude to a letter from a young man in Mississippi who last year was a freshman at the University of Mississippi. He was spiritually bruised by his experience. The departure of more than 50 members of the faculty and the police-state atmosphere, insofar as academic freedom was, and is, concerned, shook him.

"A number of us had hoped," he wrote, "that when Governor Barnett departed there would be improvement in the capitol and that a Mississippian could begin to hope and hold up his head. In our (student) talks we all agreed that Mississippi could make a beginning in voting rights. There is no social mixing in a voting booth. Here, we believed, the new governor could take a stand. He could say to the people that the state would protect and facilitate the right to register and vote. The more optimistic among us felt the new governor might urge that all qualified persons be sure to register. This, it seemed to us, was a small thing for a governor to do.

Helmeted Police

"But," said the letter, "there has been no such response. There has been a silence at the State Capitol. Meanwhile, the mayor of Jackson has notified the state and the nation that he will regard even peaceful demonstrations as unlawful. The police are being armed to a degree that is frightening. The spectacle of 'Thompson's tank,' an armored car stocked with tear gas, buckshot, and rifle and pistol ammunition, is not a reassuring sight. There is talk of constructing concentration or detention camps.

"We know," the student wrote, "that this summer several hundred students from other colleges and universities are coming to Mississippi as volunteers to assist in organizing voter registration groups.

Protection

"We would like to publicize the fact that we believe the governor publicly should welcome them and say that the state of Mississippi will protect them while here. We believe that the civilized community of world opinion expects at least that much of Mississippi and her governor. We believe that Christian compassion and American liberties demand that the governor make it plain that any qualified citizen will be assisted to register to vote. We don't dare ask our local media to publicize this. Our parents would be harassed and we would be subject to trouble at the University. But we do ask that the governor of our state do this. We do not want the summer to be one of violence and shame."

The student plea is a fundamental one.

That the Negro eventually will vote is sure. The Constitution guarantees it. The courts and the federal government are equally bound. So, for that matter, are all state courts and legislatures, as well as all governors.

In the past two years, in 11 Southern states, an approximate 265,000 Negroes have been qualified as voters. In Texas, the organized effort produced also a substantial increase in Mexican-American voters in addition to new white and Negro registrants. The Negro will always make up a small percentage of the total vote. But that even this number should find obstacles in the way, as in Mississippi and other Southern localities, is a denial of a fundamental, non-social right.

It does seem a fair question to ask why Governor Johnson doesn't declare that Mississippi will guarantee and protect the organized campaign this summer—and others that may follow.

Miss. Statewide

Mississippi Senate Approves Plan That Could Wipe Out GOP in State

Del. Ark. Gaz. 3-27-64, p. 10A

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Election law revisions to "stamp out Republicanism" in Mississippi were approved Thursday by the state Senate.

With Republicans watching grimly from the gallery, all 22 bills in the election package were passed on to the House by the Senators, all Democrats.

There were some revisions to soften requirements that would be imposed on a political party trying to get on the general election ballot.

However, it was plain that the package, backed by Governor Paul B. Johnson Jr., had more than enough support, despite a surprising number of opposition votes.

Republican leaders bitterly condemned the new election laws as "lifted directly from 'Mein Kampf,' the book written by Hitler."

Wirt Yerger Jr., state GOP chairman, said the laws were formed to impose party "qualifications which the democrats have already met but which the growing Republican Party has yet to attain."

Johnson's Plan

Johnson vowed to change the state's election procedures after sweating through two rugged Democratic primary elections to win nomination — only to run into the state's first serious GOP challenge since the Civil War in the general election.

Normally, the Democratic nominee is as good as elected and no general election campaign is necessary.

One major bill would require extensive organizations in counties and precincts to give a party legal standing. It passed by a 38-13 vote.

Another would require that any party's candidate would have to draw at least 10 per cent of the eligible vote in a primary election in order to get on the general election ballot.

"With this bill, you'll have your election in August [when the Democratic runoff is held] and be through with it," said Senator George Yarbrough, a co-author of the package.

Narrow Margin

However, the 10 per cent bill managed only a narrow margin 26-24.

"If this bill passes," Senator Bill Caraway cried during the debate, "Mississippi will have a one-party system. It will damage our industrial progress. It will destroy the Republican Party in this state because it can't operate under this."

The Senate eliminated a provision that a candidate for office take an oath that he backed the party nominee in the previous election and would do the same in the next.

"They've been trying to force a loyalty oath on us at the national convention for years," said Senator Ben Hilbun. "I'm just against this loyalty oath, period."

Miss Statewide

Second plea would disqualify federal judge in Mississippi afro-Am. 4/4/64, p. 1.

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Dr. Aaron Henry of Clarksdale, Miss., and three other residents of that state have filed a suit to bar a Federal judge in Mississippi from hearing civil rights cases. It was the second such plea in two weeks.

If the request is granted, the suit would be to disqualify U.S. District Judge William Harold Cox as a judge in cases involving colored persons or matters of civil and constitutional rights. Judge Cox is a former law partner of Sen. James O. Eastland.

In addition to Dr. Henry, other petitioners are David Dennis, field secretary for CORE in Mississippi; the Rev. Edwin King, chaplain at Tougaloo College, located near Jackson and Robert Moses, director of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee of Mississippi.

* * *

THE PLAINTIFFS ARE represented by the law firm of Kunstler, Kunstler and Kinoy in New York City. The petition was mailed from NYC, March 27, for filing before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

Dr. Henry and the others are asking the Appeals Court not to assign Judge Cox to cases involving civil rights and constitutional issues pertaining to the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution or the Federal Civil Rights Law.

The petitioners contend that Judge Cox has "evidenced a prejudice . . . so pervasive as to render him incapable of administering fair and impartial justice to these petitioners and the classes of colored and white citizens they rep-

(Continued on Page 3)

On March 13, a suit was filed against Judge Cox protesting his decision in a case involving a motion entered by Miss Betty Ann Poole.

* * *

THE JUDGE DENIED the motion, which asked for a temporary injunction against Jackson police from breaking up church services where there were colored and white worshippers.

Judge Cox is the chief jurist of the Southern District of Mississippi.

He is believed to be the most reversed judge on the Federal bench where civil rights cases are involved.

Of all decisions he has rendered in such cases, he has been reversed on all except one.

Miss. Statewide

Second page

(Continued from Page 1)

resent."

• • •

THE COMPLAINT AGAINST the judge is based on statements attributed to him during the hearing, March 9, of a voter registration case in Jackson, Miss.

Judge Cox reportedly referred to colored voter applicants as "a bunch of N - - - ers."

He is said to have asked in open court, "Who is telling these people they can get in line and push people around, acting like a bunch of chimpanzees?"

On March 13, a suit was filed against Judge Cox protesting his decision in a case involving a motion entered by Miss Betty Ann Poole.

• • •

THE JUDGE DENIED the motion, which asked for a temporary injunction against Jackson police from breaking up church services where there were colored and white worshippers.

Judge Cox is the chief jurist of the Southern District of Mississippi.

He is believed to be the most reversed judge on the Federal bench where civil rights cases are involved.

Of all decisions he has rendered in such cases, he has been reversed on all except one.

Miss. Statesmen

Greenwood Commonwealth 4/4/64

Officials Heap Praise On Deceased U. S. Judge

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi judiciary mourned today the death of Judge Ben F. Cameron of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Cameron died at his home here Friday at the age of 73.

'I think the United States government lost one of its greatest judges," said U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox of Jackson.

Chief Justice Percy Lee of the Mississippi Supreme Court said Cameron had 'the judicial know-how and certainly he saw through legal innovations now current. I regret most profoundly his untimely passing."

"A great Mississippian and a great jurist has fallen," added State Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee said, 'few men have rendered more yeoman's service to the welfare of both the state and the nation than has Ben Cameron.

'In my opinion, he was one of America's greatest judges."

Services were set for 4 p.m. today with judges of the 5th Circuit Court and members of the Lauderdale County Bar Association serving as honorary pallbearers.

Cameron was appointed to the appeals court in 1955 and was at odds with most members of the court throughout his service. A pro-segregationist, he tried three times to block the admission of James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi.

Survivors include the widow; two sons, Ben S. Cameron Jr., a Sewanee, Tenn., doctor, and Winston Cameron of Meridian, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Roarbach of New York.

Miss Gen.

New Mississippi Arrests Under 2-Day-Old Law

Gum Spr. Ark.
4-13-64

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — (UPI) — Police, armed with a new law which limits racial picketing, arrested 53 persons including a congressional candidate and seven white northern ministers Friday as they paraded in front of the Forest County Courthouse.

The arrests were made under a law enacted only two days previously which provides fines up to 60 days for persons convicted of picketing state, county or city buildings.

The demonstrators, who have paraded almost daily since a Negro voter registration drive began here some weeks ago, were warned Thursday that the new law was in force and they were subject to arrest. Friday police were waiting when 43 of the pickets showed up, and immediately took them in custody when the refused to disperse.

A short time later 10 more demonstrators appeared and met a similar fate.

Twenty - three of the protestors were found to be juveniles and were turned over to juvenile authorities for return to their parents.

The 30 others were transferred to the county prison farm and held in lieu of $1,000 fine.

Among those arrested was the Rev. John Cameron, a Hattiesburg minister who is opposing Rep William M. Colmer in Mississippi's June 2 Democratic primary.

They were identified as the Revs. John Mehl, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Keith Brown, Pittsburgh; Donald J. Rooney, West Haven, Conn.; Paul Murphy, Colorado Springs, Colo.; David Stessenson, Walsh, Colo.; Burton J. Froom Jr., Homestead, Pa., and Ken Vaux, Pittsburgh.

Miss Statewide

Democratic Delegates Face Challenge at Convention

Atl. Jour. & Const., 5-10-64

By KENNETH TOLER
Jackson Bureau, Memphis Commercial Appeal Special to the Journal-Constitution

JACKSON, Miss., May 9—A Freedom Democratic delegation will be sent to the national convention in Atlantic City under sponsorship of the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), an umbrella civil rights organization comprising four groups. It will challenge seating of the regular Mississippi Democratic party delegates.

Formation of the competing party organization was announced by spokesmen for the four groups making up COFO: the Student Non-Violent Coordinating committee (SNCC); Committee on Racial Equality (CORE); the Southern Christian Leadership conference (SCLC), and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Likewise, the COFO group plans to challenge seating in the Congress of the successful Democratic candidates in this year's election for the junior United States senatorship and the five congressmen. Federal court action in that effort is also being planned.

BASIS OF the seating challenges will be that a significant portion of the voting-age Negro population has been denied the right to vote.

MISSISSIPPI

Four Negroes running for the senate and congress in the June 2 democratic primary—and certain of defeat — will serve as the titular heads of the Freedom Democratic delegation to the national convention. Gov. Paul B. Johnson is titular head of the regular party organization and will head up the delegation to Atlantic City.

COFO spokesmen said basis of the planned effort to replace the regular party delegates at the national convention is "that the regular Democratic delegation was chosen by undemocratic means and that the Democratic party of Mississippi has been disloyal to the national Democratic party."

In 1960, the regular Mississippi Democratic organization did not support the national convention's nominees — the late President John Kennedy and President Lyndon B. Johnson, candidates for President and vice president respectively. Also, the regular state party organization repudiated the national convention platform.

"THE PRINCIPLES of the national Democratic party make it clear that a state party which behaves in the manner of the Mississippi Democratic party stands in violation of the national party policy," COFO spokesmen said. "This is sufficient grounds, according to national Democratic party rules, to withdraw recognition of the state party."

Under COFO's plans, its national convention delegation will be pledged to support its nominees and platform.

Groundwork for the convention and congressional seating challenges is now being laid in a statewide unofficial Freedom Registration with a goal of 400,000 assertedly disenfranchised Negroes. Freedom registration books will be managed in each of the 82 counties and used for unofficial freedom elections to be held at the same time as the official June 2 Democratic primary and the November general election.

IN THE so-called Freedom Elections, the only qualifications will be that voters are 21 or over and residents of Mississippi. It is designed to show that thousands of Negroes who are denied the right to vote in the official elections would do so if they could.

Miss Politics

Stennis, Others Win Handily Over Miss Opponents

Birm. Bld.
6-10-64

JACKSON, Miss. — (UPI) —Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., and two of the state's five congressmen won easy renomination Tuesday night over several Negro opponents in the state's Democratic primary.

The Negro candidates put up only nominal opposition, but it was the first time in decades in Mississippi that Negroes had entered a field of candidates in an election.

The four Negro candidates, all soundly defeated, were the greatest number of Negroes to seek public office in Mississippi in statewide races since Reconstruction. All campaigned vigorously, urging more Negro participation in state government.

Miss Pol.

PAUL JOHNSON

—AP Wirephotos.

J. P. COLEMAN

Runoff Likely In Mississippi

Columbus Ledger 8-7-63

Johnson and Coleman Run Tight Race

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 7 (Wednesday) (AP). — Lieutenant Governor Paul B. Johnson Jr. was leading former Governor J. P. Coleman by 6,390 votes early today and it appeared that a runoff will be necessary to determine Mississippi's Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

Attorney Charles Sullivan was running a strong third.

Returns from 748 of 1,882 precincts in the state showed:

Johnson	37,447
Coleman	31,057
Sullivan	27,377

Anti - integration campaigning and Negro "vote-in" demonstrations spurred a heavy turnout in many sections of the state. The turnout and the long ballot — everything from governor to constable — indicated that close races may not be decided until late tomorrow.

See-saw Battle

Before a dozen precincts were in, Coleman, 49, an Ackerman attorney who was governor from 1956 to 1960 and Johnson, 47, a Hattiesburg lawyer making his fourth bid for governor, had seesawed and Sullivan, 38, of Clarksdale had held the lead once.

The fourth candidate, Welder Robert Mason, 65, of Magee, was not a serious contender.

All four candidates campaigned as strong segregationists and opponents of the Kennedy administration's civil rights program.

If no candidate gets a majority, the two leading candidates will enter a runoff August 27.

Pink
Miss. Pol.

PAUL JOHNSON

—AP Wirephotos.

J. P. COLEMAN

Runoff Likely In Mississippi

Arkansas Gazette 8-7-63

Johnson and Coleman Run Tight Race

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 7 (Wednesday) (AP). — Lieutenant Governor Paul B. Johnson Jr. was leading former Governor J. P. Coleman by 6,390 votes early today and it appeared that a runoff will be necessary to determine Mississippi's Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

Attorney Charles Sullivan was running a strong third.

Returns from 748 of 1,882 precincts in the state showed:

Johnson	37,447
Coleman	31,057
Sullivan	27,377

Anti - integration campaigning and Negro "vote-in" demonstrations spurred a heavy turnout in many sections of the state. The turnout and the long ballot — everything from governor to constable — indicated that close races may not be decided until late tomorrow.

See-saw Battle

Before a dozen precincts were in, Coleman, 49, an Ackerman attorney who was governor from 1956 to 1960 and Johnson, 47, a Hattiesburg lawyer making his fourth bid for governor, had seesawed and Sullivan, 38, of Clarksdale had held the lead once.

The fourth candidate, Welder Robert Mason, 65, of Magee, was not a serious contender.

All four candidates campaigned as strong segregationists and opponents of the Kennedy administration's civil rights program.

If no candidate gets a majority, the two leading candidates will enter a runoff August 27.

Negroes at Polls

At several towns across the state, Negroes appeared at polls and submitted affidavits and marked ballots. They were acting under a little known state law on emergency voting.

Some election officials refused to accept the ballots. No incidents were reported.

At Gulfport, Bidwell Adams, chairman of the state Executive Committee

Pink
Miss. Pol.

'Home' Daily
To Thousands
In West State

The Jackson Sun

Best In News
Comics, Features
64 Pages

116th Year, No. 190 | Associated Press | JACKSON, TENNESSEE SUNDAY, AUGUST 9, 1964 | AP Wirephoto | Price: FIFTEEN CENTS

MAP OF JACKSON TENN.
SHOWING VOTING DISTRICTS

WARD	PRECINCT	VOTING PLACES
1		COURTHOUSE
2	1	ARMORY
2	2	PARKVIEW SCHOOL
3	1	JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL
3	2	NATIONAL GUARD GARAGE
3	3	FIRE STATION NO. 3
3	4	WHITEHALL SCHOOL
4	1	WEST JACKSON SCHOOL
4	2	JACKSON HIGH SCHOOL
4	3	ALEXANDER SCHOOL
4	4	LAMBUTH COLLEGE GYM
4	5	TIGRETT SCHOOL
4	6	HIGHLAND PARK SCHOOL

CITY PRECINTS—Fourteen polling places have been designated in Jackson's four wards for the Democratic primary and general election to be held Thursday. The polls are in 13 locations with the fourth ward, sixth precinct divided into two separate voting places. Nearly 60 per cent of Madison County's 27,000 voters live in city wards — nearly half of them in the fourth ward. Polls will open in the city at 9 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Demo Primary Is Election Headliner

CANDIDATES FOR U. S. SENATE—SHORT TERM
(Vote for one)

- ROSS BASS ☒
- M. M. BULLARD ☐
- FRANK G. CLEMENT ☐

CANDIDATES FOR U. S. SENATE—LONG TERM
(Vote for one)

- SAM J. GALLOWAY ☐
- ALBERT GORE ☐
- W. N. "RUBE" McKINNEY ☐
- CHARLES G. VICK ☐

CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION (MIDDLE DIVISION)
(Vote for one)

- Z. D. ATKINS ☒
- E. LEE BROWN ☐
- BUFORD W. EVANS ☐
- WALTON D. GRIFFIN ☐

CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION (WESTERN DIVISION)
(Vote for one)

- JERRE JORDAN ☒
- CAYCE L. PENTECOST ☐

CANDIDATES FOR MEMBER OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF U. S. CONGRESS, SEVENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT
(Vote for one)

- W. K. BROOKS ☒
- TOM MURRAY ☐

CANDIDATES FOR STATE SENATOR FOR 25th SENATORIAL DISTRICT
(Vote for one)

- BILLY J. GOODRICH ☐
- GENE STEWART ☒

CANDIDATES FOR DIRECT REPRESENTATIVE FROM MADISON COUNTY
(Vote for two)

- J. CARL DAVIS ☐
- F. SMILEY KEATON ☐
- JOE S. MERRY ☒
- EARLE MIDYETT ☐

CANDIDATE FOR FLOTERIAL REPRESENTATIVE FOR 27th DISTRICT
(Vote for one)

- WILLIAM L. "DICK" BARRY ☐
- JOE C. MORRIS ☒

TWENTY-ONE CANDIDATES—Eight nominees will be elected from these 21 candidates appearing on the Democratic primary ballot. Chief interest is centered in the contest for nomination to the U. S. Senate seat vacated by the death of Estes Kefauver.

GOP To Hold Primary

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY

FOR NOMINATION FOR U. S. SENATOR
(Vote for one)

- DAN H. KUYKENDALL ☐

FOR NOMINATION FOR U. S. SENATOR (Short Term):
(Vote for one)

- HOWARD HENRY BAKER, JR. ☐
- DR. CHARLES R. MOFFETT ☐
- HUBERT D. PATTY ☐

FOR NOMINATION FOR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER: (Middle District)
(Vote for one)

- CHARLES HOWELL, III ☐

FOR NOMINATION FOR DIRECT REPRESENTATIVE:
(Vote for Two)

Democratic Primary Has Eight Contests; Single Race In GOP

By JOHN PARISH

Some 16,000 to 18,000 Madison County voters are expected to trek to the polls Thursday to nominate

Limited Contests Here

GENERAL ELECTION

FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF TENNESSEE (Western Division)
(Vote for One)

- ANDREW O. HOLMES ☐

FOR CONSTABLE — FIFTH DISTRICT
(Vote for Two)

WARD	PRECINCT	VOTING PLACES
1		COURTHOUSE
2	1	ARMORY
2	2	PARKVIEW SCHOOL
3	1	JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL
3	2	NATIONAL GUARD GARAGE
3	3	FIRE STATION NO. 3
3	4	WHITEHALL SCHOOL
4	1	WEST JACKSON SCHOOL
4	2	JACKSON HIGH SCHOOL
4	3	ALEXANDER SCHOOL
4	4	LAMBUTH COLLEGE GYM
4	5	TIGRETT SCHOOL
4	6	HIGHLAND PARK SCHOOL

CITY PRECINTS—Fourteen polling places have been designated in Jackson's four wards for the Democratic primary and general election to be held Thursday. The polls are in 13 locations with the fourth ward, sixth precinct divided into two separate voting places. Nearly 60 per cent of Madison County's 27,000 voters live in city wards — nearly half of them in the fourth ward. Polls will open in the city at 9 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Democratic Primary Has Eight Contests; Single Race In GOP

By JOHN PARISH

Some 16,000 to 18,000 Madison County voters are expected to trek to the polls Thursday to nominate candidates for the two U. S. Senate seats, Congress, two Public Service Commission posts and four General Assembly positions.

Democrats will have contested races for all positions on their primary ballot. Republicans, holding a primary here for the first time in a decade, have opposition only in the race for the two remaining years of the U. S. Senate seat of the late Estes Kefauver.

Campaigning has failed to arouse much enthusiasm among most voters, who apparently most voters, who apparently are presidential election and a showdown battle between Republicans and Democrats in statewide races.

There's little chance that the total vote will reach the all-time high of 20,454 set in the 1960 Democratic primary. Two years ago, 16,697 Madison Countians voted in the primary where Gov. Frank Clement won nomination to a third term.

Most political observers are predicting that 60 to 65 per cent of the county's 27,000 registered voters will go to the polls Thursday. A record vote is expected in November.

Top attention getter statewide has been the three-way race for the Democratic nomination for Kefauver's U. S. Senate seat. Locally, there will be interesting contests in the Democratic primary for direct representatives, floterial representative and state senate.

Clement received nearly 50 per cent of the vote in the governor's race here two years ago and may score nearly as well in his bid for nomination to the U. S. Senate. He faces opposition from Rep. Ross Bass of Pulaski and Newport industrialist M. M. Bullard.

Sen. Albert Gore has three little known opponents in his race for a third term nomination and has been saving his campaign guns for the November match with Republican Dan Kuykendall, unopposed in his party's primary.

Rep. Tom Murray, seeking a 12th term in Congress, finds himself in the unfamiliar position of having an opponent in the primary. The Jackson lawmaker has ignored challenges issued by retired salesman W. K. Brooks of Bath Springs to engage in a campaign.

Public Service Commissioner Cayce Pentecost has opposition from former Halls mayor Jere Jordan in the Democratic primary. Commissioner Walton Griffin of Clarksville, appointed to the PSC as Middle Tennessee representative after the death last year of John C. Hammer, will have to win the nomination over three opponents.

State Sen. Billy J. Goodrich is challenged by two-term direct representative Gene Stewart in the district composed of Madison, Crockett and Henderson counties. This race is rated as a tossup, with defeat likely to end the political career of the loser.

House Speaker W. L. (Dick) Barry goes against Jackson attorney Joe Morris in a bid for a sixth term as floterial representative to the General Assembly. The Lexington lawyer had better than a 2-1 margin in Madison County two years ago, but barely carried Henderson and Decatur counties.

Morris, a former law clerk for U. S. Dist. Judge Bailey Brown, is making his first political race. He broke precedent as a Madison Countian seeking the floterial post, traditionally left to the rural counties of the district.

State Rep. Earle Midyett bids for a third term and finds opposition from Magistrate J. Carl Davis, retired businessman F. Smiley Keaton and Negro political leader Joe S. Merry.

Midyett led a four-man field in 1962 after trailing Stewart in 1960. He is expected to be the leader this year, but the second direct representative seat remains a question.

Merry will probably get strong "single shot" support from the nearly 7,000 registered Negro voters in Madison Coupnty. However, a vote of 4,000 to 5,000 is unlikely to be enough to win. His chances depend on how much white vote he can poll.

Republican Primary Chairman Walter Baker Harris concedes that there will be only a token vote in his party's election. The primary features a three-way race between Howard Baker Jr., Dr. Charles Moffett and Hubert Patty for the short term U. S. Senate nomination.

Charles Womack and Tommy Hall are unopposed for the Republican nomination for Madison County's two direct representative seats. The GOP did not field candidates for Congress State Senate or the floterial representative seat.

251 Votes Are Cast By Absentee Ballot

Absentee voting closed at noon Saturday with 251 ballots cast in the Democratic primary. Forty-five fewer votes were cast in the general election.

Only one absentee ballot was requested for the Madison County Republican primary, election officials reported Saturday.

One Jacksonian voting absentee was a key figure in recent primaries. Circuit Court Judge Andrew T. Taylor is "sitting this one out" after being a candidate for governor in 1958 and for U. S. Senate in 1960.

This year's absentee vote compares to 321 in 1962 and an all-time high of nearly 1,000 in 1960 when Judge Taylor campaigned against the late Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Limited Contests Here

GENERAL ELECTION

FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF TENNESSEE
(Western Division)
(Vote for One)

ANDREW O. HOLMES ☐

FOR JUDGE OF COURT OF APPEALS OF TENNESSEE
(Eastern Division)
(Vote for One)

JAMES W. PARROTT ☐

FOR DELEGATES TO LIMITED CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
Madison County
(Vote for Two)

JAMES P. DIAMOND ☐

NEIL G. SMITH ☐

FOR DELEGATE TO LIMITED CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
Twenty-Third District Composed of Madison and Henderson Counties
(Vote for One)

BOBBY JOE OSBORNE ☐

CHARLIE WALKER ☐

FOR SHERIFF
(Vote for One)

LOWELL THOMAS ☐

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS
(Vote for One)

JAMES L. WALKER ☐

FOR TAX ASSESSOR
(Vote for One)

ROY C. DAVIS ☐

CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION (WESTERN DIVISION)
(Vote for one)

JERRE JORDAN ☒

CAYCE L. PENTECOST ☐

CANDIDATES FOR MEMBER OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF U. S. CONGRESS, SEVENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT
(Vote for one)

W. K. BROOKS ☒

TOM MURRAY ☐

CANDIDATES FOR STATE SENATOR FOR 25th SENATORIAL DISTRICT
(Vote for one)

BILLY J. GOODRICH ☐

GENE STEWART ☒

FOR CONSTABLE — FIFTH DISTRICT
(Vote for Two)

M. J. BOYLAN ☐

CHARLES W. HAWKS ☐

DAVID T. LATHAM ☒

ROBERT M. (BOB) WOOD ☐

GUY WOODWARD ☐

LOUIS A. YOUNG ☐

LITTLE OPPOSITION HERE—Candidates are unopposed in all but two races in the general election. Two Lexington attorneys, Bobby Joe Osborne and Charlie Walker, are competing for floterial delegate to the Constitutional Convention. Contests will be held for constable in six of the county's 10 districts.

Constable's Races Have 19 On Ballot, One By Write-in Nineteen candidates are vieing for 11 constable posts in Madison County in Thursday's general election. At least one other is a write-in candidate though his name does not appear on the ballot.

Nine of ten districts in the county will elect one constable each. The Fifth District, which includes Jackson, elects two from a field of six candidates.

Seeking the offices are:

First District — Arthur Wilson and John I. Holloway.

Second District — E. E. (Bill) Puckett and Johnnie Hardee (by write-in).

Third District — Joe Roland, unopposed.

Fourth District — J. B. Fly, unopposed.

Fifth District — M. J. Boyan, Charles W. Hawks, David Latham, Robert M. Wood, Guy Woodward and Louie A. Young.

Sixth District — Ernest Allen, unopposed.

Seventh District — J. P. Bond, unopposed.

Eighth District — J. G. Turner and Gene Hill.

Ninth District — Robert Crowder and William B. Newsom.

Tenth District — Irvin Green and W. T. Wilson Jr.

A Fifth District constable candidate, David Latham, was elected two years ago but resigned midway during his term to serve a federal prison sentence for transporting moonshine whisky. He was released on probation earlier this year.

Republican Delegate Votes Democratic

Mrs. Gloria Jones, 7th Congressional District delegate to the Republican National Convention, has voted by absentee ballot in Thursday's Democratic primary.

Election laws require voters in a primary to be bona fide members of that party, or to offer his allegiance to the political party at that time.

Democrats explain that vote by local Republicans in their primary has been "tolerated" when no GOP primary is being held at the same time.

No challenge has been made of Mrs. Jones' vote.

FOR NOMINATION FOR U. S. SENATOR
(Vote for one)

DAN H. KUYKENDALL ☐

FOR NOMINATION FOR U. S. SENATOR
(Short Term):
(Vote for one)

HOWARD HENRY BAKER, JR. ☐

DR. CHARLES R. MOFFETT ☐

HUBERT D. PATTY ☐

FOR NOMINATION FOR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER:
(Middle District)
(Vote for one)

CHARLES HOWELL, III ☐

FOR NOMINATION FOR DIRECT REPRESENTATIVE:
(Vote for Two)

THOMAS ROY HALL ☐

C. R. WOMACK ☐

FIRST IN A DECADE—For the first time since 1954, Madi County Republicans will be holding a primary election. A light vote is expected since there will be a contest only in the nomination for the short term U. S. Senate seat.

Candidates OK Literature Ban

Candidates in Thursday's elections have agreed to end the practice of distributing campaign literature at the polls.

The proposal was unanimously endorsed by candidates in the primary, but the idea hit a snag among some who are seeking election as constable.

The six constable candidates in the Fifth District are expected to reach an agreement before Thursday. Charles Hawks, department store employe seeking the office, said he has signed the pact.

Constable M. J. Boylan told the SUN he was willing to abide by the suggestion and would encourage others to follow suit.

At least two other candidates —truck driver David Latham and service station operator Robert Wood—have indicated a willingness to join the ban on distribution of campaign cards at the polls.

Polls Will Open 9 A.M. Thursday

Polls will open at 9 a. m. Thursday for voting in the primary and general elections.

County precincts, with the exception of Bemis, South Side and Fifth District, will close at 6 p. m. These three and all city polling places will remain open until 7 p. m.

Absentee voting closed at noon Saturday.

Poll officials have been instructed to allow persons waiting in line at closing hour to vote. Voters can avoid lines by taking advantage of a normal slack period from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Election Commission Chairman George O. Benton advised person recently taken into the city limits by annexation to vote at the city precinct nearest their residence. Registration of these voters has been removed from the Fifth District records.

SHE CAMPAIGNS, TOO — Mrs. Avanelle Bass, wife of Senate candidate Ross Bass, campaigned here Friday night for her husband was an honored guest at a reception. From left are Mrs. David Bomar of Ja son, Mrs. Bass and Mrs. Paul McGee, heads the women's division in Madi County for Rep. Bass.

Here's Why We Should Elect . . .

FRANK G. CLEMENT

to the

FRANK G. CLEMENT

to the U. S. Senate

★ Record As Governor ★

First free textbook system.

First separate Department of Mental Health.

First "AA" bond rating.

First removal of mortgage provision for welfare recipients.

First Educational TV Network.

First student loan program.

First long-range, scientifically-planned highway program.

First area vocational technical school system.

★ Senate Stand ★

- "I . . . will continue to work for the full benefits guaranteed by our constitution for all of our citizens."
- "In the future, as in the past, I shall remain the strong friend of TVA."
- "The President has made a forthright and courageous declaration of war on poverty, particularly in the Appalachian area. I support that program without reservation.
- "I will propose that a new and fresh look be taken at existing and proposed legislation, with a view to the development of a sound, workable and realistic program which will meet the needs of our Senior Citizens."
- "It is imperative that we, as a nation, prosecute our foreign affairs with firmness and with courage."
- "Our farmers need loyal and attentive service and I pledge my best efforts in their behalf."
- "When I am elected to the Senate of the United States, I shall make a continuing effort to assist the small businessman in the relief of his problems.'
- "This will be an honest campaign by an honest candidate before an honest people."

THIS AD PAID FOR BY CLEMENT FOR SENATOR COMMITTEE, BILL GUNTER, CHAIRMAN